HOP ANTHONY OF ACME VISITS THE CHEMICAL WORKS DISTRICTION

It has come to the attention of the Department of Agriculture that certain persons have been recommending to farmers a method of preparation for the destruction of noxious weeds and in published statements testifying to the value of this preparation have imposed themselves as being connected with the Department.

This creates an impression which should be corrected, and it may be pointed out that the Department accepts no responsibility for statements of this kind from unauthorized sources. Experiments have been carried out by the Field Crops Branch of the Department during the past year to determine the effectiveness of the various chemical weed destroyers which are now on the market and further experiments will be conducted this year under the direct supervision of the Field Crops Commissioners. At the conclusion of these experiments a definite statement of the results obtained, together with the comparative value of these chemicals will be issued and until that time no reports as to the findings of the Department in this connection can be considered authoritative.

Stettler Farmers Score Inspection Department And Appeal Boards

Some vigorous protests against the inspection department and the handling of appeal cases were registered before the board of grain commissioners for Eastern District that St. Many were present and witnesses were allowed when they considered what they chiefly to were the worst interests appearing to exploit the grain producers.

W. Hon. McDonald, a farmer of Bashaw, since 1914, said that farmers thought the appeal board was composed of men who might not to be there, that the men on the board were in some manner belonging to a class that had always exploited the farmer, for a thousand years, men who always were the farmer the 'goat.' We have confidence in this work and the commissioners, and I have come hoping to be told yes that," he added.

There was applause when the witness sat the farmers think its efforts to put a hundred per cent. justice in the marketing of their grain and a great art that can and will be exercised more hopeless. Justice may be costly, he see, but it was very dear.

Grain Grading Change

C. Nesterville, a pool farmer of this district, complained of the inspection department. His grain had all grade: a four, but the same grain appeared with Christmas graded three. The first shipment was to Calgary and the second to Edmonton. Local elevator men claimed that grain was all the same from the same field and he could see no difference. He thought that present grading system was not fair and considered it should be changed.

In the closing hours of the royal grain commission investigation here the evidence of Major H. G. L. Stumpe the Commissioner most illuminating. He is a press nest of the Canadian Registered Seed Grain Growers' Association with 20 years' experience. He did not think conditions were nearly so bad as represented and gave his reasons.

Chas. Dennis, of Red Willow, a farmer, brought up a case of lost time say a grain, the sequel of which will be followed up at the Calgary session.

Centreton of his two sample boxes and the grain commissioner's office were changed on the table by Fraser.

The witness, stated that he asked and that it did not correspond with the grade in the sample box. Fraser then agreed to but not his object in the refusal grade. The chief trouble was there were like No. 1 grade, based on the contents of his two sample boxes. The witness claimed he should have had a number 1 grade for the first car that graded a five. It was good wheat and he took the case up with his co-operators in Calgary. He wanted payment for the first car that graded a five with basis of a 5, similar to the settlement on the second car but he would not get it, nothing more was done.

Emil Hanson, of Bay Valley, told the commissioners of instances of erratic grading, where he claimed he sent in samples of equally good quality of wheat and varying different grades on different days. He had complained to Calgary and with a sample of the standard number one, and had received the same grade a poor one. Witness swore they told him the latter. They were sorry to have told them it was a standard sample number one. They did not intend it.

Major H. G. L. Stumpe, president of the Canadian Registered Seed Growers' Association, was a useful witness. He outlined in a personal way, based on the experience of 20 years the effect of the producers to grow an better wheat. It was a hard struggle to get farmers to grow the best varieties. Some were generally improving with Red Fyfe and Marquis being the leading.

"Grading used," the witness insisted, "is the principal step toward production of the best wheat."

Many of the pioneers were enthusiastic and he would say they would and have to be about five years ahead of the pioneer in their work before they were in turn accepted. Sometimes, he didn't think were so bad as many farmers thought.

The statutory complex always tend to put a higher grade. Major Stumpe thought there was a psychological factor that would save us thousands annual to have standard the grain commissioner's office. He considered it a distinct industry like they do in the United States. Fraser, for example, if he wants to get a sample of wheat maintained can trace the history of grain from the moment of preparing the seed to the point where the board is purchased by the elevator company. Until that point is reached and for some general distribution, there is no tracing of it. Major Stumpe, he did not think could reach the point of absolute accuracy.

C. B. Olson, a farmer of Red Willow, verified the statements of Chas. Dennis as to the identity of the wheat

WORD OF A SECRETARY

If a secretary writes a letter, it is too long.

If he sends a postal, it's too short.

If he issues a bulletin, it's a speculation.

If he attends a committee meeting, he is hunting in.

If he drives away, he's a slacker.

If he offers suggestions, he's a know-it-all.

If he stays nothing, he's a dead one.

If he's absent from a meeting he has been lost a number 1 grade for the first car that graded a five. It was good wheat and he took the case up with his co-operators in Calgary. He wanted payment for the first car that graded a five with basis of a 5, similar to the settlement on the second car but he would not get it, nothing more was done.

If he cuts a number for his dues, he is a grafter.

If he does not, he is hog.

If he mentions a meeting missed, his memory is failing.

If it is a failure, the secretary is to blame.

If he asks for advice, he is incompetent.

If he does not, he is half-headed.

"Ashes to ashes,
Dust to dust.
If others won't do it,
The Secretary must."

BIG Car Beauty Style Performance and something more-

IT takes more than more cars to make a BIG Six. It takes more than beauty, more than style, more than performance. True, it contains all of these but it becomes a BIG Six. True, Pontiac Big Six has all these.

But it has something more . . . something that changes it from a good carryover to a real BIG Six. It has the "feel" of a BIG Six. People accustomed to smooth driving will know immediately what that means.

And it's not a sensation you can counterfeit. You have to sit behind the wheel, drive the car and get the "feel" of it . . . you'll love it as instant whether or not you are driving a Big Six.

STETTLER TENNIS CLUB

On Wednesday, June 12th, a number of Canoe Tennis players come to Stettler to take part in a Tennis Tournament. Persons long ago are played. The score being 2 to 0 in the favor of the Stettler Club. Both the old and new members of the Club put up good exposition to the Canoe players and a good time was enjoyed by both teams.

CANADIANS RETURNED

In the year 1928, 94,120 Canadians who had gone to the United States intending to remain there, returned to the Dominion for permanent residence.

The run to Halkirk was made in schedule time and the party were received by Mayor Westcott and Mr. Tarleton, President of the Board of Trade. The party were to take dinner there, and the members of the Halkirk Board of Trade had arranged for a special luncheon at the Hotel. Both Gadsby and Halkirk have large and commodious hotels and the Halkirk stopping place was the headquarters for the electric light men who were busy extending the Union Power plant into the town. Luncheon was served at 12:30, and about forty guests sat down at the tables.

Mr. Tarleton, President of Halkirk Board, made a brief speech, welcoming the members from Stettler, and after luncheon Wm. Burton, President of Stettler Board, made the response and invited members of Halkirk Board to visit Stettler. He then called on Chas. Willis to introduce the members of the visiting Board. The latter prefaced the fine, park-like country surrounding the town, a district which settlers should be proud of, and spoke also of the prosperous appearance of the town and its business character. He introduced Messrs. Pinsonnet Sharpe and Secretary Fair of the Stettler Board of Trade, as door-raiser than boosters, who were among the live service of people of this part of central Alberta. He then introduced Fred Cadey and Bill Mackie as representatives of our church athletic and community spirit. He claimed they always carried a Bible in one pocket and a rotten-racing program in the other. Further along the table were Bill Dunlop and Ed. McCoy who were pianist and pre-prompt member of the Board and acted as hands of the prospective new subscription department and the Board of Trade. Jim Mason and Cliff Wattman, who act before were introduced as reporters noting the more fun one sees by means of our church life, and Herb. Blair as our chief magistrate, and also as two agent for all the real estate concerns in Alberta. The speaker also pronounced that Halkirk would put on a rousing reception to the Stettler ball team which is to play there on the local diamond, and concluded by introducing Mr. Tarleton.

The latter, in a very jolted greets and well-kept address, dished up substantial business and real-estate advice. He said that our town has been built with an eye to the future. Our town is fortunate in having a number of progressive business men on our Board of Trade. Messrs. Hilton, H. R. Foster and Thomas Gwynne, Presidents of the Board of Trade, while S. E. Edwards acts as Secretary. The spirit has still remained in the new future and rural mail delivery is an accomplishment of the present. The land is rolling and dotted here and there with picturesque bluffs, while the dairying industry is served by creameries at Rosebud and Acme. There is a Commercial Club in the town, which, with the Board of Trade, caters to the social and athletic life of the community. The live Board of Trade will gladly welcome any committee about the town and district. It is one of the best districts in Alberta.

Bantam, the next stopping place, is only 4 miles from Endiang, although a winding road probably makes the distance somewhat longer, so the team need is not completed. It is a small mid-way between Stettler and Hanna, 30 miles each way. Three ball players appear in sight at a distance from the town, and the Alberta Pool is represented by one of them. Further down appear the rest of the Provincial Premium long arm scale, Messrs. Kennedy of Halkirk, S. L. Stettler; H. D. Keith; J. J. Jameson; Mr. Wood of the Union Bank, and W. L. Davis, of the Hardware Store. David Ferguson is President of the Board of Trade and Len Bowron, Secretary, and these gentlemen and several others welcome the members of Stettler Board to the Town. The town has a modern hotel, doctor and drug store, an energetic Board of Trade, a branch of the Canadian Legion and Women's Institutes, and a Boy Scout organization. The hydro electric light line will go through this town. The Anglican and United Churches are represented and the commodious school takes care of high school work up to Grade 11. An average of 200,000 bushels of wheat passes trough the elevators in an average year, and this amount is increasing as years go on.

The country from Endiang to Byemoor and on to Stettler is a continuous scene of farm activity and it is the Last Best West as far as Central Alberta is concerned. The new railway opened up virgin territory three years ago and this is rapidly being broken up. Of course, there are many well known farms along the route, but the more remote parts of the district are now coming under the plow. Among the noteworthy farms from Endiang to Stettler are those of C. Longshore, Bob Wilson, W. Lowe, Porter Bros., John Thomas, Mr. Sirkis, Mr. Sheetsbo and Mr. Buettler.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. Senn and family wish to thank their many neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy during their recent and bereavement.

GOODWILL TOUR BOARD OF TRADE WELCOMED BY COUNTRY EAST

The Good Will Tour a success in every respect, passed to no quiet a corner, and about thirty members took in the trip, there being seven cars, on the ride which they left Stettler at 9.30 a.m. Thursday, June 6th. All members were fitting out were unanimous that they had one of the most enjoyable outings imaginable.

The drive along the road from Stettler to Botha was one of the highlights of the day, as the fairs looked at their best, and special mention might be made of the fine appearance of such places as Gus Green, Henry Martin and Henry Rose (Hilton residence), and also the tidy looking new and well-kept grounds at Bluestone. Some farms further back off the road from the meth could be discerned by the stone line of foliage, those of Roy Hall and Mr. Prudden showing up well in the distance, as they are notes for their well kept.

Botha town is noted for its well arranged stores and fine residences. The latter are as good as you will find anywhere in Alberta [illegible] and Mr. Wellington and Mr. Wellington's Wednesday half holiday [illegible]. Further [illegible] Hardware Store, Mr. Gilchrist [illegible] one of the Prudden Mercantile, with other stores in evidence, as the visitors dropped in and had a look around.

Botha is a thriving community with a hustling spirit and a community that is both home like and businesslike. It is also interesting from its own point, owned and operated by the Botha Land Co., a land district and well-kept agricultural business and real-estate [illegible]. It is not that our town has been built with an eye to the future. Our town is fortunate in having a number of progressive business men on our Board of Trade, while Mr. Hilton, H. R. Foster and Thomas Gwynne, Presidents of the Board of Trade, while S. E. Edwards acts as Secretary. The spirit has still remained in the new future and rural mail delivery is an accomplishment of the present. The land is rolling and dotted here and there with picturesque bluffs, while the dairying industry is served by creameries at Rosebud and Acme. There is a Commercial Club in the town, which, with the Board of Trade, caters to the social and athletic life of the community. The live Board of Trade will gladly welcome any committee about the town and district. It is one of the best districts in Alberta.

Bantam, the next stopping place, is only 4 miles from Endiang, although a winding road probably makes the distance somewhat longer, so the team need is not completed. It is a small mid-way between Stettler and Hanna, 30 miles each way. Three ball players appear in sight at a distance from the town, and the Alberta Pool is represented by one of them. Further down appear the rest of the Provincial Premium long arm scale, Messrs. Kennedy of Halkirk, S. L. Stettler; H. D. Keith; J. J. Jameson; Mr. Wood of the Union Bank, and W. L. Davis, of the Hardware Store. David Ferguson is President of the Board of Trade and Len Bowron, Secretary, and these gentlemen and several others welcome the members of Stettler Board to the Town. The town has a modern hotel, doctor and drug store, an energetic Board of Trade, a branch of the Canadian Legion and Women's Institutes, and a Boy Scout organization. The hydro electric light line will go through this town. The Anglican and United Churches are represented and the commodious school takes care of high school work up to Grade 11. An average of 200,000 bushels of wheat passes trough the elevators in an average year, and this amount is increasing as years go on.

The country from Endiang to Byemoor and on to Stettler is a continuous scene of farm activity and it is the Last Best West as far as Central Alberta is concerned. The new railway opened up virgin territory three years ago and this is rapidly being broken up. Of course, there are many well known farms along the route, but the more remote parts of the district are now coming under the plow. Among the noteworthy farms from Endiang to Stettler are those of C. Longshore, Bob Wilson, W. Lowe, Porter Bros., John Thomas, Mr. Sirkis, Mr. Sheetsbo and Mr. Buettler.

Baseball News

Ball practice was held on Tuesday evening when the Stettler baseball team was picked to play Botha on Thursday evening. Those who have passed the late William Jennings Bryan as it would have brought back to him John Stettler of the active life which he advocated in the same motto. Botha team has been picking up big scores in league games so that the home team is not alone in falling a victim to their aggressive playing. No doubt the locals will put them good, and plenty and turn the tables on them. Botha started off with the pitching of Hall and Shrapnell behind the bat, while Stettler, H. R. Foster and Thomas Gwynne, Presidents of the Board of Trade, while S. E. Edwards acts as Secretary. GRAND CIRCUS AGAIN EMERGES WITH A PLETHORA OF SPLENDOR

Another glorious page will be written in the amusement history of Stettler, when the Christy Bros. Big Five-Ring Wild Animal Circus gives their tremendous exhibitions on Friday, June 21st. One of the outstanding features of this year's ring performances is the 100 horse act under the ringmaster of Morris Bolow. Three equine virtuosos go through many intricate stunts with a willingness and accuracy that is little short of amazing. After the Finale is most beautiful when they wind around and around and slowly mount higher and higher on the massive pedestal.

Another most beautiful feature act is that of the 50 dancing girls and dancing horses. Dorothy Walker, the principal animal trainer has a thrilling and dangerous act in one of the steel arenas with a menagerie group of leopards.

The Brock troupe of acrobats do not employ a safety medium but on the slender swaying trapeze. The five brothers & daughter fill the five rings and hippodrome track with the largest and best trained of all pachyderms and go through their various stunts of the old of human direction.

The army of clowns serve to keep the folks in the best of humor and have many a really funny bit of gentle satire.

Round the Country

The Good Will Tour of Stettler Board of Trade through eastern part of the district was quite a success and should be followed by similar tours next year. The members of the Board do not convince themselves even now from the ease of west, making a trip to obtain no more trade for the town. If they had that intention they would have visited only the rural parts of the community. They are merely citizens of this part of Alberta making a trip to see the various towns and business places, to inspect the country in June and incidentally to enjoy themselves on a day's holiday away from the ordinary routine of business. The trip was educational and inspirative, and they met many people whom they know in the early days of the town when there was no real country being developed.

The country is at its best at this time of the year. The fields of wheat are looking well and only a normal rain is required to ensure another good crop. Rain has never failed the district during the month of June and the showers of the past few days are an indication that the weather will run true to form before the month is passed.

One of the outstanding features of the trip was the way the towns in the east are fixing ahead. Bashaw, Gadsby, Haskirk, Rimbey and Rymond are now populated with a progressive class of business men, and they are leaving no stone unturned to make their towns better and bigger and of greater service to their communities. They realize that a few men don't make a town, but all the citizens of whatever standing. The proprietor of stores may have more at stake, but they can do any more for a town than the clerks, the carpenter, the professional men, the teachers, the ministers and the rank and file of laboring men.

Judging from this part of the province, Alberta has a bright future. Hydro light and power will soon be a commodities in the country districts. Rural mail delivery lines are even more tremendous out through the country. Dairy farming is running hand in hand with wheat production and a large sum has a bright a future here as in any part of the continent.

A trip of this kind shows to those who take part in it that their district is a complete whole in itself and that distant into various elements. Every part is necessary to the whole, and one part is no important as another. An improvement in one part lends, inevitably to a similar improvement in another.

Town and country are not dissimilar but the latter, made up of the same class of people and working out their future on the same way. Close consciousness is, or should be a thing of the past, and any organization that a man belongs to, whether fraternal or commercial, should not separate him from the rest of the community, but fit him for greater service.

A Board of Trade, however, is the most important organization that a man can belong to, and it is pleasing to note the every village, hamlet, canal, has a rack in of members who put their teams at a distant first, but recognize that others parts are just as important. There cannot be too much co-operation of the right kind among the various communities that make up what is known as the natural part of the province, and there should be more inter-visiting among the various Boards of Trade.

Judging from the British and Saskatchewan elections during the past week, there have been two elections that didn't elect.

In the Old Country there were, roughly, 5,000,000 who voted for the Labor Party; 5,000,000 for the Conservatives and 4,000,000 for the Liberals, but, while Labor obtains 288 seats and the Tory party 254 seats, the Liberals get only 57 seats. Three-cornered

Wild Oats

(By Mr. Walker, West Inspector.)

Edmonton gathered from various elevators in the Stettler district plus the amount delivered at about 5 per cent., by far the most of this being wild oats; moreover, plans most of it under shelter, it is only a small percent. that goes to the elevator. Some of this is cleaned and sold as seed, but infected, bone, through reduced yield, has kept as 20 to 25 bushels of wheat to the acre. Thus dockage and depressed grade, together total a direct loss of many hundreds of thousands of bushels of wheat per year. To this should be added indirect losses such as increased farm values, lowered grade and protein content of wheat, increase of labor costs, freight losses, etc.

The control and eventual eradication of wild oats depends upon (1) growing clean seed; (2) growing out these already in the land; (3) using another crop.

Clean seed is of the utmost importance. Big loads are surely coming in the man who sows wheat with wild oats in it when, for a few cents more he could have his seed thinned by an in-seed machine, which, if properly used, will make a complete separation. In the case of wild oats when they are dockaged, Seed can be separated fairly free from wild oats, when they are actually feed. It is best to remove by taking a representative sample of seed at a spot and throwing out upon a table small handfuls, carefully watching for wild oats. If there are 2 in the sample it means that is an average wild 150 to the acre. One wild oat sown upon breaking, by stool ing, may produce 150 or more per each of these produces 150, or a total of 22,500 in only 2 years. Summer fallowing is the best means for these tenacious weed pests, subduing wild oats.

Soil conditions should be so arranged that wild oats will start growth. The frequent cultivation already this object by keeping the surface loose and dry, so that they have no chance to get out and germinate. Shire plowing in the fall, cultivation before the drill, and no stable manuring a few days after seeding, full plowed summerfallow, and the plowing summerfallow have all been found to be effective tillage practices depending upon local soil conditions.

Shoulder crops, such as winter rye, a hay crop, or an early variety, help very much to control wild oats. The best early variety to use is '30 day Incerliss' which can be made into hay if necessary. Even the smother crop can even start with the wild oats by cultivating or disking ahead of the soil.

The best up-to-date follow for a field badly infested with wild oats would be to plow after the stubble this Fall after harvest. Next Spring a heavy crop of wild oat will appear, the shoulder be left until the end of May, then tilled with a disc, cultivator or plow. If there has been rain by the end of June another crop of wild oats will be ready for killing implacably, after this may no sense to sow such oats for grassland as can be used and the rest to an early ripening barley. It will be gone over the Fall a few days before the barley comes up, with a rod or cable weeder to set any stray or late wild oats. The barley and grassland should be taken off the field as soon as cut and stacked or stacked in the field or a pasture. The aftermath is now free from wild oat seeds.

This is a supplement to Mr. Walker's above letter, which he left with me with the direct to have it published.

Not enough can be said or done in regard to the wild oats, until it is banished. As a matter of fact, I might point out that our fire shelter have received approximately 2,000 bushels of wheat of last years' wheat crop, but they would, at a conservative estimate, have received between 800,000 and 900,000 bushels if it had not been for the damage done by the wild oats. In other words: The farmer and dependent re-sowing of Stettler are robbed of, at least, one million dollars a day during the entire year from this malaria of the Stettler district.

Some method must be found to get this pest under control. I would mention that the field on my farm on which the last years' plowing contest took place, has been seeded down during the summer, but, in spite of all, I got more wild oats in the wheat than ever before. There are several patches where the wild oats are so thick as to be a sea. Several patches of thistle and sow thistle which have been found at times previously, have disappeared the good. They could and could the cultivator, but the wild oats are intending to stay.

The most successful method in summerfallowing is accomplished by one of my neighbors, who plowed his summerfallow after threshing in 1927 and cultivated it the following year a num-

Rugged and Enduring

THE Ford car is staunch and rugged—built to give year round service under every road and weather conditions. The fact that it is smart and beautiful as well is due to the months of painstaking engineering labour that preceded its advent in the motoring world. Time and expense were not salde in the endeavour to produce a light car that would stand up to every requirement both in and out of its weight class. The result has justified this effort and the Ford car has set a new motoring standard based upon high performance at low cost.

Drive it Yourself— There is no Better way

It is difficult to measure the full endurance of the Ford car since one year of consistent driving leaves it like new. But it may be estimated by the superior quality of materials used in every part and the precision methods of manufacture employed throughout, that many thousands of miles of carefree motoring are built into its chassis.

Motorproof plate established The Ford product backed by Dependability and low upkeep

RIDING EASE—The low seasons of gravity and carefully planned balance of the Ford car build it firmly on the road. The four Hendaile hydraulic shock absorbers cushion the hard jolts and bumps. But perhaps the most advantageous and unique feature is the system of transverse or cross-tor springs. These springs rest on their flexible ends with the heavy centre supermost. Thus the very weight of the springs receives the best-fit of spring action instead of banging below as dead weight and increasing the hammer-like blows of road impact.

CONTROL—The Ford Steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Cross ahi's with steep precipices. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-soapy pavements. Quick acceleration and silent speed are especially useful in traffic emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself in all you need for parking.

ECONOMY—The Ford car averages between 20 to 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and the cost of tires and tubes also low. Low first cost, the rock bottom of Ford de-liver every where, and close supervision at service are additional reasons for the economy of the Ford car.

TIME PAYMENT—If you prefer to buy out of income you will find the authorized time payment plan offered by all Ford dealers most attractive.

Local Cricket Team Loses To Drumheller

Last Sunday a team from the Drumheller boys played a game of cricket with a similar team on exhibition grounds here. The game was quite interesting to the few spectators present as just one hour Stettler managed to get together eleven Stettler representatives. Although the majority of our players had not handled a bat or ball for years, the Drumheller team won on a narrow margin of five runs.

Many spectators were present, and, although the writer hesitates to make a remarks that it was not a patch on a ball game, he is sure that the majority enjoyed the play.

With a seasoned cricketer, W. Bothwell to captain us, the team who proved their ability on Sunday, some equipment and the great spirit of one for all—all for one, there is no reason why a Stettler Cricket Club should not be formed that will be the envy for many victories. As the cricket season will soon be on the wane, will all who are interested in the game, either as a pls ter or spectator, get in touch with I. W. Bothwell.

Golf News

The final round for District No. 8 on the Calgary Herald District cup series took place on Stettler on June 16th when about twenty golfers took part. A number of low scores were made and the event was won by Wells of Stettler with a score of 74, making him 2 up on the runner-up for the whole competition. Meeks, the runner up, who scores 72, had a chance when he made 17 for the first 3 holes, but he fell away later with a series of 5's. Duckworth made a 79 and the remainder of the players were above 80. Good golf was the rule and the event as sponsored by the Herald, has given an impetus to golf playing in this part of Alberta.

Stettler and Wells attended the Golf Tournament at Ponoka this week and returned on Wednesday evening. Golfers were present from Drumheller, Kindersley, Coronation, Delia, Wayne and Vermilion. Stettler was the qualifying round with a 72. Rickard had 77, Grocott 79 and Templeton 75. Wells won a dozen Dunlop golf balls for medal play, also a gold bog for the third in first flight, Grocott winning first. Duckworth is able to put in a fine shot into his stock for winning second prize in scratch-off first flight. They were tied for second in the inter-club competition with an 84 the first prize going to Grocott and Rickard, Mrs. Templeton won the ladies' competition.

PENN NEWS

Very gratifying results were enjoyed from the sale of meals at the Penn Valley picnic on June 13th. The sum of $200 was handed over after paying expenses, and this will be used for the Penn Valley Church and Sunday School. Everyone seemed pleased at the way kindly disposed, and especially as the day was an ideal one for a picnic, many kindly donated the groceries or his contribution towards the event.

Another picnic will be held by the Anglicans and United Churches will be held on July 1st, and it is hoped the future progress for the care of the church and grounds.

Members of the Community are planning to meet at the church on Wednesday next to make the necessary renovations.

Mrs. Dan Wallace was a Stettler visitor last week, attending the dance given in honor of Miss Rickard on Monday.

Several of our young people were in Stettler to the Saturday night dance at Wayne.

The dance given at the schoolhouse following the Elks' picnic on June 13 was crowded and a nice sum was realized for the Community Club who sponsored the event.

The next meeting of the U.F.W.A. will be held at the home of Mrs. Fleshman second Wednesday in July.

The district is ready to round up cubs. Up to this writing, June 16, only 36 an inch have been shorn during the month of June to date.

AVERAGE FARM WAGES

According to a statement issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce of the Dominion Government, the average farm wages paid in Alberta were $73 per month, which is the second highest average in Western Canada, British Columbia being rated at $77 per month.

ERSKINE NEWS

In a letter from Rockport, Mabel Lake, B.C., Mrs. Ed. Grosvenor writes that she has spent a very pleasant holiday, the first in 17 years, with her son Ernest and family. Mr. Grosvenor is employed by the Provincial Government as Road Foreman and has charge of a gang of men. Mrs. Grosvenor says that she has been very busy with her son's family, as there are four children, the youngest a baby of 10 months. She says that the scenery is very beautiful, and that the mountains are covered with snow. She left Erskine on May 1st, and arrived at Rockport on May 3rd. She says that the weather was very cold when she left Erskine, but that it was very warm when she arrived at Rockport. She left Rockport on June 1st, and arrived at Erskine on June 4th. She says that she enjoyed her trip very much, but that she is glad to be back home again.

Mrs. Ed. Grosvenor is also in receipt of a letter from her son Ernest, in which he says that he has been very busy with his garden, and that he has had a very good crop of vegetables. He says that he has had a very busy time, as he has had to do all the cooking, washing and housework, as well as looking after the children. The weather still continues dry. We should like to say here the country has a good sub soil still with moisture. Early seed grain is very in the dust bluds and is from 6 to 8 inches deep. In looking back over past years, a number of dry ones stand out but while at times it looked as though crops were to be ruined the "rainy" never happened and we always got something and that year will likely prove to be no exception.

THE FORD CAR FUEL SYSTEM

Simple—Safe—and Dependable

THE Ford car fuel system is simple because it is direct. Gravity flow does away with moving parts. A short fuel line with a minimum of elbows and connections is easy to service and eliminates approximately 150 joints required by the vacuum tank or fuel pump system.

The carburetor, such is so placed that it is well protected from front or rear end collisions. Any overflow runs off on the ground with no serious results, since the only points of possible spark contact is the rear end of the chassis. These extreme instead of one, as in most fuel systems, prevent fumes from entering the tank. A solid steel dash separates the Ford gas tank from the engine.

The gas gauge on the dash of the Ford car is controlled by a simple float on the carburetor, making more direct, simple and accurate than any other type. Another point of driving convenience found possible by the gravity flow system is the ease with which the tank may be filled, while the driver remains in the car, from anywhere without moving from behind the wheel.

A little fly flew through the fire

An Evening With Mozart

It is pleasant to those days of depressing gaiety, to find an artist entertain for the service of long ago, and such forgotten genius, and in this direction, Mrs. Ashford has served, on several occasions, to lead the public taste and the taste of the rising generation towards the peculiar influence of the great work—hopefully, to be by many read and gone over.

Last year Mrs. Ashford entertained many friends at her home with an evening devoted to the works of Schubert, and, as an interlude, the program was varied by a very interesting and instructive reading by Mrs. Price, upon the life and works of that great master of melody.

On Wednesday evening, last week, Mrs. Ashford received a number of guest—for her private recital of the prolific, brilliant and diver-sified composition of Mozart—who began his active and wonderful career at the age of six years and—opened and played more pieces than any other musician.

Unhappily, his life was very short, only thirty-five years, and like many another genius, he died in absolute poverty, and was buried in a pauper's grave.

The Tuesday evening, beyond a reference by Mr. Price to this painful termination of a very wonderful life, was devoted to a few of his compositions rendered by members of Mrs. Ashford's classes, assisted by her self-exclusive, with delightful effect, and affording very pleasant enjoyment. The evening was concluded with a short social, refreshments and the guests departed with a sincere appreciation of the feast of music and blandishment shown them.

It is safe to be hoped that by the introduction of these evenings, occasionally, a tendency to improve the present-day taste may be gradually effected in driving out the devil which has long been accepted as, and which is demonstrable in many ways.

LAST SUNDAY

Mark Twain one—called upon to speak at a club dinner one took for dinner "Shoulder." He said when he rose to say at home was a cart full of potatoes. He was to say and he was composed, besides his usual address.

Standing up to that card," said Mark "and I made a modest. I would like an oldey to devour it. But—I had no counter nor my teeth out it, then I stood, a strange feeling came over me. I rose for a quick recollection. Finally I walked up to that card plot, the shaking spoke where I got it. Then and took it right out."

Ole "Did I ever show you the place where I hurt my leg?"
He "N. no."
Ole "All right, we'll order a car

It seems that hence may go where hence a can, a corruption is necessary in the account of the Great War Year. The condition of the Gadsby Cemetery was commented on, and the Women's Institute given the credit. The Omega Circle and not the Institute are responsible for this splendid enterprise.

The aforementioned year created more than a mild sensation in our village. At least one thing was accomplished—the erection of a new skating rink.

The Sports' Day held on Friday had proved successful in every way drawing a large crowd from the neighboring district and towns. The best seen decorations; the grounds and the outside premises and a "brown" most ready for dancing. A good program of races, tug-o'-war and children's events was run off, with horse races, soft ball and baseball.

Miss Gould was presented with a lovely silver flower basket from the girls. Helen Hammer reading the address and Phyllis Parker making the presentation. A musical program was followed by lunch.

Stettler Theatre News

From now to the end of June, we have the finest line of pictures you could wish to see. "The Flying Fleet" is one of the most thrilling and up-to-the-minute aeroplane pictures that has been produced and it is sure, something you have not seen before. "Lord of the Silver Fox" with Rin Tin Tin, a northern picture about the best dog in pictures getting his start. It seems almost impossible for a dog to be so intelligent. "Mother Knows Best" is one of the supreme mother love, could take two or three columns telling you about these productions, and following these "Colleen Moore" in "Lilac Time," better than "Happy, The Flying Fleet," is a better production than "Wings."

Keeping the family together does not mean keeping the family at home every night. Home is a great place to come back to any woman can tell any man, or any youngster can say present. The family that knows enough to go to good photoplays together has learned one of the secrets of lasting family happiness.

WHY WAIT FOR THE FLOOD

Shannon is a bustling state building bridge had been destroyed by fire and it was necessary to replace it. The bridge engineer and his staff were ordered to hustle to the place. Two days later came the superintendent of the division.

Alighting from his car he accosted an old timber bridge-builder.

"Bill," said the superintendent, "we want you to build a new bridge. Every board in that structure must be replaced. How soon do you think you can get the engineer's plans for the new bridge?"

"I don't know," said the bridge-builder, "whether the engineer has the plans completed yet or not, but the bridge is up and the timber to replace it."

CANADA'S HUGE AIR CRAFT

Sir Rodmond, Sir Command Stadium

Major-General J. H. MacBrien, of Montreal spoke on aviation and its relation to commerce and war, at the opening meeting of the Aeronautical Association's twenty-sixth annual convention in Montreal recently.

General MacBrien declared that Canada's resources should be pumped out unless aircraft were fully utilized in the operation of commercial aviation. The highroads of the air would guide the tourist, he declared, and Canada must have her share. When telephone dispatching, modern airports and safety devices became more general, aviation would be the safest form of travelling, he said.

SCOTT TO A SETTLE

The professor had just finished an evening talking on Sir Walter Scott and his works when a lady said: "Oh, professor, I have so enjoyed your talk. Scott is a great favorite of mine."

"Indeed," said the professor, "what one of his books do you like best?"

"Oh," stammered the lady, "I haven't read any of his books but I am in fond of his furniture—I've used a lot of it."—The De Land Monthly.

Jumpy Nerves Cause Accidents

(By Brota Greer)
(President Greer College, Chicago, Illinois.)

Contrast the comparative qualifications of the driver of an automobile and the driver of a locomotive. The former, as a rule, knows no qualification other than his ability to operate a car. He is not only unfamiliar with the operations and mechanisms, but absolutely lacking in knowledge of our laws governing the use of the highways. In many instances his previous activities are such that he is weakened in his regards for the rights of others. Otherwise the locomotive engineer has entered his right to a seat in the cab by his years up victor of many years' faithfulness.

Display of control and temperament and steering as a result of loss of temper are common. Even though he may be a master of his craft who drives an automobile under the conditions of present-day traffic is under a serious strain, and he may overwhelm, quite possibly not competently in all other activities, yet, when in the act of driving a car, he may be a menace to everyone. The degree to which he becomes unconscious of his surroundings will depend upon what has happened or what he thinks has happened. If, upon arising in the morning, the furnace has failed to start, the eggs have not cooked, the coffee is the wrong brand, a child has not been entertained in the manner desired, if, upon trying to start the car, the battery refuses to function, a tire is down, or the supply of gasoline exhausted; if other things of this high-type, the end is splashed with mud, dents and scratches, or if he is late to a rendezvous with some driver in a like frame of mind, these, or any one of them, may explain why he is jumping, quivering the lives of pedestrians and making life miserable for others before starting to work. Under the influences of such agents a repair man becomes dangerous, even some of the wildest Jazz Band leaders, trained to control by their music, have also been employed or to become an unmanageable temperament under ragtime, and, cutting the cushions to their music, step on the gas or jam on the brakes in a wholly unwarranted manner.

Railroads can't afford to have locomotive engineers with jumpy nerves. Then why should motor car drivers with jumpy nerves be permitted to endanger the highway?

The Home Of Tomorrow

(By Florence Rohlfs Boyd)

Why all the nonsense about the home of tomorrow? Is there not enough to worry about right here and now? The home is perfectly pretty and well adapted to present-day times, as it is. Is there anything the matter with it? Is it not absolutely in line with the present-day mechanisms?

We cannot be satisfied with homes of yesteryear or even of yesterday. Long, dusty carpets and absence of telephones and bathrooms; but we may reasonably go forward on the basis of the present.

The fundamentals will prevail because they are necessary for the well-being of the race, namely, the family and young, growing for family association, a supplying of requisite nourishment, a background of ambitions and love hopes, plans and training to cure experience with the present and the immediate future.

Economy, a thing of necessity, has already set the home. Saving with time and energy are now among the chief members of the family. Saving time and energy reduces will follow these industries out of the home into the factory, and so help to meet the mounting costs of living, and a far better living at that.

If the woman helps a bit with the finances, the man will give more time with the home and the children, and this will make for more appreciation and appreciation a more real partnership and closer family intimacy all around.

The home of tomorrow is a home of a [illegible] a master-carrying [illegible] a filling station, and town and more a spiritual abode, a place to retire for the peace and privacy and comfort [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and Matchless style, matchless comfort and, above all, matchless performance, are the reasons. Come, prove these things to your own satisfaction. Take the wheel of this car—test it against any other—and you, too, will join in the unanswerable endorsement of McLaughlin-Buick!

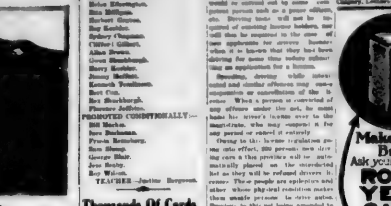
A TEASER



No. 6. Chapter—Hit pasts, Par 5.

The ninth hole of the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course, Jasper National Park, is the one which the annual championships of the Rocky Mountains golf tournament will be played August 19th to 24th inclusive. The championship has this 175 m centuries high plateau and the green, which is very fast, is also hard to hit. The tee-shot, therefore, is to be made a true shot which will bend the green. Above the green is a steep bank which will prevent the golfer who has a poor tee shot to hole properly. Like the famous motorcycle, "Thermette," the tee-shot is not of importance—it spells disaster.

Co-incident with the Canadian Amateur, the Western Canada Amateur and the Inland over the Jasper Park Lodge Course, and this will give the lovers of competitive golf for those whose high handicaps automatically bar them from the open events.

The tee-shot of 5 strength was made from Hole 1 tee. Below it is a plan of the hole showing the tee-shot in detail with the three tees plainly indicated. The figures beside represent the yardages.

New Brunswick Asks Effort on Safety Into Every Home

If Issuing Officers Done Such Necessary—$50,000 for the Provincial Treasury.

Locomotive of all drivers of motor cars gone into effect on July 1st, on which day Alberta will join in with British Columbia and some other provinces in that respect. As it is expected that over registrations will run 160,000 this year the provincial treasury will be enriched by about $50,000 from the drivers' licenses.

Every driver of an auto must obtain carry his license when operating same, shortly to take effect. The license will be issued to registered motor cars at a cost of fifty cents and will stand good until the end of the calendar year.

The regulations provide that no person under 16 years of age may be issued a license a car. If the applicant is between the ages of 16 and 18, the application must be accompanied by the signature of the parent or guardian, who is required to state that the applicant is competent to drive and knows the rules of the road and the motor laws of the province.

May Require Test

When the license is new or is not good, he may require the applicant to submit to a driving test, before issuing it, to know. This examination would be entered only by some competent person such as a peace officer, etc. Driving tests will not be required of existing license holders, nor will they be required in the case of new applicants for drivers' license when it is known that they have been driving for some time before application for a license.

Speeding, driving while intoxicated and similar offences may cause suspension or cancellation of the license. When a person is convicted of any offence under the act, he must have his driver's license over to the magistrate, who may suspend it for any period or cancel it entirely.

Owing to the license regulations going into effect, the persons now driving cars in this province will be given special privileges on the re-enrolled list as they will be refused drivers license. The people are reminded that other than pay-card numbers cannot be issued. Any person who drives a car without having obtained such permit will be liable to prosecution under the motor vehicles act.

BEEF—Edmonton reports that the market has been moderately active with price reserves from steady to 15c lower. Choice heavy steers brought up from $10@10.50, choice light at from $9.50@10 with good at from $8.50@9, $8@8.50, common at $6.75@7.50, down from $6@6.50. The choice heifers are made from $10@11; fair $9@10. Choice cows $6.25@6.50, good $7.75 to $8.25; common $5@7.50, canners at $4.50@5.50 with canners $3.50@4.50. HOGS

Thick smooths of sows, quoted at $11.90 at Calgary yards this week with others bringing $12.

Edmonton report: Good smooths as bringing $11.50, fed and watered basis, with others at $10.

SHEEP

Receipts very light on Calgary market. Tuesday's top $9.11; over 900 lb. and bucks $11@$11.50.

Edmonton reports that prices on the sheep are higher. Shearlings brought $11@$11, over $12@$9 and bucks at from $7@$10.

GRAIN

Market at Winnipeg on Wednesday was very erratic. During the first hour of trading, selling pressure drove prices around 2 1-4c. A mid-session reaction recovered the loss and a rally in the late hours made up the entire day's loss.

BUTTERFAT — BUTTER — MILK

BUTTERFAT—Prices advanced in Receipts good at Calgary but lighter at Edmonton, owing to lack of cream. Special grade 36c; firsts, 34c and second 32c at country points with the creameries paying the same price f. o. b. shipping point. CREAMERY BUTTER—Prices holding unchanged, as fine, but also supported at any time. Demand holding well. Shipments: one car to Montreal, one to Boston. No. 1 cartons, 33c; No. 2, 32c, No. 1 prints, 34c; No. 2, 33c. DAIRY BUTTER—Top grades in good demand, receipts are on light order. Fancy tubs at 30c; No. 1 from 28@29 and No. 2, 27@28c. MILK—Receipts large, though the growth is fair, the offerings are not as heavy as at this time last year and do not make such a good quality of feed. Acreages barley and rye do not produce yields equal to oats at this season but may be more suitable to other localities and for special purposes. Of the other plants better such as vetch, cornfields and sudan grass, the yields have been too low to run to hay.

Light varieties of oats have been tested and of these Victory, Banner, Garlach and Gold Rain have given nearly equal results.

The yields of cured hay for several years average about three tons per acre. The best time of harvesting appears to be when the grain is in the early dough stage. At this stage the kernel is well filled and the straw is still quite pulpy. For special feeder they may be cut earlier or later to suit the conditions. Mixtures of grass and oats also are recommended for special purposes: and if the proper mixtures is obtained are green quite successfully. Oats for hay should not be cows later than the first week in June in northern Saskatchewan as those are other that dates are often badly cured. Frozen which materially affects the palatability and feed value.

FERTILIZERS: Are a good investment for annual hay crops, if oats are used, as a light application of nitrogen will suffice and forage has been obtained from other sources.

Annual Hay Crops

Annual Hays are those crops which complete their growth from seed in one season and are used as dry forage. They are grown chiefly for use as a supplement to the perennial hay but in dry districts or where weeds make up the entire hay crop.

Many classes of cereals, grasses and legumes have been used for this purpose at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scotsburn, but to date none have proven equal to oats for general purpose forage. Many varieties of millets have been tried, but the yields have always been lower than oats and they are very annoy-

THE VALUE OF CLOVER
ON ALFALFA RANGE
FOR LIVESTOCK (HORSES)

A well established brome grass, supported with a modern rock-harvest breeder store has largely solved the problem of hand-drying large measures of hay stacks from the time of hardening until they are old enough to be cut, not artificial heat. At the time the stacks usually require more space in which to take material. If this additional space can be given in the way of green pasturage it proves the stacks an excellent means of putting green feed, months, the when they pick up from the range.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, it has been found that either clover or alfalfa, particularly the latter, makes a very excellent range on which to grow the stacks. One of the big advantages of the alfalfa over the red clover is the very rapid growth made by the second crop of the alfalfa, which in some instances has grown to the early dough stage. At this stage the kernel is well filled and the straw is still quite pulpy for special feeder they may be cut earlier or later to suit the conditions. Mixtures of grass and oats also are recommended for special purposes: and if the proper mixtures is obtained are green quite successfully. Oats for hay should not be cows later than the first week in June in northern Saskatchewan as those are other that dates are often badly cured. CLEAN SEED VERSUS WEEDS

(By L. M. Bowser, District Inspector Dominion Seed Branch.)

The attention of the public is being drawn, during the first week of July, to problems relating to weeds. All who are interested in our agriculture will recognize that the necessity of weed prevention and eradication. There simply cannot be a serious lessening of our annual weed losses until every crop and farm is visited each year by inspectors, assistants or students, and in every community a campaign of clean seed, especially to observe farm profits.

The only way to get rid of weeds is to grow clean seed. Every individual farmer is personally responsible for the seed he sows on his farm, and the Seed Act, administered by the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, controls the importation and sale of seed in Canada. This Act provides grades under which seed may be sold, and all seed offered for sale must be labelled with one of such grades which makes it possible for a buyer of seed to know before purchasing, the quality of seed he is securing. Freedom from weed seed is an important factor in the grading of seed. The successful farmer will insist on procuring only the highest grade of seed established, as an absolutely sure, if our worst weeds have been introduced into or have had through dirty seed. The farmer can ascertain himself from getting any new weeds by examining before purchasing his seed, that he be supplied with a detailed analysis report, as issued by the Seed Branch Inspector as the basis on which the grade is given, therefore each report must be in the hands of the sells of the seed, as is available by those who insist on seeing same before placing order. The sale of weed is prohibited and sifted whether are prevented under the Seed Act.

Weed seeds once introduced into our soils will, if not controlled, soon multiply and lead to such an extent as to make it extremely difficult to free the soil of them. Being especially informed on that part of agriculture concerned with seed, I can not too strongly emphasize the importance and value of using clean seed.

A HARD PAR 4

No. 3. Tobacco Cut. 450 yards. Par 4.

Many hopes for a fine score have been wrecked by hole No. 3 of the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course, Jasper National Park, Alberta, over which the Canadian amateur championship of the R.C.G.A. will be played from August 19th to 26th this summer. It is a dog-leg with a high knoll to be negotiated before the second shot can be played and a sloping green that is lightning fast and guarded by a deep grass covered ditch. The contour of this green is such that an error of a fraction of an inch is putting means disaster.

Coincident with the Canadian Amateur the Western Canada Amateur will be played over the Jasper Park Lodge Course, and this will provide plenty of competition for those whom high handicaps automatically keeps them out of the Dominion event.

The upper photograph shows the fairway just below the elevated tee. Below is a sketch to scale showing the hole in detail. Play in the tournament will take place from July 1 to.

WHEN I'M ALONE

"When I'm alone"—the words tripped off her tongue

As I sought to be alone very nothing strange

"When I was young," he said; "when I was young, . . ."

I thought of age and loneliness and change.

I thought how strange we grow when we're alone,

And how unlike the selves that meet, and talk,

And later two candles cast, and say good-night.

Alone. . . . The word is life enclosed and known,

It is the stillness where our spirits walk

—Hilvrist Bowen in "The Heart's Journey."

Special Meeting Of Waverly Taxpayers

Held in Dew's Hall, Erskine, on Saturday, July 8th, 1939, at 2:45 p.m. There were 132 ratepayers present when the Secretary read the requisition for a meeting to discuss the proposed purchase of an engine and a grader, and the increase of 2 mills in the mill rate.

Reeve Clark asked the meeting to name a chairman and Messrs. Chesterton, McConnell and Dr. Staples were placed before the meeting.

Messrs. L. H. Parr and John McRae moved that only ratepayers of Waverly should act as Chairman. Carried.

This eliminated Dr. Staples, and, on vote being taken, Mr. James McConnell was elected chairman of the meeting.

Mr. McConnell asked that the meeting name a seconds of procedure.

Messrs. J. Mellor and A. Sinclair. That the meeting first discuss the increase in mill rate. Carried.

Reeve John Nevin and Glen Pettit. That each speaker be limited to five minutes. Carried.

Messrs. L. B. Sommers and John Heath. That only ratepayers be allowed to take part in any discussion. Carried.

THE 1939 MILL RATE—

Messrs. Paul Gabriel and John McRae: That this meeting of the ratepayers of Waverly not that the mill rate be increased, weed inspectors cut off, and that roadwork be curtailed as much as possible. With the remainder of the money available." Followed by a long discussion, during which the Reeve and some of the Councillors gave the reasons for the increase—the 4-cent rate to be used in 1939, the increase in the Government Grant to $3,864.60 from $2,384.60 in which amount the district must place dollar for dollar, the bank indebtedness of $2,500 from 1938, and the necessity of keeping up as much as possible the same proportion to public works. The minutes of the particular meeting were also read relative to the increase in mill rate.

This part of the discussion was finally closed by a resolution to table the motion by Messrs. J. R. Ellis and J. Savage.

TRACTOR AND GRADER—

Messrs. A. Rairson and A. E. Sinclair: That the meeting discuss the purchase of the Bates Tractor and the Austin Grader. Carried.

Mr. Frank Peterson asked that the Reeve give the reasons for purchasing the Tractor and Grader. Mr. Clark replied that the withdrawal of the Government 10 foot grader from the district, the request for better work on the market road if the Council wished to retain the Government dollar for dollar grant, and the personal investigations, made by the Councillors of the work done by the Tractors and 12 foot graders, had convinced the Council such a step was necessary and economic. Added to this was the fact that many road work could be done at less cost.

The Secretary here read a phone message from Mr. Ainsworth, the Government road engineer, stating that a heavy rain in Red Deer prevented him from being present at the meeting. In his inspectorate there are 27 municipal districts, 20 have 12 foot graders and the power necessary to drive such, three districts will purchase by next year, leaving only four or five districts without the 12 foot graders. Mr. Ainsworth added that the Government Grant in future will be largely governed by the outfit the municipal districts have, and this year he had refused the grant to one district because they had nothing but small graders.

The minutes of the special meeting when the grader and engine were authorized were read; the affidavit to be signed by the ratepayers re purchase of the tractor and the guarantee to replace any worn part of the tractor for a period of five years, were produced.

Mr. G. Pettit claimed that the Council should have called a ratepayers' meeting to discuss the purchase before signing the agreement.

Mr. F. J. Peterson asked than Councillor Bergman, Section 4, give his reason for his change of opinion in regard to the purchase of tractor and grader.

Mr. Bergman frankly stated that he had been convinced of the necessity of such an outfit. Mr. Ainsworth had shown the Council the necessity for the change, and Mr. Bergman's own investigations had convinced him that it was the best investment for the district. The Council had granted his request that the demonstration should be south of Erskine, and, in this section the road would need little more and better roads at less cost.

Messrs. Mellon and Paul Gabriel: That this meeting go on record as objecting to the interference of Mr. Ainsworth, the government road inspector, in the business of the municipal district.

The motion lost, only the mover and seconder voting for it.

Mr. F. J. Peterson and J. Sommerton: That in future the Council submit for discussion at a meeting of the ratepayers any contemplated expenditure over $2,000. Carried.

Sec 115 of the Municipal District Act was read, under the powers which the Council had purchase the tractor and grader.

Messrs. J McRae and C. F. Scheerschmidt: That the meeting go on record as asking the Municipal Act remain with the duties of Coun. as amended to read "The Council of a municipal district may pass a by-law for the purpose of acquiring, either separately or jointly with any other municipal district, etc." —Instead of "Every Council may pass a by-law, etc."—Carried.

Mr. L. B. Sommers suggested contract work in preference to the present system for the large outfit.

Objective was taken by Mr. Sommerton, jr., to the new outfit being used out of the district. It should be for work only in Waverly.

Other resolutions were suggested and withdrawn, and the discussion was continued by Messrs. Scottolyn, L. E. Bix, A. W. Green, R. W. Berridge, W. Charlton, J. C. Bain, Wm. T. Lowry and others.

Near 6 p.m., after a vote of thanks had been accorded Mr. McConnell the meeting adjourned on motion of Messrs. J. Heath and J. Sommers.

BYEMOOR NEWS

Miss Janet McCrimmin and George Jamieson who won the scholarship at the school fair last year, left on Wednesday for Olds to attend the "Short Course" at the school of Agriculture.

A number of Byemoor people went to Endiang on July 3rd to the sports day held there.

The Byemoor baseball team journeyed to Halkirk on July 4th to play the Halkirk boys. The game was very close, the last goal was in the last minutes. Score was 5 to 4 in favor of Halkirk. This was a very good game, great pains being made on both sides of the ground. Mr. Ainsworth added that the Government Grant in future will be largely governed by the outfit the municipal districts have, and this year he had refused the grant to one district because they had nothing but small graders.

The minutes of the special meeting when the grader and engine were authorized were read; the affidavit to be signed by the ratepayers re purchase of the tractor and the guarantee to replace any worn part of the tractor for a period of five years, were produced.

Union Hall

The U. F. A. Round Lake Picnic held on July 6th, was pulled off in grand style, and remarks have been made that "The Best Ever." The sports were up to the usual standard, and the races were indulged in very strongly by the ladies. The three best events of the day were the boys' blue berry pie eating contest, which caused a good deal of laughter, also the weiner eating contest and last, but not least, the ladies' sail driving contest, where many new fingers were reported. In the evening the dance for which Mrs. Fenn and Union Hall was won by the latter by the score of 12 to 8. These peppy teams will clash again at the Fenn Community Picnic Picnic on Wednesday, July 17th, and no doubt will be a real goose.

A big harvest dance closed the day, and all went home happy and contented, feeling a social day well spent.

The Ewing Local U. F. A. No. 867, wish to thank all who took part and made this picnic such a complete success.

A large bunch of ratepayers attended the meeting in Erskine Saturday last, on the increase in mill rate and the purchase of the tractor and grader. After a lengthy discussion, all went home feeling they were much out of place listening to various Councillors explaining in detail the wonderful piece of machinery. One ratepayer remarked "If it would build all our roads and pay for itself in 3 years, what were we going to do with it then?" There's no one worrying, our Waverly Council has purchased it and now it is simply up to the taxpayers to pay for it and make the best of it.

July 21st, 1939—The Bates Tractor and big grader, if still alive and able to be present will commence work and roaring along our highways. All motorists and horses when approaching Bloy Look and Listen.

Several are in attendance this week at the Calgary Exhibition and some participate taking in the Edmonton Exhibition.

Lyon Summers arrived on Thursday July 6th, from Los Angeles, California, for a month's visit with friends and relatives.

A few things we would enjoy knowing—

Will we ever be able again to participate in those grand and glorious rains we enjoyed in 1915 and 1916?

Is it cheaper, when breaking roots, to pay $4.00 per hour or $10 per acre?

Is it good business to work and repair part of a road and let the rest go?

Is it honorable to have a neo-ratepayer vote at a ratepayers' meeting?

Is it true that one of our esteemed reeves now has joined the bank staff?

Did Jerry enjoy his visit at the Hawkeye Ranch on Saturday evening last?

A LOGICAL CONCLUSION

Father: "Jimmy, why did you bob the little Jones boy?"

Jimmy: "You told me to."

Father: "I told you to! Why, son, what do you mean?"

Jimmy: "Didn't you tell me the other day that it was more blessed to give than to receive?"

Father: "Yes, but—"

Jimmy: "Well, I had to give him a fight or receive one!"

WHEN THE RAIN CAME

How Peter McArthur, Canada's Farm Philosopher and Humorist Described the Sunshine of the Long Drought.

(From The Country Guide)

Peter McArthur wandered far and on the great office of the world. At 10 he left the farm where his father had cleared from the wilderness in the '50s, and for 20 years engaged at it every week. As a hobby every week he acted and narrowed writer, he contributed to and edited magazines whose titles are household words. But the city never claimed him. He came back from the old Hunter... County in to where he was born and reared, to London, he confessed, he wept bitter tears—how he came for the place or what it left all his boyhood recollections centred. To it he returned, and from it for 15 years issued a steady stream of essays which are unique in the annal of literature. They do not deal with personalities, and have little to say of community interests. They were written largely for the city press and the time and the farm annuals; the interests within the line of country life. His nerve off from there of his neighbors.

Peter McArthur made no pretensions of being a good farmer. Indeed he was rather ashamed to confess that his own successful ambitions in that regard, a when he told a meeting of investors much like he wrote for a living and farmer to some of his neighbors. But he was all the time an observant and accurate Ontario farm and discovered there as he had never seen described. Others had noticed that farm animals have such a personality of their own, but Peter McArthur was the first man to tell them as an extraordinary range of literary material. The animals came to know as they knew their own animals. Few visitors the end ever, Hampe, the steer, who developed such into herbed ways. Dibbad the pup, Hiawatha, the cow; Bessie and Jo Arden, the horses, who was young to long that they thought he was dead. The woodlot, whose tree of his own grew thereby were beginning to shed off the vast, the lents of new saplings—plantain shoots, "plantain, fresh, dewy, with strawberries, the kind you only get when you go out to the garden and pick them yourself." The rainbow—the fit of a mocking bird, the call of the fish peddler, the passing of the first airplane, a then-interesting set of days—these are a thousand other things farmers experience in the course of their lives, and which were rare with delight when he expressed in the press, and have been preserved for us in his book.

Whimsy Blended With Humor

"They are going to take me apart tomorrow, and I hope they will make a good job of putting me together again," he wrote from the hospital the day before the operation. When he emerged from the anaesthetic it was with a burning thirst. A drink of cool water proved his best remedy, enlarging on the superiority of water to all other beverages, climaxed from his sick bed. Two days later he died and was laid under his parents under a maple tree, ruminated by the Canadian Press.

In his last book, "Around Home," published in 1922, he dwells and illustrated by the great Canadian artist, C. W. Jefferys, appears one of the finest things ever Peter McArthur ever wrote. "When The Rain Came" is the description outward of a farmer who has experienced that glorious feeling of relief when, after weeks of unsuccessful watching, the rain has opened, the parched earth is refreshed and all nature is rejuvenated.

"When The Rain Came! How shall I write, or sing or raise that joy that was in our little world when the rain came? For weeks the sun had been pouring down unbearable heat, and the springs went dry, and the grass withered and the crops failed. It was in vain that we studied the omens of cold and cloudiness, and spoke of past and cheerlessness. The fountains of the deep were sealed. The morning sun—a furnace—rose and set in a blaze of light. Never before in the memory of man had there been such heat and drought, and the farmers themselves began to look as if they would dry up and blow away, they were so tanned and sun-burned and hair-crowned with the long locks. The cattle panted under the shade of the trees and refused to graze, their heads when little whirlwind came up the dust. The pigs, too, were uneasy, and the hens, but the human was almost an irritation to the animals. Shut-in, sunless, sultry days and hot nights followed each other in succession. We became used to the sight of the sun, and the sound of the wind would blow from it, but there was little satisfaction in being cooled with the wind from other people's ovals.

Fools Watch For the Sunstroke

"After some days of brooding a storm that somehow could not dig of it in the north or to the south. It came at seemingly with a front to it. Vapors and a great rushing sun—it was. It smashed with thunder on—blazed with lightning, and the first downpour was mingled with hail. It lasted for only a few minutes, but while it has it was a veritable cloudburst. The heavy sunny could not carry off their treasure, but overflowed in splashing and tinkling rivulets. And then the storm was out all of it falling rain. It was full of the thanksgiving of the poor, of city heat—that were held up his cupped palms to it, until the evening shower When the cloud passed, and the sun came a great sigh of relief seemed to go up from all nature, and even more the fronts of the birds was grateful sun prayed to have.

"But though the first shower was good, it was but a sop to the [thirsty] earth. An hour after it had fallen there was not even a puddle left for the animals to paddle in with their feet, but the cure heaver had unrolled and were driving with heavier power. The next day was hot, but early in the afternoon great clouds began to pile in the sky, and storms began to pass to the north and south. Presently one came to us, and what it had passed and the children ate for the first time at their lives a perfect rainbow. It reached the sky smartfoundly, but a splendid the promise of fair weather. We walked more rain, and realized as never before the wisdom of the words of Agur, the son of Jakeh, spoke unto Ithiel, even unto Ithiel and Ucal—'Surely I am more brutish than any man, and—satisfied—yes, four things that say not, 'It is enough.' And one of these four things is the earth is not filled with water. Fortunately our hope was not disappointed. The rainbow is a sign of fair weather, proved as false as all the signs that failed on which it was dry. The next day came hot and steamy, with thunder rumbling in the distance, and a curtain of cloud overhead. All day it continued to get darker, and at last a still rain came down from the south. It was one of those satisfying downpours that soak in as they fall, and it brought peace and healing and renewed life. And we knew that the land had not been forgotten, and that there was not a curse upon it."

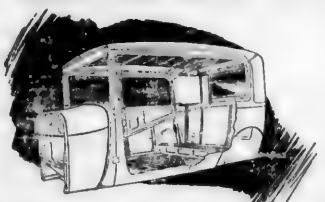
THE FORD CAR STEEL BODY



Combines Strength with Beauty

THE high grade steel used in building Ford car bodies gives maximum driving protection. Beauty of design has been combined with rugged strength in these all-steel bodies. The wood parts shown in the diagram are used only for attaching the interior trim and roof material.

If child body—that of the Tudor Sedan in the illustration—mounted on a Model "A" chassis, were turned over and resting on the roof, it would support the chassis, engine and all without even bending the narrow window pillars. Such is the strength and high safety factors of Ford engineering.

Vision obstruction is reduced to a minimum by the use of narrow steel pillars. Lower rear panels, including the wheel housing, are made in one piece. This unusual feature on body construction gives additional strength.

Electrical welding adds greater rigidity and reduces the possibility of squeak and rattle. Fenders and rear sections are welded or riveted. In assembly of hinge units where body are necessary, strips of anti-squeak material are also used. Soft roof construction, of heavy padding over galvanized sheet iron, provides an additional element of comfort.

EASTER LILIES IN BERMUDA

Bermuda, with its Easter lily crop, from which the name of the Canadian National Steamship West Indies cruiser was changed, landed in Montreal Tuesday morning on the Canadian National steamship Bermudian. The lilies were flown from Hamilton, Bermuda, to Montreal in a special plane and the picturesque end of the Bermuda Mail Service was carried out. The first consignment, two crates of lilies, was consigned to Mrs. Lloyd Harris, wife of the Canadian Minister to the United States, and was addressed to the White House, Washington. The lilies are expected to reach the White House in time for Easter Sunday services.

Snobbery That Leads To Worldly Success

Yearly there are thousands of well fed-up young people graduated from the universities and from professional schools and many more in other spheres of learning. Some are clever. They are the ones who succeed. They are interested in men in the world and in conquering it. They are the ones who make the money, the ones who get the honors and the prizes. Professor Rogers was interested to note in the newspapers recently a statement by a prominent business man—the sponsor and then proprietor, I dare not happen most likely—of a female beauty contest, that not only general interest and public curiosity could be aroused by a contest consisting of the mere level of physical beauty, but that, if desired, the sponsor have anything to say as to the one entered could be made to appear as the possessor of mental qualities of a high order. He presumed to say that the two most prominent men at Bare Hill—one at Oxford, I believe—have been known. Professor Rogers is a member of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is no doubt a distinguished educator but evidently has a good deal to learn when he will frankly admit that he has been a failure before he attained a professorship, by possessing the doctrine of snobbery. Since then he has been considered with letters, taking degrees, requests for addresses. He has even figured in the news movies.

Professor Rogers said in question that it was necessary to marry the snobbery in the beginning but that it was not necessary to be the snobbery to the end. He was a great believer in the spirit of the Declaration. Before he has suggested that the world should gradually be a snob, which he considers a contemptible thing, but one should not in such a way that the

OVER THE WATER

No. 16, Last Descent. 115 yards. Fall 9

The fact that the water in front of the 14th tee of the Jasper Park Lodge golf course is so near that the ball can be seen when it rests shortly four inches on the surface, isn't much consolation to the player who lands his ball on that tee lake. A well driven tee shot goes straight to the green. A poor drive goes to the bottom.

For saving the thing this hotel has issued to one to every person manager's invitation to try the Canadian Amateur championship at Jasper in August, and the Silver Tassie Polo Association's championship at Jasper. The upper photograph shows the tee and the lake, and the lower photograph shows the tee and the green, connecting and among well. Place in container to set. Be much for the liver.

Medical authority asserts, too, that health and kidney bend to be action accessionally to promote perfect health. The heart—soft washed and the tube—removed—may be stuffed with either veal or pork forcemeat. Its accompaniments would depend on the kind of stuffing used. With veal and onion, apple sauce would be suitable so, while a red jelly, such as red currant, or cherry would accompany the veal forcemeat.

LOFE SAVING

Duding the Summer months there is nothing that youth enjoys so much as boating. Whether the outing be short or as close as the particular stretch of water is, really a matter of little importance to it. Youth rarely has any time to consider consequences, and is rather scandal of the individual who starts on a boating trip. Consequent Summer after Summer passing lives are lost that can be ill spared. Young lives snatched in almost every case.

Every child should be taught to swim. The proper thing to do in such an emergency is to remain calm. Don't struggle. Don't lose your head. Don't grasp at the drowning person in the water. Help yourself. Float if there is room enough. Swim on the other side of the boat

Advance in Telegraph Communication

(By J. (Berkshire)

(Chief Electrical Engineer C. N. Telegraphs.)

This paper has been prepared for pre-occasion at the session of the Canadian National Rec-ognizers Electrical Forum. For the past decade the communication engineers have directed their efforts to the speeding up transmission, more effectively betw[een] different centres on the system of the [world]. In this paper the writer has attempted to illustrate the progress of the telegraph and communication [art].

Almost a century years ago, [Le]ge, to some extent, explain telegraphy was then emerging [from] mere curiosity, on the part [of] scientific men, to a practical [means] of communication. The [first] was the single needle instrument [which] was followed by the needle [and] bell instrument, which was [used] for many years on the railways [of] this country, and which [is] still in use in some out-of-the-[way] districts.

Then came the Morse [instrument] which, with its modifications, [has] been the standard instrument [for] the world over. The Morse [instrument] is the most economical [for] the operator, and is the [one] which has been developed [to] the highest degree of [speed].

Then came the Baudot [system] which is in use on [the] Canadian National Railways [and] Canadian Pacific Railway [and] the Morse system. The Baudot [system] is a printing system [which] is operated by the touch [of] the keys, similar to the [typewriter] keyboard, and the [message] is printed in plain [letters] on a tape. This system [is] used largely by the railways [and] by the press associations [for] the rapid handling of [press] matter.

The Baudot System can [be] operated at a speed [of] 30 words per minute [by] one operator, and by [the] use of a multiplex [system] as many as four [messages] can be sent [over] one wire at the [same] time, making [a] speed of 120 words [per] minute. The Baudot [system] is also used [for] the printing telegraph [system] in the Press [Associations] of Canada [and] the United States.

The Duplex Balance [System] employs [two] transmitters [and] two receivers [at] each end [of] the line, [and] the [operator] can send [and] receive [at] the same [time]. The [Quad]ruplex system [is] an [extension] of the [Duplex] [system] [and] [enables] [four] [messages] [to] [be] [sent] [over] [one] [wire] [at] [the] [same] [time].

[The] Multiplex [system] [is] [the] [latest] [development] [in] [the] [line] [of] [telegraph] [apparatus]. [It] [is] [a] [system] [by] [which] [a] [number] [of] [messages] [can] [be] [sent] [over] [one] [wire] [at] [the] [same] [time]. [The] [Multiplex] [system] [is] [in] [use] [between] [Montreal] [and] [Toronto] [and] [Montreal] [and] [Ottawa]. [The] [Multiplex] [system] [is] [also] [in] [use] [between] [Toronto] [and] [Hamilton].

[The] Printer Telegraph [System] [is] [in] [use] [between] [Montreal] [and] [Toronto] [and] [Montreal] [and] [Ottawa]. [The] [Printer] [Telegraph] [System] [is] [also] [in] [use] [between] [Toronto] [and] [Hamilton].

[The] Automatic [System] [is] [in] [use] [between] [Montreal] [and] [Toronto] [and] [Montreal] [and] [Ottawa]. [The] [Automatic] [System] [is] [also] [in] [use] [between] [Toronto] [and] [Hamilton].

[The] Wireless [System] [is] [in] [use] [between] [Montreal] [and] [Toronto] [and] [Montreal] [and] [Ottawa]. [The] [Wireless] [System] [is] [also] [in] [use] [between] [Toronto] [and] [Hamilton].

[The] Cable [System] [is] [in] [use] [between] [Montreal] [and] [Toronto] [and] [Montreal] [and] [Ottawa]. [The] [Cable] [System] [is] [also] [in] [use] [between] [Toronto] [and] [Hamilton].

Air Experts Study The Flight of Birds

Before the advent of the airplane the study of birds was responsible on much the same as a study of postage stamps or the breeding of fancy—a mere hobby. Now it has become a matter of great importance, for it is believed that there are still secrets of flying to be discovered and that they will be found when the secrets of birds are known. Because the bird was the inspiration of the inventors of the airplane, for they reasoned that as the bird was heavier than air it should be possible to fly with a machine that was heavier than air. So far, all efforts to imitate the wing motion of birds has led to nothing, but it may be that the final development of the airplane will take this form. Of course the aeroplane has far outstripped it again: the flight of the fastest bird, but it is far behind the bird in ease and grace of movement, in ability quickly to alter a course and in the supreme matter of absolute safety in flight.

Dr. Austen H. Clark, of the Smithsonian Institution, suggests that the invention of the airplane might have come earlier had more been known about the flight of birds. At least he says, "The necessity of finding answers to the questions—why do small birds have larger wings than big birds, and why do they have to move their larger wings more rapidly?—made the development of the flying machine difficult." Had only the small birds have larger wings, proportionately, than large birds, but the reverse have wings still larger. In the aeroplane it has been calculated that for each pound of body weight there is a wing area of four square yards, say square feet and 166 square inches. In a butterfly of the average size, each pound of body weight represents a wing area of three square yards, or eight square feet and 83 square inches. In the swallow, this is reduced to only four square feet, and in the gull to two square feet. Birds are useful of all birds for the study of aeronautical engineers — only 122 square inches.

As the size of the bird increases, the amount of wing bears per unit decreases. For example, the wings of the tumbling bird—Titmice or rep—are about twenty-eight to the square inch, according to weight and the average number of wing beats per minute is to be found in mountains, adopt themselves to all kinds and it is known that if a baseball cut in half of wool are thrown with equal on the earth's surface. But the large bees the baseball will go much faster strong-flying birds are confined gentlemen. So a big bird, must fly swiftly to be can and the vast open spaces, where they can rise and alight

No. 15, The Bad Baby 120 yards, Par 3.

There is no place to go here except the green. Everywhere else spells trouble with a capital "T." Above is the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course. It is one of the hardest and most interesting holes to be found anywhere. It will be played during the Amateur and Western Canada Amateur Championships, which will be played from June 30th and the Silver Vases Pole Competition, June 3-14. The ins, journey and green are all shown in the upper photograph and below is a sketch to more clearly show the holes in detail.

because of its weight that it not possible to a smaller bird or to an insect. The build of the birds contributes to this, for the body is inclined in such a way that it is kept in his air through its momentum on the principle of a kite. The wings, by their motion, serve to maintain the speed, but have really very little lifting to do. The smaller, lighter bird digs out large this momentum, and instead momentum he can route it from one direction to another, by inclining its body against the air. If the wing motion ceases, the bird drops almost immediately. But birds like the owls, the gull, the bald eagle, and others, have such mastery of the air that they may cause their wing action and glide and float for many miles without appreciable hovering.

But the large birds are at another disadvantage with small birds. Their great trouble is in getting started. The fleet of an perhaps have won a wild goose chase at a wild pea—goose from a lake. It requires so much pains-off as pant to fly as fast as the pigeon. The an airplane. Because of their solid explanation of the different way to get construction and to their relatively started is according to weight and the very slow motion of their wings, small birds have little able to to be found in mountains, adopt themselves to all kinds and it is known that if a baseball cut in half of wool are thrown with equal on the earth's surface. But the large bees the baseball will go much faster strong-flying birds are confined gentlemen. So a big bird, must fly swiftly to be can and the vast open spaces, where they can rise and alight with safety. The most wonderful fiber of all birds, is undoubtedly the albatross, but Dr. Clark says that it is kept in the air, not by any effort of its own but by a combination of strong trade and waves. Thus it is exclusively a bird of the windier regions of the oceans. In the land sense the albatross is a pitiable object. He sits on the ground and has only to fly. He is in fact, an aerial sailing vessel, helpless in a calm.

The calm habits of the tropics form an impassable barrier for the albatross, and for the same reason he will not fly any great distance over land. In mountainous regions there are always strong updraughts of air both from the valleys and directly against the winds and the warming action of the sun's rays. It is in these regions therefore, that the soaring habit is developed in birds. Here can find the condors, the great eagles and hawks, and this explains also why they seem generally to be hovering and for an hour at a time do not flap their wings. They are really being carried up and along by these currents of air.

Birds ever in circles, but because they can then more easily spy out the ground beneath them for game, but because only by so doing can they keep within the ascending column of air. It is true that all the soaring birds that they will be seen beating their wings to get back into it. The birds will not do much soaring on cloudy days, but only when the sun is bright and the air warm.

Acrobatic Daddy Fixes Burst-Out Light Bulb

(By Corey Ford)

"Allen Gap! Remember, now, when Daddy pops alle sap, you're supposed to jump off the chair and Daddy will catch you. See him, now."

"Alfred, come here," interrupts his mother, "I want you to fix the broken light bulb that's thrown out, till you, Alfred!"

"Wait a minute, Minnie, can't you? I'm teaching Junior the trick, so he'll be ready when I go up in the air like Daddy, won't you, Junior? What! You don't want to go? Don't be afraid! All ready, now? One—

"Alfred, have you lost your mind? I'm talking about something important. Will you please fix that broken light bulb in the dining room?"

"Minnie, I'm busy. Daddy wants Daddy, "come awake!"

"Who cares about it?"

Sympathy Lacking

"Junior, come to Mummy," says Minnie. "Don't bother off that floor. Where does it hurt? Better, Alfred, you'd explain to whatever it's possible by picking on a little kid to teach him a trouble. Junior doesn't want to learn, but, isn't any reason the whole family should not office trapeze."

"That's right, Minnie, all day dreams, and here I have been slavin' for years to get a home for you to be ashamed, so we could all put on a Family Act together. Come on, child, it's a little over grown dressing—"

"The Six Tumbling Terwilligers."

"If you think for one minute, Alfred Terwilliger, that you're gonna make me do those acrobatic stunts, "I didn't marry you to be tumbling bird."

"Aw, don't get sore, Minnie. All you'd have to do would be to stand backstage, and every time I call for a trick, you'd just pollish your hands on your backside—like this, Minnie, softly, "you'd look swell in tights."

"You think so, Alfred?"

"Think so? Why, you're to be hit of the act. Why, you'd have to walk off stage even in a whole just to get the audience a chance to wink. Why, honey, Minnie, you got more sex appeal than Dolores Del Rio and Myrna Loy rolled into one. Why, Daisy and Violet would turn green with envy. Why, Minnie, you're the most beautiful thing in Spot—I'm coming to Daisy for that—and then for a grand climax you and the kids will form an Aerobatic Pyramid—Ma on Pa, they say—and I'll put a little fing in me hurry all and balance on top—"

"You'll balance on top! A fine husband you're, letting your family support you!"

"Aw, this is only for the sake of the act, Minnie. I got to do something to save the act. The network business is going to the dogs."

"I thought you said last week at the theatrum you brought the network into their feet."

"Sure, I brought them to their feet and on their way to the side door. The Japanese is giving us tough competition these days. And the trained seals is cutting in something terrible, too. I don't see what a trained seal is not that I can't get," he shrugged, malignantly. "Anybody could balance on a rock a hundred times as well as a fish."

Jokes Eliminated

"Why don't you crack a few jokes?"

Write Futuristic Novel And Riches Await You

(By P. G. Wodehouse)

What is the art of writing? Simplicity. When you hold it down, bring down plain statements in an unostentatious way. The man who make the money and get in the public eye is the man who put a new way of saying commonplaces things in advance of their time crude.

The ordinary man, who is not an artist, prefers to describe Jones crossing Forty-second Street, would say: "Jones crossed Forty-second Street." But hand it to the futurist to the hands of the small, and watch them not bury the lead. The futurist would treat it as a trilogy. Vol. I., Jones' childhood, Vol. II., Jones, after he has become famous, comes to New York, Circumstances bring him to Forty-second Street. Vol. III., Jones crosses Forty-second Street."—Results, children, of course, and futurist art examples of dramatic and moving pictures rights.

Authors' Methods

Sir. A. Conan Burgo would have written: "Jones crossed Forty-second under the shrouded or pitch up a paper covered with cipher writing, and Edgar Wallace would have written: Mystery of Forty-second Street on his hands.

Bernard W. Clausbaw, and humorist (an extraordinarily handsome man) would need a deliciously beautiful girl just across the opposite traffic gets you when you try to cudge the street lower twaddle, and they would be content to the street opposite the subway kiosk.

If James entered Forty-second Street under the guidance of Mr. E. Phillips Oppenheim, the traffic cop would turn out to be the Morning Ambassador, whom everybody thought had been blown up by Bolshevists.

Different, you see, in every case. That is the secret. That is why authors have sold bath tubs and are able to afford two eggs for breakfast. I am going to have them, too. For I have invented a new form of literary expression.

My secret is simple. I can't find it even if every lecturer I have there entire full of manuscripts of the new literature in my writing room and I shall have found the secret long before there have appear

I have invented the futurist novel: a complete novel in eight parts.

In these complete, bursting days, if author are to be true to life, they must put far more into their description of everything that goes than they have dreamed of doing authors. The futurist author have realized this, and they make it their aim to put everything into their sentences that they can. It will allow them to cram in. It is the old principle of the Irish stew. Besides producing far more for the money, whenever you put into an Irish stew, or a futurist novel, that their ridiculous also is novels.

And so it is with the futurist school of art. Where the old fashioned artist painted a child playing with a ball, and let it go at that, the futurist now uses the figures of the child and the ball as a basis upon which to build his central work.

Lots of our summer resort, Buffalo Beach, is just one round of excitement after another. On Wednesday evening everybody put on their evening dress, motor boats, canoes, automobiles and horses and started for the dance at the new hall. Youth and beauty reigned supreme, and the light fantastic was tripped to the "two-one hours" as the Scotch-men wrote my. The Mayo Orchestra will remain here all summer and they should find the living good, judging by the rental statistics at their disposal.

The bathing at the beach are fine as a summer here this year is particularly. Perhaps there are more bathers this year than usual, but the water is much warmer. We learned the other day that the Buffalo Beach Bathing Association had spent considerable time and money for her improvements.

MAKING THE WORLD SAFE

Since the Labour of Peace Operates and the Rule is Plain in Preventing Conflict (By Dorothy Apter)

When, in the March issue, we hope high our faith by the assurance that we were fighting to make the world "safe for democracy," we meant that we were struggling to make the world safe for the average man. Problems of politics and economics, we felt, the world is not so sure today as it once was what democracy is, or what value it has brought to the average life. More important than democracy is Man, the common man, working on the street, peace-fanatics, and business men, and the man with the man with the face, the man at the wheel, at the lever, at the helm, the man at the desk, on the farm and in the office.

It is increasingly difficult to make the world safe for the average man. There was a time when the average man knew of war only through the newspapers or the military bands in the streets. The word was used for the professional soldier, but it was his duty and his business to march to the slaughter and danger and to yield up his life if he was ordered; that was all he was paid for. The world was more or less safe for the average man to be sent about his work and left to imagine to yield to the blandishments of the sergeant and take the shilling. This arrangement was not good enough for the Great War. War is not a "Great" War if everyone must be in it, man, woman and child. What a human-type, capacity and power was of the co-operation! The man with the hoe became the man with the rifle, the man with the hoe became the man with the bayonet; the man who whoe became the man at the pick, the average man turned into the soldier, the man in the street became the man in the mist. The world was not safe for any of these any more; neither for those women in the munition factories or the hospitals, or their babies in their cots.

It was for these that the League of Nations came into being. The Covenant of the League of Nations began with the words "In order to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace and security by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, ..." This is another way of saying "In order that the average man may have some measure of security and some hope of living his life serenely and to his own satisfaction and of seeing his own children grow up to complete lives." The conflict of 1914-1918 was called the "war to end war." It is not likely that any war will end war unless it is made impossible, and to the world turns with hope to the League of Nations.

It has been said that one of the purposes of the World War was the establishment of a league of nations. This can scarcely be so, but the establishment of the League of Nations was one of the outcomes of the War. When the armistice was concluded with Germany, it was on the basis of the Fourteen Points of January, 1918, and the fourteenth point was, "A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike."

The Preliminary Peace Conference, therefore, considered the proposals for the creation of a league of nations and declared as resolution that it was "essential to the maintenance of the world settlement." A committee consisting of the representatives of fourteen nations, and made up of some of the most distinguished men of the nations, prepared a project for the formed and revised suggestions from thirteen into League, published to the world other countries, neutral in the war. The draft was revised and the text of the Covenant formally adopted at a session of the Preliminary Peace Conference, on April 28th, 1919. The League of Nations formally came into being on January 10th, 1920, by its ratification of the Treaty of Versailles.

By March, 1920, the membership of the League was forty-one. The original members were the United States and Associated Powers and thirteen neutral states. In each of the years that followed more states joined the League of Nations, so that the League of Nations now has fifty-four members. Russia, Germany, Turkey and Mexico are not members of the League of Nations.

The Covenant under which the associated nations co-operate in the development of their ideas to keep, or make the world, safe, consists of 26 articles. The High Contracting Parties," says the preamble,

"In order to promote international co-operation, and to achieve international peace and security, by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, by the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as the actual rule of conduct among governments,

"And the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another,

"Agree to this Covenant of the League of Nations."

The first article sets forth the original members of the League and defines the terms upon which other states may be admitted. Upon its principles effective guarantees of the sincere intentions to observe its international obligations and to abide by the rules of the League in regard to forcible and armament, may take part in governing votes, dominion or colony may be admitted, after the approval of two-thirds of the A-ssembly. Article One also states that any member may withdraw, but it must give two years' notice and must have fulfilled all its obligations up to the time of withdrawal.

Organization and procedure occupy the next six articles, and the eight deals with the reduction of armaments. It is a highly important article, for the maintenance of the League recognizes that "the maintenance of peace requires the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations." The Council takes the responsibility of formulating plans, subject to revision at least every ten years, for adoption by the Governments, and of advising as to the means of preventing the evils attendant on the private manufacture of munitions and implements of war. Article nine "undertakes to interchange full and frank information as to the extent of their armaments, their military, naval and air programs, and the condition of such of their industries as are adaptable to warlike purposes." The openness is significant of the new spirit that the League has infused in the relations of the world. Most of the inequity of the old diplomacy seems to hide in the cloak of its secrecy. The whole of the work of the Assembly is open to the press and to as many of the general public as can be accommodated, and the Council proceedings are not published.

Under the provisions of the Covenant, any report or threat of war in the interests of the whole League, whether it immediately affects a member or not. The plan of the world in the existing effective guarantees of the sincere intentions to observe its international obligations and to abide by the rules of the League in regard to forcible armament, may take part in governing votes, dominion or colony may be admitted, after the approval of two-thirds of the A-ssembly. Article One also states that any member may withdraw, but it must give two years' notice and must have fulfilled all its obligations up to the time of withdrawal.

THE FORD CAR STEEL SPOKE WHEELS

Greater Strength and Durability

THE Ford Steel Spoke (Drop Center) wheel is an advanced step in engineering and the result of exhaustive experimental tests. It is smart in appearance, extra strong, having a lasting finish, easy to clean and provides a simple method for measuring and demounting the tire without tools and in a fraction of the time previously required.

The steel rods or spokes, ¼" in diameter, are electrically welded to rim and hub shell. The finish is enamel baked on steel. Possessing great resiliency and being one solid piece, these wheels have a steadiness not approached by any other type.

The Ford wheel eliminates loose, squeaking spokes and rims, pinched tubes, chipped or pasting finish, necessity of tire flap, misalignment of tires due to carelessly mounted rims, and a host of other wheel and tire ills formerly encountered. It permits of easy steering and no drumming sound is created by the rods.

There is an enormous amount of careful work necessary to build strength and service into the Ford Steel Spoke wheel, and the results justify the engineering study and skill devoted to this feature of the Ford car.

Faculty Indulges In Exciting Adventures

The Dean of the Faculty, standing at the head of the luncheon table cut a slice of pie, and, reviewing in the following manner.

Stettler.

Dear Sir:

I was reading your paper last week and noticed that you have given considerable space to boosting two men for Councillors for our municipality. You say that they will be able to keep in touch with the rural points. That is a place I intend to not bother because they have been split- ting wood all winter. Now what in the world has splitting wood to do with a village Councillor's work. I have heard that some men can do something and save wood, but I never have yet seen any nothing of splitting wood although most people can say nothing and make speech- es. You say that these two candidates have become planers of these plat forth, anyway which are Messrs. Pow- ers on the backbone a Beer Parlor in connection with the charter. As a representative of the Provincial Government I cannot allow any men to come in and run a beer parlor in connection with the charter. As a representative of the Provincial Legislature.

Bymoor News

Mr. and Mrs. McDougal and son Evan, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael of Hunt Lake this week.

Master Cedric Wade, of Stettler, has been visiting in Bymoor this week, and is now away to Buffalo Lake with the Boy Scouts.

Quite a number of the Bymoor second hors are hauling the winter supply of coal from Anderson Lake just now.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Dawn have returned to Bymoor, and intend turning up their residence here.

Mrs. Glady's Bourne and Miss Annie Mac-orchard were visitors at the Edmonton Exhibition last week.

Don't forget Bymoor Sports Day on July 31st.

Mr. Charles Bennett, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Johnson, motored to Wainwright on Tuesday last to visit friends and to view the damage done by the fire.

The Bymoor Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs left for Buffalo Lake on Thursday morning in charge of Sir Bev. W. J. Anstice.

The hotshot shop has re-opened under new management. Mr. Hodsdley having sold out to Mr. Bradford of Delia.

Mr. Roy Bell's bungalow is almost completed. The Misses Bennett of Gadsby are to do the finishing in a few days.

Miss Elsie Swain is home again from her visit at Mrs. Homer Allen's, Edmonton.

The news of the death of young Fowler Bourne, came as a great shock to this community. Deceased was taken suddenly with the young fellow, having resided in the Wolf Hill district from chil hood. He was a great favorite in society and dances, his singing always making a great hit.

The deepest sympathy of this district goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Bourne in their sad bereavement.

A very disastrous fire occurred at Lac on Friday evening at 9 o'clock p.m. when the roof of the store owned by Messrs Vaughn and John Tate was completely burned. Most of the heavy furniture from the building in the rear of the store occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, was saved.

How the fire started is not known. Mr. Tate had gone to Bymoor for gasoline and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn were away at Banff on their vacation.

Nothing could be saved out of the store as fire burned very rapidly and had made such headway before help arrived from the farms in the vicinity.

A practice game of baseball between Bymoor and Gadsby Lake, took place at Lac on Sunday. The teams were practically the same lineup as most of the regular players did not play.

The cricket match at Bymoor attracted one of the largest crowds. The score ended 17 to 16 in favor of Gough Valley.

The cricket match between Bymoor and Craigmyle ended quite a lot of excitement in the playing by the "rookies." A nice sized crowd turned out to witness the game. It being the first cricket match played in this district ... years. As the Bymoor team had no practice, and it being the first time they had put together the result surprised their opponents. In the first innings Bymoor took 34 runs and Craigmyle 24. Second innings, Craigmyle 74 runs to Bymoor's 64. Bymoor being 12 runs in favor of Craigmyle. The Craigmyle team also concluded Bymoor on giving them such a good game and said it had been a fine practice for them. A return match will take place at Craigmyle in the near future.

Motor Roadsky Rises In England

Motor roadsky have become so active and successful throughout the British Isles that police have been obliged to make new means of curbing their activities.

More than 100 motor rains were reported in London alone during the first half of 1929. The number of attacks increased steadily from six in January to 51 in May. Few of the culprits were arrested.

The bandits not only use automobiles to escape after a robbery. They patrol residential districts in their fast cars, attacking and robbing persons on the sidewalks.

Police admit they are meeting serious difficulties in attempting to solve the problem.

"We have considered the question from every point of view," said a Scotland Yard official, "but in no two sections of the country is it exactly the same.

"The use of spiked mats to stop cars, the use of barrels and cordons of men have been discussed, but there is no generally satisfactory method which can be adopted. To hold up a car after an attack means that many persons have to be blocked, inflicting great hardships on the general public.

"In some localities the bandits do not even by pursuit because all the police forces are not equipped with cars or even motorcycles."

In a recent case a stolen car was driven through three cordons of police who sought to stop it. Three attempts to rob the post office at Uxbridge have been foiled but the gangbank have always managed to escape in motor cars.

GOT UNDER THE SUN

Blond Dark, complex, his lover: "Gosh, boss, it ain't much fun workin' with the thermometer 95 in the shade."

Sweet Employer: "Well, ye darn fool, what's that to you? I'm not ... or civilized one day interests in this and 'em here?"

"orkin' you to work in the shade, am I?"

CALLS THEM ALL

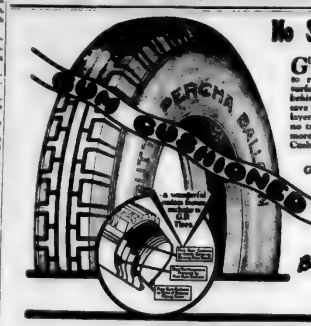
"I don't suppose you keep anything that's new-born, newborn, jay born, do you? the tourist snarled.

"Oh, yes, stranger," the village sage almost responded pleasantly. "Quite a few folks like you come through from the city, and we aim to have everything called for. Have you et a bag or two?"

CAUSE FOR CAUTION

Robinson: "I met my wife in a very funny way. I ran over her in my car and later married her."

Brown: "If everybody had to do that there wouldn't be so much reckless driving!"



No Strain on the Cords

GUM Cushioned Tire construction helps the "GP" tough tire tread to resist the grinding action of road surfaces. There's no breaking down behind the tread—live gum cushions save the cords. No chafing of one layer against another—no bruising and no trouble. These superiors cost no more than ordinary tires. Go to Gum Cushion Tire Stations—they'll show you.

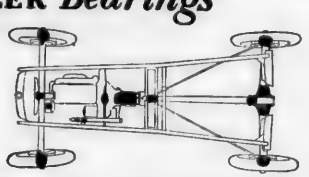
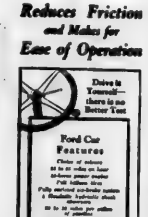
24 Ball and Roller Bearings



Reduces Friction and Makes for Ease of Operation



LAVISH use of ball and roller bearings in the Ford car greatly reduces friction and contributes to easier operation and longer life of the car. Note the amazing ability of the Ford car as compared to any other automobile in its weight class.

Examination of the chassis will at once show the advantages of these bearings. On the rear axle pinion and differential all the tapered roller bearings are in constant contact. Hence there is no chance for unnecessary, pinion and ring gear always being held in proper mesh.

Spiral roller bearings are used in the rear hub because of their large bearing surface and ability to carry heavy loads. One is also used on the drive shaft at the universal joint end, to ensure perfect alignment.

Taper roller bearings in the front wheels have a simple adjustment. Roller thrust bearings on the spindle locks make for easy steering. Two bearings, one above and one below, take up the thrust on the steering worm.

The fan shaft operates on a roller bearing. The generator, the transmission, the connection between the spline and drive shafts, the clutch, the flywheel—all these important parts are made more efficient and enduring through the use of ball and roller bearings.

These bearings form a striking illustration of the engineering skill and care used in building the Ford car.

Letters To The Editor

Lac Beach, Col.,
July 16th, 1929.

To the Editor,
Stettler Independent.

Just a few lines to let you all know we are still on the land of the beautiful southwest. The Minister delivered both of these sermons about as I expected Park on Sunday, July 7th, with the usual good crowd present, with some new and interesting visitors from Hanna about two hundred in all.

Lac Ste. Anne is having its big time this week. Rev. and Lesser, motored down last week, as a visit to Alberta Lake. Many were a visiting that week-end, all enjoying the beach and the water. Mr. Marchant and Mr. Kerr, Stettler, now a summer resort here, and it is rapidly becoming one of the most popular resorts in the province. I could put up much of a stand of packing if it is found of half you are getting, but we hope they will improve with age.

We have two rooms here. Their grounds are about a mile and a half square, and we take in the games every Sunday, if we can. George Hurst, an old time player, who used to play with and manage the Cleveland team, manages one, and a Mr. Teague, another league player and manager, or handles the other one, and neither one is so old that he can't pinch hit when it is close, and a hit will win the game. The teams are about the same class that Stettler and Bothe used to be. The managers are trying out all youngsters for players to send on up to the Coast League, or to the Big Time, and this year there are several Long Beach boys starting in the Big League, that I don't think ever any better than some of the boys from Stettler and Bothe. I will name a few, Pat Malone of the Chicago Cubs; E. Jacobs of the Coast League; Averill of Cleveland and Hal Rhyne of the Red Sox; Herman Bell of the Reds and others. I have watched these all play here in the Bothe Oil team or some other winter league team, and I think that such players as Bennett, Bob Davis, Roy Snyder, Ernie Snyder, Ray Hurst, George Wheeler, Eamon, Howard Ball, Ashley Gamble, Les Murray and others that have played there for years past would in their prime, have done as well if they had been where they could have played for year round, and I have never seen a fielder that could cover more ground than Rayner Lane. His could, except Riky Cagler, and if Rayner had had George Howard at home now he would have made a good batter one or less or broke his neck trying.

J. L. and family have gone on a trip for a week or two down the coast to San Diego, and into Mexico, then over to the Imperial Valley, 250 feet below sea level, then to Idyllwild and over the range to Big Bear Lake, six or seven thousand feet above sea level and then home where we are 66 feet above. In the Imperial Valley, they raise two and three crops a year, the first water melons brought $100 a ton on the cars in the Valley, now they are down to $ 1 a ton, one can't be just guessing to what the market, they will be on the market in November, when they will be high again. One man had tomatoes that have brought him one thousand dollars an acre so far, and he is still picking, but not any for me, it is too hot, gets up to 120 to 130 in the shade, if you find the shade, which you can't, and work, it takes about a gallon and a half of water a day for a man to drink without any whisky with it. J. C. Young has two acres here and intends in opening the third one in a few days. He is doing well.

Every one from that part is well on for as I know at present, and look as if we will have enough to eat most of the time.

Had a little earthquake about here last week. Did not hurt anything in Long Beach, but did some damage in Los Angeles and Whittier, last month. Los Angeles and Whittier, last month, but if it is not that it is a flood, or a drought, or a frost, or a cyclone, or what is the difference.

Just as I was finishing my letter Vic Strankquist stopped to see us, or had to talk with him since the old days in Lac and Edmonton. Stettler will soon be another good citizen in the near future.

On Monday Ernie Everhardy stopped for a few minutes, to sign by before to stay unless he can see something better in a warm climate. We don't want any more of them.

I see by your paper that the disturbance around the world is shrinking fast. Everybody is vice-president of the Firsty Bench Co., his location is Kenmore Ave., Los Angeles.

G. C. BENTLEY.

Postscript—

George said I could have to write a description of my trip, which I will try and do, as it was some trip.

The only trouble was that I took in so much territory that I could not spend much time in any one place.

I landed in Twin Old Pueblo (note the spell). It is not a very nice by any means, but she needs this name with any attention, other than gas and oil, but plenty of that, especially in the summer. There were 3 of us in the party, and running expenses were about seven bucks. We left Long Beach Sunday noon, drove 110 miles to San Diego, stayed a day and a half, and took in Balboa Park, where the 1935 World's Fair was held. They saw some animals, buildings, exhibits and fun. They have one of the finest golf links in the world, and I would like to play a game there with some of the Stettler boys. Then we drove on to Imperial Beach and stayed all night. Next morning we left, covered just mile of mountains and good roads, and part not so good, and the balance was just high rock road. Stopped at Jacumba and had supper and a real shower. Something that rarely happens here on the summer time. This is on the edge of the mountains and is a resort for the Imperial Valley folk. In 41 miles to El Centro (no name) was on the Imperial Valley, about the size of Red Deer, but it's over a hundred feet below sea level, the center of the valley, the most productive area in the U. S. The Valley is about 125 miles long, a half to 50 miles wide. The Salton Sea is about 15 miles wide by a half dozen miles long, and is 216 feet below sea level. The water supply of the Valley is supplied with Colorado River water in ditches, and they have plenty of it with the reservoir system and they are (in a cool day) sure to control for the raising of late crops and they are always getting the big money. We left El Centro at 5 p.m. and drove 30 miles up the Valley before we camped. The general portion of the Valley is the worst kind of desert, and will remain so unless some means not known at present is found to supply water. There is only about 3 acres of habitation on 40 miles. It was plenty warm where we camped, did not need a tent or covers either. It did not cool off much at all night and started getting warm at 8 a.m. We started at 6 a.m. and drove into Coachilla and Indio, and out over the Whitewater grade. It is not steep, but a long one and you always get a lift to 60 mile an hour wind blowing into the Valley, which makes it our hump to maintain speed. We passed through Banning and Beaumont where the Big Cherry Festival is held every Spring, over the Jack Rabbit grade into Belmont and Perris Valley, which the running of the story Kenmore, then up the 5000 foot climb to Idyllwild. We were then within 31 miles of where we started in the morning, and had 112 miles, making more than a half circle. We stayed there 3 days, in the Riverside County Park. Cost 35 cents per car, and included stove, running water, plenty of water, free showers and play grounds for the kiddies. There is plenty of pine timber and fresh air, from Thursday, we drove the 154 miles home through Riverside, Corona, Santa Anna Canyon, Orange and into Long Beach. We were in five different counties and two of them cities.

I do not have any idea of going to the Imperial Valley to live, but it is a wonderful place. The water they are farming are wonderfully productive, and the parts that lack water are wonderfully worthless.

You can publish this or not as you see fit, and if you want you can put it in sections.

I could write several pages more of my experiences and impressions of this trip alone (and I have taken one or two other cases) but writing or telling does not convey anything like the real thing, it takes seeing with one's own eyes, as will close for this time.

DEAR BOOKS

(From the New Republic)

This is the confession of high priest that prevail in the literary business. When we buy a novel for ten cents, we are paying perhaps a dollar as an indemnity to publishers and booksellers, for not buying their other books. We are paying for the twenty five copies of a travel book that are standing unsold on the shelves of the booksellers. We are paying the publisher for ten thousand copies of a widely advertised biography that are now gathering dust in his warehouse, before being remainderred for thirty cents apiece. We are paying for the inefficiency of his advertising. We are paying a bounty for the publication of the good books that don't sell. In short, the transaction reveals that nobody buys, and the millions of authors who are trying wildly to repent themselves. We are paying an enormous price for our novel because the literary business, like the shoe business, is largely a game of chance.

It is a game in which the odds today are rather on the side of the player. Twelve years ago, when the old-fashioned publishers still published books, I am told that the odds were nearly even. A book was going to get to show a loss on a profit and several of the larger firms were on the edge of insolvency. The situation has changed since then; even the "average novel"—if such a thing exists—is a mildly profitable venture and consequently publishers have discovered that they can double their profits merely by issuing twice as many volumes. And as the books of dull books, of mediocre books, of books that are a drain on the bookstores as a whole, has disappointed a moment.

The hole on the Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course, Jasper National Park, Alberta, over which the Canadian and Western Canada Amateur Championships will be played from Aug 19-24 this summer, is more difficult than it seems. The green is well trapped and the long driver is sure to find trouble.

The fact that the Western Canada Amateur also takes place over the course at the same time as the Dominion event, indicates its position as amateur how high their handicap, of lots of competitive play.

Says Jack The Ripper Made A Confession

Some persons having attended our office to solve the mystery of the Marie Celeste, to which we were requested to come extent by the author of a book on the subject, we are encouraged to make the same attempt in the case of "Jack the Ripper," who is also the subject of a recently published book. The author is Leonard Matters, at one time a journalist in Buenos Ayres. His tale is based on a confession made by the noted murderer when he was on his death bed. The confession went under the name of "Sir Stanley," a name and a profession related that he was a physician practising on Portland Place. He had a wealthy wife and a child, and she was also a favourite in the West End. The reader must decide with a shudder if the latest named Matthew Kelly. Within a year he had confessed to seven murders committed. His last love was the wife of a Scotch doctor, Mrs. Mary Jane Kelly. Within a year he had married her. Why he murdered her is not known. His purpose was accomplished and he left London to make a new home in South America.

But why did he murder the five other women who were the previous victims of Jack the Ripper? Mr. Matthew's theory does not strike us as very plausible, but since it is the explanation of the murderer who was undoubtedly a murderer, we must not quarrel with him on this account. The idea is that it took the murderer a long time to find the woman he wanted. He could not very well apply to the police for her address, so he had to get up his information from her associates. Then he stopped in the street and questioned, and after he had done so, he must bind them to secrecy, they would not survive to tell the detectives their stories about a stranger, went searching for Marie, and proceeded to identify him as the previous murderer. A madman can hardly be expected to act with any great degree of method, but it is assumed that he had committed a confidential communication to his friend. It was, of course, passed along in the police, but there does not appear to have been any suspicion. London was horrified to learn that one of the most shocking murders in its records had been committed by a man who had been entrusted with a confidential communication to his friend. That may have been pressed by the murderer's feeling that no amount of the most terrible human punishment would be adequate for his crimes.

It has long been taken for granted that Jack the Ripper was a man with two personalities, a gentlemanly physician and a brutal murderer. The reference to the story was to a [illegible] a man who had several [illegible] of his property, and the most probable one [illegible] Mrs. Kelly. Treasure Islands That Really Exist

True—are islands are not frauds; that is to say, they are really islands in which great quantities of gold and other valuable have been buried for treasure of past centuries and pirates are supposed buried itself in every merchantmen. They are to find on the Cocos coast.

In the course of the [illegible] these century accumulated [illegible] of treasure, and now they had no banks handy, their habit was to bury the stuff until they could use it to advantage.

But a pirate's life was uncertain. So very often the treasure was never recovered by the man who had hidden it, and many such treasures must at time be underrated.

The West Indies, the great [illegible] sea-ground of buccaneers, are full of treasures. There are million buried in the little sandy caves, of which there are many they cannot be counted.

Most of these treasures are lost beyond hope of recovery, but not all. In the year 1902, an American engineer turned up in the Bahamas in a small schooner and anchored off one of the small islands. He was supposed to be after coal. He landed on the [illegible] island with two augers and dined over the [illegible] with a gun while they dug. A pirate sponge fisher saw these [illegible] large holes [illegible] treasure and [illegible] the shoulder. Then up came the engineer with [illegible] sent the fisherman away, and that is the end of the story. No one knows who the American was, where he came from or what he got. But you can draw your own conclusions.

New York's organization of a squad of its undercover detectives to act at large to cope with modern crime as it has wrought in the larger American cities, largely as a result of prohibition. The men have been picked from all parts of the country and only one of them, a man who came from Chicago, is known to the police of the metropolis. They need no uniform, but only one officer in charge of them and the rest are unknown to each other. They will work alone and their identities will be kept secret. Each man is a keen student of human nature and has had a number of years' experience in the detection of crime. They will be known as the "Secret Six" and will have headquarters in the office of Police Commissioner Whalen, but will not report there except in cases of extreme necessity. They will be paid a salary commensurate with their positions. They will be assigned to cases by the commissioner himself and will receive instructions from him only. They will not be known to the police of the city, and will not be known to the public

WE EXPECTED EVERYONE TO WEAR SHORT SKIRTS

Recently Rector Stark has his hair cut every three weeks and the last number was the slightest contrast.

Eighteen years ago, however, the entire male population created a tremendous sensation among the 1,500 Elkin who had recently come to the conclusion long hair and donned the locks of the lower of civilized sights. The custom has since become general among the community, but the ire of Elkin women still suffer many trouble for daring to insult his baptismal glories.

Today Rector Stark is publishing the pastorate's protection campaign in Elkinite and Pamphlet, which purports to be a journal of interpretation on a subject between Love and Canada, thus losing the submission of an audience he learned when fired by come here to a priest to his people, and the Elkinite is the Elkinite is also engaged in writing.

Fifteen years of Rector Stark's life in Canada has been spent in Nanaimo and Ontario, where his experience brought him to the conclusion that he could be of no other advantage. He is still thought as he is. He would be writing with eyes and faces and speaks with facility and hardly any subject. It is his ambition to become a truly Canadian citizen—but Indians are Canadians, and his contributions to the Elkin and Elkinite can be confidently expected to be more keen and by the history of the past twenty years.

Rector Judd—
"The Lord's Counsel."
It is the heavenly line of green.
It is the greatest incentive to godly living.
It is the weighted theme of the Bible.
It is the glorious hope of the Christian.

What is your relation to this event? It is your "usher" out of time into Eternity.

Be Bible strangers and all to the services.

THE OLD FRIEND

(By Chas. McCreary)

When we have a friend we cannot flout
Of friendship old and kind.
Our un-layerous love is our special frame
We love him better
And like an ancient portrait placed in memory
We wonder if we ever grieved
A home beloved and bright—
Till happily there comes one day
Some token we have for years—
A thing that shared our work and play
Affection and Rosin.
With light of understanding smile
That ever stirs the same
He put us back for a sweet while
In our own picture frame.

STOP ME IF YOU'VE HEARD THIS ONE

It was a hot, sultry session in the courts, and the judge was [illegible] other than judicial thoughts.

Finally the lawyer said: "He claims he's the most intractable, poor honor, as he beat her into subjection with a golf club."

"How many strokes?" asked the judge absently.

NEW DOORWAY OF THE ARK

Amazing Movement Shown By Pilgrim Tour Motor Caravan

With acceptance that turned at a speed of over three hundred and fifty miles an hour, and about an edge that leaves enthusiasts and hell-rousers, five of us drove proudly into the Plains of Abraham. Every day some proud new wonder of the air, and here are a few that we saw and got in the course of the next few hours.

A reduced flying hotel, with even more room and comfort than the Graf Zeppelin, is being built in Germany. With accommodation for eighty passengers, the aeroplane will weigh fifty tons and will be four hundred tonnes when any machine yet can navigate.

Work has been already commenced on a hotel six times what is at present the pre-eminent. Some idea of the size of the new machine is obtained when it is learned that the passengers will travel in the wings, which are to be eight feet thick.

A complete steamship was launched first from ship-ship to ship-ship in mid-air recently, flying trials in America. With accommodation for thirty-two passengers, it has been built to comply against the huge new European flying boat.

A GIVE-AWAY

A certain officer was being court-martialled for disorderly behaviour. His first parents and with having been intoxicated on the night.

His chief witness efforts to prove that he was sober, and his behaviour called as a witness, acted loyally to back him up.

"Was Lieutenant Smith quite normal when he returned to his quarters last night?" he was asked.

"Did he give you the usual instructions to wake him for parade?"

"Come, he said: 'Be sure and call me early.'"

"And he gave you any particular reason for that."

"Well—he said because—because he was to be Queen of the May."

ANOTHER STOPPER OVER

She was engaging a new maid, and by way of recommendation rather than explanation, said: "We're Scotch, you know."

"Oh, that's quite all right," said the applicant, reassuringly. "I was once with a Chinese couple."

In many lands motorists insist on TEXACO

Almost everywhere you'll find a familiar sign on the highways—the TEXACO Red Star with the green T.

By motorists all over the world this sign has come to be regarded as a warranty of a quality in gasoline and motor oil that keeps running costs to low levels.

You'll find the reason for that confidence in TEXACO quality the day you first stop and fill up at a TEXACO sign. Make this today.

SOME ANOMALIES OF BRITISH ELECTIONS

(By London Bagpuss)
(Professor of Public Law, Columbia)

Every schoolboy knows that democracy cannot function completely. Thus we cannot, for example, actually govern ourselves. We must elect a parliament, and a ministry to govern us, and a majority in the former to support the latter, or else there is no government at all. Then, again, we cannot, for example, have a Liberal Party cannot function with the country and be at peace at the time of a general election. In 1924, for example, we elected 42 members of the House of Commons, and the Liberal Party, as a party, polled 2,928,000 votes. In the election of 1929 we elected 59 members, and polled 5,308,000 votes. The enormous results of voting in single-member constituencies are almost incredible. The people who surround the result of British elections are very puzzled.

Statistics have been defined as a means of using precise figures, of which one is ignorant. The definition is not inapposite when figures of election are used. One cannot tell why people have voted as they did. It is hazardous, therefore, to use the result of one election as a base for anticipating how ballot will result. It is hardly less hazardous to attempt to explain why an election resulted as it did. The number of candidates and the character of contests influence the chances of results that will be cast of go parties to the strength of parties in the country. For the first time in British electoral history Labor has been a great gainer by reason of the three-cornered contests. Labor candidates—sometimes—have had a far fewer popular votes than the Conservatives, but more seats in the House. Party is an anti-Labor majority of 5,000,000 in the country, but an anti-Labor majority of only 100 members in the House of Commons.

The mechanics of our electoral arrangements are little understood. Suppose, for example, that in 1924, 15 Labor candidates missed being elected by 500 votes each. In this election by the same changes of 5000 votes, properly distributed (i. e., 250 votes in each constituency), might win those seats. Yet against these 5000 votes the Conservatives might be able to point to a net majority of 25,000 or 30,000 votes for 12 of its candidates who were not elected from Conservative strongholds. They with only two candidates in each constituency it is possible for a party polling a majority of the total popular vote to have a decisive majority in the House of Commons. Even if this did not happen the voted strength in constituencies has only an incidental relation to the number of candidates elected.

The problem becomes far more complicated when there are three-cornered fights. In 1924 the Liberals performed only 342 candidates. This year the Liberals contested 514 seats. The Conservatives had the largest number of candidates—591, as compared with 590 in 1924. Labor ran 571 as against 514 in 1924. Communists had 26 candidates as against 6 in the 1924 election. There were 21 Independents in the field. In 1924 there were hardly more than 250 three-cornered fights. In the election this year there were 400 three-cornered and 32 four-cornered fights.

In 1924, 8,000,000 votes cast for the Liberals in contested constituencies secured only 59 seats. The Conservatives secured 258 seats with 7,000,000 votes, and Labor, 4,200,000 votes got 150 seats. Sixteen of the Liberals got in because of pacts with the Conservatives, who agreed not to put forward candidates against them. The second election was needed to find if any, such agreements, as the number of three-and-four-cornered contests clearly showed.

The advocates of proportional representation argue that political parties should elect representatives in proportion to their strength in the country and not because of the haphazard division of that strength in different constituencies or the accident of whether the contest is between two, three or four candidates. The point here, however, is that the number of candidates—1726 for the 615 seats in the House of Commons—made the British election more of a gamble than elections usually are. The Labor Party attempted to get a majority from the component that the Liberals and Conservatives would divide the anti-Labor vote and permit Labor candidates to be successful on comparatively small pluralities.

THE LIBERAL DEBACLE

It is evident that the Liberals so carefully there was not a wide gap between their programme and that of the Labor Party, and that therefore the anti-Conservative vote would be divided. The fact, however, that a number of Liberals—about 50—were returned to Parliament in 1924 by the Conservatives on the understanding that they would support the Labor Party was overlooked by the Liberal managers. In 1924 the Liberals contested 342 seats and polled 2,928,000 votes, or 17.7 per cent. In 1929 they contested 514 seats and polled 5,308,000 votes, or 23.4 per cent. Their percentage of the total vote was reduced by 5.7 per cent., while the Labor vote went up by 3.4 per cent. Remarkably in 1923, in Lancaster, the Liberals contested 9,318

A Typical Result

Plan. St Payment Life; Age at issue, 35; Amount, $1,000.00; Premium, $30.60; Policy issued 1913; Policy paid up 1928 At end of 15 years:

Total profits accumulated	$170.81
Amount required to prepay future premium	127.85
Surplus Profits	$ 42.96

The profits accumulated at end of 15 years were more than sufficient to repay all future premiums. Thus this policy holder, instead of having five more premiums to pay, had a fully paid up policy and $42.96 surplus profits. Paid-up policies continues to receive a dividend every year as long as they remain in force

This is a typical example of what the excellent profits paid by the Great-West Life can do. Profits being paid today are higher than ever before, while the premiums continue at the same low rate.

The visiting elder had found it incumbent upon him to talk seriously with Tammee about his ever increasing sins in strong drink.

Tammee admitted his failing with a solemn shake of the head.

"Do you know what you should do, my son," said the elder. "Every time you feel inclined to go into a public house you should just say to yourself, firmly, 'Get thee behind me, Satan!' Will you try that plan for a week or two?"

Tammee agreed, but the very next week the elder met him coming out of Peggy Mancy's bar. Without waiting for the elder to say anything, Tammee rushed up to him and remarked:

"I've plan eleben week, elder, for a whenever I said the spell, Satan got behind me an' pushed me in!"

ENDANG NEWS

The wood meeting advertised for Thursday evening was postponed indefinitely, as Mr Ken Walker, of Stettler, the personal speaker, found it impossible to get home.

Quite a number from here went to Stettler and Hanna last Thursday to see the aeros moving device working. Ernie Potter, of the Johnson Hotel were t w n in Hanna on business Friday.

The dance in Wahlberg's hall on Friday night, was well attended and all reported a good time. The Chippman Orchestra supplied the music.

The annual picnic of the Endang Women's Institute was held at the picnic grounds just west of town on Thursday afternoon, also was a real success. Most of the business was attended to first, two cakes were sold which were given to the children and after a long program of races of all kinds for all ages, a candy scramble delighted the kiddies, they also received a penny scramble. The ladies' tug-of-war contest caused much excitement and after several ties Miss Elsie Boehlke won from Mrs. Ralph Long who have The different programme contest seemed to so much enjoyed by all, the observers as well as by the contestants.

Tables were set under the trees and simply groaned under their load of good things to eat, and to say the utmost, after all had eaten heartily, any number was passed to every one, and the older the boys were the better they seemed to enjoy it. The picnic was voted the best ever and everyone vowed the wish that the boys of the Institute might buy a fire motor hose for the hall. Possibly where the trees are now make it into a town park for all time.

Over a thousand car loads of people gathered at Clear Lake Sunday afternoon, one to enjoy the beach and the outdoor sports, one to watch a ball game between Hanna and Rowley, which was won by Hanna 5 to 1. There will be a double-header next Sunday after noon Hanna, Rowley and Delia play one. It is a splendid diamond at Clear Lake, but the boat stop is most inadequate, and several windshields are smashed every game, which tends to spoil the day's pleasure. Let's hope that the executive will soon get busy and have the boat stop moved to a more convenient location.

Mrs. Edwards and Robbie are now spending the balance of the holidays in Lacombe with Mr. Chas. Wright.

Miss Retha Hunt is spending a week with her cousin, Fleeta Hunt.

Mr. Mike Shalun has been holidaying in Drumheller, Calgary and Banff, and returned home Tuesday.

H. Wahlberg was in Hanna on business Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Emil Kemmerle bought a Ford Model Sedan from A. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gib Richardson made a trip by motor to St. Paul de Metis last week.

Mr. H. Dahl of Gadsbie has taken charge of the Red Elevator here.

Miss Hazel McLean is visiting with friends in Daapbell, Sask.

Mrs. Hoch entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dave Porter and Dorothy to tea on Thursday.

The thermometer has been showing up around 90 in the shade again for a few more days.

A party of young men consisting of Reginald Hunt, Peat and Henry Dorrance, Jack Roberts and Don Erdal are leaving for Saskatchewan to see if crops and work are any better there.

Several of the local farmers have started cutting wheat, some of it is half enough to fill a basket of it is to be cut loose, for which they are using a box attachment and dumping it in heaps.

Mr. Albert Derr of Hoiliek was in town Monday.

Mr. H. Sweeney spent the week end in Rabbit.

Mr. Fly of the Advance Rowely Co. was in town Tuesday.

Mr. McKenzie of the Crown Lumber Co., Calgary, was in town on business Tuesday.

JURY DRAWN OBLIGING

The woman timidly entered the chamber of commerce office.

"Well," shouted the court tone, "What's your specialty? Let's hear you sing."

The woman hesitated, then quavered, apologized through the first verse of "Annie Laurie."

"Retired!" was the verdict. "You can't sing."

"I never said I could, and now, if you've finished, I'll clean the office, that's what I came for."

FENN NEWS

The sympathies of the entire community are extended to the McCready family of this district, who suffered the loss of their brother, familiarly and affectionately known to everyone as "Billy," on Friday night last. Mr. McCready died in the hospital in Calgary and was brought to Fenn on Monday, the funeral following immediately at Lakeview Cemetery. A large crowd of mourners and friends were present to pay their last respects to this very honored and well-liked member of the Ewing and Fenn communities. Mr. McCready was born in County Cork, Ireland, 55 years ago and he became a settler in British Columbia and three brothers at Fenn, Archie, Alec and Sam. He was for many years a member of the English Church here and was one of its most set ns and enthusiastic members. His ve ce has been missed for he always led the singing, and his quiet work in church matters will be hard to be supplied upon in any emergency. He will be very sadly missed, not only as a member of the community and a good friend to many of us, but as one of the finest workers the church has ever known. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. J. Sparling, Mr. McCready was an example of a real Christian and there are many to assist in the minds of those who knew him that if anyone was privileged to meet his Maker, he was.

A party was held at Ewing Lake on Saturday night last in honor of Frits Berke. A large crowd of young people were present and enjoyed a good lunch completed shortly after midnight.

Mr. Strange paid a flying visit to Lacombe on Sunday afternoon last.

A party of fishermen paid a visit to Buffalo Lake on Sunday last. We understand that Mr. Berke was the only lucky one among them.

Mrs. Reed and family, who have been visiting with Mrs. Dan Wallner and Mrs. W. Price have returned to their home in Calgary.

The last meeting of the U. F. W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Berke and was a successful affair. The members answered the roll call with a recipe and many interesting recipes were given and exchanged by the members. The next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Hanna, takes place on the second Wednesday in September, members to answer roll call with a hint for removing stains. Get busy, members, and look up your stain.

Cutting is now in full swing in this district. Mr. Lee, Legg has put up a large amount of hay. Crops for the most part are turning out better than anticipated.

WEDDINGS

HARRISON—GATLEY

A wedding of unusual interest to the community of Vegreville, took place at high noon on Tuesday, August 13th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clements of Vegreville on the occasion of their golden wedding, when their daughter, Berta Claire Victoria Gatley, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gatley of Victoria, B. C., was united in marriage to Robert W. Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison of Stettler.

The ceremony took place under a beautifully decorated arch on the lawn, Rev. R. E. Irving officiating. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Anita Gordon and the bridegroom was supported by Mr. Gervien Preuss of Wetaskiwin. Little Joyce Clements and Mary Gatley, maids of honor to the bride, were dainty little flower girls. Miss Marion Clements played the wedding march and after the ceremony Mrs. W. T. Clements played on the violin "Al Dorving."

The bride and groom were both recent graduates of the University of Alberta. On returning from their honeymoon at Banff and Lake Louise they will reside at Calgary.

The bridal party of today with the bride and groom of 25 years ago received the guests in the living room which was beautifully decorated in pink and white and the dining room where a buffet lunch was served, was ogher with gold and white.

SMITH—YOUNG

The United Church Manse, Stettler, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday morning, August 15th, at 11:30 o'clock, when Winifred Sarah Young became the bride of Lewis Edwin Smith, both of Stettler, Alberta. Rev. J. G. Goddard officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tydeman and Mr. C. J. Smith witnessed the ceremony. After a short motor honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in the Stettler district.

HIRD—YATES

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church Manse, Stettler, on Thursday afternoon, August 15th, at 4 o'clock, when Florence Yates became the bride of Robert Reid, both of Gadsby, Alberta.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN BUFFALO LAKE ON TUESDAY EVENING

Chaulk in a storm when they were returning from a trip to the island, two men and two boys were drowned and another boy rescued at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday evening.

W. J. Barrell, of Hanna, and his two sons Ernest, aged 11 years and Jack, aged 13 years, and Sidney Steele, aged 22 years, lost their lives. Another lad also a son of W. J. Barrell, was rescued.

The party of five, who were holidaying on the Lake, ventured over to the island in the afternoon in a small boat that was overloaded, and attempted to return to the main land when they saw the storm approaching. They succeeded in getting with in a few rods of the shore when their boat swamped and they were all hurled into the water, where they soon became exhausted and drowned. Harold Barrell, the lad who was rescued managed to cling to the boat until help came.

Up to the time of going to press three bodies still remained in the water not yet found and be located.

OBITUARY

J. A. JACOBSON

The death of J. A. Jacobson, one of Stettler's real old timers took place on Monday, August 19th, at the home of his son Gunnar in Lamerton, B. C., where he had gone in visit about four weeks ago.

The late Mr. Jacobson was born in Waupsen County, Wisconsin, 74 years ago, coming to this district in 1906, and taking up a homestead. He led a very active life, having pioneered in Dakota and Wisconsin as well as here.

He leaves to mourn his loss five sons Conor of Lamberton, B. C., H. C. Jacobson of Lewellen, Idaho, William of Calgary, Theodore and Elmer of Stettler. His wife predeceased him some 17 years ago.

The body arrived at Stettler on Wednesday, and the funeral will be held at 2 p.m. today, Thursday, interment taking place in the Stettler Cemetery.

BYEMOOR NEWS

We are sorry to report that Mr. Martin Fraser, a former living south of here, is seriously ill in Hanna Hospital.

Fourteen members of the Byemoor branch of the Women's Institute attended the Constituency Convention held in Big Valley last Wednesday, under the auspices of the Scollard W. I.

Great praise is due to the ladies of Redleaf for the splendid luncheon served by them and also for the welcome given to visiting brothers.

The musical numbers and songs interspersed with the regular business of the afternoon programme was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by all. Community singing proved a good feature.

All the ladies were home feeling they had had a very enjoyable day.

Nearly all the farmers have finished haying and are harvesting their crops. There are four new combines reported in this district.

Mr. Ryan of the hotel has opened up his coal mine near Hoiliek and is busy hauling coal.

Mr. W. L. Davis of the Bank of Montreal staff, Stettler, has been transferred to the Byemoor branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mellon and children of Edmonton, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ball over Sunday. Mrs. Mellon is one of Mrs. Brown's nieces from Miss Ruth Frizzell.

Donald Ball is up and around once more after a very severe attack of the quinsy.

Mrs. Phil Harrington returned on Saturday after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. H. Kelly at Rosebud. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Bradley of Calgary.

The Misses Irene and Annie Armstrong are steadily gaining in health at present.

Mr. Wenzel has purchased a Twin City tractor.

Mrs. Beasley, the Misses Eva and Doris Beasley and Miss Ruth Bellamy have left on Monday for Chen. Cal. They are motoring down. Mr. Beasley accompanied the return motor between Hanna and Rowley at Clear Lake on Sunday.

The Byemoor baseball boys picked up a team and played Gopher Head here on the latter's diamond on Sunday last. Most of the Byemoor regular players were at Clear Lake. The game was unsports in favor of Gopher Head and a lot of controversy took place over the decision.

GARAGE FOR WOMEN AUTOISTS

A garage for the sole use of women autoists has just been adopted by women in London. A club devoted to feminine needs is a feature. Botha News

Hay farmers are cutting a bond. The yield is hard to estimate as most of it is spotted. In places the grain is good, with heavy well-filled heads, while in other places there is scarcely anything.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Groves have moved to Calmont where Mr. Groves is in charge of an elevator.

Mr. George Bauer exported to spring in Dawson City on Saturday. School opens there on the 19th. While he wasn't entirely sure, he rather expected to again teach the 7th and 8th grades.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Jackson will be interested in learning that they recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hunter. They were en route to Bevies where Mr. Jackson is in charge of the work on the section. His health continues to improve.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Underwood entertained a large number of young people on Friday evening, August 9th, in honor of Wayne's birthday. The evening slipped quickly by in games and dancing. The music was furnished by Mr. Fisk and E. Lamerton on the violin, while Mr. Underwood acted as accompanist. Mrs. Underwood served a delicious lunch about midnight after which dancing was resumed and continued until Mr. Fisk and Mr. Lamerton positively refused to stay any longer.

The young folks left for their various homes thanking Mr. and Mrs. Underwood for one of the pleasantest evenings of the entire summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKim and family of Edmonton, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ball over Sunday. Mrs. McKim is a sister of Mrs. Brown's and Mrs. Ball's.

Mrs. French returned to her home in Lacombe on Friday after spending several days at the Payne home.

Word has recently been received of Arnold Hanson's marriage, but we have not learned either the date or the ladies' name.

Helen and Hazel Cunningham spent last week in Prevost at the McLachlin home. Mr. Dan Easley and Miss Marion McLachlin motored down on Saturday, bringing the girls home, but returned to Edmonton on Sunday. Miss McLachlin will return to her home in Prevost while Mr. Easley started on his long motor trip to Blythe in the Peace River.

A dance was held at Zenith on Monday evening. A good crowd turned out and a pleasant evening was enjoyed. The music was furnished by Kemp's Orchestra.

SPARKPLUG BOYD AND PHIL BEFUS ARE READY FOR COMING BATTLE

Sparkplug Boyd of Seattle, who will meet Phil Befus on Saturday night in the head line bout of the Pastc card, being staged in the Stettler Arena, arrived in town on Wednesday afternoon and worked out in the evening with Eddie Edwards, who meets Geo. Garrett of Montreal in the semi-windup. Boyd made a very favorable impression on the fans who were present to see him in his stunts.

Befus also had his usual work out and was going at top speed, showing he has worked hard to get himself in proper condition for this scrap that means so much for him.

Both fighters are fast, have hitters and this should provide the greatest bout ever staged here. The winner of this bout will meet Frank Farmer, the veteran scrapper of Tacoma, at Stettler in the near future.

As a number of requests have been made to Promoter Burns, the preliminaries will not start until 9:45, giving everybody a chance to attend. The doors will open at 9:15. The ring is also being lowered so as to give a better view. The ringside seats have been reduced to $1.00, making the prices of admission the lowest that has ever been charged here for a professional bout. This is by way of an experiment and to give everyone a chance to get a reserved seat.

The semi-final should prove almost as good as the main clash, as is Geo. Squabia.

Garrett of Montreal, Eddie Edwards of Calgary, will be meeting a worthy opponent. Garrett fought a good draw with Don Johnter in Calgary, a few weeks ago. Dream who was originally matched with Edwards has left for Vulcan where he is employed and refused to come here.

Howard Kirk of Stettler, has been working out with Befus and is in good shape for his bout with Alex Farmer of Newcastle.

Scotty Wilson and Fred Sellas of Didsbury will supply the fireworks in another good preliminary.

Fred Slemp of Stettler, and Young Farmer of Drumheller, will stage the curtain raiser.

A week-looking little man called in a pleasant, welcome aspect for advice as to how to strengthen his arm muscles. The expert gave him a sheet of exercises, and, as he pocketed his fee, he said: "All those exercises for increased strength must be done in front of the open window."

The little man looked doubtful. "That's rather difficult," he said, "you see, that's just it. I want the increased strength first so that I can open the window!"—Bubbles and Squeaks.

Beverages For Vacation Time

(By Betty Baxter)

Do you ever have the pleasings of a little son or daughter and friends a cooling drink in the middle of the afternoon? It may be a lemonade, or lemonade, a fruit punch, an egg nog, a ginger ale punch, a mint julep or any one of the dozens of famous summer beverages. Children have their favorites, but almost any cooling drink will bring smiles to their faces at any time—and particularly during the strenuous hot days of vacation.

There is much more of real value in a little treat of this kind than many mothers appreciate. The fruit juice in the drink furnishes much that is beneficial in the line of minerals and salts. The liquid itself takes the place of that lost through perspiration. The sugar used in a sweetening agent gives greater zest to the fruit—so, on account it is a highly concentrated source of human energy. It helps to provide the vim, vigor and vitality that make children the happiest rosy-cheeked little beings they are.

So furnish the kiddies with plenty of cooling drinks this summer—and with you but cooked so that they will be tempted — and furnish the adults with the same—more substantial beverages as you see fit. Tinkling glasses of ice fit more appropriately into the south drink, for adults are more prone to sip their tastes slowly. For children it is usually well to not the beverage aside to need the ice, rather than to serve it with it.

In the car, at the picnic ground—or while hiking or when on a camping trip, fruit drinks are very desirable. They may be carried from home in a thermos bottle, or some on the spot—especially one is near the water or open. When well sweetened they serve as energizing foods as well as thirst-quenching beverages. Here is a trio that will prove particularly pleasing:—

Winter Rye As A Forage Crop

As a grain producer winter rye is open to the grave drawback that it is a prominent substitute for wheat, unfortunately impurity in crops of other cereals particularly wheat. This objection has little force where the crop is grown for hay or pasture.

The peculiar adaptability of rye for yielding late autumn and early spring pasture, it may also be grown for this purpose in the fall and seeded with rape or rape and rape mixture. Used in this way, rye will serve in helping to close the land.

A mixture of oats and winter rye makes good hog pasture, the oats providing the bulk of the early pasture while the rye comes to the support later on.

Where both rather than quality is the prime object, winter rye may be pastured to a hay crop. If cut soon as it heads out the quality will be high. In a number of cases this crop has known horses to perish when rye hay at flood has afterwards to change their minds and eat it well, leaving quite considerably open it.

HOME CANNING DON'TS

Don't fail to test the jars with new rubbers before canning.

Don't try, at first, to can vegetables in a boiling water bath in a cellar. Use the pressure cooker for the earlier canning.

Don't use old rubbers. It is cheaper to buy new rubbers than to lose your vegetables.

Don't try to use a wire rubber on a screw-top jar. The wire ruptures the spring top jar, and the rubber removes the screw-top.

Don't shorten the time of sterilization.

Don't fail to seal jars tightly the first time. Remember that the sealing is adjusted to allow good pressure on screw-top jars, and that the screw-top cans not clip on jars.

Don't let the heat down so that the water fail to boil. Keep it jumping.

Don't use a doubtful rubber for fruit canning. Put some away hoping to use it for jam, but if you are not sure throw it away.

Don't can during the rush to wipe jars and rubbers. Do it when you have time.

Don't try to can vegetables in the open kettle. Use a cooker.

Don't use old rubbers. It is cheaper to buy new rubbers than to lose your vegetables.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

Substantial advances have been made in all departments during the year. . . .

The total net income for the year exceeded one hundred million dollars. . . .

The strength and resources of the Company have been further augmented . . . .

The high earning power of the Company's investments has been again demonstrated. The net rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets, after fully providing for investment expenses, was 6.47 per cent. This gratifying result has been made possible by the skilful investment and stock policy upon which the Company's business is founded.

The wisdom of the investment policy which has been consistently followed in past years, in favouring long term bonds and the stocks of outstanding and very carefully selected corporations, has been once more demonstrated. The appraisal of our securities shows that the excess of market values over cost increased during the year by $19,235,599.99. In addition, a net profit of $9,020,513.39 accrued from the redemption or sale of securities which had risen to high premiums.

The quality of the investments listed in the assets is tested by the fact that on both bonds and preferred stocks not one dollar, due either as interest or dividend, is in arrear for even one day, while the dividends accruing to common stocks are goodly in excess of the dividends payable on the same stocks at the time of purchase.

The profits earned during the year amounted to $36,511,929.67 from which the following appropriations have been made:

$5,000,000 has been deducted from the market value of our securities as a further provision against possible future fluctuations, increasing the amount so set aside to $30,000,000.

$1,500,000 has been added to the account to provide for unforeseen contingencies, which now stands at $11,500,000.

$1,000,000 has been written off the Company's Head Office building and other properties.

$300,000 has been set aside to provide for the greater longevity of annuitants, bringing the total provision under this heading to $2,000,000

$30,000 has been set aside to provide for claims in respect of total disability on pot unexpected

$11,090,056.61 has been paid or allotted as profits to policyholders during the year. In addition, $6,305,571.00 has been contingently allotted to deferred dividend policies issued prior to 1911, and to two year distribution policies, to provide for profits earned but not yet payable.

After making these deductions and allocations, $11,269,130.99 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over all liabilities, contingency account and capital stock to $45,280,070.11

Your Directors are gratified to announce, for the eighth successive year, a substantial increase in the value of profits to be distributed to participating policyholders during the ensuing year.

Round the Country

What you do, what you say, your attitudes or choice of phrase when you face a crowder or chance meeting, your demeanor and good sort of your community.

Other people look to you for an example of you do not speak well of your community, if you do not do some thing that the community admires, it will do likewise.

No city, town, village or hamlet can expect to become a better, more living community, more desirable in which to live, work, play and prosper, unless everyone does a little something. It can't necessary to spend much—or nothing—to make a community better. Get in the spirit of your town that you are doing something that will help it, and your feet on what others say and what others fail to do that town down.

Get community-minded! It is good business, and plain, every-day, common sense.

SILVERS JOBES LAW PROVES A BOOMERANG

When the history of the boomin ness in the thirty decade of the twentieth century is being compiled we believe that more than a paragraph will be devoted to a couple of incidents that occurred in New York city the other day. They will be given more prominence, we suspect, than the notable speech of President Hoover, upon his inauguration, which was being delivered about the same time that the Governor and Mayor Hoover were being decorated not guilty of having violated the Volstead law. Many think that the ringing platitudes of the president's speech will be forgotten in the attitude of the average urban dweller to that particular law which is known as the eighteenth amendment to the prohibition law. These same women, as probably all newspapers will be aware, are backbones of fashionable night clubs, where the so-called bootleg liquor and beer are visiting the city, can spend a couple of hundred dollars in liquor in the course of an evening and be greeted by Texas with the words, "hello, Sucker."

The evidence put rested in a federal court that these young women had been duped and swindled it was so complete as it could be. Their performances on the witness stand were at least as reprehensible as the performances of Assassins and Baptists. The presiding attorney said that if Texas was acquitted she would be given a letter that she could hang up in her club, the Baton Rouge. But she was acquitted. The verdict was hailed by everybody present, except the juries and the prosecuting attorney, giving the "little girl a big hand." Responding to him Texas called them "suckers" and said that the word we used was to be understood as a term of endearment. But the prosecutor was a darling and promised that she would give him a job as her personal counsel when she should be discharged by the department of justice. She hinted the prosecutor waved her hand to the spectators and the cameras clicked and everybody went to the basement of celebrating the sale of liquor in her club. The Hoover trial was practically a repetition of the Gaimore case.

Here Mr. Hoover has said that the best way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it. New York juries have refused to convict persons who have violated the law, and in England a century or so ago it was the custom to hang a number of thieves every time, for example, a sheep stealing. Not very many sheep stealers were executed for this crime at a time when the laws of England were made almost exclusively by those who had sheep that might be stolen. But the big mass feeling of the public was against this tyranny long before the objectionable law was repealed. It was reflected in the refusal of juries to convict a man for violating a law he neither what the evidence might be the jury, being the sole judge of facts, refused to find the prisoner guilty. The purpose, in enacting the law, was to protect the public from the evil effects of liquor, but they chose that rather than the greater evil of compelling its forbidden use. The same thought has been expressed in other words by the Hoover commission, when they recommended the modification of the law so that beer and wine should be permitted.

Silvers Jobes law is a boomerang. It has proved to be a boomerang in the case of the Texas Guinan and Helen Morgan cases. It is a boomerang in the case of the Hoover commission. It is a boomerang in the case of the Hoover speech. It is a boomerang in the case of the Hoover administration. It is a boomerang in the case of the Republican party. PLANE IN FREAK ACCIDENT

Surface Boats Suffer in Holding Landing At Roosevelt Field

When an aeroplane and a steam roller collided at Roosevelt Field Mineola, N. Y., the accident refused to be classified.

The pilot, Lieutenant Commander Jame Riddle, piloting a small plane, which belongs to friends, was riding as passengers, chums for his holiday a part of the field which is being levelled off and on which two steam rollers were at work, hidden from the air by the cloud of dust they raised.

The descending plane took off the smoke stack of one of the rollers and bowled the operator, A. C. Medlocal, from his seat, breaking his shoulder. The plane crashed, tearing off the left wing, and otherwise damaging itself beyond repair, but Riddle and his passengers escaped without injury.

PLANT GROWS LEAVES AFTER HAVING "SLED"

Engineer Widowed Follows to Pilmoor Grave

After "dying" of from 15 to 20 minutes, a plant recently developed in Germany, professor now knows, will be sensitive. Is it then, if the leaves are touched, or a match burned near them. They immediately wither and fall off. In about a quarter of an hour after the withered leaves have fallen off, new ones grow out. The plant is a member of the unicorn family. It grows in great quantities in India, where it is gathered and sold for commercial purposes. The professor says are said to have a high medicinal value in healing burns.

Man Who Destroyed Zeppelin Menace

Only those who lived in London during the war know the terror and devastation caused by the Zeppelin raids. The government, for reasons that seemed proper, minimized the activities of the German ballonets and we in Canada might properly have supposed that not a dozen people had been killed or a thousand pounds' worth of property destroyed. The truth is that for a time the Zeppelins were as great a terror in London as the submarine were to merchant shipping. One reason they were permitted to run was that the military authorities had devised no weapon to use against them. Had this weapon not been devised eventually most of London might have been laid in waste. The British admiralty has now permitted the story to be told of how the invention came about and in Mark Cullen's Mark Becker who was in London in the Zeppelin season and worked on the problem of destroying the airships, sets forth the dramatic tale. He here is John Pennyfeather, a man we suppose, who few readers have ever heard of.

Mr. Barr explained something which we suppose has puzzled most of us who have thought of the Zeppelins as simply one large gas bag. Why, we wondered, would not a single bullet cause it? Read from a pointed, puncture the bag and let out the gas? How was it that even the Zeppelin, with almost runaway a hair, could take a whole belt of machine gun bullets in her vast body? Well, the point is that the Zeppelin was not a single balloon but a hollow compound of perhaps 18 separate balloonettes or cells(?) compartments. It can then be understood how one Zeppelin received no fewer than 2,000 pierced holes, but calmly proceeded with her work unsafely returned home the leakage of gas having been negligible. Ordinary bullets were useless. Then tracer bullets were used. They, too, failed, because if their pony flame lived through the time of flight in the Zeppelin, they were too weak to ignite the hydrogen at the section of the bag where it could mix with oxygen. The flame bullets slipped through like hot and were snuffed out by the enclosed hydrogen.

A BEAUTIFUL HOLE

No. 11, Pyramid—395 yards, Par 4.

For the golfer who can carry the liver-shaped lumber in the foreground, this hole is one of the very few which provide a breathtaking view. Pyramid Mountain, Jasper Park, Lake Pyramid, Jasper National Park, Alberta, over which the Canadian and Western Canada Airways machines pass daily, is in the background.

As the Western Canada tournament is co-incident with the Dominion links event, the course of many of the competitors will be viewed by thousands.

The photograph and the panel show the hole in detail with the good-ages for both sexes. Tournament play takes place from No. 1 (shown-Monday) tee.

Now and then a lucky hit might cripple one of the airships, but this was a mere chance. What was wanted was a bullet which would pierce the various skins of the Zeppelin and then fire to the gas inside. Then it was a difficult problem may be inferred from the fact that the Zeppelins sailed boldly over London night after night, those on board feeling no concern as to danger from the machines from. The invention home was hurriedly organized with instructions to solve the problem and to listen carefully to every suggestion made from the rank and file of civilian crank. Three hundred men of every sort were speedily put to work, among them being Mr. Barr, who worked in partnership with Prof. Vernon Boys.

Experiments had been made by Pennyvy who had a shop beside and a little back yard. If Pennyvy had not been an unusually determined man he never would have succeeded, for when he went to the lot he ultimately to explain his idea it was necessary not to him that it was actually impossible, and it impossibility was scientifically demonstrated to him.

His loss us: to use his own words—to put a "pinch of fulminate of mercury of the machine gun bullets." He explained that he had fired such bullet into a brick wall and they blew the bricks apart. Then the expert said "That's your answer, Pennyvy. Dynamite will explode that way, but not if it catches the soft, stretched silk of a Zeppelin bag. We know all about dynamite, it won't ignite the Zeppelin gas because it just doesn't behave that way. The very idea of dynamite—making anything explode by sending it up in powdered ignorance, which is an infernal mix—makes it certain that the worst idea of all is to imagine that dynamite in a small bullet's name can light the gas. You see, Pennyvy, the nitroglycerine is very accurately and distributed through the brashes mixture) man that it loses its dangerous habit of going off at a feather's touch."

Pennyvy was duly impressed, but he went home and after another experiment, returned and said that he had fired his bullet through a silk handkerchief which had been wholly consumed. Incredulous, the experts hastened to see the demonstration. It was so. Pennyvy had said. What he had stumbled on was a new application of the principle of incendiary, whereby in its flight through the air the heavy industrial earth was set back while in front was squeezed out a thin spray of pure nitroglycerine. It was with Pennyvy's bullets that Lord Robinson brought down in flames the first Zeppelin on English soil. For this he received the Victoria Cross. Another big ship was similarly destroyed. Then came the great Stanley in the L-31, flying at a new height of 14,000 feet. So too was brought down dead, his ship a charred ruin. This was really the end though a year later in October, 1917, Germany sent over 12 Zeppelins flying at 18,000 feet. But they encountered a worse enemy than Pennyvy's bullets, a 40-mile gale. Only five of them ever returned to Germany. That was the last of the Zeppelins.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

Fall wheat is threshing 30 to 35 bu per acre in the north. Yield of barley on cut-over lands will be heavy this year and the straw is short. An exceptionally heavy yield of oats and a light crop of peas is first-class and corn has made good progress lately and a fair crop is anticipated. Root crops are making progress and require more rain and damage from the cut worm has been extensive in certain districts. Winter apples are a splendid crop and peaches will be light owing to cold part. Small fruits are below average. Pastures are in need of rain and the success of the second crop of hay depends on sufficient moisture.

MARITIME PROVINCES

Local growing and haying conditions have prevented but rain is now required. Prospects are favorable in Nova Scotia. Prince Edward Island: Grass pasture continues fair to good. New Brunswick reported as continuing to show good or with Apples are rating well. Early potatoes are also above average crop as expected.

PROVINCE BRITISH COLUMBIA

Haying operations are now general at the Coast. Good crops being secured in the interior grain crops are only 50 per cent. of average. Pastures are much poorer and present irrigated lands are yielding 100 per cent. of average. Apples are reported to yield 85 per cent. to 90 per cent with quality poor., pears, 85 per cent., stone fruits, 80 per cent.; hops 100 per cent. Pasturage is drying up rapidly.

"In Selling Position"

Alberta Wheat Pool members should appreciate what it means to the Central Selling Agency to have Pool wheat in "a selling position."

To make the best sales Pool wheat should be in a position where it is instantly available, and where long and troublesome delays are not incurred.

When Pool wheat is in Pool elevators the Selling Agency can depend upon it being directed wherever it is wanted. For that reason, if for no other, Pool wheat should be delivered to Pool elevators.

Besides this, Pool elevators give Pool members an assurance of fair treatment to an extent never known in the days when there was no Wheat Pool.

You can best aid your Selling Agency and your own elevator system by delivering your wheat to Pool elevators.

Bank Of Montreal Crop Report

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The Branch Managers have supplied the following information of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned:—

GENERAL

Crops in the Three Provinces have matured rapidly and wheat cutting is now general, with a fair yield from summerfallow and breaking, but other crops are suffering from continued need for harvesting. In Quebec Province conditions continue favorable with prospects for a good average crop. In Ontario harvesting operations are proceeding satisfactorily with favorable weather continues. In the Maritime Provinces a hay crop estimated at 75 per cent. below average has been harvested in excellent condition. In British Columbia hot dry weather prevails and rain is badly needed. Details follow:—

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

ALBERTA—Western Area: In the south sometimes cutting favourable and fair crops are expected in the east. Fire run and cooler weather will help fodder crops and fill wheat on many summerfallow and breaking from which fair to small yields are expected, but a little late for other grains. In the south centre yields are expected, Upper levels and hay on irrigated land continue satisfactory. Northeastern Area: Cooler weather and rain will produce some good feed and help fill wheat on summerfallow and breaking from which a small yield is expected. Other crops are failures. Southeastern Area: Threshing has commenced with first returns showing yields of coarse lumbers downwards off summerfallow and breaking. Other crops are failures. SASKATCHEWAN—Northern Area: Recent weather conditions over a large part of this area have hampered prospects, although yields will be below average. Southern Area: Crops on summerfallow appear to have withstood the prolonged drought fairly well, and approximately a half crop is expected as well filled heads. MANITOBA—Prairie-wide rains during the week have been of great benefit to crops which now well advanced in most sections. Wheat on summerfallow should yield a fair to average crop. Crops on fall and spring plowing are poor, early crops of barley are fair in some sections but poor generally. Oats over the whole province are very poor.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

FARM NEWS

WINTER BULLETIN FOR FALL FOOD

As the result of experiments it has been found that there is little difference between shock and outdoor silage for fall pigs. Expensive buildings are not absolutely necessary therefore advancement ordinary silos, well covered over with straw or a tarp pole, will be found quite satisfactory. To obtain best results with fall pigs the more should have access to pasture, preferably late oats or Rape and fall rye sown towards the latter end of June make excellent pasture for young pigs at summer's end.

Experimental evidence at Indian Head also indicates that August and September are the best months to have fall pigs farrowed, therefore, it is important in the production of two litter per year to plan matings accordingly. To insure best results the spring litters should be farrowed in March or early April to permit the breeding of sows for early fall farrowing.

During the fall and winter of 1928-1929, twenty-six pigs were fed equally into three lots. Seven were retained in a comfortable pigpen; seven were scattered in straw-covered cabins outside, and the remaining seven were placed in a run with a straw pile for shelter. These pigs were fed the same ration throughout the one hundred and eighteen days on trial. At the conclusion of the trial the lot housed in the pigpen had made an average gain of 1.3 pounds per day. The lot in the straw covered cabins made an average gain of 0.99 pounds per day and the lot allowed to run at the straw pile showed an average gain of 1.06 pounds per day.

It is obvious from the results at Indian Head, which cover a period of years, that fall litters (August and September) can be housed and fed quite economically in outside shelters. The main consideration is to keep sleeping quarters clean, dry, well bedded and free from unnecessary drafts.

C. P. R. Crop Report

Winnipeg, Man., August 19th—Most harvest weather was experienced in the west during the past week, reports the Canadian Pacific Agricultural Department this morning. Light to heavy showers occurred in various parts and were welcomed for late sown grains and pasture but were of no advantage where grain is ripe. Cutting of coarse grains has been in full swing almost everywhere during the week, and wheat is ready and in the central and southern parts of the province and will be general within a day or two with present weather conditions. The frequent showers and cool nights appear to have benefitted the crop, and while the bonds are small and inferior in many areas; goods on summerfallow has filled unexpectedly well and a little better yield than previously announced is hoped for. The crop, however, is a spotty one. Southeastern area has much better prospects than stubble and fall sod sowing pleased land, which shows the wisdom of former cultivation. Rye threshing has been done at scattered points with yields ranging from twelve to thirty bushels to the acre. Odd wheat threshing has been carried on as well as combining with variable outturns of from five to thirty bushels to the acre, one-long two, three, four and five. Different contributions and barley utilized on blisters to catch the short grass and extensive use of binders and combines is indicated by recent sales in various districts. Some damage from hail is reported, being severe in some areas of the north and east of Calgary

Mishaps Blamed On Poor Upkeep

A study to check the growing number of automobile accidents, due to break-down or collapse of vehicles is to be undertaken by motorists representing more than a score of motoring organizations by Robert P. Lamont secretary of commerce.

Lack of care in maintaining cars in safe condition is the principal cause of accidents, he declared, and not defective construction or faulty workmanship, adding: "Accidents are caused by the driver, not by the car."

The committee was appointed by President Coolidge at the request of the American Automobile association.

HEIRS OF CANADIAN MAY FACE LAWSUITS

Painter have been attempting to find Miss Ellen Ward, a present defendant, in which he was shown to have executed deeds on "Red." But, as there was no proof that Scarlet had addresses from as "Ben," he did not make out a very good case. When Wee died it was found that the estate has dwindled to $1,000,000 from which it was inferred that Walker had settled privately many of the claims upon the fortune; he has not suffered from Scarlets. That a considerable sum could have been thus distributed is indicated by the fact that Scarlet at once began to find the world 300 relatives who suddenly felt a desire to recover something less than they expected.

James J. Corbett is an exception. He is a shrewd man, but he continues to work for a living, and is no longer rich. Jack Dempsey, Beth, the sporting a pure playing ball, and as much more time after seasons, was about broke two or three years ago. He is saving now and has built up a tremendous income will keep him in comfort when his playing days are over. Walter Johnson, the pitcher, is said to earn as much as $60,000 a year. Baseball players are always the easy over opponents of other sports, in that after they are through with professional performances, they can always get profitable jobs as club managers. There are many golf professionals, whose names are unknown to the general public, who earn $12,000 to $15,000 a year as instructors, and they can continue to work at their profession long after the days of their activity have passed. It has been the golf and supporting instructors, a profession-golfer can earn comfortable money at the age of seventy.

WANT NIGHT AIR SERVICE

Demand From Hamburg, Germany, To Be Included In Present Plans.

Hamburg, Germany, is demanding that it be included in the present plans for night flying service soon to cover all Europe. The promoters of the service say that the favorable position of the city with its day service does not necessitate it having a place in the initial flights. While Hamburg authorities admit this they contend that the importance of their city as a commercial centre demands that it should be included. They point out that Hamburg is the junction for air service from Scandinavian countries and it should at least have night service connection with Berlin and Cologne via Bremen.

TURNER VALLEY OIL

Production and Revenue Shows In Increasing Number.

The Turner Valley oil field in Alberta keeps on consistently significant and its production and revenue are steadily increasing. A monthly production has been recorded of nearly 100,000 cubic metres of the year. In June 1924 there was a total of 30,500 barrels of crude oil produced, valued at $154,000 and in June of the present year 96,215 barrels were produced, worth $1,540,000. The expectation is for fully 1,000,000 barrels in July which promises a revenue for the month of over $600,000.

Cartoonist Famed As Slang Creator

"Ted," the famous cartoonist, whose name was Thomas Aloysius Dorgan, has passed away. He drew the Ted Dorgan papers, for which he had work. Then he began to draw "Ted" in a special more difficult to replace him than the original. Many other observers in Arthur Brisbane, his discoverer. Gilbert Seldes, concurred him with Bing Crosby and Irvin S. Cobb in the New Republic. A sardonic irony was at the heart of this genius who was generally rated as a mere wisecracker. His drawings were from the life but the people whom he lampooned were to ignorance of the fact and bought heavily in-to his pictures, which made observers of themselves with becoming blushes. They knew that someone somewhere renders magnificent with his work, for we believe it has been published in the Bee, if we are not mistaken. "Indoor Sports" was privilege, his most characteristic. It dealt with a couple of central furor- making passages among themselves in a restaurant or a bathe show, while observers in the background, made the humorous comment. "It's Not Barry" an

"Judge Rummy," the latter respected of the Ted work, were notable contributions to current newspaper humor.

But to those who do not know Ted we shall introduce him, he might say himself, as the author of such phrases as "Tee, we have no bananas," "23 Skidoo," "Nobody Home," "Solid Ivory," "Ish Kabibble," "I'll be dammed, ye hot your dog!", "You tell 'em", "You said it"; and "Applesauce" and "The first hundred years are the hardest." He is also credited with the invention of the phrase "Line, Irving Berlin's famous Sterns and Brolls, "Dumb Dora Nooks Nat Goldstein's "Ain't it the truth?" and Pantages. It was Ted who first coined the word "Yes," a synonym thought when the assistant at any taking other than "Yes." The Pyramids of the Prairies

The Pyramids of Egypt were built for the glory of ruling dynasties by toiling myriads of slaves and with wealth wrung from nearly tax-paying citizens. Generations after generations of desperate toil with prostitutes tools built these gigantic monuments, the pride of a ruling class.

The Wheat Pool farmers of Western Canada are building an infinitely more serviceable monument—a great system of elevators owned by themselves and operated for their protection and benefit. By means of an annual contribution of two cents for each bushel of wheat the Pool members of Alberta have provided over $2,000,000 dollars for the construction of their elevator utilities. Bound together by the ties of co-operation these Pool farmers are working out a plan for their own economic freedom.

The clear-sighted, far-seeing Pool member is extremely loyal to his own elevator system, realizing its value. Not only are Pool elevators operated for the Pool membership at bare cost, but they provide a strong shield to guard the welfare of the producer.

Sunday night supper and never need unhands won't wear to another fill other day. Ted's the man popular with his sporting hobby. It is said that there was no better-known man on Broadway But when he walked to bed Broadway he was continuing business with pleasure. Winston Mc-ray, who showed a room with him in the Jeanne office, remarked to Ted Illness that Ted was the loudest snoring sportsmist in the business. Nevertheless he always came to have time to talk to anybody and to entertain anyone. Once his desk was an electric fan, with three blades, each bearing a number. Ted called it his roulette wheel. He would set it going, then turn it off and take bets as to which blade would be on top when the fan ceased revolving.

To suggest the temperamental difference between Ted and Lardner, Mr. Bolton, an interviewer of many years, what he called the lively arts, quoted from Lardner: "The Bat Town," the following pa-nage describing life at a summer resort: "Saturday nights everybody puts on their summer clothes and the somethings was going to happen. But it don't. Sunday morning the bands are back-boys get an extra man usual to go to their real business, which is golf. The monotony is in full possession of the hotel till

Modern Inventions By British Brains

What British inventions are owned to some was made clear to all concerned during the Great War. The "boast" brought the deadlock of trench warfare to an end, and the successive steps by which the submarine—the greatest menace to England since Napoleon's Armada—was rendered down and finally destroyed all the way from a glimpse of Britain overdue possible.

How far the outside have been dominated by the genius of Britain's inventors, is now historical phenomenon. Nothing is the invention of Marconi, whose name among the home of the Edison's air fighters and night bombers. It was the name "Shelly painter" to light on the night clouds.

I have never learned that there was any fear of shame of an English invention which will convert the human into a vessel on which he works against the wave for all to read. We have it in a room a room, on the other side of the room, but the new invention is a novel which takes the listener a quarter of an hour to envisage. Also, further more, it can be wiped out at any instant and leave a clean slip.

Of all the contraptions of driving a car that of ever-changing is the most severe with the beginner. Constant effort, have been made to produce a car in which the operation need be instinctive.

An English firm, however, has produced what is practically a reality car by making gear-changing automatic—or, in a novel way,

This Old Cree Chief Tells A Weird Story

Explorer's Magic may have been a myth—Tarzan may be but a "yarn for the telling," but ex-chief Buffalo Child of the Rocky Mountain Cree Indians—one of the proteges of Pere Lacombe—and the pride of the province for years—is to be adopted as a protector during one bitter cold Alberta winter—rescued after a struggle by other Indians and later made a powerful Chief, as Buffalo Child's sturdy and there appears to be no reason for doubting the truth.

The ex-chief is stone blind and very much physically, but his mind is clear and his intellect keen. He is said to remain with instructions by the younger members of the tribe over which he ruled wisely for an average life-time and is reverted—worshipped, almost—because of his wonderful past life and his present affliction.

A hundred and four years ago, the old chief sent through an interpreter, there was a terrible plague of smallpox throughout the plains Indians of Montana. It spread to the Canadian Indians, and one lodge of two hundred tepees, after the dread scourge had burned itself out, but one adult crawled forth bodily alive.

Conquering from the death-scene, he was seven—by a whimper, to one a day later at the cold bosom of his dead mother. The mind took the child with him to another camp and the tale tells, after a half—fifth death, finally survived.

When five years old, the boy wandered away in the golden sunshine of a late October afternoon. They sought him for a week, but when the first snows fell, he was still missing and was given up as dead.

The following spring, after a winter of constant worship, he came from the camp, on a hunting trail, and on old suffix a cow escaping in the snow to clear the green grasses below—the usual method adopted by the buffalo for securing winter fodder.

As they looked the Indians saw significant movement where the Pass between the old cow's footsteps, and three it. held upon the green grasses uncovered from beneath the snow.

Amazed, they rode closer, to find that the object was none other than the five-year-old boy whom they had lost from the camp the previous fall. The boy, there as a deer, crushed upon here for some time, while the old cow buffalo put up a determined battle for her strange ward.

The child was then and there mothered for civilized's honors, grew to young manhood, and later became Chief Buffalo Child of the Rocky Mountain Crees, leading his charges with wisdom and courage, in peace and in war, finally handing over the reins of office, in his son.

TAY PAY SUGGESTS WHY PADDY'S ALWAYS POOR

When it was announced not long ago that the parliamentary friends of the Rt. Hon. T P O'Connor had subscribed a fund to provide him sufficient to keep him in comfort and dignity for the rest of his days, there may have been those who thought, through what profligacy or fatuity an individual like O'Connor could need this pass. He has not in parliament for half a century. He is one of the most famous figures in the British newspaper. He founded the Star, a London evening newspaper, and is the author of T. P.'s Weekly, established M. A. P. and other London journals, and is at the head of all. He has a high board of this name. After many years of strenuous work, it is extraordinary that this popular and respected man should have found himself almost without resources, especially since he never married, and has no one to care for in the world. In answer, his most expensive dissipation is the cost of living.

But reading his fascinating "Memoirs of an Old Parliamentarian," we find the explanation much to Mr. O'Connor's position. Undoubtedly in his better days he was a spender. He was also generous on the part of many of those associated with him in the founding of periodicals, and we assume also that there is no salary attached to the position as chief executive of the Canadian income is meanest, but we have no doubt that Mr. O'Connor had been in receipt of it as long as he has been in Parliament, and for many long ago have achieved a position of financial security. But it is in comparatively recent years that the Irish economy has been paid. Mr. O'Connor, like many other men if he treats could be known, was famous long before he was affluent. Indeed he was a celebrity when his earning would be probably less than $5,000 a year. He has been in Parliament since 1870 with a good extension which included the Liberal victory of 1906, and a brother to support. Then he got a partnership with the New York Herald's London office at a salary of five pounds a week. He was then doing his own work and that was done discharged with a months' notice. He writes: "For the terrible long time, a lot of months seven years, I remained out of work for a few months, without any regular job or certain source." He supported himself in all kinds of ways, but he was never a writer of accounts of old prize fights; indeed, many most of the details of the other time he lodged towards Waterloo's opening. He was also one of the various means of procuring copies of reserved bumper; once I bought a dozen pairs of ladies' drawers, and on the ended of those horrors and in the night when I occupied a de luxe Harlem lodging house, I found my-self on a Saturday evening with just three half pence in my pocket, and no friends a better what's beam: "Dear Sir," says was the breaking-off of engagement to a woman I had regular-ized on the contrary and the only hope in the world for me."

He applied for the position of publisher's reader as, was refused. Then when the publisher, the late T. G. Bowles, husband of the woman who wrote the famous cookery book, proposed that he should write a book. Eventually he determined to write a biography of Disraeli and he set to work, in the end and after a long, despite turning out a volume that is read and likeness of Disraeli and gave O'Connor quite a reputation. It was indeed the reputation that led to his being asked to become a Nationalist member of parliament. It has-meaning indeed to the note that when he had long pa- $500 an account by the publisher he immediately sent $475 home though his only part of about at the minute made need-need-reading. It was the first good Mr O'Connor ever had an i probably it was now by long days before he began to earn money again in a satisfactory. The resident results to the title of an old army we heard it en-chal-lenge "Why Paddy's Always Poor."

His activities as a Nationalist, especially when Parnell adopted the principle of abstention, made it difficult for O'Connor to find lucrative employment as a journalist, though he did write a lot of parliamentary descriptive stuff for which he was not highly paid. When John Morley became editor of the Pall Mall Gazette in 1888, O'Connor secured a position with him at $60 a week when he was to hold with mutual satisfaction for a short time. He, O'Connor was probably better off than most of his Nationalist colleagues, the supporters of whom had to be be-pod . f party funds. They were unable . approve some of this party's policy of the money collected in the United States, but that was a matter of $5000 a year would have been to them a fortune beyond the dreams of avarice. Mr. O'Connor estimates that the general average allotted them by the party was $1200 a year. Most of this they had to send home to their poor wives struggling hard to keep a petty business going, for most of them were of the rural peasantry class at this period, and what was left had to be used very sparingly. It is also a fact that on many occasions their poor sons found themselves in possession of a contest inherited on the field that would have caused bankruptcy if not thousands of pounds, but not one of this class stuck to Mr. O'Connor's position. Undoubtedly in his better days he was a spender. He was also generous on the part of many of those associated with him in the founding of periodicals, and we assume also that there is no salary attached to the position as chief executive of the Canadian income is meanest, but we have no doubt that Mr. O'Connor had been in receipt of it as long as he has been in Parliament, and for many long ago have achieved a position of financial security. Time Flights Are Justified

By Kevin Kinne
(President Kinne College of Aviation, Columbus.)

Why air-crowd flights?
Why do men fly away into darkness in heavily loaded planes to battle storm and wind in cross-country flights, and why do they coop themselves in tiny stoves for days on end while roaring motor roar down their nerves?

Five famous record-breaking Army airplane flights have been announced and they all agree on at least one thing—that only through actual flying can the best results be obtained in the toughest conditions the air has to offer. Each of the five Army flights was made to test motors and pave the way for further experimental flights. They wanted to see if it is possible for an engine to run its way along for 1000 hours—the maximum time they estimated transports and other planes could hold together without lightening or replacement.

They spent a month figuring out and scheduling a laboratory system but immeni nave all and groups to every working part of the motor all the time so that their Wright Whirlwind engines would have every chance to live their best performance.

Patsy, chief test pilot for the Lockheed Aircraft Company, is a firm believer in making taste to gather constructive knowledge .

"We can't dream up idea or figure out a plan to make a ship faster or better. It may look all right on paper but go to pieces in the air," Patsy said. "Take it up and give it the works. Let those new things prove themselves on long, fast flights and you know then whether your idea was right or wrong. The speed record is indeterminate.

So far no flyer definitely has found prevailing tail winds, but through frequent flights they have discovered somehow that the strongest winds blow from east to west across the United States.

They know that the eastbound winds favor them to take at least two hours more west than on a flight from Los Angeles to New York.

TEXACO GASOLINE is a new gas—the product of countless laboratory work conducted at the Texas Company's refineries.

It is better because it vaporizes completely — that is, every drop forms into power-giving gas. Naturally, that means greater mileage, more active "get-away" and quicker engine starts.

Fill up with this "big" gas at your nearest TEXACO sign. Notice the low price.

(By Walter L. Fraser, Stettler)

CABLES

When communication by telegraph had become too general to excite comment, foreign land an distant nations began to feel a bond of rude ties and drawn up every month, to expedite the passage f mail. The new great commercial centres became the possession of continents by what was now termed to become a the hopes of economists, and on the one hand, on the other, to establish with a fair chance of success, and to make the water from the new countries and mother-lands tolerably free, so far as land conditions permitted.

I have given here many notices of the different modes and especially that which was applied to the Red Atlantic cable.

The core of this was of gutta percha and the several wires to carry the electric current were embedded in this. Outside this was a strong wire, long iron wire and this covered by a wrapping of tarred hemp. The outer protection consisted of a thick iron wire (galvanized) bound tightly round the whole for protection against rust.

The cable company had prepared the most stimulating Farraday for the reception of the first Atlantic cable to reach their coast. Large crowds awaiting drums were fixed at the store and for its payment, and here upon midday by night and day and stimulated off such pan-ome mere-ment a . I said by.

The start took place in 1858 from Valentia bay on the west coast of Ireland, and was to touch land again at Heart's Content, on Newfoundland, where it would be connected with land wires and so reach New York, crossing the narrow Straits of Belle Isle to the mainland. I was in America when the shore end was landed, safely and deemed to be the last A message, the first actual proof of a great accomplishment, was dispatched by the president of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, to Bellows, to be addressed to Queen Victoria. It read: "What hath God wrought!" This was the only real and reliable message carried by that pioneer cable, for after a few days, it parted somewhere in mid-ocean, and for long, was the despair of its promoters. It is now heavily charged both financially and in prestige.

But the Britsh are not that unfashionable much, that always carries the nation to victory although by a narrow . cliff-edge in the issues of commercial and scientific men and the almost hopeless task of recovering the broken ends of the silent cable attempted.

The huge an ally constructed steamship Great Eastern or as she was first called the Leviathan, was the pacquitioned and fitted with great drums—land, fore and after—for the lever for hauling in, the latter for paying out. The Farraway was also equipped with sunder appliances and, when all was carefully supported and approved, the two ships proceeded along the precise latitude of the sunken cable, and, lowering their end, they proceeded, at a wide interval, to steam slowly across the line. For some time without success, but, one day the drag of one ship gripped something. It was slowly teased up to the surface, and proved to be a bight of the cable. A connection was made with tremendous excitement and a message dispatched to England, and further, by testing instruments, the distance apparently to the break was ascertained. The raised bight was duly buoyed and lingered and its precise latitude and longitude recorded and the two vessels proceeded with their deep-sea dragging and ultimately the jagged end of the western portion was taken aboard and carefully connected and securely strengthened—and a flashed message sent both ways and was received by the anxious minds of millions on both sides of the Atlantic simultaneously. Of course, great rejoicings were the order of the day and, and having heard of the present publication doctrines of people, wiser, or otherwise, ourselves to sentiment, mush taunting and sadness-tears followed and everybody was happy in his own way. That pioneer cable was constant and reliable for many years, and is, I imagine, as effectual as ever this day.

It was never, I fancy, quite satisfactorily known whether the breakage had been caused through the cable having been stretched from tap to tap of submarine mountains and the strain proved beyond its strength or whether a great fish, a whale, probably, had attacked and put it out of commission as an intruder on its domains.

I remember coming to the London Punch's evening at that hallowed rendezvous, John Leech, of Punch fame, happened to be present and was the subject of a humorous cartoon—the following.

Then followed a perfect shoal of cable schemes to near and distant lands, and the experience acquired in the laying, no further than Europe, helped and on the world became close neighbors and hopeful people who did not thoroughly understand the laying and recovering of underlying gums and prevalence of interlocking gums.

I state hopes. We are composed of too many schemists, cursed and deluded, be we blind into a commonness entity.

Our system of government will ever be precarious however earnestly we may desire and strive for it. Philanthropists must help a great deal but never will the many conflicting parties consent, by their self-sacrifice, to the best and very seldom satisfactorily solved, be remedied.—Edmonton Journal.

Flourishing Editor An Escaped Convict

It used to be in Africa that the strange things came out of. Now it is Chicago. Consider, for example, the case of Robert Elliott Burns. Twelve years ago he was a soldier in the American army in France. Eight years ago he was a convict working in a Georgia chain gang Today he is the city editor of a magazine called Greater Chicago, which I could be by earning $20,000 a year. The sudden turn worth a story is the fact that he is in imminent danger of being obliged to go back to Georgia and resume the ball and chain. In both Georgia and Illinois governors are said to have pardoned him. That is the governor's power, since nobody on , really is good ." Burns' career as a criminal and as he his thoroughly rehabilitated himself, there is a reasonable prospect that governor's mercy may be extended to him. But in the meantime it seems certain that he will have to return to Georgia for a time at least, until the Governor-Legion succeeds or fails in its effort to have him set at liberty.

In March, 1923, Burns found himself in Atlanta penitentiary. He had a dollar and a half in his pocket, was given a bed for the night, he fell in with Sidney Flexy and John Moore, two wanderers and probably criminals. The three hot just a dime among them, they decided on a means of getting a few dollars to pay their railroad fare westbound, and Flexy must be knew where they could get some money if they would follow him and obey orders. They agreed and Flexy led them to a little grocery store on the outskirts of the city. Flexy handed Burns a pistol and they would hold up the grocer, a man named Sweetston. They entered the store, Burns shoved the pistol, the grocer held up his hands and Flexy and Moore emptied the till which contained $5.00. Then they fled, Burns throwing the pistol away for it happened that there had been several robberies in the vicinity, and the police were particularly vigilant. They were quickly on the scene, threw a cordon about the neighborhood and captured Burns.

In Court Burns said that he had not been engaged in the robbery, that the world should assist from the restrictions Moore knew, and the criminal record of Flexy and Burns. Nevertheless, the jury, after a brief consultation, in less than a quarter of an hour, found all of them guilty of robbery. Burns was sentenced to from seven to twenty years. The latter was the sentence imposed by the court, and Burns became eligible to parole after his evident constitutional attainments and good conduct had been established. He has been away from his home since 1923, and has not been back since. He has been in the penitentiary, but don't know what has become of his wife and children. Burns was born in Atlanta, Georgia, and has relatives there. He has been in the penitentiary for so long, but don't know what has become of his wife and children. Cultural Treatments And Soil Moisture Conservation

Throughout the Dry Belt Prairie Provinces the problem of soil moisture has commanded much prominence that somewhat interest has to cultural methods designed to conserve moisture in the soil.

In fact, of course, to demonstrate that soil moisture conservation has been successful. It is not possible for Dame to the soil sufficient moisture to carry a crop to maturity. Moisture is required to furnish water during the season's transpiry. Experimental evidence of Dr. Thornton, Superintendent Station, Swift Current, Sask., discloses that a wheat crop in the area of comparatively large country of wheat during the growing period, more or less, than is received as an average year's precipitation, assuming this could all be stored. Under the more favorable conditions only a portion of the year's precipitation can be conserved by the soil. The p[illegible] of a considerable quantity of snow carried as a source of available moisture. If the soil be free from weeds and other losses moisture can be absorbed. It is true, of course, that a considerable part of the snowbanks escape supplies of moisture from the winter's snowfall, but there is no doubt that due to the fact that the soil there are before the snow in the snowbanks and these receive water by irrigation. During heavy downpours of rain, a large part of water never enters the soil, but is lost by run-off. In one case, Illinois observations were made, as much as 60 per cent. of the rainfall was lost in this manner. Another source of loss is by evaporation. A series of experiments at intervals of practically no value, beyond affording plants temporary relief, as the moisture scarcely penetrates the surface and quickly evaporates again. Very shallow cultivation is good three times, but the growth of weeds causes by far the greatest loss of moisture from the soil and is one which is a large measure can be controlled.

In the grain growing areas of the Prairie Provinces, cultural treatment for moisture conservation can be grouped into two classes, land which is summer-fallowed and that which produced grain the previous year, or stubble land. The cultivation required for land to be summer-fallowed will necessarily depend upon the type of soil, weather conditions and kinds of weeds present. In some cases plowing is necessary, while in others especially good results are obtained by the use of a duck foot cultivator only. The time of plowing is not important provided the land previous to seeding has been kept free of weeds. The plowing under of a crop of weeds or weeds and cultivated grain is the best way to conserve fallow which has been robbed of a considerable amount of its moisture by the growth of vegetation. Where comparatively few weeds appear in a crop it is a matter of doubtful value to plow under the crop. According to Dr. Thornton, Dominion Experimental Farm, Swift Current, this summer, instead ended one year following a good hail plowed up to end-July of last year, showed by the growth and appearance, the effect of different moisture which in turn had been produced by the growth of weeds during the previous summer.

The treatment of stubble land presents a different problem to that of summer-fallow but the same is taken to conserve the moisture supply of moisture, stored in the soil during the fall and spring months. Inspection of a wheat stubble field from which the crop has been removed, will be found to be moist to a depth of one or two feet only and below this to be quite dry. There is, therefore, evidence to connect the moisture conditions with fall or spring plowing of wheat stubble land, but, on a rule, fall plowing gives best results in conserving moisture, more economical and more saving plowing where moisture deficiency is the limiting factor. The experience of the last two seasons indicates that, where moisture is the limiting factor, it is essential to seed as soon after cultivation as possible so that the driest moisture remains in the surface soil to ensure germination. For a more detailed discussion of this subject the reader is referred to the bulletin "Crop Rotations and Soil Moisture Conservation" published by the Prairie Provinces, a copy of which can be secured free by writing to the Publications Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario.

Lord Queenborough, who is at present touring Canada in the interest of the most British investor in one of the few interesting personalities which survive from the glorious days of the last century in England.

As a member of the Paget family, the head of which is the Marquess of Anglesey, which has been famous in English history since the 16th century, Lord Queenborough, or his youth Almeric Hugh Paget, chose an adventurous career rather than either one of the numerous safe berths which his name and connections affords him.

Once forty years ago he went to the Klondyke and made a reputation placed he could think of at the American West. He survived a Montana hold-up, by rising to the Pacific coast was completed and, owning properties in a large way, was considered one of the most successful men in the whole province.

He also had the distinction of being one of the first men to introduce cattle into the Canadian West from the Argentine. Remembering his own experience, he decided to give a young Englishman a start on the same road. Lord Queenborough's open generosity when he was guest of the Calgary Stampede where the friends of the wild west cowboy are numerous enabled him to do just that before I do," he said. He earned an enviable reputation among his colleagues in the region for his skill in subduing steers and throwing the bucking broncho. When civilization began to encroach upon the west he went into farming for him, and his farming interests are known as Paget's Western ranches, and later in New York he became a successful business man for the New World with a view to the discovery of possible oil fields in Canada. He was regularly interviewed by American and other publications on provincial affairs for eastern and home countries. He was in the Yukon Territories from 1910 to 1917 for two years and in 1918 was given a commission in the Canadian overseas service serving in France.

Whether he is attending the meetings of directors in England he did not say. He is also a director of many companies. He brought to Lord Lee of the Chairman of the Empire Resources Committee of the Canadian Government, and many important matters affecting Canada and the British Government committee on Empire development and settlement, etc. Before he left Lord Queenborough had a conversation with a group of Canadian newspaper reporters who are attempting to obtain the interview with Lord Beaverbrook, the famous Canadian financier. His present trip to Canada evidently has to do with the financial interests of the development of the Dominion and gives publicity to the whole of Canada. He is a famous orator, and his speeches are always full of interest.

TELLING EDISON

Wilbur H Hoover, of Seattle, the 16 year old boy who has Edison's scholarship, has the earmarks of intelligence and good sense. We can't say as much for Mr. Edison's examination. Aside from a dozen problems in mathematics, chemistry and physics, it was a hodge-podge of questions calling for nothing so much as snap judgment on long and empty generalities.

Mr. Edison must have a most interesting test even if he could not have picked a better boy, by putting those youngsters at work in his laboratory for a week was watching them. Just by propounding long-winded riddles to them for six hours.—New York World.

WHAT HEN SAY

HUGH WALPOLE—In the history of no art is there any progress.

WILL DURANT—Through understanding we are of every age, and no joy is alien to us.

PRESIDENT HOOVER—It is proverbially preposterous to say that equality of opportunity means a dead level.

SIR JOHN MARRIOTT—If political meetings were a true index to the intelligence of the electorate a candidate might well be driven to despair.

J. L. GARVIN—Human psychology is more than political mechanics.

A POSER

Complaint is made that some convenient puzzles are too difficult. When the Sphinx propounded a riddle he expected to guess that "worn on the finger" long before a thimble.?—Evansville Courier.

CATTLE MOVEMENT FOR TRADE AREA IN CAR LOTS CONSTRUCTED CANADA

With a specially constructed caboose, Curly Phillips, well known guide at Jasper National Park, is making a party of five Americans from the east coast of United States, through the mountains of the north country, commencing at Edmonton and going through Jasper, Banff, Lake Louise, Field, Glacier, Revelstoke, Arrowhead, Kamloops, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Portland, Spokane, Calgary, Edmonton,

ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Stettler Constituency

The Annual Conference of the Women's Institutes in the Stettler Constituency was held in the United Church Rix Valley, August 14th, 1929 with an attendance of one hundred and sixty delegates and visitors.

There were some nineteen contestants, we understand, Kamsack, Redcliffe, Wetaskiwin, Medicine Hat, Stettler, Innisfail, Bentley, Gadsby, Lacombe and Provence, Regrets were also received from Fleet and Halkirk.

The meeting opened at 11 o'clock with the singing of "O Canada," followed by Invocation and Creed led by Mrs. T. J. Cox, of Stettler. The Constitution, however, Mr. Wm. Moore, Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton, and Mr. S. Montgomery, Provincial President, and Mrs. J. P. Ferguson, District Director to take their places on the platform.

Secretary's report was read by Mrs. George Upton, the Constituency Secretary.

P. R. Riley, B.A., Rix Valley, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Board of Trade, and the Board of Commerce of the United Church. Mrs. George Bengough extended a welcome on behalf of the Rosebud W. I. ladies, who were the hostesses for the day. Mrs. A. Robinson of Stettler, made a fitting reply on behalf of the visitors.

Mrs. I. C. Birdsell then read a very excellent paper on Canadian Industries prepared by Mrs. D. Clark of the Bassets Branch.

Mrs. Clark said that women form eighty per cent. of the buying power, and if we demand Canadian made goods our merchants will supply the same. Other suggestions were "An All African Menu," and a "Made in Canada Day."

The report of the Waverly Branch was then read by Mrs. Bluemell. A very successful Bazaar was held by this branch, the proceeds of which were $68.25. Needy families were helped and much useful work done.

Mrs. W. Perkins read the report of the Stettler Branch. This Branch began with the School Fair, the hand some rink, flowers and fruit for the sick and tables past in many useful activities.

Mrs. L. G. Wood, Stettler, convener of Commemoration, then gave her report, which showed many beautiful things done by the Institutes during rest service in welcoming the new comers.

Report of the Ecosta Branch was then given by Mrs. A. R. Clark. This is one of the youngest branches, and it does not specialize on the newest of money raised, but rather on neighborly friendliness and good will. The work of all standing committees is taken up.

Mrs. R. B. Hunster of Gadsby, in giving a report of that branch, said that to date, Gadsby had achieved what it had attempted. Their chief work is hospital endowment. They pay regularly to this cause, raising the money by bazaars, entering, and parties, etc.

Meeting then adjourned for lunch.

After lunch Mrs. I. C. Birdsell, Convener of Agriculture, gave her report. All branches are interested in this line of work. A hint given by the speaker, in wall words remembering, namely: Deal with one particular thing such as house plants—bulbs, but be sure" instead of so many things. Flower shows are being held by some Institutes and have proven very interesting.

Mrs. Brown, of Stettler, then gave a report on the activities of that branch. A special address had been given to this organization by Dr. Colbeck on the care of the eyes of the pre-school age child. Dr. Staples spoke on the care and feeding of infants. Mr. Harding, Clerk of the Court, gave an address on the status of women and children in the province of Saskatchewan who die intestate. Stettler also had a cooking demonstration lasting three days.

Mrs. Harry Everett, of the South branch briefly summed to read a report of the Halkirk W. I. which had been prepared by Mrs. J. Jameson, of Halkirk. Halkirk is compiling a cook book, which will soon be on sale, they have paid $100 to the Cemetery Association. Altogether they have raised $212.25. They remember the sick with flower and fruit.

Keith W. I. was reported by the Secretary, Mrs. R. Thomas. From a membership of eight a year ago, this branch has grown to a membership of thirty-one.

The present single thing done by one organization has been accomplished by Keith, namely the raising of over $600 on one evening for a needy person. A play put on by them netted $145. They also held a dance, several demonstrations, etc., and are behind five wires."

Mrs. G. E. Snyder, of Botha told the delegates of the work being done by the members of that organization. This year they hired a man at $75.00 per month to work in the Cemetery. Now, instead of an unkempt grave yard, they have a Cemetery of which each district might be proud; they did the Red Cross; they held a grandmother's day; they have community singing regularly, they plan a baby clinic for September 3rd.

The Convener of Legislature, Mrs. J. Christenson of Spreuce, then gave her report. This speaker urged every Institute to get a copy of Mr. Parman's "Rules of Order," as Article 4 of the constitution and by-laws of the Alberta Women's Institute states all meetings shall be governed thereby.

We should become familiar with all new legislation, for instance the note with the Old Age Pension Act, the proposed changes in the School Act. This was a very excellent paper.

Mrs. Swan, of Gadsby, read the report prepared by Mrs. Stoddart-Cobb Wallace, and Public Health. They showed that four homeless in the Consolidated have been reported by Mrs. J. Jameson. This organization holds a most success" ful three day demonstration on visiting week, made flowers for mothers' day, etc. It has a paid up membership of thirty-two.

Mrs. M. L. Whetzel was the delegate from Endiang and she told of the steady progress made by that organization. Besides W. I. has furnished a rest room, a nursing kit kit-che for out-of-town pupils during the winter, it remembers the sick, donates to the League of Nations, etc.

During the afternoon several musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. H. Montgomery, who also favored the audience with two beautiful solos. A piano solo was given by Miss Mary Fisher-colbaugh of Erskine, a vocal solo by Mrs. Gowler Upton of Rosedary, several piano selections by Mrs. E. Crawford, of Rosedary, the latter also giving a little talk on the life of the composer Chopin. Mrs. Watson, of Stettler, sang two solos which were much appreciated.

Letters of condolence were sent from the conference to Mrs. Borton (sister of Mrs. Jones of Botha, and Mrs. Linteborn of Big Valley, all of whom had been bereaved.

A little talk by the new director, Mrs. Ferguson was very instructive and interesting. The Provincial President also gave a very comprehensive review of the Girls' Convention held in Edmonton and attended Girls' Clubs.

Election of officers resulted in the following:—

Convener—Mrs. Dean, Gadsby.
Education—Mrs. A. R. Clark.
Child Welfare—Mrs. W. MacDonald
Agriculture—Mrs. J. Christenson.
Household Economics—Mrs. A. Robinson.
Immigration—Mrs. W. S. Kirkwood
Consolidation—Mrs. R. Burn.
Agriculture—Mr. I. C. Birdsell
Canadian Industries—Mr. J. Jamieson, Halkirk.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the United Church Board, the ladies' Aid for the use of their equipment and the Rix Valley Rike for the hose of their horses.

"God Save the King" brought a most enjoyable afternoon to a close.

A large attendance of members is requested for this meeting, in order that the above and other important business may receive attention.

TOO CLEVER

Very recent in the tenders, "My little girl can't spell either. She can't almost anyhow."

She can say what she has been taught, but she can't think for herself. She is one of the new kind—the kind that is "educated" by the movies. She is "modern" she knows everything. That description of a girl is from Mary Roberts Rinehart's most recent novel. Most movie and many fiction stories picture the girl of today as the most independent creature on earth. Rubbernecking from behind Father's automobile seat is almost a lost art.

Alberta Wheat Pool News

The Alberta Wheat Pool is making a determined effort to point out to Pool members the importance of delivering Pool grains to Pool elevators wherever possible, in view of the fight being waged in Alberta this year.

The Pool elevator system was built up for the purpose of giving service and protection to the membership. There years since every Pool elevator in Alberta. Today there are 427 representing an investment of over six million dollars of Pool farmers' money. This investment must be protected.

Pool members should realize that it is a matter of very great importance to the Pool that every Pool elevator should be available at all times. If it is not delivered to Pool elevator it is always available to the Selling Agency.

The great elevator system was developed because Pool farmers insisted that they must have a service that would be the best office of the Wheat Pool and that would be responsive and keep demands for Pool elevators. Now it is up to all farmers to show their appreciation of their own system by delivering their wheat to Pool elevators.

The introduction of conditions and methods of operation of Pool elevators on the Canadian practice is a remarkable degree. The result has been an improvement in the service of the elevators during a brief period in the fall. It is to continue this effort as much as possible the Alberta Wheat Pool is offering a bonus of 2 cents a bushel for wheat sold on farms until December 2nd, 1929. Wheat producers should realize it is to their great benefit to deliver the crop in such a harvest manner that the co-operative of fort on the market.

The Wheat Pool has but more a year of compelling Pool farmers to deliver their crop in one year. For instance Some Pool farmers have carried wheat from their 1928 crop pool the late of January of the 1929 Pool, which was July 15th, and delivered this crop in the 1929 Pool, No other farmers have been treated by the Pool against this practice. A recent news item issued by the Wheat Pool mentioned that action has been taken against a few Pool members who had not delivered their 1928 wheat to the Pool. The case was contrary to some farmers had all their wheat delivered delivered with the Pool year. As a matter of fact, the action referred to becomes the case but been delivered outside the Pool.

DUSTED HEAD IN DARK CORNER OF B. B. SHOP

Upon entering the store this morning, to finish preparing for the closing out sale, Mr. Adolph Hanson, owner of the shoe shop, discovered that sometime during the night the store had been entered.

In checking over the stock, nothing was missed, but the special sale table is many instances were torn and badly scrambled, and the stock showed that a large quantity had been sold.

Through further investigation, Mr. Hanson stepped into the back room and there, lying on his back, a sub had lightly climbed in the hatch and starting stats of a fragile death, was Mr. Fly Pests.

It is the general opinion that certainly attributed him to the store and the extremely hot rain fell on the entire shack knocked him cold. The flyers' arrangement will be made later. However, they are expecting prosperous sale and will start selling out Friday morning, September 13th, at 8 a.m.

Prince May Not Benefit From Proposed Oil Discovery on Estate

Ottawa.—If the reported discovery of oil on the Prince of Wales' Alberta ranch "K. P." is substantiated he may or may not benefit from the Trust deposits upon the estate he has taken. In a recent interview he urged highways, referred to the discovery of oil on the neighborhood, suggested his would not profit since the petroleum and mineral gas rights and the mineral rights of the property were vested in the crown.

The names branch of the Department of the Interior, however, declared such a rule runs the Prince may benefit from the Dominion lands agent in the district, unless a lease is produced on natural rights to the property.

The title of the "K. P." ranch is still in the name of the Prince of Wales, who has nominated the Duke of York as his successor. It is not known whether the latter will be the owner of the property or whether it will be vested in the crown.

Anderson, Assistant General Freight Agent, Winnipeg, whose duties are enlarged to give him supervision over rates and divisions.

SURGEONS' ART FITS PUGILISTS FOR RING

Every now and then we learn that some of the numerical Bob Fitzsim- mons or Jack Dempsey of the prize ring. They are today our up-to-date specialists in training pugilists to whom fighting men are per- mitted to consult, such as broken hands, cauliflowered ears, broken noses, and a score of other injuries, which in the olden days of prize- fighting would have rendered a fighter unfit to enter the ring. Take, for example, the case of Jack Sharkey, the young Boston boxer who is matched to meet Jack Dempsey in the Yankee Stadium, New York, on the night of Sept. 21st. Sharkey has had his nose broken and reset on three occasions, and his hands have been operated on twice. Dr. Joseph Risley, Sharkey's physician, has been in charge of the boxer's injuries, and it was he who performed the operation on his hands. Dr. Risley has also been in charge of the injuries of Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Harry Wills, Mike McTigue and Young Stribling. Johnny Dundee, Sammy Mandell and Benny Bass are among the most noted boxers who at one time or another have succumbed to the art of surgery and manipulation. All of them have had injuries which ordinary treatment would not correct and which by the ordinary person might have been un- treated. A writer in the New York Sun says that a score of shoulders are put as regularly as nature did it, just a manipulation to many that will bring defeat. Many athletes as the result have also had the nose and bridge of the nose broken. Dempsey's nose was broken in the early days of his career, and has been reset and manipulated by Dr. Risley. Tunney's nose was broken in the Army and has been reset and manipulated by Dr. Risley. Harry Wills has had his nose broken on the bridge of the nose and has been reset and manipulated by Dr. Risley. Jack Sharkey's nose has been broken on the bridge of the nose and has been reset and manipulated by Dr. Risley. Jack Sharkey's nose has been broken on the bridge of the nose and has been reset and manipulated by Dr. Risley.

Tagging Mackerel

The story of the numbered mackerel which is now being caught in the Gaspe Basin and the northern Gulf of St. Lawrence is not complete without a reference to the tagging experiments which have been carried on for several years under the auspices of the Biological Board of Canada. The tagging of mackerel was first undertaken in 1924 by Dr. A. G. Huntsman, director of the Board's biological station at St. Andrews, N.B., and has been continued each year since. Dr. Huntsman has been assisted in the experiments by the Marine Service, which has placed at his disposal the steamer Lady Grey and the fishery cruiser Lady Kindersley. Other vessels have also been employed from time to time. The tagging experiments have been carried on in connection with the experiments by the Marine Service to ascertain the best methods of preserving mackerel in cold storage. Investigations, which have been carried on by the Biological Board, relative to the question of possible, the movements or migrations of mackerel.

Beginning about 1925, it was ar- ranged that a number of these fish should be caught in the spring and tagged along the coast, and a num- bered metal tag, attached by a rivet to the tail, fastened to the tail of each fish and the fish liberated. In addi- tion to the number on the tag, the name was a set "I" if more than one, a small brass tag, giving the name and country of origin where the fish were captured and liberated. Publici- ty is given to each tagging, the fish- ermen being advised in the newspaper reports of such tagging to look out for the tag and to report the catch, along with date and place of capture to the proper officials in charge.

During the 1925, over 300 mackerel were secured from a tong-net at Fox- berry Head, Tarrasgatis County, N. B., and duly tagged and liberated. The fish were subsequently caught over the seeding year at Canberry Head and other points along the Nova Scotia coast, and also at the Magdalen Is- lands. Similar experiments were con- ducted by the United States Com- mission. A number of the tagged fish were recaptured at different points along the coast and brought in- to the United States waters. For in- stance, one was recovered from Canada's tag were capture off Block Island, Rhode Island, as other Ma- sachusetts ports.

THE WHALING INDUSTRY

While as early as the seventeenth century whaling was carried on in the waters of the St. Lawrence by fishers from France, little or no quota- tion was made of the catch of whales on Atlantic waters for some years. With rare exception the catch whales in these waters was not exported, as the Canadian waters however are the favored Bermuda or Hamilton and the Bay on White Whale, which is found in considerable quantities in the Labrador coast, is very little demand for whale meat for human food.

In the Pacific waters the whale is more valuable, a ship which it en- counters, as a rule, is worth more to the factory where these cargo are cut into small pieces and then cook- ed in huge steam digesters from which the oil, which is sepa- rated from the water, is drawn off and run into storage tanks. The oil is then refined and put up in barrels for the market. The refuse from the digesters is dried and ground into meal, which is used as a fertilizer and for poultry, stock and fish foods. It is a very nutri- tious food. The oil is derived mostly from sperm, fin and sulphur bottom whales, while the largest yield comes from the sulphur bottom whales, which are the largest of all. In the Pacific waters, the sulphur bottom reaches 90 feet. The Sperm Whale is found in the Atlantic waters and is the toothed whale, the males reaching a length of 60 or 65 feet. The fe- males are smaller. From the sperm whale comes the valuable substance known as spermaceti, which is found in the head cavity of the animal, in which a "sodium" man stands while bailing out the liquid. The spermaceti is separated from the oil by cooling, the spermaceti crystallizing and being removed by pressure. From this whale also comes ambergris, which is found in the intestines and is used in the manufacture of perfumes. The Right Whale is smaller than the Sperm Whale, reaching a length of 50 feet. Each whale yields from 50 to 70 barrels of oil. The Right Whale is found in the Atlantic waters and is the whale which was formerly hunted by the Basque fishermen. The Right Whale is also found in the Pacific waters and is the whale which was formerly hunted by the Basque fishermen. The Right Whale is also found in the Pacific waters and is the whale which was formerly hunted by the Basque fishermen.

The special quality of these phrases is that they absorb many of the spiritually active rays of sunlight.

The absorption of even a small quantity of these through the flesh covers the eye can make just enough difference in the chemical con- stitution of the blood to fix the sun- shine in the eyes of people who eat- ing them in connection with which is the same reason of hay-fever.

Harvesting And Threshing Alfalfa And Sweet Corn

At the Beaverlodge Sub-Station the seed crops of alfalfa and sweet clover are cut with the binder. The alfalfa is usually left until the middle or the latter part of September, by which time most of the pods should have turned a dark brown and most of the seeds hardened. The sweet clover is cut a little out of the pods have turned brown and before the seeds have shattered. If one waits for all the seeds to ripen he will lose many of the first some by shelling.

A good deal of the best seed is lost at once through the sprayers between the table and elevator canvas, and also during the operations of binding and bundle shedding. To avoid this a galvanized-iron pan has sometimes been installed under the former point of bindage and a canvas carried on the bar to convey this to the sides by hand and emptying the contents frequently into sacks. It is tedious but may be profitable. The complete plan might prove a solution but the writer has had no opportunity to try it.

In the absence of a clover mill, the threshing is done with a common grain separator very thoroughly cleaned out. By blocking half or both sides of the left-hand spouse, feeding from the left side and conquering all the material to traverse most of the width of the cylinder, a fairly good job of hulling can be accomplished, but the operation is very slow and there is no annoying tendency for the chaffed straw to clog on the riddles. Latterly the practice has been not to blow any of the rear of the cylinder but to thresh in the ordinary way, hitting most of the seed remain in the pods. The pods are afterwards run through a very mild type of clover huller. This completes the job quickly and economically.

If there are many lambs in the other small weed seeds in the sweet clover it is well to pass the material through a fanning mill before the pods are hulled as these weed seeds may be more readily separated from the sweet clover pods than from the hulled seed.

It is very important in threshing either crop to have it brittle dry. A bright, dry day seems much better than a damp one.

—W. McHARGUE, Dominion Experimental Station, Beaverlodge, Alberta.

"Is this Murphy?" I ask, "that a crowd by definite?"
"No," says someone, "he is one of the newspaper guys."

I see a man pushing his way through the liner
Of the cops, where a fire brightly glistens and shines;
"Chief Keeler?" I ask, but a Personal replies,
"Oh, no, why, that is one of those new-paper guys."

I see a man start on the trail of a crook,
And he scores all assistance but brings him to book,
"Mr. Burns?" I inquire, someone overhearing reiterates—
"Burns? Here, he's just one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man walk through the doors of a store
Where great throngs are blushed by the sign S. E. G.
"Is this Goodrich himself that we think of be buy?"
"Well, hardly, he's one of the newspaper guys."

I see a man knock on a President's door,
And the sign, Mr. Administrate, completely ignores.
"Is this Hoover, that pokergy's right he carries?"
"Hoover? Shucks, it just one of those newspaper guys."

And comedy I'll walk by the great streets of gold
And see a man enter unquestioned and bold.
"A man?" I'll enquire and Peter will reply,
"Well, I should say not, he's a newspaper guy."

News Notes From Bible Chautauqua

The attendance this week has greatly improved. At the first meeting on Sunday evening, the tabernacle was completely well filled. The two lectures and good music render it quite comfortable.

On Sunday evening Mr. Buckwalter spoke on "Why Some People Observe the Wrong Day as the Sabbath." The answer was given directly from the Bible. He read the commandment from Ex. 20, 9-11, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord Thy God." He followed it through the New Testament and showed how the Apostles kept it, and Christ himself set the example and rose as part of His conducting remarks how it will be kept in the new earth, Isa. 66, 22, 23. If we are going to observe it there it looks only logical to do so here in preparation.

The crowd was hardly interested enough on Monday evening to hear Mr. Batterson on the topic "Why Some People Observe the First Day of the Week." We found there was no Bible authority whatever, but a man of his calibre is misled in Matt. 28, 1; 9; To vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men."

Thursday evening, September 12th, saw the change from the seventh to the first day of the week come about. It is clearly explained.

People are anxious to hear these meetings for they are new to them. One lady said she had walked twenty years to hear a sermon on these things.

Mr. J. Bitner's, Mr. McCallum's and Mr. Jensen's were three families which motored almost thirty miles to attend our both Sunday and Tuesday evenings in order to hear three meetings. Others came from Bay Valley. Now we haven't been under a church for years are coming every night.

One good lady remarked that she had received more benefit from these services than all she had heard in the past fifty years.

The gospel songs rendered by Mr. Henriksen are being greatly enjoyed by all.

Stettler people are having a rare opportunity. It will probably never be repeated. The best will be here for the next seven days. Let us take advantage of the coming opportunity.

There were 1,127,000 men employed in manufacturing trades in the United States in 1929.

ENDIANG NEWS

Mr. Albert Derr of Halkirk, was the guest of Mrs. Sassy Campbell on Wednesday.

H. Wahlberg and M. Mork drove to Bay Valley for a truck load of fruit Thursday.

Miss Mary Somerville left for Erskine on Friday, where she will attend High School.

Quite a large party of the sentiment and professional men of Hanna spent Monday hunting ducks in this vicinity and were well satisfied with the results.

Mrs. Somerville and Mrs. S. Campbell were visitors in Castor Monday.

Threshing is almost over and the yield and grade are better than was anticipated in most cases, the highest being a field of A. E. Morley, which combined twenty-two cubels to the acre.

Elmer Schultz and his party of rink hunters from Calgary bagged 182 rinks on Monday.

Dr. Goodhand of Calgary, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in his office at the Endiang Hotel and was kept busy as usual.

Mr. Hans Grant has his little supper Leonard from the States, staying with him and attending school in town.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday, at the home of Mrs. George Chapman, with 9 members and several visitors present. After the general business was disposed of Mrs. Chapman gave a very interesting and educational paper on music, its history and its value in the home, which she very ably illustrated with selections of the simplest music down to the popular jazz of today.

A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Leach and Mrs. Edwards.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson was chosen as delegate to the Convention to be held in Wayne on September 18th.

The next meeting will be held on October 10th, at the home of Mrs. R. Barber, when arrangements will be made for early winter parties.

Mr. E. Brandes, manager of a silver and nickle mine at Kimberly, B.C. has been visiting at the home of his brother-in-law Mr. Archie Mc-Bride, returned home on Saturday, taking Mr. McBride as far as Calgary with him.

Rev. Mr. Griffiths of Coleman conducted the annual Communion and Baptismal service of United church at this point in the community hall Sunday evening with a large congregation. Nine children received the Sacrament of Baptism.

Rev. and Mrs. Rebbeth Beeble left for B. C. on Monday where they may spend the winter.

Many were shocked and grieved to hear of the death of Miss Sylvia Barfield in the Drumheller Hospital last Saturday, and deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and to Rev. and Mrs. Scallon in their loss.

Glad to report that Mrs. Gordon Fowler is making a good recovery following her position in the Castor hospital.

Congratulations to Miss Helen McBride and Miss Jessie Russell, who were awarded twenty four and eighteen prizes respectively at the Byemoor school fair. Both are pupils of the Rastin school.

A large crowd is expected at the the Clear Lake ball Friday night, when a Scotch program and dance is being arranged by the Scotch people of Hanna, Craigmyle, Endiang, Rosyth, Byemoor and Clear Lake. The grand march, played on the violins by Messrs. Donald Robertson and Jack Armstrong is truly Scotch style, will open the dance promptly at 9 o'clock. A collection will be taken up to defray expenses and it is expected that the U. F. W. A. will serve supper.

Some exception was taken to an article in last week's issue complaining of the noise on the street during a recent dance, (which, by the way, could find room an impromptu dance on the "important" dance.) This was certainly an reflection on Mr. Wahlberg who is noted for his well conducted dances, but simply to remind a few of the rising generation that it is not meant to enjoy themselves as socially on the street in the wee small hours when some of the citizens desire to sleep, and a plea for a little more Golden Rule.

Messrs. Bruce Myers, Roy Goodhie, Jack Schultz and Alwyn Evans are attending the Normal school in Calgary where they expect to get rink thunderbolts.

Mr. Arthur Johnson very kindly drove a car load of ladies to the Women's Institute Convention at Wayne on Wednesday, those going were: Mrs. Arthur Johnson, delegate; Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Bruce Yorkee.

The regular monthly Anglican service will be held in the community hall Sunday at 11 a.m.

BYEMOOR NEWS

The contest rolls of George Lott's farm south west of Byemoor was very well attended and the grades and finished quite a good prize. The filling was brisk and there was keen competition most of the time.

John Samuel players came up to Byemoor last Sunday and played the local team. Game was very snappy all through and ended with a score of 11 to 7 in favor of Delia.

The Byemoor School Fair, held on September 12th was a great success. The weather was all that could be desired. The first event of the day was the school parade which took place at 10 o'clock sharp. Four schools took part, Byemoor Juniors, Smith, Gough Lake and Wolf Hill.

Everyone knows was the prize donated by D. R. McIvor's Gough Lake was a close second. The latter school to be commemorated on their marching and will wish was a masterpiece. The next event was the judging of the poultry. Ninety seven birds were shown in this line and the competition was very keen. Lots of sharp and were judged on it. There were a few entries in these classes but not so many as last year.

A large crowd gathered to watch the sports which took place while the school work, grain, vegetables, flowers, cooking, etc., were being judged. The young folks entered into them with great enthusiasm and pep, some of the novelty races causing a lot of amusement.

Looking at the display of vegetables flowers, grain, etc., it was hard to realize we had come through such a season of drought. The school fair was certainly surpassed all expectations as the number of entries in all classes. It was very hard for the judges to judge the school work in the short time at their disposal, especially as there were so many left in all branches of school work.

Mr. Horton, the representative from this, congratulated us on the success of our school fair. Mr. A. McIvor, our president, also thanked the people in a few well chosen words for the interest they had taken in the work of the school children. Everyone seem to have been under the impression that the school fair was the biggest and best school fair ever held in the district.

A large crowd turned out to the dance in Byemoor's hall, the night of the fair. The music was supplied by, the Henry Makers of Drumheller and Byemoor orchestra. The dance was a snappy and everyone reported a good time.

Mr. John Christensen, nephew and wife Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Knox from Smithell, have been visiting relatives at Lee last week. Mr. Knox is well known in the district, having resided here for some years.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lotti and Seymour left Wednesday for Calgary where they will reside for the next two months before leaving for England, to make their home. Mr. Lotti is one of the sons of Byemoor district but has been living here a few years. We are sorry to see him leave Byemoor, but we feel sure the family will prove an asset where every success is their new home.

A pleasant afternoon was spent on September 11 at the home of Mrs. J. Grosser in honor of her birthday. The guests were Mrs. Winkler, Mrs. Daniel Lehr, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. F. Hoffman, Mr. John Jamieson, Mr. Fred Lehr, Mr. Albert Grosser, Mr. Wm. Grosser and Mrs. Grosser. Everyone wished Mrs. Grosser many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roe of Stettler visited Mr. and Mrs. D. Wood on Sunday last.

Mr. Eric Hall, of the Imperial Oil was a business visitor to town Friday.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mr. Ferguson of Byemoor last Friday. Quite a crowd of young people were present. Singing and dancing were enjoyed after which dainty refreshments were served. The party broke up in the wee sma' hours and everyone reported a jolly good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berry of Stettler, with their daughters Misses Betty and Berna were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Winkler at Swart Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. S. Wilson and family were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Green's Dairy ranch at Swart Lake.

STETTLER INSTITUTE NEWS

The monthly meeting of the Stettler Institute of the W. I. was held in the Parish Hall on Saturday, September 14th. After the business were read and correspondence taken up. Minutes discussed. It has been decided to hold a social evening in the near future. Mrs. Keeler was appointed to take charge of that and it was also decided to put on a play later in the season.

A paper on National Events was read by Mrs. John Jamieson, convener for that subject. In her paper she dealt with Legislation by our president, Mrs. Christenson. A report was also given of the convention held in Big Valley. Mrs. Keith then gave out questions on parliamentary rules which were answered in writing by the members. These questions will be given out at each of three or four meetings. There will be a prize given for the most correct answers and also a consolation prize. These prizes will be given by Mrs. Keith.

Community singing was a new feature at this meeting.

Refreshments were Mrs. W. Swain and Mrs. W. Richards.

There were eighteen members present. Visitors were Mrs. Winkler, Mrs. John Jamieson, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. W. Stewart and Mrs. H. Sam, the latter a member of Stettler Institute.

SILVIA BURFIELD

It is with great sorrow we report the death of Miss Sylvia Burfield, in the Misericordia hospital last Saturday, the 14 of September Miss Burfield was very well known in Byemoor district, having taught school there very for a great many years. She was a friend with Mr and Mrs Benlon at the Hutchison Ranch, Byemoor.

Deceased was a great worker in all church affairs and particularly in the Sunday School work for which she was singularly adapted. She has left a great many friends to mourn her loss and will be remembered in the hearts of her friends for years to come.

PENN NEWS

It is with regret that we have to chronicle the death of Mr. Ben Linton, brother of Mrs. Alf Jones of this district. Mr. Linton came to this district some eight or nine years ago with his sister and another brother who has since returned to his home in Ireland. Mr. Linton recently suffered from ill health and was shortly before the 1st inst. He passed on Thursday of last week at last week. He died at the Misericordia hospital, Edmonton, Monday. The funeral will take place at Lakeview Cemetery on Tuesday, September 17th at 1.30. The sympathies of the community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Jones in their bereavement.

The last meeting of the U. F. W. A. which was held at the home of Mrs. E. Hinton, was well attended. It was announced that Mrs. E. Peter of Stettler, Vice-President of the U. F. W. A. should be asked to speak at the next meeting on the subject of homeinstitutes. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

Threshing results are most encouraging to the district. Estimations formed by careful observers, when the crop was harvested with the binder, have had to be replaced by at least half. Many people are only barely getting back their seed, and not even that. It was noted in some stacks of the West that this difficulty was due to the same cause. About one-quarter of that will be under the knife. Now will there be an odd field or two breaking that was broadcast later that the ripening was very well, but are not satisfied of them, however, to affect the total.

Sorrow Without Comfort

They planned and saved together through the years. Every possible addition to their little fund was used to pay for the home they had bought. What comfort they would have when it was paid for—when the mortgage was paid off! But it never was. He died and their income ceased. She lost the home.

A GREAT-WEST LIFE POLICY would have safe-guarded the home for her and if he had been Performable enough to have lived they would have enjoyed together the proceeds of it when it matured.

(By Walter Le Pierres, Stettler)

Walter L. Pierres, born in Liverpool in 1858, now living at Stettler, looks back over ninety years of life and remembers on things past and present.

Following is a review of articles.

1858.—Canada in 1929

All my information was, in those early days, gained from the daily newspapers and I worked it out as early as 1858, when it consists of but one province of Canada, which included the province of Quebec, which included the city of Montreal—and Montreal was then in 1858 the capital. The present day provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, were then Hudson's Bay Territories.

Nearly all the best of Lake Ontario was then in the hands of the Indians, and the white settlers were confined to a small area, which consisted of the Niagara Peninsula, the Lake Erie district, and the Lake Ontario district, and the Ottawa district, and the Lake Huron district, and the Lake Superior district, and the Lake Michigan district, and the Lake Erie district, and the Lake Ontario district, and the Lake Huron district, and the Lake Superior district, and the Lake Michigan district.

I remember that in the year 1858 I was in the city of Montreal, and I remember that I was in the city of Montreal, and I remember that I was in the city of Montreal

IMPORTANT C.N.R. CHANGES

The appointment of a vice-president in charge of the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in Winnipeg, was the outstanding feature of a number of important changes in the operating department personnel of the company announced in take place on August 1st. Three of the chief officers concerned are shown in the photograph. In the center is A. E. Warren, formerly General Manager of the Central Region, who becomes Vice-President of the Western Region. On his right is W. A. Kingsland, formerly General Manager of the Western Region, who becomes General Manager of the Central Region, and on the left is A. A. Wolfe, formerly assistant to the General Manager of the Western Region, who succeeds Mr. Kingsland.

Meeting Of The Stettler Presbytery

A special meeting of the Stettler Presbytery was held in the United Church, Big Valley, on Friday, September 6th, for the purpose of ordaining the Rev. R. F. Kemp into the Big Valley Pastoral Charge. The meeting was impressively conducted by Rev. J. G. Gee, of Stettler, Moderator of the Presbytery.

After the induction, the service was continued by the Rev. J. A. Millar, of Gadsby, who addressed the minister of the congregation. In a thoughtful and convincing manner, he drew out the various duties erected towards the church by the call, and examined by the ordinand, he failed to express their willingness in a out-active and helpful way to co-operate with their minister in building up the Kingdom of God.

Rev. Radcliffe Clegg, of Hallrid, and the Rev H Ben-ensworth, of Donalda, both college chum mates of Mr. Kemp, then addressed the newly inducted minister. Mr. Clegg, after a few personal remarks in which he referred to Mr. Kemp's ability as a preacher, defined the office and work of the minister under the following heads: Preacher,—the careful and well considered preparation of his message; Prophet,—all one speaking for God; Priest,—as one who lives in sympathetic and vital contact with his people; Pastor,—as one who should give compassion to the 'soul' in all things. Mr. Bensworth's address centred on the word 'courage.' The minister must be courageous in his study. In the words of Luther, that, on one occasion he threw his ink pot at the Devil when tempting him in his study. He must also work from discovery. During the truth as it come from all quarters. Then he must be fearless in proclaiming his message from the pulpit, and, at all times when with his fellows. The courageous minister had nothing to fear if his own conscience that he was true to God and true to himself.

After the service, the company adjourned to the basement to partake of luncheon generously provided by the ladies. The good fellowship at the tables was such that a number of others were soon heard singing and naturally followed. Mr. Goddard recalled the time, over twenty years ago, when he was student missionary in this part of the country, and the fall of year 1909, when Mr. Kemp started out on horseback from Stettler, for his first mission field in the Sand Hills. He had been in touch with Mr. Kemp ever since that time; by harrack life at Calgary, on active service overseas, and he was glad to welcome him to the Stettler Presbytery, and the Big Valley Pastoral Charge, being confident that he would 'carry on' the good work in an effective way. Rev. Fred Chapman, Methodist minister at Rumsey, Rev. Mr. Rosenzweith and J. F. Bianco also spoke kindly words regarding Mr. Kemp's settlement at Big Valley.

Mr. Kemp, in making the closing speech, referred to the mutual responsibility which the induction service had upon congregation and minister. He was assured that by working together they would be a power for good in the community. He could promise them that both Mrs. Kemp and him self would do their best, according to their knowledge and ability, and, judging from the hearty welcome which had already been extended to them, they were confident and hopeful that their mutual fellowship of service, with the friends of the church, would be fruitful of good results to the church and praise of God.

The total effort of the evening's proceedings was to convey a deep impression of the significance of an induction service in the life of the local church. The Big Valley United Church has been greatly blessed in the devoted ministry of it's last minister, Rev. B. Whyte Smith; now it stands at the threshold of a new opportunity. The Pre-dstiny, in the hands of God, have spoken to the church that they again 'go forward.'

PLANTING TULIPS

The correct time to plan tulips is when the bulbs are ripe, the ground in condition, and the bulbs in hand, which on the Prairies may be any time between August and Frozen-up. However, as in garden pratices the positive reserved for tulips is usually occupied by summer-flowering plants, the operation has to be deferred until frosts. The good fellowship at the tables was such that a number of others were soon heard singing and naturally followed.

IN RETROSPECT

(By Walter L. Flower, Stettler)

Walter L. Flower, born in Liverpool in 1893, now living at Stettler, looks back over ninety years of life and comments on things past and present. Also of a series of articles.

1.37.—In Chicago

During my residences in Chicago, the best smell of the whole town was assembled on the banks of Lake Michigan and a scheme was started to raise the entire town 14 feet, and construct a system of floor joists under the entire bottom of each building. The Transcontinental Limited was held up for only, and sweeping all cotton block, an old floor cellar, with shops on the pavement level, was chained out below the street level and all party walls dished on each ground cars. Then, hand-power sewer pairs were ranged along each gutter and a main placed to each floor joist. Then the sound of a bugle each man gave a quarter turn to his jack and the building rose the six-walls were raised to permit the regular shopping traffic to proceed. It was privileged to walk through this forest of sewer pipes, 10,000 in number, and felt as "at ease" comforted.

When the desired height was gained foundations were erected and then, in reverse order, the upper ones were removed, the lowest ones being left buried floor. All other buildings were similarly treated although the one I have described really was the most important.

Two months ago, new orange, and all the seeds of a great city were, in the Chicago Tribune, published. Only a few after I left, I made, with deep regret of the event few miles, and I regarded a large part of that enterprising city.

In 1893 I journeyed down the Mississippi on one of the great floating hotels, and two days later landed in St. Louis, Missouri.

I stayed at the old Planter's Hotel—and remember well the quaint old-world ambiance of that rioting city. I was most impressed by a visit to the above hotel, which, between 1861 and 1865, were put up to parlor service in the same manner and with the same sentiment, as horses, or cattle. The wounded purchased privileges among the beds, opening their muskie and examining their teeth, much as the horse dealers acted in their own particular trade. This was of course, peculiar to the outbreak of the Civil War and abolition of slavery. I returned to England in a comfortable and well-appointed sailing ship, for the steamships were very uncertain a period, both in starting and arriving at their destinations, owing to the speculations of the Confederate service was conducted by the Rev. R. L. Rutledge, assisted by the Rev. Jackson Archer of Bartleboro Mission. The Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs met every Wednesday night in the Parish Hall with Rev. Jackson Rutledge as Scoutmaster. Mr. Archer is taking a good work among the young boys of this district.

Sunday School is held in Parish Hall on the last three Sundays in the month at 11 a.m. Mr. L. E. Reid is Superintendent assisted by Mrs. Keith and Mrs. Gladys Bowyer with Mrs. D. Wood as organist.

Mr. George Pegrume and Mr. H. Hart motored to Calgary Saturday evening and Mr F. Curlew with Mr. Ryan of the latter, motored to Calgary on Sunday evening.

NOTES ON A TRIP EAST

Travelling on railway these days is no monotonous task. In fact, for long as anyone I would rather travel by train than any automobile as all weary as the latter will permit—and I don't have to worry to let the railway men pass pretty soon to have sentiment in it all very much. Between Montreal and Toronto, one comes across a number of small towns and villages that are not to be seen from the train. But I have found that conversation with one's fellow travellers is more interesting than the scenery. There is the question of having a drink on the train, you will be surprised to know that I never indulge—not because I am a prohibitionist, but because I am not a drinker. Besides, I have found that the average traveller is more communicative and pleasant when he is not drinking. I have made many friends in this way and found quite interesting information from them. There is the question of tipping. Some people think that a quarter is the right thing to give the porter, but I have found that a dollar is more appreciated. Besides, I have found that the porter is more attentive when he knows that he will get a dollar. Then there is the question of tipping the waiter. Some people think that a quarter is the right thing to give the waiter, but I have found that a dollar is more appreciated. Besides, I have found that the waiter is more attentive when he knows that he will get a dollar. Then there is the question of tipping the porter. Some people think that a quarter is the right thing to give the porter, but I have found that a dollar is more appreciated. Besides, I have found that the porter is more attentive when he knows that he will get a dollar.

Summer in Alberta is the season of Alberta's finest. The days are long and warm, and the nights are cool. The flower gardens are enjoyable, but often marred by rains entering the back porch, particularly at night. An Ontario thunderstorm is one of Nature's tremendous displays of light, noise, thunder and heavy downpours, while the showers in Alberta appear silly full of sight.

The skies in Alberta, especially the sunsets are brighter and more high-coloured than those in the East. It was famous on the prairies during the summer months, but on the other hand, there are bright colors either in the sky or landscape. A haze often envelops the horizon, but one is not cautioned in far distances, the scenery seems clear as by the trees and atmosphere.

Fall in Ontario, barring wet days, is the best time of the year, and it is sometimes prolonged until the middle of December. Then comes winter. In Alberta, fall ends on the 15th. One has a month of Fall weather. What a lovely Fall weather it is! Not usually severe in the Red until the beginning of the year.

Comparing the winters all a matter of taste. To those who love changeable weather, Ontario has a new winter with lots of snow and freezes of that sort. To those who like continuous cold weather, but clear brand of weather, not too hard on the heart and nerves, and cool climate as one, Alberta is the place. Alberta blizzards are the fine are more prevalent in the East. Alberta has a steady winter from November 15th to May 15th, when snow has gone and much air. Then Alberta offers relatively the steady cold. Most people who have experienced it in winters of both Western and Eastern Canada prefer the steady cold in the unfavourable climate of Ontario. Spring comes in March. Besides, one appreciates Alberta's new better weather. The last days cold is much cheaper and more acceptable, and the sunshine is more welcome. It becomes a more pleasant.

Take it all through, the odds are in favor of the Alberta winter, the Alberta and not Alberta natural resources.

In two things however, Ontario has a great advantage over Alberta. The East has been blessed with a heritage of trees which in the story of all Western provinces. Ontario fifty years ago, must have been a paradise of woodland, and I can well remember when the forests even approached the country towns. But the settlers have thrown away this natural asset with an abandon that can only be called criminal. Owing to the lack of coal mines, the people of Ontario have mined their trees, until only a few groves remain at the present time, to show what the province must have been like in the days of the pioneer. The provincial government is trying to retrieve the situation with a system of tree planting and one of the chief departments in the University of Toronto is that of forestry. Many wealthy men are also showing the way in reforesting their lands and I believe that the Hon. Mr. Hepburn has more than 1,000 maple trees on his farm near Toronto. But little by little year after year, the Ontario farmer is depleting what groves remain, and only the utilization of the coal deposits in northern Ontario can save

2 Glasses Water, but Too Cold, Help Constipation

One glass water is not enough—take 2 glasses a half hour before breakfast. You get quicker and better results by adding a little simple glycerin, saline, etc., (known as Adlerika) to one glass.

Unlike other remedies, Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old poisons you never thought were in your system. Adlerika stops GAS and sour stomach in 15 minutes! Relieves constipation in 2 hours.

W. J. HAND—Druggist

the situation, and preserve the remainder from being robbed of its great and immeasurable asset. Old trees, especially the spruce, that should be cut away from already the homesteader to let in the light are left standing, and the fine old maple-, beeches, elms and oaks of the groves are being cut down for fuel or for export. The towns and cities preserve the old trees, but not on account the hydro company from destroying their temples.

Speaking of the hydro, the electric light and power rates are not much cheaper than those in Alberta. The iron stoves and other appliances are more reasonably used in Ontario, but the rates hamper are still much in vogue on the farms. A town householder considers that $5.00 a month is a good cheap light and power for his rent does. The heating rate averages about $1 a cubic foot much cheaper than one rate of 1 cents and I am told that it seems cheaper in the end. Alberta has the advantage of cheap development, when someone shall have a cheaper rate based on the actual cost of production. Then the people will be able to heat their homes and use electricity for cooking, which is now a luxury for all of night.

Another thing I have noticed in Ontario is the lack of good roads. Between Montreal and Toronto, a distance of 330 miles, there is only a few groves remain at the present time, to show what the province must have been like in the days of the pioneer. The provincial government is trying to retrieve the situation with a system of tree planting and one of the chief departments in the University of Toronto is that of forestry. Many wealthy men are also showing the way in reforesting their lands and I believe that the Hon. Mr. Hepburn has more than 1,000 maple trees on his farm near Toronto. But little by little year after year, the Ontario farmer is depleting what groves remain, and only the utilization of the coal deposits in northern Ontario can save

Although it was fishing which had brought the Basques and Bretons to the shores of New South into New Brunswick, furs were the attraction which drew them inland; and in the years of passionate importance to the country, exploration and conversion went hand in hand. The French trader followed the St. Lawrence waterway system into the centre of the continent, sending furs back to East Canada and to France. Town Planning Meeting Held Last Monday Evening

Mr. Seymour, head of the Provincial Town Planning Commission, was the speaker at meeting of the Board of Trade in the Town Hall, last Friday evening. There was a good attendance of citizens of the town and some from the country, also some ladies.

Mr. Seymour introduced the subject by discussing the new town planning Act. This Act deals first of all with signs on public highways, and authorizes that those signs be prohibited except within 2 miles of a city, town or village, in which case they must be located 150 feet from the centre of the road and 1000 feet apart. All refreshment and service stations must be of a form approved by the provincial town planning commission. The local town planning commission is to consist of 6 persons, including mayor and public work councillor. The local commission is asked to prepare various plans of the town, giving its physical characteristics, location of public services, assessment values, etc., and all service areas and other services grants from the provincial body.

After a horticultural lunch, Mr Seymour congratulated the Town on the progress already made in tree planting. He recommended that trees be planted between the sidewalk and the curb, as commercial art prudence all, and stated that flower shrubs be no object in character, that is, the commercial zone should be concentrated in an area suitable to the needs of the town and should not be allowed to spread out, piece by piece, as at times, empty stores may be planned close to residences.

The provincial commission is to be the position to furnish most-by-laws for new buildings, and also for zoning to all local bodies. He recommended a uniform service line for all business buildings, one line for the side storey and one line for the two storey buildings. The speaker claimed that bad form is a town were due to faulty town planning, and instanced the entrance of Wainwright and Edmonton to prove his case. A town planning commission could do much to eliminate some of the description.

Town halls and other public buildings should be built with more than minimum purposes in view; they should be set back from the street line, be of adequate size and architecturally beautiful.

He recommended that grades and graveled streets were also recommended by the speaker, also the cutting of ten feet off from the corners to give better vision.

Mr. Sharpe, President of the Board of Trade, was in the Chair, and, after the address, a motion was tendered by W. F. Hibbs and Dr. Wright, asking the Town Council to appoint a town planning commission, which was carried unanimously. Messrs. J. V. Cosgrave and Mayor Hale moved a vote of thanks, and the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Bert Foster visited with relatives in Stettler last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Nevin motored to Calgary on Saturday, September 30th, after a visit with parents and relatives here. Mr. Lamb was a native of Leighton, and had resided in the vicinity for the past twenty-one years, during which time by her great kindness to all, she endeared herself to many friends, who will sincerely mourn her passing at the early age of 44 years. Whilst in good health she was an active worker in the Ladies' Aid and Women's Institute, and was always ready to extend a helping hand wherever needed. The largely attended funeral, with many beautiful floral tributes, was held from the Union Church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. A. Milner officiating. Interment in the Sunday Cemetery.

Stop at the TEXACO Sign

Millions of Motorists Do

We are not overstating the fact when we say that millions of motorists all over the world stop at the TEXACO Red Star with the green T . . . the sign you see along the roads you drive over every day.

Millions do . . .

. . . because experience has proved to them that TEXACO gasoline and TEXACO Golden Motor Oil keep their running costs down to the lowest levels.

Be one of these millions. Have your car serviced at the TEXACO sign.

HARD CARBON!

It doesn't form with TEXACO

Surprising as it may seem, TEXACO Golden Motor Oil does not form hard carbon in your engine

Unlike many dark oils, this clean, clear, golden lubricant is chiefly free of all hard, carbon-forming residues. That is what gives TEXACO its clear, distinctive color—GOLDEN.

Change to TEXACO Golden Motor Oil. In the next number your motor will run sweetly and perfectly, for the full, vigorous body of TEXACO stands up under the hardest driving strain.

TEXACO
GOLDEN MOTOR OIL

Standard Priced—but BETTER than Standard

Fill up with the new TEXACO Golden Motor Oil. Pay the moderate premium the standard price per gallon. You will travel farther before you need another drain, and if you have been paying several cents more for every gallon.

The new and better TEXACO is a "high test" oil, made from the finest Pennsylvania crude. It is refined by the most modern processes. It is tested by the most exacting standards. Every drop of it is GOLDEN.

WEDDINGS

DOWE—SMITH

An interesting wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith, Hatfield, Alberta, by Rev. Mr. Hallett, at 3.15 p.m. when their youngest daughter Beatrice and Mr. Wilfred Dowe were united in marriage by the Rev. R. Chapin, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride was charming in pale green gossamer with which she wore a brilliant headdress and silver slippers. Her gown was made short in front with swagger neck and sleeves from line, while the soft folds and train of pale green were daintily edged with silver thread. The bridal bouquet was of sweet peas and maiden-hair ferns.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a navy satin crepe and attended with corsage bouquet. Mrs. L. Smith, a sister, bride, chose black canton crepe with touches of crimson. Mrs. C. O'Keefe, of Grande Prairie, was attractively attired in silverdown grey a taffeta with rose trimmings. Miss Dowe was unusually fetching in her wedding navy satin.

Messrs Charles and Louis Smith, brothers of the bride, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, a sumptuous repast was served, after which the minister, in a few appropriate sentences to the young couple, proposed the toast to the health of their friends.

The table was centered with the gift given by bride's sister on a centre piece of blue and white sweet peas, and delicate colors were flowers used to decorate.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smith, Rev. and Mrs. Chapin, Miss Dowe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and Mr. Frank Smith.

After enjoying several musical numbers, Mr. and Mrs. Dowe left by motor for Edmonton, where the honeymoon will be spent, later making their home in Stettler, where the groom is employed in the Creamery.

The bride received a travelling dress of fawn tricotine with fur collar and cuffs, hat and coat of French blue with silver thread. The bridal bouquet was of sweet peas and maiden-hair ferns.

Previous to her marriage, Miss Smith was showered with gifts by her many friends.

Sorrow Without Comfort

They planned and saved together through the years. Every month added to their little bank account. Then they would say when it was paid for—when the mortgage was paid off! But it never was. He died and their hopes crumbled. She lost the home.

A GREAT-WEST LIFE POLICY would have safe-guarded the home for her and if he had been fortunate enough to have lived they would have enjoyed together the proceeds of it when it matured.

Notes On A Trip East

At the risk of making this series of impressions contribute to indigestion among readers, I would like to give a summary of what has come before my notice during Burdette and district with other parts of Western and Eastern Canada.

We are fortunate in this district in having a humid and fertile soil. As I said before, there is no soil in Western Canada to be compared with it except that around Swift Bend, in Saskatchewan. Pilot Mound and Portage la Prairie in Manitoba, and Bow Valley district in Alberta. I mean, of course, the park land of this district, when it has been cleared.

Good soil means a lot in a district, common with a sound foundation of this kind it is only very rarely that a short rainy season will so much injure the crops as to cause a real failure, while with a dry like that of this season a rainfall of 15 to 20 inches is adequate.

The most only one danger in Burdette district, Alberta. That of subjection to early frosts. 1929 will be long remembered as a year of disastrous frosts in August, and Central Alberta is safe in having such late where the frost and shelf are of frequent occurrence. We can make it like the people in country of Saskatchewan if we do. They like frosts. With a heap i said this should not to either accessible or nor should take time by the forelock and start a tree planting and tree preserving campaign that will prevent what has happened in Ontario, where the forest wealth was much greater than here. Alberta has not yet overlooked the value of the shelter belt in the one of the main trees in Manitoba and

BAKER'S BOSTON

It may be cold, without fear of contradiction, that Canadians, generally, do not eat as many biscuits as they should, particularly health biscuits, such as Arrowroot and Peek's Nutmeal Biscuits.

Every household, for instance, should never be without a goodly supply of Arrowroot Biscuits, especially those houses in which there are young children. Arrowroot Biscuits, of course, are so called because they are made from Arrowroot Flour, the best of which comes from St. Vincent, in the West Indies. Why, it may be asked, should this Arrowroot flour be brought all that way when we have the finest wheat in the world growing right here in Western Canada? The answer is, that here are, Arrowroot was found to contain a specially nutritious starch which formed a most easily digested food and it was soon discovered that this starch was particularly suitable and beneficial to infants and convalescents. That is why you should always have Peek's Arrowroot Biscuits on your pantry shelves, and see that they are included in your family's daily diet.

Friday, October 25th, United Church Ladies' Aid will hold a chicken supper in Dow's Hall. Proceeds for piano purchase and will be presented immediately following the supper. This promises to be a splendid evening and you are cordially invited to remember the date and attend.

Mrs. Weber, mother of Mrs. Lotte Sluggett, who has been visiting with her for a number of weeks, has returned to her home in the United States.

Roy Bruce Jamboree held in the I. O. O. F. Hall on Friday evening of last week was quite a successful affair, under the leadership of Mr. J. Lorne Bruce, assisted by Pearl Spencer. Next meeting will be held in the school on Friday evening, October 11th, at 8 p.m. All boys in the district 8 years and over are heartily invited to join up. Seventeen boys already joined on the first night and there are others who will be interested in the movement. If sufficient interest is displayed the formation of a Scout Troop will take place the latter part of this month. In the meantime the boys are invited to bring their chums to the next meeting and help in any way they can to get the organization away to a good start. The objects involve are the promotion of citizenship, to provide clean, wholesome recreation and amusement.

The high cost of patience has nothing to do with the rate of interest in our current crossings. Merely conservative evidence that economic growth on our village must come. The many friends of Mr. Miller of Erskine are glad to know he is home again and trust he will continue to improve in health.

Mrs. J. Meek is visiting Calgary this week to meet her daughter, Miss Gladys Meek, who is returning home after a visit to England.

The high cost of patience is liable to offend the most considerate. The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Cooper, when a very pleasant afternoon was spent by our hostess assisted by several of the young ladies.

Mrs. Wm. Andrews prepared the supper on Remembrance Sunday and Armistice Day which fell in the month of September and October and was very good. Mrs. Brown will be in charge for the balance of the months.

Mrs. J. Lotz had charge of the Sunday School for the past, with the usual enjoyable program prepared by leaders.

Miss Dolores Mae Townsend, Miss Ruth Boyer and Miss Ida Brechtel.

Accompanist—Mrs. Townsend.

Program Selections—Mrs. L. Lotz, Miss Opal Brechtel.

We take this opportunity of again thanking Miss Bergman for so kindly favoring us with the interval piano.

Mrs. Gregory will have charge of the entertaining period for December meeting.

The Sunday School will be held at the home of Mrs. Lotz next.

At the conclusion of this meeting a bounteous and delicious lunch was served by our hostess, assisted by several of the young ladies.

Mrs. J. Lotz and Mrs. L. Horne are assisting Treasurer for the ensuing year, with the new members and many visitors, to all concerned we extend welcome, parents and children; a cordial welcome.

The minutes of the previous meeting were interesting and the financial report most gratifying.

The Girls, Flower and Needlework Committee gave reports in their various work.

As there were many of the members absent it was decided to hold the meeting of names for the Christmas Exchange until the November meeting.

Members especially the older ones of the Waverly W. I. also other friends have been asked to please send Mrs. Annie Fletcher (R. I. Rural Route Fallon Box U. S. A. a birthday card by the 5th of November. Thank you.

Sorrow Without Comfort

They planned and saved together through the years. Every possible addition to their little home was added to pay for the home. What comfort they would have when it was paid for—when the mortgage was paid off? But it never was. He died and their income ceased. She lost the home.

A GREAT-WEST LIFE POLICY would have safe-guarded the home for her and if he had been fortunate enough to have lived they would have enjoyed together the promises of it when it matured.

If he had been managing the Cubs the last two defeats would have been turned into victories, and no contributions would have been necessary. This does not detract, however, from the kindly thought of the Rotary Club and friends in need are friends indeed.

The Doll Contest

100 DOLLS FOR 100 GIRLS

Fifty-six girls have enrolled so far for the Independent Doll Contest, and a number of dolls have not been heard from Of course, by the pruning most of the girls on hand from Stettler and district by next week there will be several more registering from outside points. Our objective this year is 100 dolls for 100 girls, as that is a very reasonable estimate considering the number of merchants who will renew their subscriptions this fall.

There were reluctantly no complaints last year from subscribers in the matter of right dates for subscriptions and this year the Independent will follow the same method of having the girls give receipts for money, and additional receipts will be received by the papers from this office giving full details as to when the subscriptions are paid The changes in the labels will follow in due course. Being made every Tuesday There are thus three checks on the money paid by subscribers and matters are almost impossible but if any error, they will be corrected immediately at this office

The following is the list of girls already entered:

(From an Address by Rev. HUGH PARLEY)

Rev. Hugh Parley, in an address to the last U.F. A. Annual Convention, described some of the things he saw on her trip to the Old Country. That part of her address which dealt with educational matters is given below.

I found that the educational authorities in the different countries are applying the principles of education pretty much varying with the different countries. I found that a great revolt going on against a type of cram-ture education which used to rule throughout the land, and that not [illegible] so much in the University. In England, I was much surprised to find, that here are compulsory curriculum, the teachers making out their own text-books. They have, of course, to allow the Inspector to see the time table, the subjects taught and the teacher has a right to inspect them, but the teacher makes out her own curriculum. There is considerable variety in the different elementary schools, but also in private institutions.

England, the Dominion, follows in a long step of progress that is going on in different schools in different parts of the country, a great many interesting things were observed. I found the chief goodness, the things which I was very certain that we, as a country can learn the most things we are very much on a level. In the Old Land, as in Alberta, they are trying to work towards some type of secondary education which will give children an opportunity of developing their different capacities. The examinations are generally leaving to the University; and in the different countries they have secondary schools having to agriculture and other courses.

The other problem with them, as it is with us, is the question of the elementary education in the country which will not necessarily lead to the town life. I was interested in reading the report of the Inspector of Schools for Cambridge, pressing among the Students of Agriculture. There was a little letter read given over to the discussion of the subject of how [illegible] to type of education which would lead the children away from the country life. There was no thought going out during the discussion of anything to do with the country life. The discussion was entirely confined to the town life. I was interested and worked with enthusiasm should go a far effect, possible out of their own country, not only to gather inspiration, but to investigate real progressive educational work.

An Experiment in Cambridgeshire

There was one very interesting experiment being carried on by one of the educational authorities in the county of Cambridgeshire. I have had some correspondence with the secretary and he has frankly spoken of it as an experiment but it may be an experiment, when carried to work-out set, which will prove a model for the rest of England.

To be brief, the scheme aims at a new and wide-awake education in the country and as it affects and meets the needs of rural life. The scheme briefly is that up to the age of 11 children go on taking normal schooling in the village elementary school; after that age their education is to be carried on at senior schools in the larger villages, in addition to that at certain central points in agricultural districts there will be developed

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT WATERLY.

The Secretary will be in Stettler, at the office of H. W. S. Crop, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for the purpose of collecting taxes on the following dates:

Saturday, September 21st, 1929

Only choice leaves grown at high altitudes go into Five Roses Tea. Nothing else. That is why its flavour is so uniformly excellent. Leaves upon leaving it leave your grandmother unbelievers of inferior grades.

Round the Country

I knew a draymsan in the town where I was born, who ran his dray pretty much the same way when I left, pay for fifty years ouside the same horse and waggon that he first theirty years, and was always the same horse until he [illegible] last twenty years of his activity [illegible] and I do not dray work for the [illegible] of customs and [illegible] Stettler, Alberta as Bake Scotch or Russia Cheese and when he died [illegible] dividend £29,000 [illegible] thereon. [illegible] erected a tombstone for him on the same [illegible] Kirkland, Gowe Bridge.

Our town is not ancient enough to develop a [illegible] that the inscription but I might mention that we have a Buffer Stop [illegible] who has lived his time among the local inhabitants for the past thirty years. Mac as he is familiarly known, has been in commercial circles so long and vocabulary and to speak of his money. When not shaving a customer or cutting his hair he is inspecting [illegible] by playing solitaire checkers or reading classical literature such as the history of Rome from John L. Sullivan to Phil Brrus in checkers he has held the provincial championship for several years and has played rivals by mail in places as far away as Winnipeg and Montreal. He plays sometimes lasting two or three months, like a Chinese play. In fact, a single move would sometimes take three weeks to be communicated especially in the later stages of the game and one can imagine the amount of concentration and patience required for a game of this nature. Mac is also a keen student of chess and cutting hair.

For a number of years Mac has interested himself in the physical and psychological type built of a town, and his stable of horses, while generally more colorful than consistent have put up many a good evening's entertainment. And he kept Bob Fox going in the ring long after Fox had lost faith in his ability to deliver the K. O.

The barbering has progressed the last ten years from a stand-from a one-horse trade it is standing to a profession where the cost of a shave has mounted 100 per cent, and a hair cut is sure to be found among the luxuries of the newly rich. The profession has made a wonderful development through the hair treatment, with new diseases all the freedom that the man formerly had of lifting his own chairs, rolling their own, and disseminating the latest tonsils and lung-lotions. But Mac has learned by experience that the ladies cannot be driven from the barber shop by increasing nourishment, and on one occasion, when by way speculating [illegible] the merits of Sirius and Farmer and declaring that Sirius would win in the 5th, his customer interrupted him with the question "Who do you say would give the K. O. to Sirius?" After that he gave his full attention to Hollywood stylus, and he has developed a technique that persuades the ladies that a shave upon his services day in and day out, from much to night. And he finds that an occasional hair on their lapels when interviewed when [illegible] to use that [illegible] in early days, or the [illegible] wrinkle [illegible] the moustache [illegible] known or remembers the word [illegible] a beauty [illegible] and [illegible] that an old hair has gone bad.

The [illegible] has been [illegible] the engineer and [illegible] has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The car accident at the sharp turn of the road between Bentley and Gadsby last week was a bad one, one man lost his life and another is in hospital in just another respect that this turn would not be allowed on any road in the United States or Western Canada, and it is a disgrace to any Government highway. For some years the settlers have been agitating that this be taken out, but nothing has been done except a preliminary survey.

The Annual Board of Trade banquet tendered to Gordon's Ball will be the star feature of the week and many visitors are planning to attend Visitors will be present from Calgary Edmonton, Drumheller, Penhold, Alix, Mirror Bashaw Dunbow, Morning Creek, Red Deer, Innisfail, Bowden, Rimbey, Ponoka, Lacombe and Big Valley, representing the Board of Trade in these places while the successful contestants in the Farm Boys and Girls Farm Income Competitions will be entertained to supper. Gordon's Ball chief speaker will be Dean Howes, of Alberta University. The Ladies Aid of the United Church will serve the Banquet.

ment the same idea as I found later in the Danish folk Schools, where they choose their teachers, to some extent not on account of training, but on account of personal character and qualities. This young fellow they have found in a carpenter's shop and they told me he was an absolute genius with the children. I talked to him while the children were working and he says the only difficult, he had was to stop the children working. He pointed on a small log and said, "That child would have sat right at it" I would let him, he is so interested in his work."

The Secretary asked me if I would like to go into one of th boys rooms. He said "I told the boy to see the cultural side is not neglected. I will be responsible that he has read every word of those books but he's got a pretty knowledge of them." I read a few minutes everything from Dr[illegible] to the latest book on economics, and that was the History of a boy of 12.

We went into the nursery [illegible] room, and there we already [illegible] wonderful hand-work on materials of every kind. In this room of the children's lives, I found the same atmosphere that they breathed in the nursery. Here again I [illegible] the same thought during other visits, that the child outside the schools lives, and, I found the same impression in the Danish folk schools. The [illegible] and I had found in the English school of "Manual work developing mental power."

The [illegible] Secretary [illegible] Every [illegible] about each [illegible] [illegible] room with the whole of one week's [illegible] and an outside room where the [illegible] [illegible] work if necessary all a evening, for [illegible] so these children [illegible] apart from the other pupils. There were class rooms for water and chalkery where only 7 or 8 were allowed. In addition, to it has been found they have to become confirmed with a large number. When we reached the topmost floor we found a great deal of [illegible] to equipment for every kind of game and sport. For two months in the year [illegible] give way to field sports. I saw wonderful [illegible] [illegible] where the older girls appear [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

KENT—NELSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church Manse, Stettler, on Monday at noon at 12 o'clock when Gladys Mildred, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs William Nelson of Spondin, Alberta, became the bride of James Henry Kenny of Bashaw, Alberta. Rev J. G. Goddard performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Greene of Spondin witnessed the ceremony.

HOWES—GILLS

The home of Mrs. Hibb, beautifully decorated for the occasion, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Thursday October 17th, at 11 a.m. when Mrs. Hibb's daughter, Margaret Mills was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert W. Howes, by the Rev J. G. Goddard. The bride who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white net over beautiful ivory satin and tulle veil, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Collins, dressed in pale pink rouge de Hindi, made a pretty picture as bridesmaid, while Mr F. T. Colley acted as best man. Miss Edith Mills, sister of the bride played Mendelssohn's Wedding March and followed the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served. After which Mr and Mrs. Howes left the train for Calgary and Banff, where they will spend the honeymoon.

The bride's going-away suit was of navy broadcloth trimmed with fur, and she wore a rose hat. Many friends were at the depot to see them off, and confetti then on their way.

Mr. and Mrs. Howes will reside in Stettler, where Mr. Howes is on the staff of the Acorn Laundry Co.

Boxing Tournament

Phil Befus got the decision in his ten round bout against O'Dowd of Winnipeg, last Saturday night, when he landed a technical knock out blow in the 8th round after a rough and tumble scrap of five rounds, which had no dull moments. Referee O'Dwyer was assisting Befus when he broke his engagement and the crowd lost nothing by the change, as O'Dowd is a hard minute substitution. He was always in the game and worked hard to give the fans the worth of their money although he had no chance to win. He was floored three or four times during the bout but always came up again for more and proved to be the toughest scrapper seen here this year Befus was at his best in his swinging blows, and if he had fought as well against Farmer he fight would have gone several rounds, and perhaps the whole ten.

Gene Welsh of Erskine and Pete Nelson of Stettler, fought an interesting six round bout, with no slip moments They kept at it in hammer and tongs throughout and Pete succeeded in getting the decision in the 6th round when Welsh went down and took the count. It was not a hard knock out, but enough to daze him before he could recover his feet again. This is Pete's second win with only two losses in the ring in Stettler.

Sarch, of Calgary, and Drake of Winnipeg, fought a pretty four round exhibition bout and displayed their wares to good advantage. They were not exciting any knock out decision but boxed scientifically and carefully throughout.

The four rounds between Ben Stamp and Kid Treador of Calgary were more a scrap. Stan was a little lighter and smaller than his more experienced opponent, but he kept him going throughout and at no time was he in danger of losing the decision. The boys were in good training and the referee declared the bout a draw

Another good fight was between Babe and Gilbert for the preliminary. Both boys were in good physically, and they had good staying powers for the four rounds of two minutes each. The best part of their clever scraps is that the boys learn that cigarettes and booze are of any kind makes it impossible for them to stay with the game. The boys deserve credit for the condition they gave, and the bout was declared a draw

Don Leonard of Calgary made an official referee, and Kid Burns has reason to congratulate himself on the high class entertainment, although he did not do similar thing pay expenses.

The Doll Contest

100 Dolls for 100 Girls

Seventy-nine girls are now entered for the Doll Contest and we expect to have 100 by the end of the month. We have 100 dolls in four colors now in stock, and there are enough subscribers reserving this fall to give each girl a doll if she is really in earnest in getting one. The main thing is to do a little work every day, and with this fine weather, it is more like play than work. Some of the girls have already won dolls, but we will not give out any names until the end of the month. NOTICE TO PLAINTIFF BUY THE BOOKS

If Lady Godiva's ride were re-enacted today, many would peep to see what a horse looks like.

Gadsby News

Mrs F M Porter, who has been seriously ill for some time, passed away on Saturday, October 19th, aged 63 years. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Mrs. W. E. Erickson, one son Donald, all of Gadsby, and two sons Glen and Gale of Detroit, Michigan. The funeral took place from the United Church to Gadsby Cemetery on Sunday afternoon, Rev J. A. Miller officiating.

A number of his friends in the Norwood district gathered at the home of Mr Burdett Olson on Friday evening to bid him farewell as he is leaving to reside in Medicine Hat. During the evening he was presented with a suitably engraved pen and pencil set.

Mrs. George Hampshire and Mrs. Rogers entertained at the home of the former on Friday evening. Several tables of bridge were enjoyed, honors going to Mrs. E. T. Crowely and Mrs. H. Shaw

Tom Elerington won first prize of $15.00 for a score of 87 1-2 per cent., the presentation being made by Professor Beckville of Alberta University

T. M. Robinson won fifth prize of $10.00 with a score of 87 per cent., the presentation being made by Mr Pair of the C P R. Calgary

Good Farms Competition

Jim Struthers won the Independent Trophy and cash of $15.00 in this competition with a score of 88 per cent. Mr Dinning, provincial live stock commissioner made the presentation.

T. M Robinson was the winner of second prize of $12.50 with a score of 87 per cent. Mr. Cayer of Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, made the presentation.

Frank Howard won third prize in this competition, and received $8.50 the presentation being made by Mr Seymour

All the above prize winners were greeted with much applause from the audience, and the presentations made up the chief feature of the evening

Mr Ken Walker, the judge of the competition was called upon for a few remarks at this stage and he outlined the benefits of the competition from the standpoint of good farming and in distant and remote to those who entered The word question was quite a problem in the district and he found that the competitors had fields of grain which were comparatively free from weeds as they knew that they could not win in any other way He would like to see double the usual number of entries because it made his task easier as weed inspector, and freedom from weeds was only one of the benefits accruing to those who took part in these competitions The result would be better farming, better grain and better farms He suggested that the competitors take more care in rogueing their plots to remove all undesirable heads

Mr John Hanna, Secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, also made a brief address, conveying the greetings of Calgary Board, and spoke of the good work done by the Seed Branch in the district

The chief speaker of the evening was Dean Howes, of the University of Alberta Mr Howes a typical Irishman and Rotarator combines with that fluency of speech and this is the third time he has spoken in Stettler to the enjoyment and advantage of those who heard him For some time he has been working on a series of remunerences of boyhood days on an Ontario farm and for the evening a address he spoke on the old time recreations of the farm such as juvenile games, church socials winter sports weekly dances, rural concerts and spelling bees and one ways that boys and girls of that period were able to enjoy themselves between the chores of the farm. Of course like most boys, they enjoyed the chores the Dean Howes has a series of articles running in many provincial newspapers taking up various phases of his remunicences with the intention no doubt, of having them combined in book form at a later date His address was fully up to the reputation he has made as an entertaining speaker.

Mrs Adshead's Orchestra added to the enjoyment of the occasion by playing several selections during the banquet while the Rev Mr. Goddard rendered the community singing when various well known songs were given by the audience The work of the orchestra and song director formed one of the chief features of the evening and the ladies spared no pains to provide the menu for the banquet. The proceedings closed at 10 30 p.m. with the National

Out of town guests included delegations from the Boards of Trade of Erskine, Mirror, Bashaw Dunsdale, Meeting Creek, Red Willow Gadsby Rodning, Spencour, Big Valley, and Alix, and also the following from other places: Dean Howes of Alberta University the chief speaker of the evening, Professor Beckville of Alberta University, J. J. Dinning, Commissioner of Alberta Liquor Control System Mr Hopkins, former Mayor of Edmonton John Hanna, Secretary of Calgary Board of Trade H H Cooper Edmonton Board of Trade A. L Sanders, M.L.A H A Seyler, Town Planning Commission W O Blakely, architect of the hospital E L. Cayer district agriculturalist of Hanna and the following railway men: W H Decker, general superintendent C.N.R Edmonton Geo F Fair superintendent C.P.R. Edmonton. G A Stapley, district freight agent C P R Edmonton J P Johnson, superintendent C.N.R Calgary, R C Pair divisional freight agent C.N.R of Calgary.

Telegrams of regret were read from John Bine Edmonton G T Van Allen, Edmonton, A Hallett of the C.P.R Calgary, and Mayor Osborne of Calgary for after making many complimentaries to the local Board of Trade

The banquet was served from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. to the accompaniment of music by Mrs. Adshead's Orchestra, and after the splendid menu was given full justice the program opened with Mr W H Sharpe president in the Chair Mr Sharpe welcomed all guests and spoke of the close connection between town and country and also between the various towns and cities of the province all of whom are united in a community of interest

C. L. Wills then introduced the guests, taking the representatives of the district Board of Trade in turn, and giving each a brief statement about the recent achievements of these towns and the good work they were doing for their towns and communities. He then introduced the visitors from Calgary and Edmonton, and the winners of the Field Crop and Stock Judging Competitions

Mr. Harold Hall gave a nice vocal solo at this stage of the proceedings which was encored.

Field Crops Competition

The presentation of prizes were then made to the successful contestants in this competition

Frank Howard won third prize in this competition, and received $8.50 the presentation being made by Mr Seymour

All the above prize winners were greeted with much applause from the audience, and the presentations made up the chief feature of the evening

Mr Ken Walker, the judge of the competition was called upon for a few remarks at this stage and he outlined the benefits of the competition from the standpoint of good farming and in distant and remote to those who entered The word question was quite a problem in the district and he found that the competitors had fields of grain which were comparatively free from weeds as they knew that they could not win in any other way He would like to see double the usual number of entries because it made his task easier as weed inspector, and freedom from weeds was only one of the benefits accruing to those who took part in these competitions The result would be better farming, better grain and better farms He suggested that the competitors take more care in rogueing their plots to remove all undesirable heads

Mr John Hanna, Secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, also made a brief address, conveying the greetings of Calgary Board, and spoke of the good work done by the Seed Branch in the district

The chief speaker of the evening was Dean Howes, of the University of Alberta Mr Howes a typical Irishman and Rotarator combines with that fluency of speech and this is the third time he has spoken in Stettler to the enjoyment and advantage of those who heard him For some time he has been working on a series of remunicences of boyhood days on an Ontario farm and for the evening a address he spoke on the old time recreations of the farm such as juvenile games, church socials winter sports weekly dances, rural concerts and spelling bees and one ways that boys and girls of that period were able to enjoy themselves between the chores of the farm. Of course like most boys, they enjoyed the chores the Dean Howes has a series of articles running in many provincial newspapers taking up various phases of his remunicences with the intention no doubt, of having them combined in book form at a later date His address was fully up to the reputation he has made as an entertaining speaker.

Mrs Adshead's Orchestra added to the enjoyment of the occasion by playing several selections during the banquet while the Rev Mr. Goddard rendered the community singing when various well known songs were given by the audience The work of the orchestra and song director formed one of the chief features of the evening and the ladies spared no pains to provide the menu for the banquet. The proceedings closed at 10 30 p.m. with the National

The Oddfellows Hall was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning between 8 30 and 10 30

A fire had been kindled in the stove about 8 45 a.m to heat water for a social session Smoke was seen escaping from the roof on the front side of the building and immediately the alarm was given

Men rushed to the hall with the chemical engine and other available fire extinguishers. On opening the door it was found impossible to enter owing to the dense smoke Upon breaking the window it was found that the regalia room was a mass of flames. The building was 30 feet in length but the fire was confined to a small room at the north west corner of the building where the stove had been lit All the property of the Lodge was stored in this room, also a number of band instruments and music

It was impossible to pass the control of the flames with the fire fighting apparatus available and the building was doomed from the time the fire was discovered

An entrance was forced at the rear end of the building and the piano, lady scarcel, also chairs, etc and the banker stove were rescued from the burning building

Fortunately for adjoining residences the wind was from the south-east otherwise several homes would have been in danger. As it was there was nothing but an open space for more than a block east of the building so that no other property caught fire The hall had just been newly painted and two or three cans of paint were left in the building.

The Hall was built in 1920 and was used regularly by the Oddfellows and Rebeccas The building and property were insured, but it is a severe loss especially this present year with its adverse crop conditions

Beyond slight damage to sidewalls no other property was endangered

The Lanes Aid met at the parsonage on Wednesday last for its regular monthly meeting

Rev R. Clegg spent last week at Compper conducting special evangelistic meetings. He was accompanied by Walter Lamash on cornet playing

Edmonton Minister Visits Stettler

Preaching S. D. A. Truths Outside the Church Building

Evangelist G. T. White of Edmonton, was in the town over the week-end holding services in the Seventh Day Adventists in the IO O F. Hall. In his sermons he set forth the straightforward Bible arguments of their faith and made timely and appropriate applications of scripture for those who have recently started to study with them in the truth.

On Sunday night he spoke on the subject "Is the Sunday Sacred?" The Adventists Observe the Seventh Day Sabbath, Not the First Day

He called attention to the fact that on the one hand by far the greater part of Christendom is observing, to a greater or less degree, the first day of the week as the Sabbath, and on the other hand we find the Seventh Day Adventists, the Seventh Day Baptists and other smaller denominations observing the 7th day

Which of these groups would have some very good reasons for their belief and practice, Stettler and Mr White We certainly do not set out to find any reasons for that might come from it, for many of the strongest arguments against it have been begging the Bible question but no reply.

We do not do it for the sake of being opposed, for what in all the world is so unpopular as Sabbath keeping? Why then do the Seventh Day Adventists keep the 7th day? First—Because the Bible teaches it. Second—Because of Protestants The Bible and the Bible alone as a Rule of Faith and Practice, and we find that the Bible has nothing to say about changing the day of the Sabbath or about the first day of the week being the day for worship

Second—We find in the very bosom of the moral law of God the Sabbath commandment. It is the fourth commandment.

Seventh Day Adventists have been ridiculed and persecuted for their stand on the Sabbath question, accusing this law of God but upon investigation we find that their accusers often little if any in theory from the position of other Protestants. Protestantism as stated by some of their leading men or in their confessions of faith

For instance John Calvin, the great reformer said We must not imagine that the Jewish people alone has freed us from the authority of the law for it is the eternal rule for the duty of a devout and holy life and must remain fixed in the kingdom of Christ the justice of God which it enforces is not changed or abolished

Calvin's Comment on Matt 5 17 Institutes Book 2 Chapter 8 Section 28 on a Harmony of the Gospels Vol 1 p 127 Printed Edinburgh 1845 And the Calvin Translation Society This is good Seventh Day Adventist Doctrine

Bishop Simpson of the Methodist Episcopal Church says The law of God in its great and solemn proportions cannot be forgotten or set forth Our congregations should be gathered as around the base of Mt Sinai while from its summit is heard the voice of God in those commandments which are unalterable and eternal in their character. The law must be proclaimed in its unity

RATION

(By Florence Rimtch Boys)

At first, rayon was accepted as a substitute for silk, but of late, it frankly gives in on its own. It is more enduring than silk and may be as beautiful. Rayon underwear can be had in many colors. As much may not be said for silk.

To wash rayon, plunge it in and out of suds until the soil disappears. Rinse it thoroughly. Do not wring out article. Let press the water out gently and wrap it in a towel to dry. Iron while still damp with an iron that is not too hot.

Pupils Help At Home

The other feature is they seem to have numerous jobs on early days, particularly large number of rural-minded teachers, who are luminaries in the communities and in full sympathy with agricultural life and endeavour. Then the third feature, which is quite unique, and which I do not believe would appeal at all to a western Canadian audience is that from the earliest time they have always arranged that rural evenings should not interfere with the help of the children on the farms and they have divided up the school year in various ways. In West Jutland they have a system whereby all the children attend school for six hours a day from November to May, but then on the top of the various according to the age of the pupils. The older pupils helping on the farm and then on the other day a week and the younger two or three days. That seems extraordinary to us but the object is has the effect of keeping the boys and girls interested in agriculture, and Denmark has never any complaint of a drift to the cities. They say when the children do come to school they give every attention to their lessons and get through a large amount of work in less time. It is said of this spot on that the great leaders in Denmark and a great many of the university professors have come from the rural districts and from the schools in small towns, and a great majority of the young Danes from the farms go to work on the farms when they come to the age of 14 and later go on to the agricultural folk schools.

The Folk Schools

I think there is a good deal of misunderstanding about the folk schools. They are not schools for children at all. They are not free and most are owned by private individuals, many of them passed on from father to son. I was able to visit some of them.

At one I visited they were very busy going through threshing, clearing and all the women home with the children. They had old and young there both around a court yard and in the barn as the weather was very wet. I was with the gentleman who was the principal of the school and he answered me: "An earnest question deserves an earnest answer. I may say that schools are in earnest. There are times when they have been made to become too practical and have been too real purposes. Such a time came during the war years, it must always be so, but we are doing it in a middle and the young people are in earnest now, and we are endeavoring to keep up the spirit of the school.

I do not think, Indian and gentlemen, that there is the slightest doubt that the spiritual and cultural ideals of the folk schools of the Danish people is all to the good. Such a close agricultural and co-operative work. Some of you, most of you, or four, think that co-operation is a pretty fine thing to improve your economical conditions, but that is all there is to co-operation. I have tried sometimes, very feebly I know, to point out how and there that co-operation on a fine-minded economic movement, but it is the lining of the upper consciousness, the great spiritual qualities of loyalty, integrity and honor and unselfishness. Without these qualities, co-operation is the end will fail. Even if you have reached at me when Rome argued this point and say all the farmers care about is the economic side, I say to the other is all bunk, as I was very interested when in Denmark, to talk to many of their leaders in co-operative work and ask from everyone, to whom I spoke I put the question: "Is co-operation worthwhile?" and everyone answered: "Yes, co-operation means more than the ideal side counts. Only look to the spiritual side and you are starved a runner lost. True co-operation always falls if controlled by purely material motives.

Education For Democracy

SIR JOSIAH STAMP Ignorance exists when you don't know that you don't know things.

JOHN G. DILLE Anyone not only can be rich but ought to be rich.

ST. HON. STANLEY BALDWIN—A library should be a place into which you can be flung at any time and you will find your own pastures.

GEORGE JEAN NATHAN—Nobody who goes into public office ever had any intellectual hankings.

ROBERT LYND—To own many things is the chief aim of civilized human being. To want many things is the chief aim of the savage. To be the south of an intelligent human being.

R. G. WILLS—It is hoped that democracy is astonishing, but among the alive beneaths the bayonet still glistens.

EDITH SITWELL—If women are prejudiced, if they give to the students the same high qualities as the old universities, they will be doing a great service to the world. Then he went on to say that one of the other aims of the folk schools was to give to the people of Denmark a desire for knowledge, a desire for self-improvement, in fact, the Danes looked upon their land of Liberty as one where they first developed their folk schools.

I did not have time to visit the elementary schools, but I did spend a certain amount of time on the question of education. I have gathered from what I have read since being in Denmark, from what I was told and let written by the Danish Agricultural Advisor to the Danish Legation, that Danish elementary education has three features. The first feature is that Denmark has had compulsory school on from a very early age, from 1814 it was made compulsory and the attendance has been very good. The next generation that was extended to the country, and 1789 a Royal Commission submitted that children should be taught free of charge. Under a Royal Decree in 1814 it was made compulsory that all children from 7 to 14 years should be taught.

WEDDINGS

BAKER—McLEOD

St. Peter's Ev. Lutheran church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday, October 17th, at 2 p.m. when Henry Vasser, a well known farmer of the Stettler district and she the Marvin from Kensington, Ontario, were united in holy wedlock by the Rev. The bride and groom left on a five-passenger car for a short honeymoon trip to the groom's home where they will reside. The happy couple left many friends who wish them every success.

BOOTY—CRAIG

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Mason, Stettler, Alberta, on Wednesday, October 16th, at 8 o'clock when Daphne Mae Craig became the bride of Percy Lionel Booty, both of Lousana, Alberta. Rev. J. G. Chadwick officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was charmingly dressed in a blue Canton Crepe, trimmed with lace. Miss Gladys Craig acted as bridesmaid and was daintily gowned in Powder Blue Georgette.

Mr. Gordon Craig attended the groom.

The happy couple left on the same train for Edmonton where a short honeymoon will be spent, after which they will make their home in the Lousana district.

CORRIGENDA

(By H. Reginald Manly)

Its comin' rush to hustle time,
The yellow woodbinds call;
Our nutty guns and kits are hung
To keep the Fall.

But I say, the Fall, are wrong,
As I have told it for good byes,
Though there is echoes in your heart
And hearing in your eye.

Oh, they sings sometimes years we spent
By mountain, bush and creek!
I've laughed and cried and thrilled them, I did duck and
And where the mallard quacks;
An how red lake we started;
Ain't a thousand miles we went;
It was with you I learnt the true
High raptures of content.

Oh, they sings sometimes years we spent
In telling me to go
And seek the snowsings' Paradise,
Where all winds carry sorps and blow.

I'd take the trails that follow
Through the sunshine and the rain
The while you know you'll never go Back home again.

I know that when I'd reach the hill
Where all the world lies all the woods
Were only half awake,
I'd feel I was a stranger
I was falling like a charm,
And I would long to turn right out
And grasp your friendly arm.

So, when it comes to hunting time,
Why, I shall simply stay
Beside you by the crackling fire
And while the hours away
You'll smoke your old black briar,
And I'll puff my cigarette;
For we've been pals and always will
Oh! comrade, don't forget!

INDIANS DEMAND RIGHTS

Northern Outlook Club's Shot The Chinee on Treaty of Utrecht.

Sudbury, Ont.—Chiefs and delegates from all the principal Indian Reservations in Northern Ontario are meeting here at a general council to seek restoration of their ancient rights and privileges in the forests where their forefathers reigned supreme. The Indians declare their people are entitled for modern civilized life yet that their livelihood is bound up in streams and forests and that trapping is practically their only source of revenue. The treaty of Utrecht and a proclamation of George III. are the basis of their claims.

The Doll Contest

500 Dolls For 500 Girls

Eighty-three girls are now entered in the Independent Doll Contest compared with 70 last year at November 1st. There are still more to come as the full number has not yet been reported from Ondohy, Botha, Erskine, Red Willow and Donalda. There will be 500 girls entered altogether and we have 100 dolls waiting for them as soon as they complete their lists. We would ask all girls to hand in their subscriptions as they get them so that we can change the dates for old subscribers and get the paper going for new ones.

Five dolls went out during the past week to girls whose names will be given later, but there are a number of girls who are just on the verge of getting dolls and we will have a large list next week November is the best month for selling dolls. The weather is fine and there is no snow. A lot of subscribers renew in November and their votes are going to some girls somewhere. The time to make a start is when everything is favorable. If all subscribers paid up this month we would cut 100 dolls, so that there is a good chance for everybody.

The following is the list of girls entered up to date:—

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Arne Smith, of Stettler, witnessed the ceremony. Pastor R. S. Stanley Hunt officiated.

CHAUTAUQUA

The annual Chautauqua was held in Stettler Theatre on Saturday, Monday Tuesday and Wednesday of this week The attendance was good but not as large as last year

The program as a whole contained of two plays by the Martin Brown Co. concerts by the Matthews and Leslie Elmore Companies and lectures by Charles Plattenburg and Captain Bentley

Taking it all through the plays were the best items of the program The Martin Brown Company have got everything a company should have, and they should be good because they do nothing else The play "Tommy" was the better of the two as the company was hardly restrained enough in "Give and Take" The concert companies were good. Their purpose was to entertain rather than instruct, and they succeeded admirably There was not much to choose between them, but probably the Elmore Company was a little better owing to the good work of little Leslie in the box as a reciter The does not refer to the work of the musicians which was well done throughout.

If the lectures were supposed to be entertaining they fulfilled their purpose. If educational, they fell short Charles Plattenburg could improve his lectures by talking more with his lips and teeth and less with his face and body He represents the old style of Chautauqua speakers who were also evangelists The new style calls for a little more polish

Capt Hedley spoke entertainingly on his experiences as an airman in the Great War He had a good subject, but apart from the mention of his own experiences, he did not take full advantage of his opportunities He could have given more valuable information about an airman's life in the war

Miss Gilmore, the superintendent of the children's hour, required always "there" when required Chautauqua knows the value of entertaining ladies as superintendents, instead of men. That is where they shine!

The first annual banquet of the Donalda W. I. will be held on the evening of October 30th, for members and their husbands and a splendid evening is being planned.

I, the President of the Women's Institute want to publicly thank all who so willingly helped to make the Chicken Supper and Concert a success which was held on Friday, October 25th, in Dow's Hall, Erskine, under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Erskine.

MRS. J. E. BRETTLE,
President

W. C. T. U. Events

Last Thursday evening was the occasion of another outstanding gathering of our Union and friends when Mrs M L MacPherson, Provincial Recording Secretary, at the lovely new home of Mrs A. Ess, delivered a very excellent, forceful and illuminating address, stating facts, clear, clean cut, that our Province needing no camp talking for constructive purposes, but in the last five years spent $80 000,000 in legalized sale of liquors. Add to this an almost equal amount and illegally and we have some idea of the standing debauchery and the staggering fact that this province of promise is rapidly becoming one of drunkards and the harvest a crop of interminable mental institutions, etc.—to say nothing of the harvest for to be reaped through heredity. Again we learn that last year Ontario with its permanent law temperance Act spent $1,000,000 a week or $52 000 000 a year in legalized hard liquor.

Mrs MacPherson is delivering her message throughout Stettler district in a limited time Mrs. Rev. Drake and Mrs Bergman and Mr. Linsley assisted finely in the musical program and Miss Sybil Bergman, who has since left to continue her studies in the School of Expression, Minneapolis, was very liberal in her selections to the delight of all.

A very bountiful tea was served to the more than 50 guests, and the Union is very grateful to Mrs. Ess and Mr. Ess for opening their new home, and for the cordial welcome and splendid arrangements for everything

Death has claimed another pioneer of this district when Mr. Ed. Bell passed away on Sunday, October 20th after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Bell was such a strong and active man that many people hardly realized that he had reached the advanced age of 81 years.

He was born in Indiana, U.S.A. but later moved to Kansas where he lived for many years.

The Bell family came to Alberta during the spring of 1903. Two of the boys still remain with the home and Mr. Bell purchased a large acreage.

For two years the family resided in Lacombe, the boys making the trip back and forth to do the necessary work on the new homestead.

The family moved out here in 1905 and have since resided in the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell were both well known throughout the district, having raised a family of ten children and had the misfortune of losing them all save one husband and womanhood. The family circle once was broken only once with the death of the eldest daughter, which occurred many years ago.

During the hardest of the pioneering days were over and prosperity began to crown the family, the one by one, began spending their time in the South Country, Calgary and Edmonton.

Mrs. Bell died there in May 1926, and since that time Mr. Bell made his summers in Alberta.

All of the children were with their father at the time of his death with the exception of Arthur who was unable to reach his bedside before death claimed him.

Funeral services were held in the Bell on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A large crowd of old friends and neighbors gathered there to pay their last respects to one who will always be remembered in the community. The floral offerings were very beautiful. The music was furnished by Mrs. Grinder, Myrtle and Mrs. Mueller of Stettler. The pallbearers were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Goddard of Stettler.

The body was shipped to Lone Star on Wednesday morning and was accompanied by Guy Bell and Harold Jon.

Stewart Jon, Bessey and Gale Bell and Mildred Sander left in Every's truck on Tuesday evening. By the time they reach Leduc, they expect to be able to reach California.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bothe and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Young Sheak by the time the body arrives there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Larkin were Leo visitors last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Vaughn are the proud parents of a fine baby girl.

We hear that Mrs. Clapham and family of Little Gem spent last week in this community.

Don Patterson made a flying visit to Calgary for the week end.

We hear Mrs. Bates, who has been ill for some time will soon be well again.

IF HIT WAS THE TOWN FOR YOU

Is you want to live in the land of the blind of a town you like.

Is you want to live in a town where you can buy your realists in a city.

Search on a long, long hike.

For you'll only find what you left behind

For there's nothing that's really new.

Is a block at yourself when you knock some town.

Is you want to leave—Do You.

Real towns are not made by men afraid

Lest someone get ahead.

When everybody works and nobody shirks

You can raise a town from the dead.

And if what you make your pay-envelope reads—

Your neighbor sits Smilin' one, too,

Is you want to what you want to see,

Is isn't your town—Do You!

AT HOME

What will the day be? It is cosy
We note the wind, we mass the sky and hill,
Each with its signs foreboding what will be
God's gift to earth from autumn's treasury
Beauty of clinging cloud that wreaths hill and dale
Wind-born and death along half-hidden copse
Beauty of benefiting rain that turns
To virtue hurrying torrents all the borne
Or cloudless glory, noon, noon, evening through
North Star beneath a heaven of gold and blue?

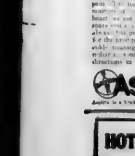
Old Bicycles On Exhibition

A remarkable collection of bicycles, some of them the "last word" when they were new, is now installed in the museum in London. This museum, at the London Telegraph points out, has passed through many changes of locations since the days of the unmourned and unmissed "bubble," in the early part of last century. Yet it is easy to believe that even the "bone-shaker" and the penny-farthing replete with possibilities of treading on toes were inspired as much affection in the hearts of their devotees as are the smart and efficient motor-cycles of this age of speed and engines has inspired in the heart of the short-skirted young sub who rides on the pillion.

Changed times, changed customs. Just as the early bicycle as an instrument of pleasure gave way to a more reliable type of machine, so the later bicycle has, on a large extent been replaced by still more advanced forms of no-pedal locomotion, and the modern road crowded with its fast-moving motor-cars, has driven the pedal cyclist into the by-ways.

There are not wanting, indeed, those among the motor-car-owning members of the population who consider that the museum is the only fit abode for the pedal-cycle now-a-days. It is an uncharitable view, and one, fortunately, not widely shared, even by motorists while it is fiercely contradicted by the interesting fact that there are more "push-bikers" on the road today than ever there was before. At the same time it is true, and the cyclist would be the first to admit it, that in-so-far as his own safety and comfort are concerned, he is, in general, better off the main traffic route with his machine than on them. None the less he has his own compensations.



Made Police Double Finger Print System

Clever Crook Found Method To Puzzle Police at Times

Continuous

The finger prints as a means of identification has ceased to be so infallible Quite apart from the ordinary use of rubber gloves, there is at least one case on record of a crook who broke deeply upon the whole international system of this method of identification. That criminal was Louis Cinbollere a French doctor, who disgraced himself in the profession, served a sentence in prison, and then became a burglar. Once outside the prison gates he set himself the task of finding a method to thwart the finger-print system. He used his professional knowledge to secure a job in the School of Medicine at Lyons. There, with great skill, he contrived to take the skin from the thumbs and fingers of a corpse before careful afterwards to hide his handiwork by applying chemicals that speeded-up decomposition.

He then mounted the skin on a specially prepared parchment and set out upon a series of assaults on burglaries. He deliberately left finger-prints of a known, but dead crook! His method of using the gruesome device was first to pose it against his chest and so moisten the skin for the impress and then lay it over various articles in the room where he had committed the burglary. Cinbollere confessed to all this on his death-bed; but not before he had given the police of three continents very grave reason to doubt the reliability of the finger-print system. The prosecutional result of today is very often a scan of scientific attainments, but they are matched against equally clever brains.

Come Up On Flying Shoes

(By Bruce Grear)
President Grear College of Aeronautics, Chicago, Ill.

Like all other callings, aviation has its own unique phraseology, much of which is timed in the language. Yet new terms come constantly into use as everyday talk. For novices and various readers which have "rung the bell."

An ingress has nothing to do with the kitchen. It is the successful approach to the hangar on which the flow warms up his ship.

To Cook means to fly the ship in any way to fly another, or merely the method of correcting the controls to handle a cross wind.

When a motor heats, it goes cooky.

The Hanger is a shop who wants flying clothes but doesn't own a plane. He is classed with the lad who wears a yachting cap, but doesn't own a yacht, or the poseur who hasn't any shoes.

The Outdoor Crew is an aviator's favorite slang for a balloon or dirigible. Airplane pilots hate em and the fire would name Mercy Fund a all-metal ship the Tin Goose. Which is what he gets for peaking his nose-in-the-air.

When the weather is thick, with low visibility, the flier calls it—soupy.

Can you guess what Bank is? No? Well, it isn't one-half as exciting as you think. It is merely the word cans that hangs on a pole over the hangar. It is used to indicate the direction of the wind.

The thing you fly in always a ship, not an airplane. Or you may call it a job, a crate or a kite, as it all the same.

To Pink-Tail means kicking the rear ships and to side to side as to forward speed for a quick landing. This is accomplished by vicious over-control of the rudder.

To Zoom a motor by opening the throttle while gliding, but a ship is "zoomed" by diving low over it and performing any kind of forbidden stunts.

The Ground Loop is the most dreaded and vexating, indeed, those among the motor-car-owning members of the population who consider that the museum is the only fit abode for the pedal-cycle now-a-days. It is an uncharitable view, and one, fortunately, not widely shared, even by motorists while it is fiercely contradicted by the interesting fact that there are more "push-bikers" on the road today than ever there was before. At the same time it is true, and the cyclist would be the first to admit it, that in-so-far as his own safety and comfort are concerned, he is, in general, better off the main traffic route with his machine than on them. None the less he has his own compensations.

JUDGE GRAY OF STETTLER ALIAS "BUCKSKIN BILLY" KEEPS REGULAR MUSEUM

(By Matthews Hardman Attorney)

Hardly everyone in and around the town of Stettler knows the name and fame of Judge Gray, once famous lawyer and afterwards spoken of as "Buckskin Billy." A great many people enjoy his personal friendship, and there are probably hundreds who have enjoyed some little act of kindness at his hands during the almost half century that he has lived in the West.

Judge Gray admits to a variety of professional qualifications, among which are notary of the peace, registrar, and notary public, insurance agent, official assignee, agent for C P R. and Hudson's Bay lands, fur farmer and so forth. In fact his professional capacity he is to a friend, counselor and adviser to scores of newcomers to the west, and to a host of old and new acquaintances.

There is another side to him, however, which few people know. Always, namely his ability as a naturalist, and his keen appreciation and understanding of all living things. He is a true friend to animals, and of old and valuable acquaintance to the feathered tribe. Many a time has he gone past, have led him to make some sustaining collection of specimens, only all of which are stored in his collection with the exception of Stettler.

Many interested visitor is welcome at Judge Gray's home on Sunday afternoon, which is the only time in the week that he is free to show his numerous official duties, and he will gratefully show you his collection, telling you in his own inimitable fashion all of the tails and history of each successful and unsuccessful capture. Judge Gray has a marvellous memory indeed for his stories. Every one is accurate to him, not because of any interest, which he attaches to it, but because of the intimate association with the facts concerning it, and he takes keen pleasure in recalling those facts for the benefit of others.

I should estimate that there are several thousand specimens, all told, in occupying the downstairs portion of Mr Gray's home. They are packed closely together for want of space and are not arranged with regard for classification. There is a half-time job somebody for one of these days to attempt the work of properly classifying and arranging all the material, and an interesting and fascinating job it will be.

The living and dining rooms are almost dim with the shadows of huge heads—moose, elk, antelope, deer, mountain sheep, and caribou, deer, of all ages from one to seven, showing the different growths of the antlers at these various periods.

Bald Eagle Eyes

Between and around the heads on the walls are hung specimens of Mr Gray's old friends, some who helped to blaze the trail that the newcomers of today are trying worthily to follow. Scores of the homesteads that were the first settlements around the district are here—men and women who came to a land that was still the hunting ground of the Indian and buffalo, pictures of Edmonton and Calgary as they looked when pioneers cities as they were, or rather were not, almost half a century ago.

About the room are large cases and boxes containing specimens of bird life in Canada. There is at least one specimen of practically every Canadian bird from the golden eagle down to the smallest wood bird, and an almost complete collection of the eggs of all these different varieties.

Among the more unusual items are a number of fresh and salt water shells and a set of coins from the time of Julius Caesar down to the present day.

The collection of implements of warfare is also interestingly interesting. There are marvellous bronze shoes and of guns, from ancient matchlocks down to those used in the recent war, with ancient daggers, Roman swords, bows and quivers, arrows, and knives from different parts of the world.

Indian Specimens

Many of the Indian specimens have been presented to Mr. Gray by chiefs of the Blackfoot and Blood tribes. There are marvellous beaded shirts and necklaces made from antique shillings, and highly polished until they appear like solid ivory. There are fine and rare pipes of bronzes and specimens of buffalo arrows, and beaded tomahawks, which were used for breaking bones to extract the marrow.

The interest in Mr. Gray's belongings does not, however, cease with the interesting collections in his house. Outside are to be found cages containing different specimens of wild bird and animal life that he has successfully brought into captivity. Somewhat after the fashion of Bill Sikmer, he has successfully learned a flock of wild geese, which he has bred for forty years, and which are so tame now that they will eat from the hand of a child. A few years ago Mr. Gray presented some beautiful specimens of the pheasant and Hungarian partridges, but one of his pet badgers got loose one day and killed them all.

Gifts To Edmonton Zoo

Two beautiful golden eagles are also a feature of Judge Gray's home in the Edmonton Zoo, to which they have been presented. There are a number of chinchilla rabbit, badger, racoon, ikeshiling, one albino racoon, and skunks, which have been deodorized. At various times Mr. Gray has possessed buffalo, moose elk, and antelope and he has had all specimens of bears except the polar bear. I remember a bear that used to live on the end of a long chain in his yard, but it got loose so many times and so scared the people of the district, that he was forced to get rid of him. That was a pet, by the means! Mr Gray's most recent acquisition has been a silver fox, of which he has about forty, all of different colors.

Much credit for the success Mr. Gray has made of his life in the West must be attributed to his wife and mother of his family of boys and girls. There is only one subject upon which these two good people disagree, and that is the bear, and "tidying up" of the premises. Mrs. Gray is a great believer in the cleanliness of every material value although Mr. Gray has other views and understands them.

Mr. Gray is a great lover Mr Gray, "I never was so well, and I never was so happy so I am today!"

The Drumheller Municipal Hospital

(By Edna Kells)

After serving a population of approximately 25,000 persons for nine years the Drumheller Municipal hospital has been enlarged this year to provide an additional sixty beds, thus increasing the accommodation from 50 to 110 beds. The growing demand for hospital facilities in the community and the hospital board undertook the task without anxiety, for a surplus of $70,000 had accumulated in those years, and the financing of a $55,000 issue was no problem. The wing has been built and equipped out of the surplus, and a sum sufficient to cover the cost of the additions and alterations in the centre. Consequently, the finances of the Board and residents of the district generally, will carry themselves without any increase in taxation is opened in the new Extension.

The Drumheller hospital serves an industrial as well as an agricultural district, and many of the beds being largely miners engaged in the rich Drumheller coal mines. These miners decided one day when the first hospital vote was taken, for the rural population was strongly opposed to the idea, and the vote was defeated at every rural point. Moreover, this opposition was short lived, for the country people soon saw the value of the hospital to them, not only from a humanitarian point of view, but because it increased the value of their land. Now they are staunch supporters of the hospital.

From the first the miners favored the Municipal hospital scheme. Mine accidents are all too common, and as housing conditions for the Drumheller miners are not the best there was con-

Bank of Montreal Crop Report

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have compiled same from correspondence of each district and are in close touch with crop conditions at all seasons of the districts mentioned:—

GENERAL

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates the 1929 wheat yield in the Prairie Provinces at 385,000,000 bushels which closely approximates the average estimate from 9 responsible sources. This compares with the Bureau's final figures for the record year 1928 of 566,000,000 bushels, the past five year average of 397,000,000 bushels and the ten year average of 349,000,000 bushels. The Bureau estimates this year's oat crop at 143,000,000 bushels or 106,000,000 bushels less than last year, and barley at 34,000,000 or 16,000,000 bushels less than last year. In Quebec the year's operations are reported to have been satisfactory with average yields. In Ontario the wet and backward spring followed by dry June and July with continuous drought affected the growth of all grains and considerable damage is reported in fields. But, on the whole, the crop of hay was harvested in good condition and Pasturage was good over the greater part of the province. Corn was backward in starting but developed into a fair crop. In the Maritime Provinces potatoes and grains, hay were late and the summer unusually dry but a bumper crop of potatoes is reported. Fruit is generally all harvested turned out well. In British Columbia, lack of moisture in the present growth is not making any serious trouble. Pastures are in excellent condition. Large quantities being of certified seed. Nova Scotia has a harvest of 7,000,000 or more barrels of later seed will be inspected before being sacked by an official of the Department and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed. In the part of the province north of Red Deer inspection of all seed shipments must be made by W. G. Lawrie 125 31st Ave. West Calgary, and in the northern part of the province Mr. Fraser, from headquarters at Peace River. Mr. Fraser's district will apply to the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts.

Any shipments of this kind it is announced by Minister of Agriculture must be inspected before being sacked by an official of the Department and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed. In the part of the province north of Red Deer inspection of all seed shipments must be made by W. G. Lawrie 125 31st Ave. West Calgary, and in the northern part of the province Mr. Fraser, from headquarters at Peace River. Mr. Fraser's district will apply to the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Manitoba received more rain during the season than Saskatchewan and Alberta and while the wheat is heavy it is estimated to be about 75 per cent of normal. A crop failure in the southern districts and in central and southern Saskatchewan, but taking the Province as a whole the wheat yield is about 60 per cent normal. Late rains in Alberta raised serious damage to potatoes in consider of partial failure in many districts. The estimated yield of wheat in that province is 80,347,000 bushels as compared with the yield of wheat for the past five years of 132,841,000 bushels. In the Prairie Provinces this year 1,157,000 acres more land was under crop than in 1928 Saskatchewan having the largest acreage in its history. It is estimated that 24,297,000 acres were sown to wheat 1,721,000 acres to oats and 2,114,000 acres to barley as compared with 23,156,000 acres to wheat 8,127,000 acres to oats and 1,104,000 acres to barley last year. The seed bed was in good condition and sufficient for germination but there was little moisture. Seeding became general about the end of April and was completed under favorable conditions early in June Early growth was slow and towards the end of June the crop was about ten days later than usual. During July and early August dry weather prevailed but scattered showers prevented what at one time threatened to be a crop failure The grain matured rapidly and cutting became general by mid-August. Harvesting operations were conducted under most favorable conditions and threshing has now been completed Although the total wheat production is only half the 1928 yield the total output is about 85 per cent of average or the past five years and 77 per cent of the ten year average The wheat is of exceptionally high grade with excellent milling qualities. Since August 1st 105,000,000 bushels have been delivered to the three Prairie Provinces as compared with 228,000,000 bushels at this time last year.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Haying was considered under favorable weather conditions. A good average crop of cereals of quality being stored with. Small harvest ing weather during September, all grain crops were gathered in good condition The yield per acre average, but of better grade than last year. Potato and other root crops were satisfactory. Corn was spoilt with the yield on the whole about average. Tobacco was fair. Emerging in the northern sections and of quality in the late summer afforded pasturage, which were badly dried up and burnt. The apple crop was of above average and of very good quality. Small fruits were plentiful.

PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

According to Government figures compiled on August 30th, the estimated yield of fall and spring wheat, oats barley and rye crops for the year is 114,149,930 bushels as compared with 138,277,284 bushels for the final estimate for 1928. The total acreage of these grains for 1929 was 367,283 acres less than for the year 1928, with the exception of fall wheat, which, with 2,000 less acreage sown, shows an increased yield of 7 per cent, over last year Other grains show a decrease proportionate, which are lower by 19,508,000 bushels than last year's yield The potato crop is below normal. Turnips and mangels, considered estimated, are in fair condition but of fair yield. Other root crops are below an average crop, but all of good quality. Small fruits were a light crop. Winter apples are plentiful although small in size. The tobacco acreage was 20 per cent. below 1928 crop. The acreage of fall rye was one, the quality good, and 60 per cent. of the crop threshed. Corn is reported in good condition Pasturage was good over the summer, from which time the grass became seared and dry. The second crop was poor. Hay and clover acreage was below previous years on account of dry weather and the present growth is not making any serious trouble. Pastures are in excellent condition. Large quantities being of certified seed. Nova Scotia has a harvest of 7,000,000 or more barrels of later seed will be inspected before being sacked by an official of the Department and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed. In the part of the province north of Red Deer inspection of all seed shipments must be made by W. G. Lawrie 125 31st Ave. West Calgary, and in the northern part of the province Mr. Fraser, from headquarters at Peace River. Mr. Fraser's district will apply to the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts.

PROVINCE BRITISH COLUMBIA

Heavy hay and grain crops were gathered in the Fraser Valley and on Vancouver Island but were considerably below average in the upper country districts. Root crops are somewhat below average. The estimated yield of apples is 50 per cent. of average, the quality of the crop is excellent. Cherries, estimated at 100 per cent of average, were gathered in good condition. Pears, peaches, plums and prunes are estimated at 60 per cent. and apricots 80 per cent. Small fruits are slightly below average Hops yielded a heavy crop of excellent quality Pasturage has been good throughout the season and orchards have ample fodder for the winter.

Care Of A Small Flock Of Sheep

Lamb, mutton and wool are in strong demand and prospects are bright for sheep raising at present and a few words on the care of a small flock of sheep may be particularly appropriate at this season of the year, as the fall is the best time for the introduction of sheep into the sheep business.

The inexperienced sheep raiser should begin with grade ewes, the best available, and a pure bred ram. The breed will depend largely on the purchaser's preference, but it should be remembered that one breed in a district is desirable from an economical standpoint. Care also should be exercised in selecting a ram to see that they have natural soldiers and have not "broken mouths." The beginner should plan to start with at least ten ewes, or more if pasturage is available.

Unless lambs are to be dropped in mid-winter the ewes should be bred to lamb in the spring. A warm, dry lambing shed is necessary. A building that is dry, free from draughts and that will turn out rain and the snow is desirable. A yard enclosed by woven wire, which is dog and coyote proof, is essential.

Generally some in heat in late fall, the period lasting from 1 to 3 days, and recurring at intervals of 14 to 19 days. The gestation period is around 145 days. As the farmer can largely control the lambing season. Ewes are usually "flushed" before breeding. This consists in bringing ewes on to the succulent pasture prior to breeding in order that they may be in good condition and gaining in flesh. This practice helps to secure a large lamb crop. Frequently the pastures are supplemented by grain feeding at this time. Pastures and summer fields will form the main source of feed for sheep in the late fall. In winter good legume hay, from 2 to 3 1-2 pounds per day will be the bulk of the ration. Succulent feed in the form of silage or roots should be fed sparingly before lambing time, while towards raising a small amount of grain should be used.

The lambing season in the sheep's harvest, and the size and the quality of the crop largely determine the profits. If lots of errors is known the early lambing ewes can be penned off from the rest of the flock and every special attention Well fed ewes seldom have trouble but an attendant should be on hand in case assistance at parturition is necessary. A common cause of lambs deaths is poison. This can be overcome by feeding ewes lobine in the form of salted salt, made by dissolving 1 to 4 ounces of potassium iodide in water and pouring over 100 pounds of loose salt and mixing thoroughly. This should be fed for a time before and during pregnancy.

Shelter and lambs require a certain attention, but these management can be learned and understood by anyone who is willing to observe carefully and take an interest and attention.

Inspection Required For Feed Shipped

Every possible precaution will be taken by the Alberta Department of Agriculture to prevent the shipment from one section of the province to another under the arrangement recently effected whereby hay, straw and grain feed will be required during the present shortage.

Any shipments of this kind it is announced by Minister of Agriculture must be inspected before being sacked by an official of the Department and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed. In the part of the province north of Red Deer inspection of all seed shipments must be made by W. G. Lawrie 125 31st Ave. West Calgary, and in the northern part of the province Mr. Fraser, from headquarters at Peace River. Mr. Fraser's district will apply to the Peace River and Grande Prairie districts.

The regulations as originally drafted applied to baled hay and straw, feed oats, threshed or in the sheaf and grain screenings. Feed barley has since been added to the list of feeds which may be shipped into the designated area under the arrangement whereby half the cost of such shipments is borne by the railway company and half by the Alberta Government.

A Golden Milestone

The announcement that the British and Foreign Bible Society has just issued its Popular Report for the current year will be welcomed by all those who have the opportunity of reading from year to year, in story form, the report of the work of the Society. There is, perhaps, no other record of the kind in the world which presents in such a fascinating way a survey of Christian missionary enterprise or gives with greater insight the inspiring evidence of the work in every brief and attractive form.

This year the Report is named "The Milestone," and this is a very appropriate title as 1929 marks the 125th Anniversary of the Society. There is also another reason why this year's Report is of unusual interest. It is the Centenary of the Scripture Mission in the Roman Empire were measured, the Editor Rev E. J. Bellett writes the story of the Society's activities in translation, in circulation, in the encouragement, and progress of the past 25 years, drive. A harvest chance of unlimited reach. Among the road".

Meeting the mileage ? It is surely a privilege to have entrusted by means of Church and Missionary Society Bibles and Scripture Portions, practically the known world. 1929 will be Golden Milestone for the cause for that year, announced by the highest authority in the history of the Society and the story is told here by the great men on the road.

But what the Report emphasizes is the fact that the Word of God for travellers over life's dusty path pathless ways and mazes, as multitudes do who are interested in the moral and spiritual good of the world to be one what the ancient Romans called keepers of the road, to meet its mileage test and to help the Society to build the great moral and spiritual roads

Chicken Supper held in Dew's Hall last Friday evening was quite successful affair considering the numerous other attractions elsewhere on the district the same evening. Everyone appeared to enjoy themselves thoroughly and the quality and quantity of good things to eat were in keeping with the usual high standard maintained by the Women's Institute. Tables were tastefully decorated for the occasion, and the pantatic service rendered by the ladies reflected painstaking effort on the part of those in charge.

Following the supper a pleasing program was submitted in Chairman Marshall acted as Chairman and conducted the Community Singing. The varied program submitted was enjoyed by the audience judging by the hearty applause and the numerous encores demanded. Miss Dorothy Elliott acted as accompanist and Mr. A W Elliott officiated at the piano during the community singing.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Miss Sybil Hodgson who is leaving on Monday to continue her studies in Hospitals.

In an appropriate speech Mrs. Shaffer referred to the generous assistance Miss Hargrave had rendered to numerous organizations during her four months residence in Erskine, and in presenting a small token of esteem hoped it would be regarded the recipient of the good wishes of her friends. Miss Hargrave suitably replied. Mrs. Ann. Affleck was the lucky winner of a beautiful quilt very kindly donated and donated by Mrs Fred Clark.

Proceeds of the evening were the handsome sum of $60. The singing of God Save the Kaiboon terminated a very pleasant evening.

The W I deeply appreciate the kind assistance of all who in any way contributed towards the success of supper and entertainment.

Mr and Mrs Woodward, sr. of Sheppard, Alberta, paid a brief visit last week end.

Girls 11 to 14 years of age are reminded of the weekly meeting of the C G I T held on Saturday afternoons in the United Church at 2 30 pm Miss Dorothy Elliott has very kindly taken up the leadership of this splendid organization and it is to be hoped that girls of the neighborhood age will take advantage of this educational and instructive hour.

Mr and Mrs George Reese motored to Edmonton last Monday.

Henry Dwernde was laid up for a couple of days last week but is able to be around again at the old stand measuring out the mixed gas.

One evening recently we were privileged to travel in an easterly direction in company with a party of good fellows. Approaching our destination we came to the brow of a hill where one of our number, more observant than the rest discovered what appeared to be a loosely dropped package Upon arising and examining it the appearance of a perfectly plain cold lunch met his sight. The thought rushed our minds that probably some poor wayfarer would be minus his supper but developments evenutually revealed the fact that the said package had been deliberately discarded by a bunch of dejected bitpeon when they discovered that a free bit supper awaited them at their journey's end.

Seated at the festive board we were again privileged to face the music in the form of a trio of like good fellows the pivot of which were unselfishly advanced the information that owing to pressing business he found it absolutely necessary to decline any further chicken supper invitations this fall. It passed me to do this, he added, but at the same time when in doubt always take the safe course. The left of our jovial friend sat the silent adviser whose countenance, when wreathed in smiles spoke volumes at a glance He'd very fit. Time to say but judging by the weight of hand performance, jamie's was done to the occasion and to hiter.

The sentery expression from the right indicated a certain amount of unrest and impatience. a sort of go-the-the-ar-attitude seemed to insult that more attention should have been showered upon him by the doubly hovering feasel, complained about the lack of commission service, and capped it all when he charged our side with monopolizing Bailey Taylor's attention. At the final threat we decided to leave the presence of our quarrely friend, and quietly but firmly declined to join in a third helping of ice cream.

Next she came to one who said his name was Tom. "Thomas," she corrected.

"There was a lot of squirming:—"Ichabod," responded the lad.

We Forget

Member Roberts of the Canadian Legion, B. E. L., was consulted on annual Poppy Day on Saturday November 9th next when poppies will be offered for sale in Stettler by members of the Legion, and by ladies of various other organizations which are assisting in the work

At this time it might be well to remind the public of the objects of this sale of poppies. In the first place the poppies themselves serve as a vivid reminder of the sacrifice made by 60,000 Canadians who laid down their lives in the Great War. Buy a poppy and wear it in memory of some relative or friend who died in the service of his country

All poppies offered for sale by the Legion are manufactured in Canada by Disabled Canadian ex-soldiers It helps to provide honorable employment for hundreds of men whose war disability debars them from competing with other forms of labor It helps to keep them self-sustaining and self-respecting. Do your bit by buying the honest product of their labor

The poppies made by the Local Legion in the sale of poppies are placed in a fund which is used for the purpose of assisting deserving ex-service men in Stettler and district whenever compel them to seek aid

On Sunday evening members of the Legion will attend divine service at the United Church There will be special music and a special message The members are requested to meet at the Town Hall at 6 45 sharp The Legion invites not only its own members, but all unattached ex-service men in the District, to march to the service We feel sure a proper spirit by attending as above indicated.

On Monday November 11th next the Prentence Chapter, I.O.D.E. will hold a brief memorial service at the War Memorial at 11 a.m To this service all ex-service men are invited Prentence Chapter and the Legion have the same goal, better Canadianism, and ex-service men will show a proper spirit by attending as above indicated.

To Lay Out An Airport

By Bruce Grove

(President Grove College of Aviation, Chicago, Ill.)

Many land-owners, across nation-wide acreage have visions that one of generally made a visit to say flying school to inspect about buying out a flying field. Which proves that the United States is fast becoming air-minded.

Perhaps you may be wondering how—where your air-port should be located, how large it ought to be and exactly how it should be laid out.

First of all the intended air port must be readily accessible by either automobile or train. The nearer to a populous, be near a railroad. This latter because a spur track may eventually be necessary.

Experience has shown that an airport must be on a large open tract of land. It must be free from trees of course. And it must be smooth surfaced by loamy trees, worn marshes and rocks.

The field itself must of a firm foundation, especially the runways. Ice in many places there must be no mud to hinder take-offs or the landings. Then, too, the field's foundation must accommodate the hangars and other buildings necessary to the upkeep and housing of planes.

How large should the field be? Well, figuring from present day needs no contemplated air-port should be less than 1320 to 2000 feet in each direction and preferably 2000 feet or more. In any case, at the end of the runway the neighboring buildings and trees should be low enough not to interfere with a rise of one foot in seven.

The field does not necessarily have to be square. It can be oblong or T-shaped, provided there is the length runway available in each of two directions at approximately right-angles with each other.

Today fields are being laid out with the passenger line passing over the predominating wind so that the ships can be rolled out of the hang ar, and into the runway in front of the line, then up in the air in one end of the line and night at the other. But all buildings should be so isolated as to prevent confusion.

Air ports today are real estate investments put conveniences. And to own a going field puts one in the way of other investments. For flying has come to stay.

MOUNTAIN BEING EATEN AWAY

Goes in South Africa Find Such Use Palatable

Cinna had eaten away 10,000 tons of the mountain in the form of a diamond mine near Pretoria, South Africa, and the natives there, which native are fond of licking are common all over the country. It is said that the animals have apparently been making a meal of the mountain, which rises from the earth itself. On for they have been at it for at least 20 feet across deep into the mountains and they are still eating. They have almost entirely given up eating grass, but they leave the vegetation alone. It is thoroughly well fed.

Natives of the earth from the have have been used in Johannesburg quarries. It is easily crumbled into fine dust and is practically useless for human consumption. Experts state it appears to be a clay containing potash and mineral salt which would make it attractive to cattle with an abnormal appetite.

FARMERS, TOWN and TOWNIES

By Farmer Stubble Boots

A warm breeze is this season's favorite color, and we are seen here and there in garments of that hue over.

Coats and gloves tend to contrast with the suit or pants rather than harmonize with it. Every here for instance, is the fur collar of the coat worn by other trimmings out of tune.

Wind blowing from the north are somewhat supplanting soft rouge and peagreen. The new wind chills, violet, heliotrope and lavender are very light weight and sheer.

The thigh and the ankle are the two new fashion notes. The fleshtones stand the gaff and the space between the hips and knees, leaving the upper portion of the dress modest and slim The cascade contribution to the slender appearance, dropping from neck to thigh.

The bertha silhouette has passed and we are here to have feminine curves at bust and hips. The belt is coming back, exactly at the old-fashioned waist line. This looks like a return to the corseted figure and easy waist of grandmother's day.

NEW KIND OF SPECTACLES

Lets Dogs See In The Dark

Toronto, Can.—A new, clear lens, specially ground to correct near-sightedness in human beings, has been created, it was announced here today, by a Toronto optician, for dogs.

Dogs, it was explained, are near-sighted by nature, and a great impediment to their keen sense of smell, as they will readily admit anyone to the front door, but cannot see clearly the friend, meets, and are for or near. It is now taking the country by storm.

The manufacturers, Bell Vet Optical Co., 30-34 Melinda St., Dept. S.S.28, Toronto, Can., are to send a pair on sixty days' trial. If pet are not amazed and delighted, if you do not think the spectacles are of, for at only $2.98 equal to those sold elsewhere at $10.00, send them back. You won't lose a cent. They will also tell you how to get a pair for yourself without cost. Write them today.

Round the Country

I hope from time to time to give sketches of early days in our town and district, not so much from my own experience as from the experience of those who were the real pioneers.

Stettler had many resorts and places of attraction during the first few years. There was a freedom in social intercourse which is not evidenced in these days. Round-up was the big time then. It was attended by people from all over the country. Many of the old timers will remember the Round-up Dance, which was held in the old Stettler Hotel. The building up of the coal mine at Black Diamond also a more remote consequence of the fire of October 1906

By Walter L. Flower (Edmonton Journal)

Walter L. Flower, Hero in Lieutenant in 1885, now living at Ottawa, has written a book of his life and recollections on things past and present, of a noble old Canadian.

Automobiles

Steam and water, as far, had been the exclusive power forces employed on land in a large way from pentagons. Using the expansive force of the vapor from the Earth's last supply of coal brought to the surface, man had made slaves to power plants.

Then Gottlieb Daimler introduced the principles of the internal combustion engine. It is needless for me to dwell, for its history has in the last two decades and to the present younger generation is as old and commonplace a story as the bicycle and its, one time marvelous evolution.

The towns are now cleaner and healthier. Time is saturated by a railway Bandsman but is made out our purpose by time alone can obtain from our car

Like all lovers, for its history has in the last two decades and to the present younger generation is as old and commonplace a story as the bicycle and its, one time marvelous evolution.

The towns are now cleaner and healthier. Time is saturated by a railway Bandsman but is made out our purpose by time alone can obtain from our car

The method now available could only be applied to stationary engines, whose use and property applying and now petrol (which Americans calls gasoline) called the internal combustion engine. Invention is the first early machines much discouraged by the volatile nature of the spirit and the greatest care was taken to render the tanks and pipes tight and proof against possible leakage and following disaster for a tiny spark could lead to a conflagration and destruction of all surrounding objects

It took years of endless experiments to overcome the perils of petrol and dangers of early days, but as in the early days of gunnery, knowledge and skill gradually overcame all obstacles and the pioneer became a simple and safe mode of conveyance, readily handled by a careful child.

The early cars were ugly, clumsy and ran on wooden wheels with iron tires. Noisy and possessed a continual vibration and emitted a powerful stench and bore many shocking and offensive and bodies were hideous models of what do two centuries ago

The Daimler Motor was at the school Parents send their children resilient that there if anywhere they can have training that will make them fit for the battle of years training they cannot get in public school where they are in competition with their natural sensibility. Thirty per cent of the children are capable of being trained and that which is given them not only tends to develop their mentality but to overcome awkwardness of movement that there is nothing like a military bring built outside for the big boys will take them out of the poor building and give an opportunity for the expression of others of more

Cardston Municipal Hospital

By Miss Mellt.

Informed friends of providing Cardston with very fine hospital. Until the Alberta Municipal Hospitals Act came into force in 1922 there was no hospital in the city. In the early days of the present Settlement, before the railway came, the nearest hospital service was at Lethbridge, a distance of sixty-five miles reached on the Old Macleod Trail, via the present, seventy-five miles reached on the Old Macleod Trail, via the present, seventy-five miles reached on the Old Macleod Trail, via the present, seventy

STRATHCONA NEWS

A meeting was held in Stauffer's hall on Wednesday, October 30th, when the Rev. Mr. Baker, Inspector of Schools, outlined the new School Act for the Rural Districts of Alberta. Considerable interest was shown by the various ratepayers. Representatives from Glenwood, Sherwood, Mount Royal, Mount Hall, Gough Lake Bocco, Rosedale and Strathcona attended the meeting. Mrs. James Peabody is the only official trustee in the district who was present at the meeting.

Mr. Baker spoke for some time on the proposed Act and his address was so interesting and instructive that the attention of the audience was held by the finish. Applause greeted the speaker at the close. Mr. Baker was accompanied by Mr. Saunders, M.P.

The Canadian Chautauqua visited Sherwood this past week and the opening night drew three hundred and fifty people were seated in Stauffer's Hall to hear the lilting "Give and Take," put on by Miss Irwin players. The audience attended the afternoon performances and an even larger crowd turned out on Monday night to witness Lucille Brown in her entertaining roles.

The performances of the play "Dawning," were given by the Martin Brown players, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. This was necessary owing to the large attendance.

Everyone enjoyed the musical programs of the Hoffman Company. The entire week passed general interest in and around Strathcona.

Mr. Thompson, school inspector, was in Strathcona on Monday.

Mr. Thompson, of Sherwood, is visiting friends in Mount Hall district over the week end.

Mr. J. Bailey Gardiner, M.P., addressed a meeting in Stauffer's hall on Saturday, November 2nd. There was a large attendance but labor all day, the attendance was not as large as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Drummond of Strathcona, were guests of Mrs. W. McCorkindale on Sunday.

A very enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Struthers with Miss Rose Struthers and Miss Bernice Struthers as hostesses.

The usual number of ghosts and witches were present. Miss Mercy Campbell and Mr. Ed. Bibery were the lucky winners in the advertising contest.

REPORT OF TEACHERS' AND TRUSTEES' CONVENTIONS

The 17th Annual Teachers Convention was held at Stettler School on Thursday and Friday, November 7th and 8th, and was one of the most successful held in town. There was an attendance of 125 teachers, which is a high average for the Inspectorate

The Convention opened at 10 a.m. Thursday with Mr. Percy Page of Camrose, the Chairman, as President. Mayor Blair welcomed the teachers on behalf of the town, and J. E. Wills on behalf of the school Pupils being the members of the Stettler Consolidated School.

Inspector Thompson gave an address on "Logic," Instructions in Arithmetic."

This address dealt with putting educational methods on a more logical basis with the object in view of getting the pupils to think instead of mere memorizing. Examples were given and always have this end in view in order to obtain the best results and the future growth depend on themselves.

The address was followed in the afternoon by something along the same lines Mental Arithmetic by Miss C. B Willis of Edmonton, who is a Doctor of Pedagogy, meaning that he is 'full up' so far as education goes, and is concerned Dr Willis gave all kinds of brain tests to the teachers to show up the subject, and if the teachers and pupils practised the tests they would find there would be a big advance in teaching ability. The whole object of the address was to enumerate all methods of teaching Arithmetic.

Mrs. Stanley Roper, of Mirror then gave an address on The Modern School" Mrs Roper has made quite a success of teaching all grades of the high school in some years having taught Grades 9 to 12 at Mirror. The chief method is to encourage the pupils to think for themselves, and not to be content with the ordinary grades, and given an equal chance to succeed. Her idea is that there is one subject in a and room without that many subjects to choose from, and that no examination only two or three pupils competing for the one prize. Also many good opportunities for debates and the various grades to meet, in many instances, between the ages of the many of the pupils as it is developed from one grade to another. Mrs Roper's address was an interesting address on the subject.

The representative of the Teachers' Alliance was given the opportunity at this stage to give a brief address. He urged all teachers to become members of the Alliance, which, he claimed, had been the means of bounding their salaries and placing the profession on a more permanent basis. He also explained certain aspects of the profession from a legal and moral standpoint and was asked a number of questions

The Hon. Mrs Parlby, gave her address on "Creative Education in the Old World" at this stage, as she was not able to come on Friday afternoon, her address was read by Mrs. Parlby dealt chiefly with the education system of Denmark, particularly the folk schools These schools have been developed to a high state of efficiency and are much more vocational than our public schools. They have as their basis, the development of character and the training of pupils in agriculture, dairying and other vocational subjects with the end in view of assisting the pupils good citizens and good farmers. Enough of the time-honored subjects of mathematics, classic, etc. are taught to give them a good general grounding, and broaden their outlook. The home science and handicraft ideals are the well spring of the schools in all their educational aspirations. The pupils are taught that while co-operation is an economic movement, it is also spiritual in that it demands the highest qualities of honesty, integrity, honor and unselfishness.

Mr. Ernest Stirling of Donalda addressed a meeting on "Observation in the Class Room Study." His subject was dealt with in an interesting way and was shown to be a great advantage to the pupils in the developing of their powers of observation, as well as to the teachers in giving them a hobby after school hours. Alberta has many natural advantages in the study of nature and all teachers should avail themselves of the opportunity to become learners as well as pupils teachers in that department of study.

Friday's Program

The Convention opened at 9 a.m. shortly on Friday morning, with a paper on "Health Education" by Miss Nastie of Camrose Normal School. This paper was followed by Miss Nastie in an original manner and she impressed on all teachers the importance of keeping fit, physically, mentally and morally as simple as well as precept. A physically unfit teacher cannot do justice to the pupils, both from the standpoint of character and teaching ability.

Mr C Hewetson, principal of Camrose Normal School, then gave a paper on "Learning and its Difficulties." Mr Hewetson's address on Learning, which, he defines as a change in behavior, was followed by a discussion the teacher will get the best results by co-operating with the work of teaching with every-day life. Practical demonstrations in arithmetic are better than abstract principles, and Mr Hills showed practical use of school subjects.

Mr C B Willis, of Edmonton, gave a paper on "The Aims and Content of the Curriculum." Mr Willis based his paper on the accepted principles of education and claimed that the teaching of each subject of the curriculum should have as its objective the development of character and intelligence. That is the real philosophy of education of the present day, and undoubted facts have not much bearing on the life of the pupils unless the psychological end is kept in view.

The election of officers took place on Friday afternoon with the following results:

President - Mr Horn

Vice-President Mrs Birdsell

Secretary-Treasurer Miss Lyle

After the election of officers the Convention resolved itself into various sections when the problems of school work were discussed in detail Mr. Steele of Gadsby, took charge of the high school section Mr Hills of the senior public school section the intermediate & public school section was presided over by Mr. Erickson of Donalda; while Miss Alma Griffith took charge of the primary school section, and Mr. Kenny of the rural school section. All the above sections had interesting discussions, and his part of the program was one of the most important. The following, they formed a

The Ladies Aid held their annual Bazaar and Chicken Supper on Friday evening in the Town Hall, which was followed by a program of piano vocal and violin solos, readings, two choruses by the Choir, and a very interesting and instructive address on "The Ideal Community given by Rev Thomas Powell, Superintendent of Home Missions. Dr Powell also conducted the Armistice Day service on Sunday

Gadsby branch of the Canadian Legion held a successful sale of poppies on Saturday, November 9, and gave a dance in the Town Hall on Monday, November 11th which was much enjoyed by all Punch-Bowl Orchestra supplied the daytime and a generous supply of wall and ceiling decorations.

The basement is full size, and is almost as attractive as the upper floor. Besides the Kitchen, the Laundry, Supply Room, Bath Room, Entrance Hall and Fire Room, are Dining Room, while the rest of the space is taken up with Sample Rooms for the Staff generally In other words, in the basement, forms the working and living apartments for the Nurses and Staff, all well-lighted and well-equipped for the purpose. The Kitchen being especially well fitted up, with a large 13-hole range, built-in Kitchen cabinet and other accessories of the most important work-room of the Hospital. The Dining Room also contains a large electric refrigerator, and a fine serving counter, the perishable food supply and the Laundry is also equipped to handle all linen and other wear with neatness and dispatch

The First floor contains a number of public and private wards, which as mentioned before as being the last floor to be completed. The chief feature of this floor, however, is the Operating Room, which is equipped to meet any operating room in the larger cities. In fact, it surpasses them. It is too comfortable for the patients who are generally given chloroform anyway but the comfort and convenience of the room is probably intended for the surgeons, thus increasing their efficiency and speed in performing the last of cutting, and the quicker and recovering external or internal parts of their anatomy in the best possible manner. A cherry has become a boon in the several generations and while one of the patients will soon find out the in-ins and out-outs of the Sterilizing Room stations the operating room, and will be used for the sterilization of all instruments and gauze under the pressure of steam which is developed from the furnace room in the basement. Distilled water is also supplied in this room for all cases where it is found necessary, and a Laboratory is also one of the essentials on this floor.

The Second Floor also consists of Ward Rooms and in addition the Lying in Room and the Nursery Maternity cases are said to be the chief concern of an hospital of this time and if there is anyone the management of the maternity cases the population of the district without danger to the mothers are much enhanced by the equipment of Women Rooms. Nothing is left to chance everything is of the most modern description, and the nursery room contains four cribs, one for the infant protection giving them a chance to start out in life under the most promising auspices. Next

As beds in the wards are equipped with sliding and tilting arrangements so that the patients may be given a change in position without and effort on their part Dumb waiters have also been installed so that the nurses have everything at hand without having to run to the basement for things needed for their work or in emergencies The corridors are wide and well-lighted lending the building convenient both for visitors and for the staff. The heating system consists of hot water radiators through out with a large boiler in the basement. The building is fire-proof and is so arranged that partitions can be removed or enlarged without disturbing the smooth working arrangements of the hospital as a whole and the public will find a home more attractive than the private rooms where they are higher. For one dollar per day a patient can obtain the highest service and all the resources of medicine and surgery are put at his command without regard to the low rates he is called upon to pay.

The nurses employed at the present time consist of of Miss Cushing Superintendent Miss Myers Miss Perry Miss [illegible] and Miss McKay

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank these responsible for the beautiful wreath placed in the new Hospital on the opening day, in memory of my husband, the late Dr. Creighton.

It was, indeed, a touching tribute to one, who for so many years without assistance from any source furnished this community with hospital services

Mrs. Creighton.

AMAZING HORSE THIEF IN NEW BRUNSWICK JAIL

In "Leaving the Port with the Pilot," by Captain Henry Howe, published by Houghton Mifflin Co., there is told in brief form the most colorful story of the early days of the province. The narrative is based upon the records of the Pilot Service, which was established in 1786 and which continued to function until 1858. In that year steam navigation had become so general that the service was discontinued. The pilots were the first and last to see and speak to incoming and outgoing vessels, and they were frequently in league with the lawless element of the waterfront. Stephen Humbert, for many of the exploits recounted in the book, was considered to be the greatest of the pilots. He was a man of tremendous physique, a master navigator, and possessed of illimitable courage. He was born in Connecticut, but his parents moved to Nova Scotia when he was a child. Humbert was married at the age of twenty-one, and that he was an expert navigator from the start of his career is proved by the fact that he was appointed pilot at Annapolis Royal when he was but twenty-two years old. He was a strong man, and he was a fighting man. Before the incident which is related in the following story, Humbert had been involved in many brawls with the toughs who frequented the waterfront, and he had always emerged victorious. He was a man of his word, and he was scrupulously honest in his dealings with his fellow men. Humbert was married twice, and he had a large family of children by both wives. He died in 1858, at the age of seventy-two, and was buried in the churchyard of St. Stephen's Church, St. Stephen, New Brunswick.

Humbert first attracted attention as a pilot by his daring rescue of the crew of the brig Ann, which was wrecked on the Nova Scotia coast in a storm. The vessel was bound from Liverpool to Halifax with a cargo of coal, and when Humbert boarded her he found that the captain had died of fever and that the mate was in charge. The mate was a coward, and he was afraid to attempt to enter the harbor. Humbert, however, was not afraid, and he took the brig in and moored her safely at her wharf. The owners of the vessel were so grateful that they presented Humbert with a purse of gold and a piece of plate.

Humbert's next adventure was with a gang of horse thieves. He was piloting a vessel from Halifax to Windsor when he noticed a number of horses on board. He knew that the vessel had not touched at any port since leaving Halifax, and he suspected that the animals had been stolen. He made a search of the vessel, and found a number of men hiding in the hold. He arrested them and took them to Halifax, where they were tried and convicted. They were sentenced to imprisonment in the provincial jail, and Humbert was rewarded by the grateful citizens of Halifax.

Humbert's fame as a pilot spread throughout the province, and he was frequently employed by the government to pilot vessels carrying important passengers. He was thus employed when he piloted the vessel which carried Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, and his family from Halifax to Quebec. The duke was the father of Queen Victoria, and he was so pleased with the manner in which Humbert had performed his duties that he presented him with a gold watch and chain.

Humbert's most famous exploit was the capture of a gang of counterfeiters. The gang had been operating for some time, and the police had been unable to get any clue to the identity of the counterfeiters. Humbert was piloting a vessel from Windsor to Halifax when he noticed that a number of passengers were using the same bank notes. He suspected that they were counterfeit, and he made a search of the vessel. He found a number of counterfeit notes in the possession of the passengers, and he arrested them and took them to Halifax. They were tried and convicted, and they were sentenced to imprisonment in the provincial jail.

Humbert's last adventure was with a gang of smugglers. He was piloting a vessel from Halifax to Windsor when he noticed that the vessel was heavily laden. He suspected that she was carrying contraband goods, and he made a search of the vessel. He found a number of kegs of rum hidden in the hold, and he arrested the smugglers and took them to Halifax. They were tried and convicted, and they were sentenced to imprisonment in the provincial jail.

Humbert's last years were spent in retirement. He died in 1858, at the age of seventy-two, and was buried in the churchyard of St. Stephen's Church, St. Stephen, New Brunswick.

CHOICE RECIPES

(By Florence Reddish Bage)

SALAD DRESSING

One tbsp. of the same old salad dressing.

Heat until two eggs, add gradually one cup of cream, cook of oil and vinegar, cook in a double boiler until thick. When cold, add two tablespoons of sugar, one teaspoon of salt and one of vinegar, and two-thirds cupful of milk. Add one tbsp. of chili.

Put through a sieve two tablespoons of cooked tomato and one tablespoon of pimento; add this to half pint of the dressing. Just before you serve this dressing, whip it lightly with a fork.

CHEESE SNOWBALLS

Cut cheese into ball inch strips and roll each in a slice of cooked bacon. Fasten with a toothpick and broil slowly, turning frequently. Serve on a bed of lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

THE BANISHING OF SMELT

(By Jessie Allen Brown)

Autumn is one of the busiest seasons in the housekeeper's calendar. But it is one of the most interesting times too. It is a great satisfaction to see the shelves filling up in with jars of fruit, jelly and pickles, over night. Also cold vinegar, sugar and spices are cheaper than preserving and canning. The spicy aroma of the pickles is so appetizing, so that may be one of the reasons for its attractiveness. The uncertainty of jelly-making adds to its interest, for there is a spirit of adventure in most of us that is never completely quelled. Unfortunately too many of us have to take it out in such harmless things as jelly-making.

OLD AND NEW METHODS

Jelly-making like a good many other things has changed in the last few years. The introduction of commercial pectin (Certo) has made it possible to make jelly out of fruits that do not contain sufficient pectin to jell by themselves. Some housekeepers stick to the old ways and others will use only the new. Each method have their advantages. When fruit that jells easily is cheap and plentiful, it is cheaper to use the regular method, but if fruit does not jell readily or is in the short supply, cheaper to use Certo because none of the fruit juice is wasted in the preparation and you can make a larger quantity from the same amount of fruit.

Remember always that over-ripe fruit will not jell, so always use fruit that is ripe, but not if you use Certo follow the directions very exactly to insure success.

ORANGE PUDDING

This recipe is the outcome of a housekeeper's desire to use up rice which was boiled with fruit, and I used it in every way I could think of, until I made this delicious dessert.

Make a bottle of thick custard, using the yolks of eight of the eggs. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, adding the sugar gradually, and pile on top of the custard to make more jelly with which to cover the pudding. Decorate to experiment with an egg meringue.

The result was a jelly-like pudding with a delicious flavor. I have made my jam by that method ever since. To make it, add one cup of rice with water to almost 2-3 of their depth. Boil for twenty minutes or so for jelly, however, and add an equal quantity of sugar. Stir and boil for a few minutes, then put into glasses. Bring to a boil and boil 2 minutes.

MUSTARD PICKLES

2 quarts small cucumbers, 3 quarts of vinegar, 2 pounds brown sugar, 2 ounces mixed spice, 2 ounces mustard seed Mix dry ingredients and vinegar slowly, rubbing till smooth. Cook until thick, stirring it constantly.

APPLE CHUTNEY

AMAZING HORSE THIEF IN NEW BRUNSWICK JAIL

In looking the Post with the Provincial Jail Annual, the casual reader is apt to find it dull reading. It is full of facts and figures, but it is said to have been the most interesting report ever issued by the Department of the province. The Hon. Dr. Veniot, Provincial Secretary, considers might give the reader a thrill. He has made it interesting. He has placed his new jail—tragic-comedy on the stage of Provincial affairs, and has made the characters in the drama tell their own story. CHOICE RECIPES

(By Florence Ruddick Hope)

SALAD DRESSING

One tbsp of the same old salad dressing. Try this one —

Beat well two eggs; add gradually 1 tablespoonful of oil and vinegar, cook in a double boiler until thick, stirring well. Add two teaspoons of sugar, a tablespoon of oil and one of vinegar, and one-quarter teaspoon salt; add not away to cold.

Put through a sieve two tablespoons of cooked tomato and the same quantity of mayonnaise, add this to half a cup of thick cream whip stiff, and season with salt and pepper. Serve ready to use. Try this for a change from the same old custard of tomato.

CHEESE SUPREME

Cut cheese into fine inch strips and add to each cup of milk 1 tablespoonful. Lay this on a slice of buttered bread which has been cut into dice. Season with salt and pepper and the cheese is melted. Garnish with parsley and serve hot. Delicious for supper with a glass of buttermilk or a cup of hot cheese tea.

THE REASON OF ASSAY

(By Annie Allen Brown)

Autumn is one of the busiest seasons in the housekeeper's calendar. But it is one of the most interesting times too. It is a period of transition to me the shelves filling up with jars of fruit, jelly and pickles. Somehow I enjoy making pickles and jellies more than preserving and canning. The spicy aroma of the pickles is so appetizing, so that may be one of the reasons for its attractiveness. The uncertainty of jelly-making adds to its interest, for there is a spirit of adventure in most of us that is never completely quelled, and fortunately for man, of us have to take it out in such harmless things as jelly-making.

OLD AND NEW METHODS

Jelly-making like a good many other things has changed in the last few years. The introduction of commercial pectin (Certo) has made it possible to make jelly out of fruits that do not contain sufficient pectin to jell by themselves. Most housewives stick to the old way and others still use only the new flash methods have their advocates. The reason that this jelly making is cheap and plentiful, it is cheaper to use the regular methods but if fruit does not jell readily or is expensive, then it is cheaper to use the new method. Certo is also late in fast through evaporation, and you can make a larger quantity from the same amount of fruit.

Remember always that over-ripe fruit will not jell, and under-ripe fruit will not jell. Sometimes very exacty to insure success.

SPICED PLUMS

This recipe is the outcome of laziness. One year we had a plum tree which was loaded with fruit. I had no time to make preserves, and still I was sick of the sight of plums. There is a limit of how many one can do in the line and I had reached it. I decided to spice them, but I wondered how

Poems

The flight from France of the bourgeois King Louis Philippe of whom the people soon tired, and his closing reign in Belgium of Leopold, between his advent and ungrateful home welcome in England.

Of course he had taken precautions in advance and, doubtless the Seat of England could tell us of his fortunes. He did not live very long in his sanctuary and most people have forgotten that he ever resided there.

When the restless people of France at that day, even through their parochial reign of terror and Napoleon III., a nephew of the Corsican Conte Dart had been in favor there could be no such thing as asylum for him, should he be found in the people in spite of themselves.

With the country people behind the proposed coup, Napoleon ended by being a success; both finally and as an institution for the rule of law such as obtains here. Mr. Moseley is enthusiastic regarding the type of building erected here and his services and that of the department will be invaluable in setting the hospital well under way and in giving advice and assistance for the future. He showed in his address that all municipal hospitals are well financed and are doing exceptional work in their particular districts. In fact, they are filling a well-felt want and in a few months the people of this district will be wondering how they ever got along without the institution of this kind in the past.

A great deal of credit is due Mrs. Mills for her good work in connection with the hospital during the Fall. Mrs. Mills was a popular and most efficient superintendent and, while for some time she had wished to be relieved of the duties she consented to continue until now, her hospital was in operation and the services along hospital lines can be very well maintained by Miss Moseley, while in town, complimented her on her good work in the particular hospital over which she had control. The Board is also fortunate in having the services of Miss Cushing as matron. Miss Cushing has had a long experience in hospital work and will be a valuable addition to the staff.

Dr. Mills, Medical Superintendent, filled the same position in the private concern, and is well known to the people of the district.

Perhaps a few facts and figures about other municipal hospitals in Alberta will not be out of place at this stage —

Cardston—This hospital was formed first of all by community effort. The Cardston Hospital Ladies' Aid was formed with shares selling at $25.00 each. A large residence was purchased and changed into a nine-bed hospital. In 1918 a municipal hospital district was formed, consisting of four local improvement districts and the Board took over the community hospital and changed it into a twenty-bed hospital. During 1929 this hospital has treated 771 patients, 125 babies were born and 69 major operations performed.

Vermilion—This was the second municipal hospital built in Alberta. After ten years' op ration it has a surplus of $14,000. In 1928 there was accommodation for 12 beds and the Board finance the proposition on about $22,000.00 capital. In 1929 no money has been borrowed for current expenses. To meet the demand for accommodation that the present hospital is often over-crowded. In May, 1929, 64 patients were admitted and 63 discharged.

Drumheller—After serving a population of 24,000 people for nine years, this municipal has been forced this year to provide an additional 69 beds, increasing the accommodation from 39 to 108 beds. The Board undertook this last without anxiety, for a surplus of $70,000.00 had been accumulated during those years, and the financing of the $90,000.00 was offered no problems. At first, when the building was first started, and in future years, the women how they may bring this about. Sometimes the trader has difficulties which call for outside advice. Certain people may be problems beyond her understanding. The nurse visits the home and tactfully endeavours to get at the root of the trouble and poverty is less. Carefully are visited, welcomed and given advice that will help them adapt themselves to Canadian conditions. Miss Cowley invariably finds these newcomers appreciative of the little attention.

Sometimes the nurse lends a hand to the local doctor, who needs skilled attention for a sick patient, unable to have a private nurse. Sometimes she is called upon to be her first aid to the injured, or to advise people who are taking treatment for a disease in a clinic and unable to see him frequently. Miss Cowley is always willing to help. To every call possible, the nurse responds.

And so, Miss Cowley goes on her rounds of the province, leaving behind her a trail of kindness, of help and a memory of smiling face and cheery voice. It is little wonder that the name of the Provincial Nurse is a household word in many districts.

Famous Detective Retires

Scotland Yard Officer Who Succeeded in Solving Many Celebrated Crimes

Retirement of Frederick Wensley, as chief of the intelligence division of Scotland Yard, has brought to an end a career which began in the Limehouse district and resulted in the solving of numerous murder and other mysteries. Wensley was the detective in the famous Adelaide Bank robbery case, and the Seat Hind, the anarchists' hostels, and dens of iniquity With bewhisker features, piercing eyes, and bushy eyebrows, Wensley recembles Lord Reading and could have been the part that novelists have assigned the detective. In real life his work often shunned the amateur exploits of his prototypes in fiction. Most of his murder mysteries were solved as he sat back in his armchair in Scotland Yard Building. He would sit for hours staring at the river while studying every angle of the case and when he left that chair, things began to happen.

Back in 1920 Wensley took part in the famous Whitechapel hunt for "Jack the Ripper," who murdered many unclean girls. He shared in the Sydney Street siege when a gang of desperate burglars barricaded themselves in a house and fought a battalion of Scots Guards.

One of his most famous exploits was the case of the mystery house when he found that Maltby, the tailor, had been living for weeks behind barred doors with the body of the hostess of women he had killed. One of his most remarkable cases was in the murder of Madame Steinie, which he solved only after two clues to work on, a laundry mark and a piece of paper with the hirsute words "Basle Belgium."

Among the famous world murderers which now rest on remembrance list request much skill to solve.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO HER

"Now, I wonder," remarked the flapper as she looked at the fat dance. "I wonder whatever's become of the girl who used to have her eyes raise her face timidly and say, 'Please, you'll have to ask papa.'"

"She's got a daughter," answered the up-to-date matron, "who doesn't. 'Step her into high, kid.' The old man is gaining on us!"

Suggested Revision Of The Alberta Curriculum

(Address delivered by Dr. C. B. Sissons of the Victoria High School, Edmonton, at the Stettler Teachers' Convention)

The reasons and purposes behind examination are as follows:—

1.—To give a mastery of the "tool subjects," such as Reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic which are needed by all or nearly all people as a basis for vocational and further study.

2. Vocational training.

3. Cultural or Civic training.

4. Guidance or Civic training by some education that gives one a broader understanding and appreciation of ones self or other human beings and consequently of important events, and of the hereafter world around him. The need for education supplies material for the thoughts his leisure time; his conversation with his fellows, his reading and understanding of daily news, etc.

4. The fourth reason which has been given sometimes is mental training. Mental training does not in fact exist as it should not be confined to studies so much like the original idea that it was disappeared. Mental training could of study.

The Canadian has proved superior to the best of other countries up to the end of Grade VI or VII, but the Canadian pupil of the Junior High School, Grade VIII and IX, is apparently lagging behind the pupils in the national boundaries, while the high school pupil should be divided largely to cultural subjects. Vocational work should be confined to beginning some matter of age than of grade. Many students are not ready to take satisfactory vocational training until the age of sixteen or perhaps better eighteen years because they do not know what vocation they will enter and they are not physically able to take the kind of training given in a real vocation, school which teaches manual arts. The question to be supplied pupils, in passing, a subject to be such that considered for the Junior High School is "Should the subject be taught in the Junior High School only?" The answer in the case of the great proportion of our present course of study would be No. In the High School most of the education is for cultural purposes or to introduce to overcoming the material itself down to a matter of studying what one will be of most opportunity consequently only a time must be given above times to cultural value as a subject which a pupil finishing it has no desire to take the English language Literature and Composition, all must have some literature the minimum of literary required by all should be made of Mathematics smaller still and of Science Languages not all of these however should be on the course to that pupils may not take so much of any of them as at present but under optional courses.

The big question at present day in connection with the High School course is not that—How much of the great subject shall we teach and in which, there is no question but that we should teach French, German and Latin to per cent of the pupils should take Spanish and Classical Greek and some conditions, intended vocation and linguistic ability permitting some pupils should take both French and German and Latin but the great majority should be for better off not to take any of these languages.

Mathematics has proved superior to the best of other countries up to the end of the course in elementary English vocabulary but that most of the value is obtained in the first two years of the course after half of the value is obtained from it. First year pupils in Grade IX should a one year course in Latin or French and perhaps should not be thought of its value as Latin, but attended to some of English would be more valuable than three years of Latin or French. In fact a course should be compulsory for all or nearly all. In the Latin courses should be retained as optional courses only.

History is concerned chiefly with the development of civilization forms as in the past. Why not begin by putting out a course or two of the early periods of history, day such as Mesopotamia, Babylon, Egypt, Greece, Rome, Ancient Canaan, the Hebrew's Bay route, etc., and teach them of the pupil history as is necessary for the understanding of the present day problems

Mathematics is useful only to those who are going in for engineering and one or two other professions. Aside from those it is rubbish and for possibly 15 per cent of pupils in the high school. Why not make all but a minimum optional? Two units in mathematics optional in the high school for both matriculation and non-matriculation? It is a waste of time for most pupils and for a large proportion of boys as at present required. Further the time saved could be profitably re-written from the standpoint of appreciation of mathematics. They might well sell some of the history of mathematics who is behind the depths when was the first used were invented, the history and why Such descriptive mathematics would give a better appreciation of the importance of mathematics by far than the present course.

Science, instead of being a bugbear should be made attractive and as would appeal more to the appreciation and be more useful. Many boys who fail in courses which are supposed to be really interesting fail on their screws especially because they take the time they should use for studying science in reading Popular Mechanics.

Many of the subjects need to be re-written. Arithmetic in the High school is largely a bunch of puzzles consisting of abstractions from the business practice of fifty years ago. There are plenty of good practical questions that could be used if one would find others. Is there anyone who could write an arithmetic or an educational who knew anything about business.

There are a few new courses that might be added to the high school course such as Hygiene, both mental and sex, some psychology and some of the elements of investment and business.

The Junior High School course should be re-written. The Junior High School should be a real Junior High School, not a duplication of the Senior High School. It should be a real beginning of the work of secondary education, not a repetition of the work of the Public School. It should be a real beginning of the work of secondary education, not a repetition of the work of the Public School. It should be a real beginning of the work of secondary education, not a repetition of the work of the Public School.

sect of round table discussion of the school problems of the day.

On Thursday evening the Annual Joint Meeting of Trustees and Teachers was held in Carter's Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies of the Women's Institute with Mr. Percy Parker in the Chair. Over 400 guests were present and the evening was an enjoyable one for all present. Rev. J. C. Goddard led in the community singing with Mrs. McBride at the piano. Mrs. Reynolds and Mr. Reitmeyer contributed solos. C. L. Wills gave the toast to the teachers with reply by Miss Bell. Mr. Wallace gave the toast to the Trustees, the reply was given by Mr. King, President of the Trustees Association. Mr. Wallace also gave the toast to the parents with the reply given by Mrs. Mitchell, Secretary of the Trustees Convention. The balance of the evening was the address by Dr. Kerby, of Calgary, which he closed with an eloquent peroration, comparing England and Canada with other countries and the world and the other disadvantages. Dr. Kerby spoke for an hour and a half and held his audience well throughout his speech was one of the best given in town for some time and he was loudly applauded at the end. Just for another hour if time had permitted. The banquet closed at 10:30 p.m. and was followed by a dance with the music being furnished by Miss Kerby's orchestra which continued until 2 a.m.

Dr. Kerby addressed the Teachers' Convention on Friday morning.

The Teachers' Convention Tuesday afternoon was held in the Town Hall on Thursday afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock. The hall was crowded to the capacity and while only 1 delegate was interested, there were cases where two or three were present from the same school, thus swelling the attendance. In former years the officials have had difficulty to get a fair attendance and the large gatherings was evidence that the Trustees are much more interested in the rural schools than ever before. The chair was taken by Mr. Whidden as President of the local Trustees Association, and Mr. A.S. Wills served as Secretary.

Addresses of welcome were given by Mayor Bird and C. L. Wills of the Stettler School Board. These were followed by Mrs. Mitchell, Secretary of the Provincial Trustees Association who discussed in some detail the problems of the Trustees, including Miss Attractive Schools, Miss Attractive Surroundings, Miss Attractive Supervision, Miss Attractive Teaching, Miss Attractive Thorough Selection of Trustees etc. on the part of the Trustees. Inspector Tweed also addressed the meeting on the work of inspection and on the examinations. A memorandum for this inspectorate was read by Mr. Wills. At the meeting, the details of Mess. Mr. Bisher's new school were discussed, with Trustees being against the scheme. Mr. Bisher's plans were drawn by Messrs. McDonald of Stettler, as an institution conforming to the scheme which was carried by a large majority. The meeting then closed at 4 o'clock.

The following are the officers for the Trustees Association for the year 1929-30:

President—H. S. Holder, Stettler Vice-President — O. E. Cole, Castle Albert.

Secretary-Treasurer—A. S. Cook, Stettler.

Directors—W. J. Cameron, Sedgewick; C. J. Hingston, Stettler; W. Eshl, Donalda, Ed Pfeiffer, Bed Deer; Robert Chase, Stettler; Lester Lobe, Bentzen.

A Hymn To The Triumphant Airman

(Flying East to West at 1,000 m.p.h.)

By Theodore Weiss

Moved by transatlantic flights and other open-air achievements a contributor to the Scripps-Howard syndicate has written a song hymn to the "Hymn of the Triumphant Airman," and it is given to the public at the time of the Schneider Cup races in Europe. The poem follows:

Oh, long had we patience
With bridle and girth,
But these horses have foundered
That gave us the Earth—

The Plower and the Plowman
The Sport and the Wheel,
Hands, Hooves and Runner
Have had their day.

But the Wind is her blessing,
The land on the coast,
Made naught of our going,
And left us fastened.

Till the gale was subdued,
The gulf overflown,
And three centuries on it flowered,
The Sun God alone.

He only the master
He imposed to overthrow.
He only faster
And, therefore, our foe.

Light stands to uncertain
The sun stopped above
That arch are these routes
Where he shall drive.

We left to the wood,
We challenge none,
Pave none to sunset,
Annals narrow.

What a day Crow-wise!
What harrow might
Whose furrow may withstand
The Way from me Mid?

Impossible! Once, to
Of the Sun's Chariot
Of the Sun's Chariot

Of the Sun's Chariot

Of the Sun's Chariot

She had come into the store to buy a tablecloth, and she stated in the beginning that she wanted something "new."

The salesman was patient and showed her everything in stock but nothing suited.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed finally, "haven't you anything different?"

The clerk brought out of the disorded tablecloths that he had put back on the shelf and said with an air of interest

"Here is one of the very newest makes. You see the centre is in the middle and the border runs right around the edge."

"Why, yes, let me have that one" she said eagerly

LAST SURVIVOR OF HARTFORD-McCOY FEUD

"Uncle Sis" Hatfield, last survivor of the famous feudists of Hartford-McCoy fame, died at his home in Gallipolis, O., a spokesman for the community announced. Uncle Sis was 94 years old.

Death came peacefully, ending a long career of fighting with foes of the Hatfield clan. Many times he had been compelled to take a fire a few shots from behind a tree, but he never complained as a man of powerful build and great courage. He was the last of eight brothers who fought against the McCoys in the bloody feud that began in 1882 and continued for many years.

The feud was raging when Uncle Sis was a young man. Many of the fights were over land claims, but the real cause of the feud was never known. Some historians say it started when a Hatfield boy eloped with a McCoy girl. Others say it was the result of a quarrel between two men over a hog.

Whatever the cause, the feud was a bitter one. Many men were killed on both sides. Uncle Sis was one of the few survivors of the battle of Grapevine Creek, in which Ellison Hatfield was killed and Jim Vance was wounded. Vance died from his wounds.

Uncle Sis was a member of the Hatfield band that went to Pikeville, Ky., and captured Jim Vance, Tolbert McCoy and Wall McCoy, who were taken to Jackson, Ky., and hanged.

Uncle Sis was married twice and is survived by his widow and a number of children.

Description of Some Sale Effected by Means of Radio

Music was transformed into a dollar of light and made to rain in showers of silver coins on the floor of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, when Mme. Frances Alda sang the ship rippled smoothly this afternoon. Travelling along a ripple, but when harsh, discordant notes were struck the ship lurched, tumbled and cavorted like an agitated snake. For all practicing purposes the ship remained motionless.

Sponsored by the two chewing gum manufacturers whose addresses are painted on the ship's sides, the voyage was made to demonstrate the power of radio to sell goods. It was a success.

Mme. Alda sang into a microphone in the Metropolitan Opera House. Her voice was carried by telephone wires to the broadcasting station of the National Broadcasting Company, and thence by radio to the ship, which was moored to a pier in the Hudson River.

Protecting Perennial Flowers

Prairie winters demand protection for perennial flowers. In order that the roots may not be heaved out of the ground, a mulch should be given special care by covering the plants just before the first heavy fall of snow or four inches of strawy litter. This should be allowed to remain on the plants until the middle of May. Strawy coverings are also very suitable for annuals. Such protection should be given to Phlox, Pansies, Hollyhocks, Larkspur, Canterbury Bells and the newly-planted Peonies. The latter should have their crowns free to the air during the winter months. It is well to bear in mind that too deep a mulch of strawy material should be used, especially in the spring. After the first winter protection should not require further winter attention.

A subject of frequent inquiry among the fans at the Dominion Experimental Station, Steele, is winter protection for roses. The method used at this Station for protecting Hybrid Perpetual and Hybrid Tea roses is to tie up all growth loosely and earth it around to within two inches of the top. After the ground is frozen the whole is then covered with six inches or more of strawy litter in the spring the strawy litter is removed a few days before soil is again brought. Following this the branches are trimmed back, usually one-third, leaving the buds set on top, but care is taken not to remove too much wood. Roses so treated are supported to the spring of the year. Many of the Hybrid Perpetuals and Hybrid Teas are budded on the Rugosa stock, and David Austin, such a rose as Mme. Edouard Herriot, Mme. Caroline Testout, Mme. Abel Chatenay, Mme. Ravary, Mme. CUPPY RAMBO

(From The Chronicler)

How quiet is the house, no jarring note
Breaks through the placid hours
From say to day
After long years of recording tasks I rest.
I shall have time for work and time for play
Yes, some time I long for vast-ed things
For cluttered rooms and small, untidy beds,
For mended linens to bandage and caress
The dreamy cuddling of sleepy heads.

I have known toil and pain and anxious hours
Glad should I be that now my task is over
And Oh, God! how much I long to know
The rush of eager footsteps at my door.

FRANCE HAS TROUBLE WITH ALSACE-LORRAINE

Another war minister has been called on to form a cabinet in France, and of all the ministers who have to do the premiers wrestle to a finish, the minister of war has the most serious job. The French army is the most efficient in the world, and the love of a leather and clothes and the pride of the soldiers in their fine uniforms has created a confidence and enthusiasm for the army, however, now that the separation had been for long that when the enemies took peace it was between strangers. To abandon Syria would change the trouble is that a good many people in Alsace-Lorraine believe they were better off under German rule. Probably they were not in some respects their status has been very greatly improved, but it is human nature to exaggerate the delights of days that are present and have to be fread through. We have little doubt that a plebiscite would show that the national loyalty would have to be set up as an independent republic, free from both Germany and French control.

The trouble is that in the years when Germany governed the provinces from the seat of government at Berlin as a result of the Franco-Prussian war, a generation had grown up which very comfortably adapted itself to the conditions. It is true that the old people there still could remember when they were Frenchmen, never ceased to mourn their lot and to look forward to the time when they would be Frenchmen again. Of course they taught their children, too, but as a matter of fact the children would not see that they were being deprived of any important liberties, and as they grew to manhood they were probably not less satisfied than the fathers. But a change in their status has taken place. Nevertheless, when the war came it was hailed with the greatest enthusiasm by the people of Lorraine, if not so much by the people of Alsace. They had also the forced recruit at Bolletino to fight against the nation they regarded as their mother country and at the end of the war saw Germany beaten and the provinces restored it was an occasion for delirious rejoicing on the part of the majority.

Trouble started when France began to administer the affairs of the recovered provinces as she was administering the affairs of all other departments. It was discovered that for the most part the people did not speak the French language & we also discovered that the people were used to three different systems of laws or rather to a mixture of those of the German, French and Alsace-Lorraine. It was also discovered that the Germans had prohibited those religious liberties which, within a certain degree of liberality was to be accepted could not be tolerated by the French. Alsace-Lorraine was a part of the German Empire when the separation of the church and state was accomplished in France. In Alsace-Lorraine the people in numbers were Catholic and the people in numbers were Protestant, and the Catholic church and state are separated in the Protestant church and state. The French people are Roman Catholics and this applies also to the population of Alsace and Lorraine To add to the difficulty of the situation the French people are Roman Catholics and this applies also to the population of Alsace and Lorraine To add to the difficulty of the situation the agitators who are trying to make autonomists proclaiming impossible in the hope that the provinces may turn to Germany Germany is ready to accept and not be tolerated by the French Alsace-Lorraine was a part of the German Empire when the separation of the church and state was accomplished in France. The Byemoor branch of the Red Cross Society gathered in a splendid harvest at Mrs. Hutchinson's on Thursday, 16th. The sale of the day "A Sandwich Competition" was a great success, and the ladies are to be congratulated, not that it is to be wondered at, but that it is to be expected when they get together. The competition was for the best sandwich and the ladies were invited to join the event when two sandwiches were made by each member of the evening in the kitchen. Mrs. Dunn, the Nurse and Mrs. Todd the adventurers, stood away from the kitchen door and their facial expressions are closely watched. Mrs. Smith as a humorous viewer how a nice part was the lucky one to get the prize after the pride of Minister Chadwick's sandwiches either contained mustard or pepper. Everyone is delighted to say.

Muriel Ferguson made a great Cinderella. We advise her to let her hair grow and see prince Charming. Miss Smith were very effective, Ugly Sisters interpreted the part of Cinderella's sisters, Mrs. Chadwick, to perfection. Those who took part in the play are to be congratulated on their splendid work and time spent in practice. It is to be hoped that the hall and stage be taken any place, in fact, it is a shame that such a work put into play, if it is staged only in Byemoor. Penny Serious in "MY MAN"

Stettler Theatre this week end will present a picture of the most interesting and entertaining talking picture ever produced. Penny Serious in "MY MAN" does wonderful work. She has been very fortunate in having developed branch of entertainment, the talking picture artistic ability and understanding with personality and charm and lack of intelligence. Miss Serious is a beauty, but what an actress. She can make you cry instantly as she can make you laugh, her singing explains her appeal to spectator "My Man" seems to have been written specially for her. Helen Stone of her songs are popular and sweet and beautifully rendered. The story revolves around a singer, a accompanist, a rich patron and her affections on an orphan sister. The sister always round her trouble with her sweetheart. Finally she runs away with a theatrical producer. The heroine is broken hearted. Her ability to sing and to act brings her success. The most interesting part is the end. She is given a try-out. While waiting to sing before the judges she has her other name to the other and here's a surprise for the viewer. She then realizes that it was with whom she was singing. Penny is rejected but finally her love wins out in the big finish. She is a wonderful success, the way that follows is most interesting and we will not be surprised for [illegible] and [illegible]

SNAP ON PANTS

Pants are made for men and men for pants, so the saying was made for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man, they are a pair of pants Such pants do not last Pants are like zoolasses, they are thinner in hot weather and thicker in cold. The best in the world is the pants pain during an eclipse. Men are often mistaken in pants Such mistakes make breeches of genuine. There has been much discussion as to whether pants are singular or plural. Seems to us when one wear pants it is plural and when they don't wear any it is singular. Just got on a tear in their pants and it's all right but when the pants get on a tear its all wrong.

TO LEASE OR PURCHASE

I have for a journey for the mind
To rove by hennings and to see far countries, men over the seas that brought me
That make me grow
I am part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravell'd world whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end,
To rust unburnish'd, not to shine in use!
As though to breathe were life! Life piled on life
Were all too little, and of one to me
Little remains: but every hour is saved
From that eternal silence something more,
A bringer of new things; and vile it were
For some three suns to store and hoard myself,
And this gray spirit yearning in desire
To follow knowledge like a sinking star,
Beyond the utmost bound of human thought.

Bothia News

Our weather during the past week has been of a more than ordinary changeable variety. The mercury ranged from a zero of above 10 degrees below zero to 40 above in less than 36 hours, and light showers have fallen. The ice, on many sloughs and ponds, is strong enough to bear a light team of horses well.

Miss Justinus left last Friday morning on the first stage of her long journey to his home in Bavaria. She reached Montreal on Tuesday morning and expects to sail on the 20th inst. She encountered fog along the coast and found considerable sleet in Hudson Strait and Cabot.

An event which has been expected for some time took place last Sunday, when Miss Dorothy Payne and Mr Chester Brewster were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev Miller at the Pastor home at 3 o'clock. Immediate relatives were present.

These young people are well and favorably known in this community and their many friends wish them every happiness. They left on Monday A.M. on Sunday afternoon where Mrs. Brewster is teaching.

A great deal of sympathy is felt for the Bartrell family who have had their second and bereavement in a very few months. Their 17 year old daughter passed away on Friday after a short illness. The funeral was pronounced the cause of death to be that of the spinal. The funeral was held at the home on Saturday with a large number present. The service was in charge of a minister from the Methodist body who branded to Bothia for burial.

We wish to correct the mistake which appeared in our last issue, in which the death of Mrs. Townsend was given. This should have read Mrs. Townsend. We regret that the family should have been given further pain and sorrow.

Wardle U. F. W. A.

The above local held at the home of Mrs. A. G. Downing, Tuesday, Nov. 11th, with a very good attendance considering the cold. Pte. Wardle, the president of the Comrades of the Great War, presided over the meeting. The minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. Roll Call was answered with verses, prayers or quotations were given by Mrs. Penn.

During the business session it was suggested to have a demonstration on candy making instead of the usual sewing meeting. Further discussion on the first part of the New Year was left to be dealt with at the December meeting. It was decided to have a Christmas tree for the meeting for the children of the members and that the aid be pleased to help those in need at Christmas time. Mrs. Tompkins then took charge of the meeting and in the last engaged in a contest which proved very interesting.

After the adjournment of the meeting the social hour was given over to Mrs. Bassett and Mrs. Downing who put on a very interesting contest. The prize was won by Mrs. Penn.

Then being Armistice week Mrs. Penn read a very interesting paper.

A delicious tea was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Bassett Stewart.

The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bassett on Wednesday, December 10th, when the election of officers will take place.

W. M. S. Meeting

A very interesting meeting of the W. M. S. of the United Church was held on Thursday, November 14th. Miss Sinclair had charge of the program for the occasion. Rev Mr. Goddard was the speaker, giving a wonderful fine address on "Thanksgiving." This was the 25th annual Thank Offering meeting of the Society.

Two very pleasing items on the program were solos by Miss Gladys Pullin and Mrs Campbell of Consecon who is the Presbyterial Supply Secretary. Both numbers were very much enjoyed.

All the members were glad to see Mrs. Goddard once more able to get out among them after her long illness.

A very enjoyable social hour was spent while delicious refreshments were served. A goodly sum was received from collection and Thank Offering envelopes.

Appreciation Of Beaverlodge Old-Timer is Expressed

W. B. Albright Writes Obituary of Late J. A. Goudie of Beaverlodge

(By W. D. Albright)

There was held to rest in Beaverlodge on November 7, an early pioneer of country that is now prosperity and note. The late J. A. Goudie occupied a place in the community such as few men are permitted to fill. Remembered intimately with the Western part of Grande Prairie district, he accomplished many acquaintance and wielded an influence throughout the whole Peace River region and far beyond. He was a big citizen of a big new country.

Possessed of a personality at once genial and impressive and graced with a rare sense of melodious humour, his many and unusual friendships everywhere People came to him with their troubles and confidences. The difficulties he usually solved or helped to solve. The confidence he respected. Never only among the more wealthy people, there is scarcely a man in the whole Western part of Grande Prairie who has not, at some time, profited by his counsel.

Tributes

In business capacity he was talented to a high degree. In the field of retail merchandising this talent showed itself remarkably in which a watered, converting a country cross roads store into an important trading point long before the arrival of the steel. One of the first chapters in his career was his return to Beverly, age after an absence at Clairmont in 1916, and to over-expansion and other causes Starting in again he built up the line business defraying all his personal obligations one hundred per cent, in twelve years he built up another Beaverlodge Township.

At that, only a part of his talents was directed to the objective of general gain. Much was devoted to public enterprise. From the day of his arrival at Beaverlodge in July, 1909, every species of community effort found in him a liberal supporter a guiding mind and in many cases a willing builder. From the organization of the cemetery, in which his remains are interred, to the securing of the railway that country, it bears the impress of progress to a man vision and leadership and energy were manifest.

Few knew the amount of effort he put forth to get the railroad extended. Taking only an outstanding part in public speech or print he more the less worked unceasingly, wisely and vigilantly. Committees innumerable, were held in his office. Petitions, resolutions, letters and telegrams were drafted when more actively in the limelight, were guided by his judgment and impelled by his initiative. What is true of railway extension is almost equally true of other matters. He has left his name large in the progress of the country.

But Mr. Goudie was much more than a business man. He had a rich fellow man in nothing that pertained to life.

"My pause I give unto you."

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you."

Such was the legacy of his service and the keynote but the memorable words that fell from his lips in his last moments and during the days that preceded them. What he could have no, not, in nothing would he have it otherwise. Amid the many forms of preparation put in hand for funeral and interment, the words of his last hour were

Reflections — Sunday School Teacher

Referring to the lesson for December 2nd, on "Respect for Rightful Authority" from and "Sunday School Times" we quote the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's, and the text given from Paul to Romans 13 also from Peter 1st Peter 2 13 to 16 all agree and condemn the teaching of the founders of Christianity on this important subject. From this some believe we should obey the State Church or the powers that be are corrupted. Others believe that since we are not to yield all to the State that we are at liberty to question authorities and too often to oppose or disagree that authority.

We believe Paul rightly under stood there is no cause for confusion.

That so long as the State commands a man to do God given opinion to be a right or respect and it is God's law Christian to yield obedience. For example we believe and command capital punishment. Others believe that since God the Motive or Purpose of the law is not final and valid. Neither Jesus good regarding the Sabbath, the patriots and soldiers. It does not matter how a man is commanded a "negative" Exodus 20 3-17 May be or seems, not duty to God requires that we obey. What others are doing or have done should have no weight in the matter.

Only when those in authority command us contrary to the higher law, have we any right to disobey the command. Daniel was commanded to break the first commandment of obedience and God protected him. His three friends were ordered to break the second and God saved them from the fiery furnace Shadrach could be multiplied in Bible times and in the age since of those who have opposed the authority of Le State ruled over by the Church—Many of whom became martyrs for their trouble and are now we believe among those mentioned in Revelations 7 who have come out of great tribulation and will be eternally before the throne of God.

As in the other case it doesn't matter the mag of your finger what tradition or custom says, or how common a practice is among those around us in the thing that God commands, we should obey Him, rather than men. Acts 5. 29 Some will say that God gives a narrow path. Yes, it is a part of the straight and narrow way that leads to life everlasting.

"Come to every man and nation
Comes the message to decide,
In the strife of Truth with Falsehood,
for the good or evil side;
Then it is the brave man chooses
While the coward stands aside,
Doubting in his abject spirit
His Lord is crucified.—Lowell

Canadian Commissioner of Immigration returns to the South, Discusses Canada and Western Settler Development

(By Wilfrid Eggleston)

By reminding the three left in his party by airplane at Lethbridge recently of the Canadian weather constantly himself that the average national education leaves to be desired, but enormous portions of the vital importance of our country. The Rev. Herb yes go the easier the weather the heavier the fall of snow the blizzards, is either said or implied Southern Canada. By testimony to count and recalling popular belief those pioneers are heroes who take their lives in their hands fighting storm and ice and cold and suffer in fun pels or the lure of the precious gold.

Lost some isolated reader may think that the depressing effect of such nonsensical, lower school unsettling about middle Canada, when Canada is shed by the average man while he passes through it university on the quest of the higher education. Yorkshire Cripple Who Shocked All Europe

An Eastern contributor to the New York Times Review says that since the days of Pitt has any British statesman had behind him such an unanimous nation as Premier Baldwin. This would seem to be almost the limit of praise and one of the most extraordinary things that has happened in political history. Perhaps there was never a man in public life more indifferent to the acclaim of the people and more accustomed to the attacks and jibes of his opponents than the present British Chancellor of the Exchequer. Obscure daughter has been in the cabinet philosopher pondering why in the course of one of his addresses he was interrupted by the House of Commons in like that it offered of the crowd he stopped to wonder what the row was about and suggested what football thing for them. Instantly the House was convulsed with laughter at the Yorkshireman's unconscious humor. Perhaps it was the unconscious humor of Mr. Baldwin's remarks in such circumstances that has disarmed his critics and endeared him to the people. Whatever the reason, Mr. Baldwin has been for the past two years the most popular man in England. He has been described by Clifford Sharp as "the best Conservative the new generation has produced." Mr. Baldwin is the antithesis of the modern politician and dictator. He does not appear to all who know him to stand for the violent order of things he is. Mr. Baldwin is opposed on and when he rose from his seat to it all. He is not an unofficial but he was as staunch a socialist as we have no doubt that if he had any ambition for the opportunity he would have the theory has increased with his spell to shadow the present. There is no more and there has increased also political sagist and economic ability to put in forceful, vigorous terms the thoughts that are in the minds of many. Mr. Baldwin is a man of the people and has the common touch. He has a sympathetic understanding of the people's problems and a deep love for the country and its institutions. He is a man of peace and has been instrumental in bringing about a better feeling between Britain and the United States. He is a man of character and integrity and has the confidence of the people. The World's Largest Plane

By Erwin Greer

President Greer College of Aviation, Chicago, Illinois.

She took the air as easily and gracefully as a bird. Her motion was not the slightest hitch. She gained height easily. Three times the radio of land and water—and not one peated and each time it was successfully done many times before.

Speaking in the controls Lt. Dorolhy Hester Undercoffler and His life's greatest achievement the Dole Air Race world's largest airplane. This giant aircraft regarded as another step toward conquering the small and passenger service, has long and elaborate been waited for for both as spectacular size and the perfection of detail of it. In many journals we encounter almost awestruck recitals of statistics —"30 feet 180 feet wing spread, 13 motors accommodations for 100 passengers and a crew of twelve."

Although some of the giant craft's dimensions are already known, the first impression the visitor gets when viewing the huge hangar is amazement at its overwhelming size. Here is room enough for an hour through the ships interior and through the maze of passageways decks corridors, motor gondolas and the inconspicuous crews, and with it admiration.

The ships hull has been divided into seven that of an ordinary sea vessel with its drop low" and "upper" for smokers and it appears plausible that the Do.X will easily cut the waves of what is called the sea of Parce 2 or 6—or near-gale intensity

Entering the ship through a corridor which runs the midship main deck, exclusively reserved for passengers, into two parts of unequal size, one looks in vain for cabins which are found in Pullmans. While partitions already are visible where the frames of sections have been fixed there are no pens covered the ceiling is missing and nonexistent are the berths and cots and cubies are visible.

The four huge tanks with a capacity of 3 000 litres nearly 3 500 gallons of water and two decks of cars of 2 000 litres bring the total amount of water to 16 tons litres sufficient to carry 120 passengers and their baggage a distance of 650 miles

Independent Doll Contest

The Christmas Dolls are now ready to be sent out to all girls in the district who want them and are eager to have these handsome gifts for Christmas. These are the best and cheapest Christmas present that can be obtained in town or elsewhere Just well-dressed and handsome dolls, which are worth ten dollars retail. Eighteen of these dolls were won by surprises ing girls during November and a much greater number will be sent out during the holiday season During the past week dolls were obtained by Maxine Lyster of Red Willow and Mrs. Rafenacht of Stettler Jane Clark of Erskine has very nice subscription to obtain and get her doll, and Margery Bain, sister of Erskine Visitor Rose of Rs. tiler Freda Dannewald of Penn, Kathleen Wilson of Erskine the Burland Times and Stewartyns Gwen Baird of Bailfirk Colene Ford of Stettler, Mary Clark of Penn and Ruby Andrews of Stettler have all made substantial advances during the week while other girls are also doing well

All that the girls need to do is to obtain a list of names in two weeks to get their dolls on the day before Christmas or sooner if they want them. The roads are good and subscribers are paying their subscriptions anyway and will gladly give any girl a boost who asks them so to do. While money is not so plentiful as in 1928, we find that as many dolls are going as in 1927, and in fact, more girls have entered for this in the past year

There are enough subscribers paying the month to give 6 dolls to Delburne 2 to Red Willow 4 to Donalda, 4 to Penn, 8 to Erskine 8 to Bailfirk 12 to Big Valley 10 to Stettler, and 7 to Stewartwyn, and a large number to Stettler All girls will be gladly given assistance in their Independent Office if they call or phone

OBSOLETE LAMP POSTS

A London Daily Telegraph correspondent writes in Japan most of the lamp posts are to be used for public lamps, but by the electric light from a lamp which every house is supposed to have outside the gate or on the front door

This applies also to shops which are generally kept open until late in the evening Their entrances are some times illuminated by Japanese lanterns and look very picturesque

In this way the streets in Japan are fairly well illuminated and present quite an artistic appearance

Mrs. Adshead's Recital

In the concert given by Mrs. Adshead and her pupils on November 27th, a varied and classic program was given and the results achieved demonstrated the versatile talent of the instructor and her happy methods of imparting the same to her many students. This was shown all through the concert and noticeably so with the orchestra. This body of musicians included many different instrumental players and all, except the cornet, received instruction from the teacher for his or her own particular instrument showing that Mrs Adshead is not only a specialist for the violin and piano, but for other instruments as well. The orchestra was assisted with a violin solo by Mrs. Adshead and also with a piano solo by Miss Blake. Both these ladies are well known in musical circles and their appearance on the platform was greeted with hearty applause. The orchestra rendered three numbers very well indeed and their appearance on the platform with one of her youngest violin solos. Which was executed and rendered in a manner that showed that she has presented with a bouquet by Miss E Haines on behalf of the orchestra with applause by the audience The Orchestra brought the program to a close with "Blue the Colors." followed by the National Anthem.

Mrs. Adshead deserves much credit for her care and judgment in preparing the pupils, conducting, and the pupils also acquitted themselves very creditably

Duhme there should be some town of the wheat in Russia, of which there is not the slightest question or wrong. Leap Trotzy may fit ac-cepted as a permanent exile from Russia, but there were no more illustrious exiles than the one-time com-mander of the Red Army. Trotzky, for one thing, is a man of real ability, a fact for the dominance which he attained and maintained for all governments outside Russia, and in Russia. Trotzky himself set it very more objectionable than he is likely to be anywhere else in the is perhaps, entitled to be regarded as the most important of ordinary citizens to suffer the penalty of banishment. EGG LAYING CONTEST

The 11th Alberta Egg Laying Contest has just been concluded and the district has made a good record in this annual event There were three contestants from the province, the local representatives being Sid Coldwell of Stettler and F Gould and Glen Brown of Big Valley

It is satisfactory to note that out of this large number of contestants Glen Brown's White Leghorns were first with total points of 84.9 and the total number of eggs being 1312 Sid Coldwell's White Wyandottes were second with 77 points, the total number of eggs being 94 These 2 contestants were much ahead of the majority of the others, the third standing at 74 9 points, with the lowest with around 4 points and zero. Third was won by Barred Rocks and fourth by White Wyandottes.

Apart from individual exhibitors it is impossible to judge what strain of hens will do the best as the average for other birds such as Rhode Island Reds and White Wyandottes were higher owing to fewer birds being entered Barred Rock entries numbered 11 with an average of 68 1 Partridge Rocks and Rhode Island Reds numbered 14, with an average of 67 5 White Leghorn entries numbered 14 with an average of 74 3 Rhode Island Red's with 2 entries numbered 36 eggs for average while White Wyandottes with 2 entries averaged 81 eggs There is therefore satisfaction for everybody as far as their strains go, but the best bird in the contest came from Stettler and Big Valley.

The Lord Mayor Of London Is A King In His City

London's next Lord Mayor, Sir William Waterlow, is a popular man in the city and in the world at large. The whole of his business career has been spent "Within the sound of Bow Bells," as Cockneys term it, and he is a Cockney through and through.

The Waterlow family has a long history and has been closely associated with printing and stationery. Sir William's father founded the firm of Waterlow and Sons, which has since become one of the largest printing houses in the world, and so much so many of the Government contracts.

Descended from an old Anglican family which came over from Lille to London three hundred years ago, the new Lord Mayor has been a freeman for nearly 14 years in the Cordwainers' Ward, which for nearly 50 years has been represented by one of the Waterlow family. Both his grandfather and great grandfather were members of the city corporation Sir Sidney Waterlow (father) was Lord Mayor in 1873.

At 33 Sir William is as keen and enthusiastic a sportsman as ever he was when he was playing cricket and football for his school. He represented Surrey from his activities as Lord Mayor will be those of London for a year.

He also has municipal body dearest to the traditions and peculiar powers of the city—the privileges of freedom of the City of London. Sir William is a member of the Loyal Merchant Adventurers and the Common Council, and is a liveryman of the Stationers' Company. The Lord Mayor is chosen annually by the Aldermen, and his election is then confirmed by the common hall. In the city's ancient history the Lord Mayor of London the Lord Mayor is regarded as royalty, in fact, legally speaking the King of England is only a member of the City of London by permission of the Lord Mayor, who is considered to be loaned over the keys to the city to the monarch at Temple Bar.

The Lord Mayor receives an allowance of $20,000 a year with which to meet the necessary formalities and other appurtenances of office. The duties of the Lord Mayor of London is before the general public, and he is responsible for the renovation of the old residence. Some years ago the walls of the house began to show signs of weakness. It was found that the very real smell a short time ago, which if adopted, will celebrate the anniversary of a quarter of a million persons.

Sir William Waterlow is a member of the progress guilds and is a director of the Bank of England, the Sun Insurance Company, and other important concerns in the city. In his civic posts and power to the fore courts to be sworn in the Lord Mayor in the street will divide his affection between the Guildhall and the Mansion House, which will remain much of its medieval glory for the next twelve months. Although its first Lord Mayor dates from 1189, the Lord Mayor is still one of the most im-

Churchill Puts Color Into British Politics

Winston Churchill, who has been captivating the imagination of the British people since the days of the Dominion, is perhaps the most romantic figure in politics. He is of the mid-and-third cavalier type of the aristocrat, and his chief delight is to reach his ends by unconventional methods. The son of Lord Randolph Churchill, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1874, and a grandson of the Duke of Marlborough, Winston Churchill has inherited rare gifts of leadership and a love of battle. Now, he was asked what he would do when he was a man. "Oh, 1900," the sense of course, while there is no telling what he had in mind. "Then I'll have a shot at politics."

He was at politics and has carved him to several of the highest ministerial posts in the British government.

In the army he fought on three continents. He fought with the Spaniards against the Americans in Cuba, he campaigned in India and in Egypt, and in the South African war he was not only a correspondent as a war correspondent. During this journey he was captured by the Boers and was attacked by Boers' armored train. Winston Churchill's escape was one of the most remarkable incidents of the war. He had to fall into the hands of Boers who told him he would need a newspaper correspondent and he was held as a military prisoner. Within a month he escaped and went through the country to the Portuguese territory to finish.

In parliament he found the same zeal to high adventure. He was as was to be expected, at first a poor speaker but overcame an impediment in his speech and by sheer hard work became an object of much dislike to the opposition. Even his enemies admit that he was conspicuous for his powers of debate and searched of something of himself.

In 1911 he was made first lord of the admiralty and after a stormy regime which has value in August, 1914 it found the navy ready for fleet manoeuvres. In 1915 he resigned and took a commission as lieutenant-colonel of a regiment of Royal Fusiliers and served in the front in France.

He had served in Ulster and the Coalition cabinet, but when the Coalition was breaking up it backed an Independent candidate with various. However, in the election of 1924, he came off with flying colors and was made chancellor of the exchequer in Stanley Baldwin's conservative government.

He has been a prolific writer writing on war and political subjects and his life of his father and Lord Randolph Churchill is considered the finest piece of political biography of late times.

Most of all Winston Churchill is an Englishman, proud to his heart's core of the traditions of his race and family, and determined that the British commonwealth of nations shall not only survive but emerge a bigger and better empire. He is a man with the vigorous and spirit of youth, in spite of his long outlook and experience over public affairs and international questions. Winston Churchill is the very heart of all that is best in the British character.

Curious Pioneers Early In Many Missions

Medical practice, particularly Dominion medical practice, was often hard and dangerous in the early days of the Canadian West. Dr. Duncan Campbell Scott, in "The Canadian Guide Book," a new post-old publication, tells of the experiences of Dr. John Rae, who was a pioneer physician in the Hudson's Bay Company territories. Dr. Rae's practice was not limited to the white settlers, but was extended to the Indians, on a return visit to Fort York, where he had made his appearance was not what we should call a professional visit, but a speech as the past. The talents of Dr. Rae as a writer have never been seen to ripen and retire from the world, but his medical service at the great various. Suggestions to have an equally rare gift in this connection is said to have measured that of the explorer. Dr. Rae's generosity which have distinguished the great Dalton to surrender his own bed to a sick man, and take the poor to command an orchestra to be chosen for the rendering of the Hallelujah Chorus, and to be according to an article in the Toronto Times.

While there are certain heights which can be reached by men of any race, there are others which can be neither reached nor appreciated by men of a great deal of strong as a background, and while there are some who respect their own race, and who have a great career in singing is a contemporaneous with the development of a strong, a technical mastery of various instruments and a knowledge of harmony in early youth. It has been calculated that between the years 1800 and 1900 no fewer than 300 symphonies were composed by the masters of music. These were not added to the repertoire, however, as the world had passed but men and women who became great and even who became famous as they developed. It is true that few of these symphonies are heard to-day, but the world while they were children and the composers were young men. Mozart's symphonies are of astonishment. Beethoven's symphonies were great volumes at two who were seven years old. Handel played at the first Mozart, one of supreme genius-ity, at the age of seven played the piano and brilliantly improvised at four. At seven he was appointing court musician to the Duke of Bavaria, and queens.

It is believed that many a rich talent has been buried in obscurity and in consequence never reached the world. It is to be feared, however, that in the case of both Rogers and Tchaikowsky they were determined that the children shall be musicians from birth and that they be permitted to give frequent public performances. The material temptation to yield to the demand and caprice of the public may prove hard to resist. Brahms gave early evidence of his fine feeling for music, but his father wisely forbade too early devotion to music, and he made the youth study deeper than he desired before he was permitted to devote himself entirely to the mistress who was to dominate his life. Beethoven's early studies at overcome His love of music was manifested when he was a child but his father thought that the career of gentleman of Handel and little better than no career at all or perhaps on a par with a professional not and teacher. He banished all musical matters from the house, and wanted the youth to become a lawyer.

The story is that Handel with the assistance of his nurse contrived to get a piano smuggled into the garret, where he could practice at night, while the rest of the household slumbered. Handel, indeed closed doors, would practice and improvise on a clavichord and harpsichord, playing an organ in the royal chapel and congratulations the Handel's Diary on the numerous thus breaking down his opposition. Mozart's symphonies, however, were all infant prodigies. He was a child prodigy and composed the ode

Stettler Wins Their First League Game

Stettler hockey team succeeded in winning their first game in the Big Four League, at the local Arena on Tuesday night when they defeated Penolia by the score of 7 to 1. The score was a fair indication of the game as the Penolia players were all in after the first period, while the locals got better as the game proceeded.

During the first period, Penolia had a number of shots on Stettler goal, but Burke was playing a steady game and they could not penetrate the net. Stettler got two goals in this period both by Courtenay Patrick, who got clear through for the first one, and drew the second in on a pass from Wright. Gordon Duckworth did not arrive from Red Willow until the second period and he squashed his appearance by scoring the first goal in this period on an assist from Wright. Jimmie Wilson, one of the subs, got another goal, also on an assist from Wright. The locals were playing a better combination in this period, and getting more into their stride. The third period was a duplication of the second, only more so, as Penolia was out of the picture. Walter Duckworth, on right wing had a number of shots on goal but had hard luck in scoring. Stan Wilson extended himself on left wing and scored three times in succession by nice shots which found the upper right side of the net. One of these on an assist from Patrick. Penolia secured their lone goal in this period, and there was probably too much individual work, but this was to be expected in the first game of the season. To win the league this year the locals require lots of practice in combination Beattie and Patrick, the new players have strengthened the team and the subs are all active when they get on the ice

The attendance was good and the rink should receive good support through the season of six home games. They play at Red Deer on Friday night, and it is said that Red Deer has a stronger team than last year. They meet Red Deer on home next Thursday evening at the Arena

A splendid audience greeted the Georgian Singers in Dew's Hall on Wednesday evening, December 4th with their usual hearty applause which greeted the various numbers given, the several artists lived up to the reputation predicted in the advance NOTES

Only too soon an encore was prailed to enjoy such a delightfully balanced program, and it is to be hoped a return engagement may be possible at some future date.

During their brief visit the concert party listed into a social niche in a very pleasing manner contributing an atmosphere equally pleasant to entertainers and entertained

The United Church Ladies' Aid appreciate the kindly manner in which everyone rallied to make the evening a success, and were glad to have an opportunity of handing over to our Hall Committee the equivalent of brick and stone.

Regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The attendance was unusually large, notwithstanding the weather conditions and time of year. After reading the Creed, the observance of which was later supplemented by the singing of the National Anthem, business was disposed of. Election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. J. Smedley.

1st vice-President, Mrs. A. E. Ost.

Secretary, Mrs C.A. Whitney.

A delightful lunch was served by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Smedley.

Mrs. James Cameron and Mrs. Gordon Cameron and Peggy, left last Friday morning for Elko, B.C., where they will visit relatives and friends during the next few months

Mrs Williams left last Saturday for Nova Scotia where he anticipates spending Christmas Herb will be back at the Gas Station here prior to regale the passing motorists with a brand new line of Fish Stories.

Friday the Thirteenth—Be Careful!

The main business this week in connection with the new hall has been the laying of the hard wood floor. Each morning the boys, whose numbers have dwindled, assemble at knee drill and continue the labors of the previous week. In the evening they are to be seen wending their weary way homeward, but suffering from fatigue—merely "House-maid's Knee!"

The official opening will take place on Friday evening, December 20th, and will be in the form of a dance. Everybody get hardened up for the occasion as there are visions of it being a rare affair indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bowers left last Friday for Crossfield, where they plan to spend the winter months.

There are a group of egg boosters. First, there is the old reliable variety that has been in use for a long time, a recent feature being setting at 15 to 20 cents. The shirtfront dozen of this kind is a 24 cent affair, and metal cover. But the primer of all egg boosters is composed of two perforated metal plates with a rubber between, all in a sheet metal holder. You press the handle and the egg shell is forced through the perforations.

Local Men Assisting In Red Cross Work

Messrs H Bastien and J K Bremner showed a fine spirit last week in connection with the Red Cross Commissioner of the Provincial Red Cross and making a canvass for funds in Stettler.

The society this year is having a difficult time to get funds to carry on their National Office which has been under every year previously, but, this year, been discontinued, because of the lack of resources in Toronto In consequence the Alberta Division must raise $50,000.00 this year to carry the work on on the Prairies.

The main work, of course, is that for crippled children, which is being carried on in the hospitals. One in Edmonton and one in Calgary, having a total of 400 beds. The children taken into the hospitals are only those parents who cannot afford to pay for the necessary doctor and hospital accommodation, and the two hospitals are not only all full, but there are over twenty children on the waiting list.

When one considers that there is no other agency in the province doing this work and that these children would not have a chance if it were not for Red Cross, the value of the work is really appreciated

This, however, is only one branch of the work that the Red Cross is carrying on, and, as Stettler has not taken very much interest in the last couple of years, Mr. Bastien was anxious to have it re-awakened, even if no particularly large a result was raised, hence the canvass the last week. The sum of $70.00 was raised in the day and a half the canvassers were out, and there are a number who have not yet contributed.

Mr. Adams expressed himself as very well pleased with the canvass, and said that he hoped that any others who would like to contribute would turn in their donations to Mr. Bremner who has promised to canvass the few who have not already contributed. It will be a fine idea if this amount can be made an even $100.00 before the end of the year, and we trust those who are interested will see Mr. Bremner.

BYEMOOR NEWS

Mr Wilson the I. H. C collector was a business visitor in town on Monday.

The Trustees of Byemoor Schools held a meeting in town on Thursday evening.

An interesting bridge party was held in the hotel on Thursday evening Mr. Ryan being host on this occasion.

The members of the Hockey Club met at Mr Wade's store on Friday evening when officers for the coming year were elected.

Mr Hodbrod, President.
Mr D Wood, Secretary-Treasurer
Mr W Hart, Manager
Mr H Ross, caretaker of Rink.

They are away to a good start this winter and have the support and help of the business men of Byemoor.

A meeting of the Byrnol Fair Association was held in the hotel on Saturday December 14 Owing to the stormy weather and bad roads the attendance was small. The meeting however, was very satisfactory and the business of the year settled up while arrangements were made for the annual meeting on January 24th, when the election of officers take place for the coming year.

The monthly meeting of the Byemoor Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the Parish Hall on Saturday, December 13th. After the usual business was disposed of the Secretary read two nter rcsting child welfare and public health. It was decided to hold a baby clinic sometime during the coming summer The important phase of our Institute work has been played in the capable hands of Mrs. J. Wood who was elected by acclamation Convenor of Child Welfare and Public Health. After the various reports of Mrs. Brown, who acted as delegate to the convention held in Edmonton in October, Mrs. Wood has had a lot of experience in this work being director for the Baby Clinic in connection with the Byemoor Agricultural Society.

Hostesses were Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. Carlton, Mrs. W.L. Steele.

Mr W. Ryan and Robert Jamieson were Calgary visitors on Monday They motored the roads in poor shape for cars, but made the trip without any trouble.

Mr. Ernest Wade and Mr. Gordon Ferguson motored to Calgary on Saturday.

Mr. George Mellon, Mr. A. Sharp and Mr. R. Wade returned from Calgary the end of last week.

Rumsey reports that Mr. Maughan, has acquired one of the garages formerly owned by Mr. E. G. Brown.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Hickes Grover, on December 8th, a son.

Mrs. Jim Kenny, Jr., of Rodeau is staying at present with her sister Mrs. H. Grover.

Mrs. H. Wallace was taken to Calgary hospital on Thursday, December 12th and is reported to be in a very serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Nelson and son Roy, are leaving on December 15th for Bellingham, Washington, where they expect to be for two months, and will visit their old neighbors Mr. and Mrs. D C Millar, while there.

CHURCH SERVICES POSTPONED

It seems that in Chicago four members of their children to bed with this remark:—"And, now, dear, go to bed and thank Heaven you're not Christmas shoppers."

Curling Notes

A number of members have been signed up during the past week and the ranks will be chosen in the near future.

Jack McRae is taking a good deal of interest in curling this year and should be put in as President next season.

Although the climate might be considered severe for some curlers, it is interesting to note that there are five curlers out in their R.W.D.'s or Bellbottoms.

Messrs Mackie and Goddard defeated a rink from Erskine last week end skipped by Bland.

President Bradford is wearing a marksman that he won as a curling prize at Vermilion twenty years ago. It pays to win prizes every twenty years.

Jack McRae has won two games during the past week against Corrigan and Cromwell. If he keeps on he will stack up against Sharpe's Rotary rink

A Rotarian game was played on Tuesday evening between Sharp, Sharpe and Rice Kennedy, resulting in a win for the former by the score of 17 to 13. The game was fine throughout and threes and fours were as numerous as roses in June. Kennedy had a chance to tie up the game in the last end by nine ad lie, but he was a little too heavy. The teams were Sharpe, Goddard, Wills and Rice; Kennedy, Sanford, Markle and Dunlop.

Rice about a game between two of his stables and two life risks.

The Board of Trade should also enter a rink for week-end competitions, and the Bankers and Real Estate could also stack up strong rinks for exemptory games.

It is perhaps worthy of mention that the members of the winning curling rinks playing Tuesday night are all strong church-goers. This indicates that curling is church influences curling and is a habit worth cultivating.

WEDDINGS

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday, December 16th, at five p.m. at the United Church manse, when Henry Brewster of Ochsky, and Miss Katherine Cormack of the Prairie Grove School were united in marriage by Rev. J. A. Mahar, minister of the United Church, Ochsky.

The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. George Webber, sister and brother-in-law of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster will reside on the former's farm two miles south of town.

A CANDLE'S BEAUTY

<by Anne B. Payne>

The beauty of a candle touches me:
It is so softly gay,
So steadfast and so spotless of it-self.
Giving its light away.

With waxen body, slender, white and still,
Meeting in more or less,
It is a speechthrift with a soul of fire.
Offering sacrifice.

A little space of moments and of hours,
In which to shine and glow—
A candle's beauty touches me, oh, so.
Then anything I know!

MANY BUSINESS MEN TO CLOSE THEIR STORES ON THURSDAY, DEC. 26th

In order to provide a ten-day Holiday at Christmas, instead of one, the agreement printed below was signed by a large number of the business men of Stettler, and these places of business will be closed on Thursday, December 26th. This agreement is purely voluntary and there was no thought or desire on the part of the signers to make it compulsory by petition to the Council The hats been established in most retail businesses for three or four days before Christmas makes one day seem all too short, and an extra day, especially this year, should not be of much importance so far as business is concerned The agreement follows

A very large attendance of both members and visitors represented the December meeting of the above branch at the home of Mrs. Mrs. Charlie Shotwell on Wednesday last, December 4th.

As this was the annual meeting several of the regular business were omitted. We hope to have these at later meetings.

Our Secretary-Treasurer gave a very good report on the financial standing of our branch We were pleased to learn that our finances are still a healthy and thrifty condition.

Due to the inability to persuade the different members to stand for nomination for the different offices it will be impossible at this time to give a complete list of officers for the coming year.

The next meeting will be held at the T. V Bertord home on January 15th in the evening when we will entertain our husbands and families, the occasion being the Waverly Women's Institute's birthday

ERSKINE NEWS

Following six weeks of concentrated effort on the part of local Oddfellows and friends our new hall is now an established fact The Grand Opening dance and supper will be held on Friday, December 26th with MacDonald's five-piece orchestra from Lacombe supplying the snappy music

Not with the intention of holding anyone up, but merely to give the people of the district an opportunity of contributing to the hall fund, the price of admission has been set at $2.00 per couple Extra ladies $0.50. A special supper is being provided by the ladies of the town and will be served in the I.O.O.F. hall on Main Street So kindly is being spared to make this an outstanding feature of the evening's entertainment

The wonderful help so generously given by friends throughout the district during the past weeks will long linger in the memory of the building committee, and on this occasion in extending the invitation to attend what it is felt they may will display an indulgent attitude. All meetings with the exception of one.

On Monday evening, December 22nd, the Community Board of Trade will stage a Christmas Tree entertainment in the new hall.

This is to be a real community affair and as there will be tags and candy galore a hearty invitation is extended to every child in the district and his Grandmother to be present.

The chief item on the entertainment program will be a Minstrel Show, presented by the Amalgamated Society of Dandy Fun Makers. We are not going to say anything more about them, merely commend to your tender mercies, and let them speak for themselves.

MYSTERIOUS AIR RAIDERS
DARES RACING PIGEONS

A mysterious influence in the air over Weedon, California, which befuddles and confuses racing pigeons in their instinct homing flights along the coast was being investigated, Bonta Samuel last night said in a fly direct from any spot in the United States to their homes in Los Angeles have been released from Weedon and have failed to arrive about the hour a week apparently to take off in the right direction.

Samuel said Wednesday that Mrs. E. Best, Los Angeles, motorcycle of the Southern California Racing Pigeon Association and other members have donated 1500 of 15 birds and three miles north of there into than half found their way home and some of those did not arrive until a week later. Best said his companions sighted the racers 40 minutes after they had been freed, circling over local horse barn in a wide circle.

Numerous theories have been advanced by pigeon fanciers as to the solution of the mystery of which is the belief that air pockets in this locality are responsible. What causes the air pockets and for how long affect the bird has not been determined yet.

Another solution advanced is that the magnetism there are of volcanic origin and affect the birds' instinct upon the feathered speeders.

A third is reported after a study of the situation that the large deposits of natural gas known to exist in the Avenue field impregnate the air at the level at which the racers fly and affect them in the same way as a "dose of laughing gas."

The fowls are all marked with the bearing the registry number of their owners. Best, who lives at 345 Carmel Street, Los Angeles, announces he hopes of the discovery of any of the missing racers or of any valuable reason for their disappearing.

Some Suggestions For the Guest Room in the Home

By The Country Cook

In the Country Cook

Just now our minds are full of the Christmas festivities which is the great festival of the year. Very often the real beauty of Yuletide is spoiled by the rush and worry to have everything in order. Let us see how we may try to avoid all of the cap of that happy festival. Christmas is the time for visiting, and most of us look forward to the days when one wants time for either things. Put on sugar, water and corn syrup in a saucepan, boil and it forms a ball when tried in cold water. Remove and beat whites of eggs stiff. Pour the syrup slowly into the eggs, beating all the time. When it is partly cooled add the vanilla or salt and beat until thick enough to spread. If the syrup boils down too much, add another tbsp. or two of water.

Date Bread

1 cup boiling water.
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water.

Add the soda to the dates and pour the boiling water over both then cream

2 T. butter
1 teaspoon baking powder.
Three-quarter cup flour.
Two and half cups flour.
1 egg.
2 cups dates.

After the butter and sugar are creamed, add the egg and add all with the boiling water and dates. Sift the flour and baking powder

Merchants For The Holiday Season

Advertising is the modern method of bringing to the attention of the public the merchandise which they have to sell. It is to their advantage that they make it as easy as possible for the buying public.

To do so is best, by the mixing the goods in such a manner that it is not to be found, but by placing them up in large quantity in their windows. This is the best method to push merchandise for more than a week. Then, when the goods are sold out, it is a selling point, for one can say that the goods were sold out in a few days, and that is a very good recommendation.

Use Cards

Use cards and mail your customers a card telling them that you have received a new line of goods. Tell them that you have them on display and that you will be pleased to have them call and look them over. They will keep for one or three weeks and you can mail out the cards gradually, thus the goods will be kept moving. Many fully implements could have been sold during the past year if they had been shown to the farmer. Tell him you will be glad to show him the implements and he will be pleased to do so. This advertising is the cheapest and most effective that can be used. Christmas comes if mail is carried in the mail, and on the top of each letter mailing.

It is very almost ten years since the U. F. A. movement was started here in Alberta. It was in 1919 that President Wood first called a series of addresses on Group Government that acted as a sort of testing cry to the rural constituencies and caused the downfall of the Stewart Government in 1921 and the institution of the Farmers' Government the same year.

An analysis of the progress of this movement during those ten years will not be out of place at this time although any analysis that is confined to a review of newspaper space cannot be complete and need not be critical.

The plans of President Wood for the improvement of farm conditions have taken two forms Organization and Education

Organization

Along the lines of organization he progressed from the U. F. A. to the government. This theory or what we might call reform in government was that of using the farmers in power at Edmonton in much the same way as the Labor party has done at Ottawa. It was based on no more There has been considerable change in the organization more or less since the movement started and having its ups and downs like every other organization. From the beginning has been the formation of the school panel group—the representatives of any kind to be successful must have the support of the urban, rural and urban part of the population and the success of the movement depends on whether or not it is able to cater to all the people. Originally there was the U. F. A. supplies, co-operative stores, agents and many and that district, and the U. F. A. locals, agents and group have disappeared and the U. F. A. is left alone and as organized. This scheme of Christmas to another, and the finances are very limited. Perhaps if it should, more again and more

Round the Country

In two more years the Alberta Government will be called upon to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. But it is not anticipated, owing to the economic depression, that any elaborate celebration will be attempted. The province has been hard hit by the drop in the price of wheat and other products, and the people are not in the mood for spending money on celebrations. Instead, they are more likely to devote their energies to the task of paying off the debts which they have incurred during the years of prosperity.

Those debts are heavy enough, in all conscience. The Provincial Government has a bonded indebtedness of $60,000,000, and the municipalities have piled up debts of $40,000,000 more. Interest charges on this huge total of $100,000,000 are a heavy burden on the taxpayers, and the Government is finding it difficult to meet the payments. Last year it was unable to pay the interest on the provincial debt in full, and had to issue certificates for the balance. This year it has been able to pay only 50 per cent. in cash, and has had to issue certificates for the other half.

Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that the Government has been subjected to severe criticism. Premier Brownlee has been accused of extravagance, and of having failed to keep down the cost of administration. Some of the charges are undoubtedly true, but it is only fair to point out that the Government has had to face many unexpected demands for relief, and that it has had to meet them in the face of a rapidly declining revenue. Many of the municipalities have also been in serious financial straits, and the Government has had to help them out.

Premier Brownlee has been criticized for his failure to balance the budget, but it is doubtful if any other Premier could have done better. He has had to contend with a Legislature in which the Opposition has been in the majority, and he has had to depend for support on a coalition of Liberals and Labor members. Under such circumstances it is difficult to put through any drastic measures of economy.

The Premier himself, who is a Liberal, has been subjected to a great deal of criticism on the ground that he has been too much occupied with Dominion politics. He has been a member of the Dominion Government, and has been mentioned as a possible successor to Premier Bennett. But it is unfair to suggest that he has neglected provincial affairs. He has been in close touch with them, and has given much time to them. He has also been responsible for the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate the whole question of provincial finances, and to suggest remedies. The Commission has been sitting for some months, and has been taking a great deal of evidence. It is expected to report early in the New Year, and its findings will be awaited with much interest.

The annual meeting of the Embarg Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Symington on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. McBride in the chair and thirteen members present. The meeting opened by singing "Face up your troubles" and by repeating the Women's Creed. After the usual business was disposed of the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President to the following: Mrs. Boyd Vallow; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Lamb; Press Reporter, Mrs. Symington; Standing Committee, Mrs. Hooten, Mrs. Lamb and Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Symington is finishing the year as the most popular officer and will be opposed by the Hon. Mrs. Hooten if she has been engaged as teacher of the school.

Miss Betty Webber is home from Stettler High School for the Christmas.

Mrs. Hugh Wallace motored as the guest of pleasure and spent a few days in the Custer hospital, and is now convalescing at home.

Mr and Mrs. Mott entertained Mr and Mrs. Gregory-Allen to dinner on Saturday evening the occasion being little Hollis Mott's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. A H Johnson and family were Sunday guests of Mr and Mrs. Jary Ballmer

Elk Point Municipal Hospital

Slightly withdrawn upon the little town of Elk Point, the Municipal Hospital, pride of the community, is a symbol of the progressive spirit of the settlers. The term little hospital represents there connotation in embodying the requirement of no necessary an institution that shall hitch in the future of the district which is still in the pioneer stage. It is only when the people of the railway reached Elk Point, previous to the formation of the Provincial Board of Health, that the hospital idea had its early in 1911. The settlers were few and far between, and in by trains from Vermilion, Innisfree, Edmonton and Lloydminster to the country.

Twenty-one years after the coming of the first settlers, the Municipal hospital, with its commodious fire station perfected, was organized, and a good burden of care rolled off the hearts of the pioneers. In those years there were many tragedies recorded across their path. Diseases and accidents were not limited; and for a greater portion of that time, there was no nearer than St. Paul. Ten years ago this situation was the cause of a doctor, and a year was the result. Then, as now, through the operation of a small private hospital. But in those years there were many tragedies. But they are a bit old a story. Still they carried on until the demand for hospitalization and so great that other measures had to be taken to cope with it.

The private hospital did excellent work with the tool and the means. The medical staff was limited to a four-and hospital and the nursing staff was limited to a few. Later it was taking care of ten patients and still the number grew until at one time 36 patients were housed in and around the small nursing building, the overflow being cared for in tents in the yard and in the hay loft.

A solution to the problem was found in the Alberta Municipal Hospitals' Act, which outlined a procedure whereby the people could provide a hospital for themselves. A hospital district was formed, and men and women supporting the idea and quite overwhelming 60 opponents. Today, a neat and complete structure, a hospital, a stores building of the bungalow type standing in four acres of ground caters to the need of the rich of that district. The nursing staff consists of a superintendent and three graduate nurses and nine undergraduates. Two doctors have the entire confidence of the community.

The hospital was built by the sale of debentures, and is supported by a tax of 3 cents per acre on assessable land carrying fees, and the government grant. Ratepayers pay $1 per day for hospital service non-ratepayers $2.50 The total possible revenue amounts to $21,000, and the total probable outlay from $12 to $15,000.

Twenty-five per cent of the medical fees of the district are Ukranians, Scandinavians, Canadians, Irish, Finns, Scottish, Polish, Germans, Italians, Belgians and Italians complete the population.

Alice Joy And Mr. Christmas

By Charles Peter Mayer

A hundred years ago maybe or a thousand the custom of Christmas Eve and supper. Chippewa is busy every where because there would be no Christmas without it. Old Joe pulled his worn hard coat around him and fastened it tighter with a piece of wire. His hands, in dirty mitts, nothing were cold. He searched the banks of them. Legends of Christmas and stamped his feet lively on the icy walk.

Paper! Evening Journal! Paper! he droned monotonously. Nobody he figured his pain. Enough for a penny roll and and satisfaction, maybe But tomorrow's Christmas, nobody'd buy papers he wanted to get enough to buy a little something to his old fare Look on a banana or chocolate grin

maybe to make him happy and bring him to forget just what an old beggar he was Then he would not have to eat so much either A man with a sensible stomach could and a clean suit "They're all right now with the name here It was something like they had last night

Jack was better He smiled faintly Well the joke was on you wasn't it Uncle George? You did as a favor by playing the part of Santa Claus and running errands in the night Before you go to bed look at the closet there and get my case

Joe popped hurriedly out of the closet, wide-eyed, carrying not a case but an old valise "Wh-What's pr gn this?" he demanded with trembling

Oh, that's why you got into Uncle George You are in a habit we have to—out of that habit "That is his brother George He ran away when he was young and we never heard of him since Had rays he was small and use to his life much somewhere One of these days he says, Uncle George will be back in a Rolls-Royce with enough hundred dollar bills to paper the house Dad's actually proud of him We are, rather, too But we call—to different ladies" Jack smiled "Dad is a good thing the fellow took to Joe Joe, lately, "tired of George," he told himself

Gifts Suggestions For The Boy Friend

What to give the boy friend? Oh Bother! I do

From now on this question is age to ponder the fair undraped sister or real members of pleasantly occupied young women More it is time only be mean them disappointment how envious accounts and sudden withered of amounts of time, of important duties, well up some the Hill of Discontent

Yet the problem is marvelously simple compared to find it next to its The shops are do full of the very things any man would be glad to have—jewelry so necessary to smart masculine dress nowadays, cigarette cases and lighters, bill folds cocktail sets and flasks, book ends inkwells and other decorative details for the desk, and more and more smoking accessories

For the girl who desires to give her boy friend a really important Christmas gift not too expensive like a ring which is best reserved for an engagement present a pair of dress cufflinks and perhaps an studs to match make appropriate gifts Sets of these featuring hard gems as the sapphire, "jet" and crystal pearl, are to be had in the smartest jewelry shops Examples of handsome sets with diamonds of course are to be had in the smartest jewelry shops Examples of handsome sets with diamonds of course are to be had in the smartest jewelry shops

THE widow's Grief is always added Worry. There are funeral expenses to pay, doctors' bills, and legal costs—these are the common lot.

But the farmer's widow has handicaps unknown to even the most unfortunate of her city sisters. For her a sick husband, or the crop unharvested and that means hiring help. And there is the interest on the mortgage and little to meet it with. And there are implements to buy; stock to purchase; seed to obtain——

Sell? But it is the wrong season, and if she moved to town, for what task is she fitted and where could she go? No! Her whole hope of comfort and independence for herself and children is on the farm if only there be ready money to meet the immediate need.

And that is exactly what life assurance provides. Here is what a Sun Life of Canada policy assures: A man of 35, by payment of a modest premium every fifty-two cents every year by dividends on the current scale starting at over $50 the second year) can assure that his widow or children receive $5,000 in cash at his death and, in addition, a minimum income of $30 a month for five years while they gain experience and re-adjust themselves in the surroundings they know and love.

The Sun Life provides a policy to meet every need. Consult our representative in your district. It entails no obligation.

Rusty Is A Believer In Christmas For All

He had, it is only fair to say, been in a fight. Quite a mental fight. He had lost some feathers. and like all losers fancied still (even mentally though) the air But he had come out victor. He had driven away seven other hungry sparrows and thus had the event of bread all to himself. He hopped, pecking off some crumbs.

"This is the first season men! I have had for a week," he chirped to himself. "Sure hope it lasts. Say, stupid people think of no one but themselves. Haven't they sent crumbs in their heads? Or ears? We have to live as well as they and we as I without help."

He took several mouthfuls "I suppose they think they are so important as we are! I wonder what'd say off the bean from the question if we all died of the cold?"

A small cause out of the house after him a wooden box in her hand, which she placed on a spare post set up in the ground. "Come on, others' little birds!" she called.

"Here is something for you. He should have all the food!" chewed Rusty away, but she was fighting. "Here is enough for all! Come on!" she said and had behind a book.

Rusty immediately investigated the box. It held grain and crumbs and bits of meat. The seven others were came here Rusty allowed them to stay.

"Merry Christmas," whispered the child "Please grow warm feathers for the cold." She returned to the house.

Rusty set about eating as hard as he could. The seven others birds and Morning "Maybe," thought Rusty. "There are a few people who realize they aren't as important as we are."

ALBERTA'S XMAS PRESENT

Premiers King and Brownlee Affix Signatures to Historic Document.

—Commission Appointed to Deal With Any Misunderstandings that Might Arise—Stettler Agreement Signed—Offer Made to Saskatchewan.

OTTAWA, Dec 16.—What has been the most difficult and without exaggeration the most important question to arise between the Dominion Government and the Province of Alberta has been settled On Saturday representatives of both Governments signed the agreement restoring to the Province complete control of its natural resources The agreement is along the lines proposed by the Federal Government It is best described, namely a negotiance of the Federal subsidy to the Province in perpetuity, such subsidy to be on a sliding scale from the present one of $1,562,500 annually to rise to the maximum of $1,738,889 as the population increases, and once that maximum is attained, to remain at that figure Signatures were affixed to the document on Saturday and thereby was ended a controversy extending over many years.

The subsidy is given in lieu of those resources alienated by the grand and permit since the Province was established. So that all questions may be set at rest, and to determine if the Province has any further claim against the Dominion a commission is to be set up to make investigation. This commission will be composed of Hon. Mr. Justice Turgeon of the Appeal Court of Saskatchewan, C. M. Bowman of Waterloo, Ont., and Mayor Fred Osborne of Calgary. In the vexed question of school lands it is provided that they are to be administered in accordance with the laws of the province.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in the absence of Hon. Brunel Lapointe, minister of justice and Hon. Fred Stewart, minister of the Interior, and Premier J. E. Brownlee and Hon George Hoadley signed for Alberta.

In brief the agreement between the Dominion and the Province respecting the return of natural resources provides the following:

The natural resources, lands, mines, minerals, forests, water and waterpowers shall pass under the administration of the Province.

The present subsidy is to continue and to be enlarged as to wood

DEAD PA

(By Douglas Malloch)

Dear Pa: I thought I'd better write A letter to my Pa tonight
I haven't heard from Pa anyway
I try to write one every day

I get your letter or your note
You mailed me after I went north,
Since you mailed it, now you'll know
Pa,

Or something, that's the reason why

It's quite an eight and ink at once.
My business, Pa, this life of mine
It's something now, or something once,
And, Dear, there goes the office mine.

You think you're crazy with the drink, Pa,
Well, I am crazy, only more
It's cash and cash until you stink, Pa,
Then I send some wealth to your door

And about your feet, I'd be as good As, well, as any one father could, Although the thirst remained to me, Pa.

"You've not your father memory"
The dears and that, and cannot read glad
It made the parent of my old dad
I know he knew you way back when
I'll be as good as you were then

You, you're my Pa, and I'm your child,
You needn't fear I'm running wild
That's one thing, Pa, I needn't do.
But when I have a Pa like you

HOME-MIXING INSTRUCTIONS FOR TOBACCO

The home mixing of commercial fertilizers for tobacco has attracted considerable over the use of ready-mixed fertilizers. The most important of these advantages is that by purchasing the ingredients separately the grower is enabled to apply to the land the exact amount of the tobacco plant food (elements) which the soil and crop require in addition to a saving of approximately 25 per cent in the cost of the fertilizer. Against this however, must be charged the labor involved in mixing the fertilizer. Experience has also shown that the advantage lies in the fact that the same ingredients in different proportions may be used for other crops which the tobacco producer may be growing.

The mixing should be done on a level surface such as a barn floor or a specially constructed mixing box. The latter should have at least sides eight inches high to prevent loss of the fertilizer. The ingredients should be spread out on the floor one above the other and lumps must be broken up before any mixing is done. The whole batch is then thoroughly mixed by repeated shovelling. A uniform mixture is essential. Screening the fertilizer is advantageous in that the removal of all lumps is assured. But more than a few should be mixed in one batch. The mixture should be applied to the land the same twenty-four hours of its preparation.

Growers desiring information on the use of commercial fertilizer should apply to the Tobacco Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

A History Of The Great Sire Brownlade Count

This is an age of speed. It is the age of the motor car. It is the age of fast and easily production in commerce, and more easily to the standards of quality and beauty. But in the realm of agriculture, and in the realm of the breeding of pure bred stock, it is not the age of speed. A few years ago the general public of Canada and elsewhere was attended agaze at our longest record cattle, and at the prices they brought at their auctions concerning the type and breeding characteristics of the champion cheese and no expert could be found to dispute their opinions, then, and still not always agreed, and there are still those of us who do not accept the opinions of the most recent decisions at our fat stock shows. It is the age of speed and discussion which would be applied to the breeding of pure bred stock. Only the characteristics are considered, and the characteristics are considered by the standards of the past. Nothing is considered except the characteristics which were considered by the breeders of the past. Nothing is considered except the characteristics which were considered by the breeders of the past. Nothing is considered except the characteristics which were considered by the breeders of the past. The Brownlade Count was the well known bull of the Brownlade Count family. The Brownlade Count family was founded by the late Mr. Douglas Malloch, who was born in 1850, Mr. Douglas came down to the Brownlade country in 1880, bringing with him a herd of pure bred Shorthorn cattle. He was followed in the following year by his brother, Mr. Douglas Malloch, who was born in 1852, and who came to the Brownlade country in 1881. Mr. Douglas Malloch had established a herd of pure bred Shorthorn cattle, which he had brought from Scotland. Mr. Douglas Malloch was born in 1850, and died in 1907. Privy Council Decides Assessing Cases

It is remarkable that the decision of the Privy Council in the case of Thomas Bell, heard in Edmonton, a week or two ago, has not been more widely discussed by the Province generally, and by the Municipal Councils particularly. The case involved the question of the right of the Municipal Council to assess certain property for taxation, and the ability of the latter to levy on the property of the owner of the property. The case was heard by the Supreme Court of Alberta, and by the Privy Council, and was finally decided by the latter tribunal. DESIRE TO LIVE

(By John Edward Allen)

I would not have my life be one of bliss
Disturbed by heart-ache, agony, despair;
A pale anaemic thing, my nightly prayer
Is that trim each new day I shall not pass
High victorious nor undeserve the kiss
Of various human moles who never dairy
To touch off vorbets in their nose and face

O great me this
That I shall scale Life's peaks, explore its glades,
Know nonchained centuries, deep-valleyed pains
That when my last red sands by
Take are served
And Fate has struck my shares from her looms,
I shall have earned the love words o'er my remains

Dickens's Christmas Carol is well known to most readers, and probably the most famous character in literature having to do with Christmas, is that of Old Scrooge. Dickens created a masterpiece when he wrote about Old Scrooge, and even the name itself is a work of genius as it implies that the old gentleman was an old miser, and Dickens writers serve as it gives a representation of a screw being turned one or twice more so as to make a good job of it. In fact when the narrator wishes to adorn a tale of cupidity, selfishness or downright meanness, he tells all on over again about Old Scrooge.

Personally we think Old Scrooge has been done a serious injustice. He is what we would call a gentleman of the old school. Many is how Dickens describes him. "Essential head and cold had little influence on Scrooge. Frosty weather could warm, no wintry weather could chill him. No wind that blew was bitterer than he: no falling snow was more intent upon its purpose, no pelting rain less open to entreaty. The heaviest of all storms could not beat down a bad and sleet could boast of the advantage over him in only one respect. They often "came" down handsomely, and Scrooge never did."

The fact is he is evidently intended to be a bitter attack on Old Scrooge but it overstepps the mark. Those what a fine man Old Scrooge would have made for our province, when we say what would chill him a fine, tough old gentleman, just the kind we need to speed the wheat belt in Alberta.

The language employed has to be slow a trifle," says Dickens, "when children asked what it was a-whistle, no man or woman ever once in all his life inquired whether he or she knew how to whistle, but everybody did and thought about him.

"The old fellow has some his old features," says Dickens," "stamped his pointed pace, sharp eyes, and a cheek stiffened his g'll, made his eyes red, his thin lips blue and spoke out shrewly in his grating voice. A frosty rime was on his head and on his eyebrows and his wiry chin. He carried his own temperature always about with him."

This is a description of an honest old English gentleman. There was no pretentiousness about him, he didn't promise more favor and then disappointment. He was just a fine old man who was what he was. "No people could take him as he is or love him and he preferred the latter and they usually did love him."

And then when Christmas came to see Scrooge it is amazing to read the contrast between the Old Scrooge and the nephew was what is known as a good fellow a young man who had just stepped over everything he was done, from getting married to the girl he loved to making up the feud between himself and his uncle. Scrooge's nephew was the type of young man who is going to be a success in life. He was a man who was not overshadowed dragged down by his environment, but was a man who had acquired by this kind hard knocks and experience which developed him.

Such people are the kinds needed, and we believe that Old Scrooge is a fine example of that kind of character. Dickens has a very humorous way of describing that kind of character. He says that Old Scrooge was "a comfort, solace, and cordial." Was there ever such a description of a man? The nephew was what is known as a "good fellow"

The Millionaire Handyman Is A New Profession

"Say Lee, Rockefeller is a billionaire, isn't he, the richest man alive, and the richest man in the world?" Lee, on the most casual member of the press agent fraternity, felt that he was a great deal people on the subject. In the first place, he knew Rockefeller, the financier, a darned sight better than he knew any other millionaire and a darned sight better acquainted with him than he was with the average man in the street. And the most of public print with Mr. Lee does not fall under the head of boosting. Public relations counsel? No less a distinguished man than Ivy Lee does not want to be known as a publicity man. Those elements will breathe more easily than if their names appeared in the front page. At bottom his business is to present at the best possible light the things which his clients are interested. He himself says that he is primarily employed upon to give advice which his clients follow and which it is necessary in the interests of their grasp that they should be followed.

We are not aware that in Canada we have any such distinguished figure as Mr. Lee. There are undoubted press agents who may go as far as he and who may not publicity experts, but none that we know of has put on the high level of public relations counsel. But in the United States there are hundreds, if not thousands, of these dignitaries, all mouthing themselves as more or less Ivy Lees, some of whom press agents what the Ivies Born is somewhat between the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company and its employees. The Lee statements were adroitly framed and cannot decide as to which massive accuracy were raised and were the subject of voluminous investigation, which don't rather harshly with Mr Lee and his employers. His present technique, however, is a great improvement over his Colorado performance and it may be that the firms he represents do not need the kind of service he was able to get out for the Rockefellers a generation ago. It is quite possible to distinguish a person is Mr Lee then with employers listen to him with respect and conduct their affairs in such a manner that a decent fare can be given them without doing actual violence to facts. Captains of industry have indeed travelled a long way since the Vanderbilt. "The public be damned" placed a stigma on them and created a public sentiment which has probably cost them a few billions of dollars since the angry exclamation was uttered. If there had been articulate Ivy Lees in the days when Mr Vanderbilt and the Goulds were loose in land there might have been no muck-raking era and no such current as that of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Despite the fact that his fees would compare favorably with those drawn by the most eminent legal counsel, Mr Lee seems somehow to have failed to endear himself to Mr Bent who is quite an expert in publicity himself though with rather a critical and destructive slant. He points out, for instance, that one of Mr Lee's clients is the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York from which he collected $13,500 in fees and expenses in eight years. As these payments were made by the company as operation expenses and as under the transit contract were paid by the taxpayers of New York Never the publicity which was secured for this payment was directed against a policy of which the city had been clamoring for years, there was an element of humor in the situation which we are sure did not escape Mr Lee, even though his sense of humor is not perhaps his most striking developed faculty. On another occasion Mr Lee distressed by the kind of publicity that was emanating from Harvard, his alma mater, generously offered to handle without any charge. This proposal was hailed with enthusiasm, which was, however, suddenly curtailed when Mr Lee's bills for expenses began to accrue.

But what interests Mr Bent the most is not Ivy Lee himself but the powerful influence he exerts on the press. It is quite conceivable, indeed it is undeniable, that Mr Lee and others who labor in the same vineyard appreciably affect public sentiment in the United States and in every other country where they operate. They are paid propagandists. Their main object is not the object of newspapers generally, which is to tell the truth as far as they know it and interpret it honestly as far as they have the ability to do so, but to present some aspect of a case which will be favorable to the ad though stating "Where honor is at stake I die." Because of the

Mrs. Harold Brown and son Ronald returned from Calgary Tuesday where she had gone to attend the wedding of her sister Miss Clara Clark, which took place on Saturday evening last.

The below zero weather of last week was soon made by a change on Saturday night and the temperature since then has been around thirty above in the daytime. Meanwhile we can sympathize with Ontario which has just gone through a typical blizzard with snow drifts many feet high.

Many friends of Rev. J. J. Baker, formerly of Castor and later of Big Valley, will regret to learn of his death, which took place at Victoria, B.C., on Wednesday, December 19th. Father Baker was a frequent visitor to Stettler, while a resident of Big Valley, and was highly respected for his self-sacrificing work as a parish priest.

The ice rink held a meeting on Friday morning at the rink and selected their teams for the season. These will be held over for another issue as a few adjustments will have to be made. The first schedule for the season is published in this issue, and rinks are requested to see that the games are played off on the proper dates.

Many Christmas trees have been sold during the past week, both in the churches and the rural school houses. All of them cannot be described, but it is sufficient to say that they were all highly successful, and that all recitations, songs and choruses were given in a highly professional manner judging by the applause that could be heard in passing any buildings where one was in progress. They are the cheapest and most popular form of entertainment for the year.

On Thursday December 20th, there will be two hockey games at the Arena, one at 4 p.m. between Bashaw Midgets and Stettler Midgets, and the other at 8.15 p.m. between Bashaw Intermediates and Stettler Juveniles. These games will no doubt interest many crowds as they will be interesting and close exhibitions of our winter game.

The death occurred on Sunday morning at seven o'clock of Mrs. H Y Harding at her residence on Stephens Street following an illness of some weeks. The funeral will take place from the United Church on Thursday, December 20 at 2.30 p.m. the services being in charge of the Rev J G Crawford. The pallbearers will be F T Colley W W Sharpe, W Dunlop, J W McBrine George Skinner and Dr Aumoor. The honorary pallbearers are G M Ball, J T Costigan, D R McIver, C L. Wills, H Payn, Peter, R Marshall, D Robinson, R F Cuzner, W J Adams, J Mac Arthur and Major Blair. An obituary will be published in next issue.

Mrs. Mike Skinner died at her residence east of town on Saturday December 21st after an illness of about a year with cancer. The funeral took place from the Chapel on Tuesday afternoon, December 24th at 2 p.m. the services being in charge of the Rev Mr Moore. Mrs. Skinner was well known and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and her death is much regretted. She was not her husband, two daughters, and one son and with a wide circle of friends will be sad to hear of her passing. The following is the standing of the hockey league to date:

DEEP EXPLOSION IN TUNNEL

Mr. Eugene Brault, the managing director of the Mayo Lumber Company of Duncan, British Columbia, is a visiting example of the other of the Canadian environments. Like some of the Hindus in Canada and other subjugated to the life of the country. Mr. Eugene Brault came to America as an immigrant at the age of twenty-two. In 1898 he began at the very lowest point of his life in the new country. Today he is counted by his fellow-occupied in all kinds of correspondence, including two years as a lumberman in Northern Ontario, a spell on a section gang on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Toronto and Bowmanville, and a term in a farm hand at Duncan. Out, on the basis of his life, W. B. the head of the Mayo Lumber Company.

Eugene Brault is now one of the best known business of British Columbia. He is the Mayo Lumber Company, which is controlled by with most of which he has been the active head from its very inception. He steadily under his management and now employs from 400 to 500 men. The company has about eleven miles of railway itself from the forest to the mill and also has its own locomotives and railway equipment for bringing in the logs. Most of the cut is the company's own cargo. Its interests have expanded beyond this company and Eugene Lumber Company Limited, of Eugene, B.C., named after him, which started operations about a year ago near Sand Lake, now employs about two hundred, and will expand further. The employees of the above two companies consist of all nationalities. Canadians, Scandinavians and Finns. Who says that there are no opportunities for the immigrant in Canada?

A SUGGESTION

The Jones family bought the auto they did because the nervous young salesman—

Laughed at all Mr Jones' jokes. Told Mrs. Jones she couldn't have a daughter that old.

Told Susie she looked like Mary Pickford and called her for a dance.

Told Willie Jones he had a build like Dempsey

Said the Jones baby took after both parents

And only smiled when the Jones Airedale nipped him.

KEEP UP THE SPIRIT

Keep up the spirit of fight,
Never my die
You'll need it in life's battle
In order to get by

When the ice gets thin,
And things dim the light,
Don't weaken, you'll win.
If you keep up the fight.

Another Old Fashioned Royal Love Match

Another royal marriage has been announced and Princess Astrid—February is agreeably sure. This is the marriage between Crown Prince Leopold of Italy and Princess Marie Jose, daughter of the King and Queen of the Belgians. It does not differ greatly from all other royal marriages in that it is announced at a free love match. In fact, it is impossible for us to recall any royal betrothal which was not officially announced as a love match and this has given rise to the general belief that all of the royal couples run into head first. But the royal marriages of the present age would appear to be advisedly and carefully arranged affairs, the combinance you made as to the personality of the contracting parties of these enabled rank for they were progressive as possessors. Why should they not? Royalty of the present day must be fully to be for their subjects. Thus, on the occasion of the Italian royal family, one of the Italian royal family, one of the Italian royal family, one

Ontario Farmer And Children Perish In Fire

On Wednesday morning when the citizens of Toronto, Ont. Canada, were closing out their Christmas rejoicers of a terrible holocaust which during the night swept and carried to the 5th Concession, three miles from Alliston, there spreading fast. Three persons proved only too true. Mr Peter Hayes, a prosperous farmer, who brought up in the Town of Vaughan Hill, along with two of his children, all of tender age had been suffocated and burnt to death in a fire which completely consumed their home. Mr Hayes and his children Basil Alfred Hayes, Peter Jr. and Elizabeth, were burnt beyond recognition.

Mr and Mrs. Hayes and family with the exception of them two eldest sons, who had gone to Vaughan Hill the previous night to spend a few days with their grandmother, retired about their usual hour with everything about the house as far as could be seen, normal. Mr Hayes, produced somewhere about 1:00 a.m. by the coming of the flames, at that time the flames were coming up through the stairway and had completely cut off the husband and children and made attempts to escape but failed. He jumped from the upstairs window, carrying in her arms, an infant of two months, as well as a child of two years. In her hop for safety she was followed by her eldest daughter, Mary Rose, aged thirteen years. She let go the window ceiling to her husband and children to jump, hoping against hope every second that she would see them, but they never appeared. Overcome by the fall, she was unable to stand, but had presence of mind enough to drag herself and younger children away from the burning building towards the barn, as they were only shot in night attire and the night was bitterly cold. Mary Rose, realizing the condition of things, set off for the nearest neighbor, Mr Lester, overcoat of a little way, but on up to that time had not seen or heard anything of the terrible tragedy on, before reaching the Snow farm, by this pitiful little girl, crushed by the cold and fear, while some distance, was able to arouse Mr Lester. So hurriedly had the child in and made his way down over to the burning building. There he found the house a seething mass of flames and Mrs. Hayes lying on the ground unclothed in some pains from burns and some injuries. Realizing that nothing could be done for the poor unfortunates and were left at the burning building, he rushed home, harnessed his horses and brought Mrs Hayes and surviving children to his home where he ministered them every comfort possible.

Realizing their condition he drove to the town of Alliston, a distance of three miles and called Dr. Mitchell Metcalfe, of Vaughan Hill. When the doctor arrived at the scene of the tragedy he found Mrs. Hayes suffering from severe burns of the hands and face, but they like those on not only burned, but also had fractured both ankles. After having attended to her and also to them as could reliable as possible under the circumstances he notified Mr Coroner Dr H Hilroy of Kerbrook, who later during the morning held an enquiry. After having told his Mrs. Hayes and her children's statements he found that an inquest was unnecessary, a verdict of death due to suffocation caused by burning beam trapped in a burning house was rendered by him.

After the two had burnt most out the bodies were found directly underneath where previously there had been a window. They were all within a foot or two of one another. There is no doubt but that Mr Hayes died from suffocation in an attempt to save his wife and children.

He not only leaves to mourn his loss his wife and children, but also his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hayes sr., and three brothers, Jacob, Joseph and Basil and four sisters, Mrs. Batchelor, Mrs. Jerry Lavender, Mrs. Dean, all of Vaughan Hill and Laura of the U. F. A.

The funeral it be held on Friday morning in St. Gregory's church, Vaughan Hill.

The Review, added will the citizens of Vaughan Hill and in the whole country of Prescott, extend our deep and heartfelt sympathy to the stricken relatives.

Mrs. Peter Hayes is a sister of Mrs. Ralph Rhodenizer of Lac Alberta.

OUT HUH!

I went into a restaurant I left my coat behind.
The soup was hot, the soup was not
—It was the tepid kind
But I should worry, for the host observed my look of cost
And sent a bare-legged serving-maid to 'lick the boarder out.'

THE DARK

The dark is kind and cozy:
The dark is soft and deep.
The dark will put my pillow
And love me as I sleep.

The dark is smooth as velvet,
And gentle as the air,
And he is good to children
And people everywhere

The dark can see and love.
Without a ray of light,
He gives me dreams and resting
He brings the gentle night.

God made the dark as daytime
Could close its tired eyes,
And rest awhile in comfort
Beneath the starry skies.

The daytime just the children,
Needs rest from work and play,
So it can give us children
Another happy day

God made the dark for children
And brother in their nest.
All in the dark He watches
And guards us while we rest.

PROOF WITH

One day recently during the low spell of balmy days we mention, a few of sixteen, a new comer to the town was brought to a local hospital with teeth bonds frozen white. He had been two months only in Canada, having come from Scotland, did not know the danger of exposing his bare hands when the temperature was twenty-eight below with a cold wind blowing. However, he knows now, and will not make the same mistake.

For those new-comers to our Canadian West who have not yet experienced a winter with its peculiarities to them, it may come, fingers or toes are frozen, and appear a cold white, start thirsten with snow or a piece of ice at once, and keep it up until a peak glow appears in the affected part. If frozen, put hands or feet in cold water, and keep there for an hour or more and then use friction until circulation is re-established. Never use a fire.

If frozen found frozen to necessaries should be placed in a cold room and friction with cloth

Realizing that nothing could be done for the poor unfortunates who were left in the burning building he rushed home, harnessed his horses and brought Mrs. Burns and surviving children to his home where he extended them every possible comfort.

Realizing their condition he drove to the home of Alfred, a distance of three miles and called by United Telecode, of Vendome Hill. When the doctor arrived at the scene of the tragedy he found the survivors suffering from severe burns of their hands and face. Mrs Burns was not only burned, but also had sustained both ankles. After having dressed the burns and made them as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, he notified the Coroner, R. H. Hardy of Strathcona, who later during the morning held an enquiry. After having told Mrs Burns and Mr Lothe's statements he found that an inquest was unnecessary, a verdict of death due to suffocation caused by persons being trapped in a burning house was rendered by him.

After the fire had burned itself out the bodies were found directly underneath the window where previously there had been a window. They were all within a foot or two of one another. There is no doubt but that Mr Burns died from suffocation in an attempt to save his little innocent children.

He not only leaves to mourn his loss his wife and children, but also his father and mother, Mr and Mrs. J B Burns, sr., and three brothers, James, Joseph and Stephen and four sisters, Mrs. Theophile Hill, Jerry Lorraine, Mrs. Hunt, all of Vendome Hill, and Louise of Mc D & A.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning in St. Gregory's church, Vendome Hill.

The Review, along with her relatives of Vendome Hill, in mid in the whole county of Prescott, extended by Mrs Burns and her other survivors, its deepest sympathy.

(Too Late For Last Week)

A pastel recording took place at the United Church Manse on Monday afternoon, December 14th, when Henry Meunier of Gadsby and Marie Katherine Gerlitz of Red Willow were united in marriage by Rev J A. Millar. The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. George Webber, and the happy couple will make their home on the quit will reside on the groom's farm south of town.

Mr W F Puffer of Leonville, is the guest of Mr and Mrs. E. F. Gregory for a few days this week.

The Junior C.O.I.T. group held a sale of work and afternoon tea in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon and were treated to an hour's concert.

Don't forget the annual Community Christmas Tree and entertainment to be held in the Town Hall on Friday evening the 18th. The W. I. and the school teachers are making every effort to provide a happy evening and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Several members of the Sunday School put on a very delightful concert last Friday evening in aid of the Piano Fund. Owing to so many other attractions this was not as well attended as it should have been. The sum of $18 was realized.

Miss Louise Burns from Hudson spent the week end with her sister Miss Isabel Burns.

We are pleased to welcome Mr. T. P McGowan from Trangmille, B.C. who has come to take over the practice vacated by Dr. J.J Dubry, who has removed to Elkton.

Many friends will regret to hear of the death on the 9th inst. of Mrs Stowell, mother of Mr. R. W. Stowell, former manager of the Royal Bank here. Mrs Stowell had spent several years here, with her son, and by her great kindness and sympathy endeared herself to a large circle of friends. She passed away in Maxson, and will be laid to rest in the family plot at Brockville, Ontario.

We also regret to record the death of Miss Caroline Upham at Pasteur hospital on Friday December 18th, after an illness of several weeks. Miss Upham taught several at Rosebank for some years before coming to Gadsby four years ago. Since then she continued to reside here, in order to provide a home for her niece attending High School. As far as her health permitted she took an active part in all work pertaining to the welfare of the community and her passing is deeply regretted by all. Miss Upham was a sister of Mrs. Paul Perrault whom and all other relatives our sincere sympathy is extended. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the United Church to Gadsby cemetery, Rev. J. A. Millar officiating.

THE DARK

The dark is kind and cosy.
The dark is soft and deep;
The dark will put my pillow
And love me as I sleep.

The dark is smooth as velvet,
And gentle as the air,
And he is good to children
And people everywhere.

The dark can see and love.
Without a bit of light.
He gives me dreams and resting
He brings the gentle night.

God made the dark as daytime
Could close its tired eyes,
And rest awhile in comfort
Beneath the starry skies.

The daytime, not the children,
Sends sun from west and east play
So it may give us sightliness
Another happy day.

God made the dark for children
And mothers to steer soon.
Let us use ours for heaven
And pray for what we need.

SHORT HITS

One day recently during the few days of below zero weather, a boy of sixteen, a new comer to the West, was brought to a local hospital with both hands frozen white. He had been two months only in Canada, and having come from Scotland, did not know the danger of exposing his bare hands when the temperature was twenty-eight below with a chill wind blowing. However, he knows now, and will take care in the future.

For those new-comers to our Canadian West who have not yet weathered a winter with us, this article is written. If now, very, fingers or toes lose feeling and appear a cold white, start friction with snow or a piece of ice at once, and keep it up until a pink glow appears in the affected part. If possible put hands or feet in cold water, and pour more on as soon as warm and from ice crystal formation has been completely established.

Never put in hot water, nor place near a fire.

A person found frozen to unconsciousness should be placed in a cold room and friction with cloth orange out of ice cold water applied warm blankets and given hot drinks. To keep warm avoid friction of ice. Exercise on first and slow circulation. This is to be kept up continuously from the discussion that until circulation is re-established. Cross Society, 647 Civic Block, Edmonton. Then patient is placed between mention, Alberta.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. T. HARDING

The death of Mrs H T Harding, on Sunday, December 23rd, was much regretted by her wide circle of friends as Mrs. Harding had been a resident of the town since December 1904 and had thus lived here continuously for twenty-three years. Mrs. Harding was born in Fall River, Mass., the daughter of Isaac and Emma Pike. Mr Pike being a practising physician of that city. Her father and mother later moved to Boston and she was educated there to Mr H T Harding of Windsor, Nova Scotia, whom Mr Harding was practising law for some time. Wedding took place on the 20th of May, 1903, and opened up a new office in the old Thomlinson-Leeds Building. Mrs Harding joined him here in December of the same year and they occupied the same family residence for 25 years continuously.

Mrs Harding had enjoyed good health up to about a month ago when she had an attack of stomach trouble which affected the heart and complications had a very large circle of friends who mourn her untimely passing.

The funeral was held to the Methodist Church on Thursday, December 27th at 2.30 p.m., the service being in charge of Rev. G. H. Craddock. The Choir of the church sang the hymns at the service and the casket was covered by beautiful flowers from various individuals and organizations. All business in the city was closed in which the deceased was held in high esteem.

The pall bearers were F. T. Colley, George Stettler, W. Dunlop, W. J. Adams, W. W. Hooper and J. C. Stettler.

MRS. A. W. GUNDRUM

The many friends of Mrs. A. W. Gundrum were shocked to learn of her death, which occurred on Friday morning, December 28th, at about the hour of two o'clock, after a short illness in town. Mrs. Gundrum had been in poor health for some time, but her interest in the home duties up to the morning of the day of her death. She had risen early, prepared the breakfast, but later was taken with violent attacks of pain and vomiting. Relief was given and she felt better, but just as she was about to rest for the night another attack took her life without a moment's warning.

Mrs. Gundrum, who was, before marriage, Catherine Bowman, was born in Illinois, seventy-two years ago. With her family she moved to Kansas, in the year 1887. On October 9th, 1879, she was united in marriage to Mr. A. W. Gundrum, continuing to reside in Kansas till the year 1914, when residence was taken up in Stettler district, where they have since been ever since.

Only recently a happy family reunion took place when Mr. and Mrs. Gundrum were expecting to spend their remaining years. It was a happy occasion when, early in October, their golden Wedding Anniversary was celebrated, in the presence of many friends of the couple.

The home of Mr and Mrs. Gundrum was blessed with five children, one of whom a daughter, died in infancy. The others, Miss A. Gundrum, and three sons, Charles, Fred and John residing in the vicinity, together with the sorrowing husband mourn the loss.

The funeral service was held in the Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Pastor R. E. Mackay Hunt in charge. The very large crowd which filled the building testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved

Lacombe Defeats Stettler Hockey Girls Played Here

Stettler was rather badly beaten by Lacombe last Friday evening at the Arena when they bowed down, twelve at the wrong end of a 6 to 0 score There was no particular reason for the beating defeat, but it was one of those reversals of form that cannot be explained and which seem to attack a team at times. Lacombe from time to time Lacombe was shooting their goals from close in and Stettler seemed to be unable to get behind but the by in their combination and remastered shooting from the blue line. In the first half period when Lacombe was playing a strictly defence game and were outplayed, they scored one goal while the locals were scoreless.

Lacombe has revamped their team and their goal tender is now Christiansen of Bashaw, who is very superious as a net tender in amateur circles. Stettler however has taken his measure before when playing against Bashaw but on Friday night they could not get the rubber past him to the net Bashaw holds the goal post, but the majority collided with the goal tender's posts. But a one brought the much needed goal. Lacombe on the After hand was shooting a hard game from the from the wings, which means that their players have a good deal of combination and got through the defence on short passes. Stettler was also putting in a good game but stopped were hard cases although two goals were scored by the opposition. None of the locals played up to their usual standard but it is quite likely that the same team could meet again and Stettler score a win Lacombe has a fast and present line-up is the strongest team the locals have met this year. There are few for their home ice

Monday afternoon there will be a 2 to 1 at Pocaan on Monday night and are still in second place in the League.

Fifty Girls Get Dolls For Christmas

The number of girls who were fortunate to get their Independence Dolls for Christmas numbered fifty this year, and that means quite a number of girls and dolls if the boys all grouped together as they would make quite a large school-room of pupils. This is the largest number of dolls sent out for Christmas for some years except 1926 when the fine weather and good crops caused a few more girls to get dolls.

There are about ten more girls who will get dolls this season as they I've their hats well advanced and need only a few more accessories. The dolls are waiting at this office for any girls who complete their hats, but the Independents will not advertise the Contest any further, except next week when it will give the complete list of girls getting dolls and also the list of those who are still working to get them. The Independent wishes all girls a good year for 1929 with lots of school work and home work, and also a little fun on the side.

Invests Less Than $16 And Now Has $350,000 Business

Starting with an investment of $15.75 which was supposed to be a hobby Edward H Stahl has developed what is said to be the biggest rabbit farm in the United States. He does an annual business of $200,000.00. His rabbitry is located at Holmes Park. He not far from Kansas City.

The Stahl rabbit farm is not only said to be the largest in the United States but it supplies foundation stock for a large number of other rabbitries scattered throughout the States and other countries.

Stahl was at one time foreman of a powder mill located near Belton Park. Business was a little dull and having some spare time on his hands he invested $15.75 in Belgian hares, which he hutched in a hollow round corn crib.

Being a prolific animal the rabbits purchased with the original outlay had produced enough so that there was a rapidly growing herd. Stahl spent $2.50 for an advertisement in a weekly farm paper and got orders for 200 worth of rabbits. With that experience to soon quit the Powder mill and devoted all of his attention to raising rabbits.

Chinchilla is the breed of rabbits in which Stahl specializes. He imported a large number from England a number of years ago and is now recognized as one of the leading authorities in this country on that breed. New Zealand Whites are also popular on his farm.

Practically every rabbit on the place has a hutch in himself until it is ten weeks old at which time the animal is shipped to another rabbitry or to market. The average number of rabbits on the farm each day of the year is 6000. As it is necessary to keep them segregated the entire farm of the is kept somewhat busy with hundreds of little apartments.

A total of 35,000 rabbits a year are shipped to other rabbitries or for fur purposes and another 10000 to 20,000 are sold to be consumed as meat.

Stahl contends that something like 250,000 a year is spent by Americans for the purchase of rabbit fur most of which goes to Europe.

A LONELY FAMILY

That they have the lonelest home circle in Australia, possibly in the world is the claim of the family of M. In the last three years the Gunns have seen only 30 people

GERMANS DENY EDISON INVENTED FAMOUS LIGHT

Where has been revealed by Dr. Hans Bredow, director of the German Broadcasting company in Berlin, that Thomas Alva Edison was not the inventor of the electric light. The latter is credited in memory of Heinrich Geissler, who, it is claimed, was the first to make the discovery.

Dr. Bredow, who is a scientific expert, Prof Bredow, has a pet theory which is that inventions for lighting do not come when light in the air need no fuel. He claims that an increased supply of hydrogen at that altitude could be exploited in a special engine and furnish power to propel the "plane", thus relieving the plane on air

To the man in the street, who still thinks of Red Cross in terms of war and battlefields, there must seems a mystery what is done in the Red Cross Headquarters in times of peace and why behind the scenes may prove illuminating to the interested visitor.

It is some of us and half a dozen typewriters began to click busily in the Commissioner's office, the mail is being opened, a stack of a hundred letters, when times are busy, as in the December month.

It would be interesting to know the problems as in the correspondence, for then one would see that of Great Britain only nineteen-wide but Dominion-wide, and world-wide Realm although the Navy and the Red Cross is no idle as in a hairsidewise, with all the varied limbs and bones of humanity, considerations from the cradle to the grave. It requires considerable knowledge and discrimination in social welfare and kindred work to be able to deal intelligently with each and every request that comes to Red Cross.

There are letters from other Societies in the parts of the world—British, Russia, France, America, etc soliciting certain information and asking for specialized assistance from Alberta

Strange as it may seem, people who have been lost to their friends through the machinery of the Red Cross, have been found again

Letters from settlers in all parts of Alberta, written with the faith that in Red Cross they have a friend, frequently take months to fully follow up, if the case is one of sickness or emergency

Radio letters pour in from the slave listening family of the Friendly Hour, and these generally carry an offer of service, which means the cutting-out table is busy all day

But it is the Junior department that carries off the palm for the largest number of incoming letters to Red Cross. Consider, there are in Alberta some 1900 branches with a membership of around 31,000 and you will readily see that the bonds keep the Headquarters happily engaged in answering a thousand and one requests.

Sick and crippled children are regularly taken off doctor's lists, and that means follow-up of an important nature, for it depends on this whether cases are closed or not. Invalided to the Hospital in Calgary or Edmonton. Money comes in by mail, the proceeds of a visiting concert or the hard-earned fees of a handful of Juniors who are proud of being 100 per cent. for health and cleanliness. Boxes of literature travel by the Red Cross mail to be used as Tags for Leaves, etc., their values being that they are the work of the crippled children in hospitals.

The educational end of the Junior work is important, and it is due to the hospitalization of sick children, now that Junior Red Cross department is busy constantly shipping out Bandy rules and charts, state in indigenous and portable for baby or plays, and each month the Junior Red Cross Magazine comes out. The Canadian Junior Red Cross Magazine, for Alberta has a large circulation.

Of annual educational value is the international correspondence by means of school pen pals which is being extensively promoted to all parts of the globe in answer to time portfolios received during the past year from other lands

Relief work is constantly present in a Red Cross office and it takes considerable time to ship out, emergency and maternity requisites.

HOT DO-DO-DATE

A travelling salesman found himself in a village hotel dining room when a heavy downpour of rain set in. Addressing the waitress, he remarked: "It looks like the Flood!"

"Like what?" the girl inquired.

"Like the Flood. You've read of the Flood and how the ark landed on Mount Ararat, haven't you?"

"No, sir. I haven't seen a newspaper for three days," confessed the waitress.

Round the Country

Some years ago the Independent published a list of taxes that were levied on this newspaper by Federal, Provincial and Municipal taxing bodies. We showed that about half that the various boards left out in taxing a business concern in Alberta was an amusement tax, levied for the amusement we got out of the business. Our case is not unique, however. For from it. A correspondent has sent us an article from a Chicago newspaper analyzing the method by which taxes are levied in Chicago and Illinois. The mix-up on the tax questions in that state is indicative and picturesque. Taxes for Cook County are levied by at least seven different bodies and in some cases 10 or 11 governments have jurisdiction.

Dr. Ferguson of the Northwestern University, has written a book entitled "The Tax Situation in Illinois," and he shows that most of the palaver in the state legislature has been 24 tax rates levied upon them. These taxes include those for the State of Illinois, for Cook County, for the Municipality, for the Schools, for the Forest Preserve District, for the Sanitary District, for Parks, for the University, for the Highways, for Mothers' Pensions, for County Pensions, for Blind Men's Pensions, for the Public Library, for Municipal Pensions, for Hospitals, for Free Text Books, for Teachers' Pensions, for Playgrounds, for Recreation Centres, for Tuberculosis Fund, for Printing, and so on up to 32 different taxes.

It is natural enough for us to note that the payment of the allotted to us, as electric light and power by Chicago householder from getting that. But he has been given to understand that he apparently does not mind the additional risk he incurs from the gunmen. In fact, he probably invites a shot or so from the criminal element, as that would be the best way out.

It is about time that all government were made to call a halt on the reckless system of indiscriminate taxation. There are certain, well-defined methods of assessing taxes, and these well-beaten paths have been followed for so long a time that the people have got used to them and would not know what to do if the old methods were changed. Each year the Red Horse is expected to have had to-day such items as those with which his name is associated.

When Winter Comes

A "snowmobile" used in the Maritime Provinces

DOWN in the Maritime Provinces the Canadian Pacific went over alone. Here is a Ford "Snowmobile" all set for a hard winter. Proof that it will get over the roads no matter how high the drifts may be is furnished by Captain Donald McMillan, the famous Arctic explorer, who was hired to go to Newfoundland in the Far North. With his Ford then equipped he travelled nearly two thousand miles over ice on one expedition, at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour. This, of course, is far better than dogs can do in severe circumstances. The McMillan "snowmobile" has a steam fire box to keep the engine warm.

A Model A Ford, cash at the factory, has reached the age of 15 is not confined to Canada.

Uruguay is the first country to attack the problem seriously. Under the general provisions of its old age pension law the government has just ordered twenty-two chauffeurs, all government and public utility pay rolls must carry enough people more than 45 years old to equal 10 per cent. of the total number of persons on such pay rolls.

While it may be questioned that this method will accomplish much anything, it is significant as a corrective by the government of Uruguay that an old-age pension is conferring that the age disabilities of old age are not necessarily the same in all countries. It becomes apparent that the government derives revenue to do does not go far enough.

Of the persons over 15 years of age who are gainfully employed in Canada 32.3 per cent. are over 45 years of age. In fact 4.1 per cent. of the Texas roads in the decrease therefore, that not less than 10 per cent. of the employees of the government and public utility corporations must be 45 years of age and over will not absorb those over that age.

The real significance of the decree of the republic is not in any practical effect that it may have, but in the fact that there should be any governmental action in this direction at all.

Schwab's Fifty Years In Steel Industry

Charles M Schwab has been fifty years in the steel business and can look back with some satisfaction upon his achievements. He says, "There are few steel works in the United States (1911) in some cases have not been under my management and control. It is a history that will probably never come to any other man in the industry, but mine and plans and chances made the my good fortune." The first time that the plans and chances culminated auspiciously for Mr Schwab was just before he entered the steel business. At that time he was a seventeen-year-old clerk in a general store in Braddock, Pa. Among the things the store sold were cigars and among the customers who bought them was Captain William R. Jones, superintendent of the Edgar Thompson steel mill at Braddock, a mill brooking to Andrew Carnegie, and his brother as he said the captain a cigar the man came into his hand to ask the Captain for a job. He did so, and the captain put him on the pay roll at twenty dollars a week a day.

Driving makes proved highly distasteful and in order to get a better job Schwab studied at night, and at the end of six months was promoted to be assistant engineer in three years he was made chief engineer and assistant superintendent. There followed a period of hard work for Schwab and for a time it was uncertain that might be expected to be a man of remarkable personality and the acquired or inherited gift of handling other men. This was illustrated by the great opportunity which was presented when the Carnegie Steel company changed hands and he to be succeeded by the Carnegie Steel company changed hands and he to be succeeded by the Carnegie Steel company changed hands and he to be succeeded by

The Rotary Dance on New Year's Eve at Chateau's that was the most successful affair of the kind that has been held here during the past year. The Mayor orchestra of Edmonton, furnished the music and the hall was crowded for the occasion. In fact there seemed to be double the usual crowd on hand, consisting of those who occupied the floor and those who were content to remain around the hall. As midnight approached the audience became more keyed up in pounds, and the New Year was ushered in with an old time celebration, featured by horns, confetti, streamers and paper lacquer tissue paper hats of all shapes and sizes. After midnight the crowd settled down into serious dancing, which was continued until three o'clock. Refreshments were served by the ladies in the basement, and this was a change much appreciated by the guests Taking it all through the arrangements for the dance were a credit to the Rotary Club and it should become an annual event.

HOW'S THE TIME WEST

By Betty Meeking

How that the days are colder we have a greater craving for meat, eggs and fish than we had during the summer months. Here are a couple of economical and economical meat dishes that will prove very popular

1 small onion.
2 small pickles
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon pepper.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
Strained tomato juice.
1 pimento.

Mix the beef with the chopped onion, the green pepper chopped up finely the pickles cut in small pieces and the tomato juice. Season with salt, pepper and paprika. Grease loaf pan and place half the mixture in it. Cut the pimento in long strips and arrange over the meat, place rest of meat over the pimento and bake in a hot oven for thirty-five minutes. Ten minutes before removing from fire place bacon strips across top and permit them to get crisp. Serve with beans or peas.

Once A Russian Prince Now He Raises Muskrats

Alberta has added one more to her list of titled ranchers. This time it is a Russian prince, formerly related to the defunct royal family through an alliance in the days of Peter the Great, but of recent years more or less a vagabond on the face of the earth in search for a happy home where Bolshevik cause from trembling and persecution may at rest.

Prince Leo Galitzine, twenty-five years old and married just about a year, is the latest royal member. He has bought over four hundred acres of land on the Medicine River, five miles south of Elkton, right to the heart of the big game country and there he is going to raise muskrats.

On the land there is a lake which covers 150 acres and this is to be the habitat of the colony of muskrats the prince plans to develop. There are already a few hundred muskrats on the place now. A much larger number will have to be introduced to make the ranch a paying proposition. The lake is to be enclosed with three miles of wire fencing at a cost of $1000.

Much of the farm work is to be done by the prince himself, though he will have a manager and a few helpers. He has studied for farming extensively and has a number of theories that he intends to put to the test of practice, before having been endorsed by the professors of agriculture of Lewvain University, where he studied for some years. It is not expected, however, that the prince will put any dividends until about 1922.

Prince Galitzine has come all through the usual experiences of the refugee princes, half of whom hardly enough to scrape other from the revolution. He was born in 1904, Christmas Day, in Carskoe Sunta, but from infancy until 1914 his family lived in France, Italy and Switzerland, his father—uncle to the Russian in that year and dying shortly afterwards.

Forced to flee his native land to escape death during the dark days of the revolution, Prince Galitzine made his way through Lithuania and Vladivostock to Japan, remaining there until 1921, when he removed to Penge Land resumed his interrupted education

Young Galitzine became interested in the moving picture business in France, but his eyes failed under the glare of the studio lights and he had to give up his ambition to be an actor. He bears a striking resemblance to the late czarevitch, and in earlier and happier days was frequently mistaken for the heir to the Russian throne. On one occasion he even had to be guarded by gendarmes to frustrate a plot to kidnap him by misguided adherents of the ancient regime who believed that his impersonation of the czarevitch, backed by a pleasing personality, a marvelous escape from the Reds when other members of the royal family were murdered would surely restore the monarchy

SET NO LIMITS

A traveler arrived at a small borderland village very late at night. He went to the house he knew ones coming to find a cabin to retire, but found each of them open, and no one could be persuaded to give him hospitality. At length he knocked at a large house in desperation and when a head finally appeared at the window above he asked for shelter for the night. But it was refused.

After a time a gentleman in the house appeared at the window above the door and asked the traveler what he wanted.

"Well, you can't have it here," was the answer.

"Then can you tell me where I can get it?" asked the traveler.

"Yes," was the reply, "you can get it in Hell."

"Thank you," said the traveler, "I'll go there."

"Oh, you can't get in there," was the answer.

"Then where can I get in?" asked the traveler.

"Nowhere," was the reply.

"Then I'll go there," said the traveler.

Monthly In Home Boxing

The art in Canadian homes during a large portion of the artificial heating season, is, with few exceptions, drier than that of the desert proper. This is a fact which doubtless we do not know or do not appreciate.

Home heating is more than the simple process of maintaining the indoor temperature at that point where one does not feel cold. The designers of present-day heating apparatus have done excellent work toward from that standpoint, but, as is usual, they have failed to take into account the natural moisture requirements of the human organism after temperature and relative humidity conditions are artificially speaking. Canadian indoor air during the winter is too dry for comfort.

This excessive air dryness is injurious to the human organism, particularly the respiratory organs. It is the cause of many of the colds, coughs, sore throats, nasal troubles, etc., which are so prevalent during the winter months. Authorities on the subject of hygiene recommend the supplying of moisture to the air artificially during the winter months.

History teaches that excessively dry air conditions are to be found only in houses heated by the open fireplace. Such houses are usually cold and uncomfortable, and also that such unsatisfactory conditions are responsible for many disorders and ailments. Lungs and throat disorders of cold outdoor air are not to be feared. A bulletin recently published by the Department of Health, Ottawa, in connection with the National Exhibition, Toronto, one of the features of the development of the interior, points out that cold air saturated with moisture is not harmful to health, but vapor moisture has been removed, as is usually the case in furnace heated houses. In this process normal temperature of the human body is maintained, but the moisture cannot be extracted than dry, unless provision is made in the heating equipment to satisfy adequately this increased moisture capacity. Without the admission of large quantities of the outdoor air increases to a corresponding degree the moisture content, to be supplied for this purpose by the humidifier. The Health Department reverts briefly in non-technical language to the essential features of the system, its installation and operation, and the benefits to health which is caused by the air-conditioning process. Copies of this bulletin may be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Health, Ottawa.

Charter Is Granted For Spain-Argentine Airplane Service

Regular flights by dirigible between Seville, Spain, and Buenos Aires, Argentina, is proposed under a charter granted a Spanish company and a Spanish-Argentine company, it was announced here today by the commercial commission under which it operates. It is expected that Spain will be one of the first countries to be provided with trans-oceanic air service.

Consent for the establishment of such a service was announced two years ago when the Spanish company "Aeronautica Comercial" was organized. Engineers from the company started to construct an airport at Seville and to operate a regular dirigible service between that city and Buenos Aires. Certain difficulties relating to financing led to suspension of construction operations during the first half of 1930.

Contracts were then carried on by the exchange route for an instalment of the terms of the concession with a view to eliminating the difficulties. As a result, the charter granted on February 17, 1931, has been modified to the end of October this year.

Some of the most important provisions include the authorization to establish an air service between Seville and Buenos Aires with a minimum capacity of 60 passengers and a minimum speed of 100 kilometers per hour. Service for 5 passengers and 500 kilograms must be provided for the government. At the second for the government. At the second for the government. At the second

Heart "Disease" Affects Children

Alarming school health supervision and physical examination of children has revealed the existence of heart disease among children of school age to a condemnable extent in the Public School System.

Examination of children under three years each higher percentage of heart disease among children than among children of sufficient nutrition, the report says.

Improved methods of nursing and medical treatment of children are needed to lessen the mortality in the different school children as well.

Many parents with obvious heart disease maintain a fair condition of health by proper medical supervision and by not overtaxing heart, however parents in most cases are ignorant of the seriousness. Trust heart cases period up and up to the limit of endurance.

Many children have been taken from their homes by the Russian state and transported to other parts of the country, where they are trained in communistic doctrine and forced to labor in the forests and mines.

Under the new law, the husband of any woman who becomes a citizen of the United States is required to make the country English

The rumbling of these two expressing impulses is a good thing for this country, because it is what makes Canada Canadian Canadian personality is welded out of the clash between English influences and American influences.

Canadians are able to realize that the American is going too fast. His rational scientific action his industrial philosophy of make it break and his restless business ambition tend to make a two-cent machine which has created an astounding prosperity in the United States.

But have these things made Americans happier? Have they added to the richness and fullness of American life? Are the American standards of living based on true and lasting premises?

The Englishman on the other hand is going too slow. His industrial philosophy is archaic Maintaining a vast army of middlemen, he lets the workman do what the machine should be doing. He denies his time to political philosophies and economic theories rather than to practical action. He is the source of big world talk and big world inaction.

But the Englishman has a culture of writing and an aesthetic background that the American as a whole lacks.

Canada cannot afford to accept either English or American standards in their entirety. She must pick the best of each and apply them to her peculiar problems.

And sooner American and Englishmen in Canada realize this fact as the sooner they realize that this is CANADA, the sooner will they become good Canadians and make the best citizens

Fifty Years Of Rapid Progress

Fifty years ago a young man col-ed at a dentist's either in a little town in Eastern Canada. The dentist was a country doctor who found time by hand and with primitive tools to pull the aching teeth of his patients. Today he would be called a "dental surgeon" and would have a fully equipped office with a battery of chairs, the engravers and illustrators at work and now the hundred thousand dollars formerly bound up in the person of the dentist himself is carried to the poor—all in an ordinary short space of time. All the change in less than fifty years.

Fifty years ago this young man had no gramophone heard so ar-chestra, no great choir but today he can tune in on his radio and en-joy with a million others the grand opera productions and symphony concerts of New York or if he wish-es something newer can take one of the records prepared for the gramophone All the world is his if he possess a button.

These changes are but typical, and in a way they are not startling as the changes in man-ners, customs, thoughts and behav-iour of people. The grandmothers say that young girls are frivolous and bad but their grandmothers said the same thing fifty years ago. Yet in everything the world seems to be growing better. There is more frankness, more altruism, more real philanthropy now re-sponsible for women and children. There is more freedom in religious feel-ing, and perhaps the modern revolt against authority is better on the whole than blind submission. We cannot expect the world to cease to progress. The next fifty years will see even greater changes than the last fifty. It is wise to appreciate and make use of every forward movement that is at all on the lines of right living. Fifty years ago he had a man that was born two score of wheat in a day with an old-fash-ioned cradle. And he saw terrible land after land of rankness have the yards at Regina for the home of thunderbrown, and each sunshine could harvest fifty acres a day.

Less than fifty years ago this young man, coming westward out of the lake basin, saw for the first time an incandescent light. It was a wonderful novelty in shop, salon could and gas and candles were in common use. Last month there was a series of celebrations of simultaneous jubilations in honor of Edison and his light should prompted the first central station and was the origin not only of New York's present electrical sys-tem, but also of the advance in every field of electrical effort that has led so rapid in any other period of history. In fifty years electricity as a source of heat and power, has come into its own.

Fifty years ago this young man

Saving Health Reserves From The Weather

Would you like to live nine years more than it is likely you will live? If so, you will be interested in reading this article, which is a summary of an article in the Health Service Bulletin, issued by the Free commons that the average span of life would be increased by nine years if the average man knew as much about the relation of health to sun as many of science knows. He says that in the summer the human body is either storing up reserves of health or expending them. Sometimes the two processes pro-ceed at the same time. Speaking generally we store health in the summer and expend it in the win-ter. The problem is therefore how to store up to the maximum and how to expend the minimum each year. If we can do this we shall the next few weeks the health curve is about to rise in the average person, about where it will be in June. It is then that its peak power and will be at its lowest in March. The spring months rather than the early winter months are the critical point. It is then that bronchitis, cold in the head, pneumonia and influenza are most prevalent.

Sun, in the opinion of Mr Price is the greatest factor in health. We have Without sun, of course there would be no life on this planet and by the string up of healthful rays of the sun illness can be avoided and life prolonged in the summer months, while we may have many bright months in the year when the sun is getting strong when we should proceed to lay the foundations for a healthy year for the next twelvemonth. It is the time when we should get a good start on our stock of invisible rays which about that time become active a-gain. One day's sun bathing in April is worth two in August so that one should expose himself to the sun as often as possible. The same process is to be continued in May. Long walks, particularly in the country, are recommended and Mr Price gives the rather curious advice "Try to get your summer clothes on a little ahead of the customary time." Have he touches a point which he refers to several times. He believes we wear too many clothes. In the winter we are too warm. His idea is that we should wear the same underclothes winter and summer, although he admits that an overcoat is necessary.

Through June every effort should be made to get a sun bath. If the water is too cold for bathing it will nevertheless be useful to get into a bathing suit and lie about on the beach, permitting the sun to strike the skin. If a beach is not avail-able there is no reason why one should not encourage the sun in a back yard or a verandah One must be careful, however, not to sunburn, as this gradually since a violent sun-burn does more harm than good, and is also according to Mr Price, and other authorities, extremely painful. On experiencing hot and sturry days in summer one should not remain in the sun. At that time of year one should eat spar-ingly of light foods, including plen-ty of roughage fruits. The water is better cool but not iced and hot tea and coffee are better than the same drinks cold just as lukewarm baths are more effective than chilly showers. The dripping water should be mopped off with a bath towel and the rest let dry by evaporation. Wear loose porous clothing and as little of it as possible.

Care as to what one eats and drinks is to be continued through August as indeed through all the year. If the sun has been health-ily treated it will be found that it will resist the heat better than a brute and more protected. Am-just as later on it will resist cold better. To remember the advice Dr. Price gives the same health rules as to their future point in the year, namely, to eat plenty of fruit, to avoid alcohol, the use of tobacco and to keep the bowels regular. Fruit should also be eaten freely.

Don't be afraid to take a few minutes exercise down and evening with out clothes on but and so let the fresh breeze reach the skin. Do bathe as you feel the cold without certainly getting cold it is doing you good. In cool cold weather the in-side temperature should not be more than 70 and 65 is better. It is important that every day the skin should be made more than the water to have. We this is that if the skin were considered in the same way as the mouth and teeth it would receive much more healthy and thus be able better to prevent the skin from getting diseased. If the skin only could speak. Then will hear it say "Please wash me, I am dirty." It is wonderful how much better than the well known cold bath is. The skin is perfectly humming at the result of having been impregnated with invisible rays it will prevent any getting cold easily and draughts will have little effect. Indigestion is another malady that a perfectly functioning skin will ward off. It is well in the months when heat regulation is lowest and most germs are floating around to avoid crowds. It is better to feel chilly on the platform of a train than to be in perfectly comfortable inside it when there are no doubt billions of harmful germs floating around.

Artificial Light Is Used To Mature New Hybrid Wheat

While most of the Dominion is snowbound with ice and snow impor-tant experiments are being made in the cities of Canada to hasten the discovery of new varieties of wheat, which may push Canada's agricultural belt northward and make many of the northward are rapidly developing in Ottawa.

With artificial lights supplanting the sun the green-house approach by the Cereal Division at the Experimental Farm are a centre of interest and frequently of alarm those winter nights. Inquiring mo-torists drive miles to locate the source of the "fire" only to find that behind beneath the brilliant lights are growing thousands of wheat plants, some of which, it is hoped, may add hundreds of mil-lions of dollars a year to the value of the Canadian agricultural yield.

Growth under the sun's rays dur-ing the ordinary summer means that a year about the same results are as achieved by the use of light-ing for the element of time expended why artificial light is resorted to. By the use of these lights two crops can be grown in a single year. This means that the development of new varieties can be speeded up so that instead of requiring eight years to produce enough seed to permit of satisfactory field trials for years this may now be accomplished in a half of that time.

Not only are the hybrids grown under the artificial light but it is possible to create new ones by crossing cer-tain plants together. In the ordi-nary varieties mature and their seed is then ready for planting in the field in the spring for the annual study. Barley and oats, peas and beans, which ripen about the same time of the year can be crossed during the winter months and the seed of these experiments that Doctor Mann, does evolved Marquis wheat, whose use worth more than $100,000,000 a year to Canada Today science seeks varieties which will retain the milling qualities of Canada's famous wheat, but which will ripen in a month's less days or per-haps two weeks earlier

Roofing The Streets Better Than Subway

Of late years we have heard little of the proposal to lay subways in Toronto, but undoubtedly that pro-ject will be revived when it is generally realized that traffic con-ditions are becoming worse. with little prospect of becoming better, unless something radical is done. That being the case it is interest-ing to learn that Harvey Wiley Cor-bett, one of the most prominent of the New York city architects thinks no more subways should be dug. His idea is that existing streets should be roofed over and that in the future the city will be tunnelled at two layers of thoroughfare's on one on top of the other The bottom one will be used for east-ways, the present streets, roofed and enclosed will serve for the use for traffic and on the third layer the surviving pedestrians will plod about their business. At certain places there will be exits whereby the motors can reach the pedestri-an level, or the taxiway passengers promote themselves to the motor cars The plan is admittedly a tremendously expensive one but Mr. Corbett says that it will not cost a fraction of what subways will cost and can be brought into existence much more rapidly.

It is admitted that the skyscraper has made the subway necessary and that it is the skyscraper which produces one of the major traffic problems of all cities in which it is permitted Private persons are now building skyscrapers more rapidly than municipalities are building the subways and probably will continue to do so unless forbidden by law Therefore the suggestion has been made that the height of buildings should be regulated, that in effect that skyscrapers should be modified or abolished Mr Corbett dissents strongly from this view and says that skyscrapers are a necessary part of such western civilization as is to be found on this continent. He believes that more and more sky-scrapers will continue to be built and that efforts to restrict them are like trying to sweep back the tide with a broom. He illustra-tes his point by remarking that in Toronto, Mr. Jim Thompson, Power and Light Company head as another Napoleonic statesman has all over town, so that a fleet of motors can rush to transport them to the nearest branch in emergency. The company then built for itself a sky-scraper so that all the departments could be brought together This re-sulted in all the workers being with-drawn from the streets and vastly improved efficiency for the com-pany.

He makes rather a neat point when he says "Every skyscraper we have is, for all practical purposes, an extra street, built vertically in-stead of horizontally, and as an extra street it takes just that much off a burden from the more conven-tional thoroughfares, and indirectly from the subways as well." This view is supported by a number of traffic his the city of London who

6000 Eskimos Race Extinction

The department of Interior is-larned by reports from agents in the Arctic and sub-Arctic is stamp-ing ways and means of circumvent-ing the threatened extinction of the Eskimo in Canada.

Six thousand Eskimo residents of Canada live along the northern coast line of the Dominion of Can-ada, and according to information reaching the capital, the northward march of civilization imperils their existence. The problem a difficult of solution for many elements, con-sidered trivial among white people, prove fatal to the Arctic Native

He turns, says a statement issued by the Department, the sub stage of trade with the white people into an agency for his own destruction despite his kindly disposition and soci-hostileness he is a great hil-er With his newly-acquired rifle he shoots all the game he can find and ultimately will transform a naturally bountiful country into a land of hunger.

The Eskimo is a practical as well as romantic figure. He is a resourceful hunter of the Dominion Stretched along the northern coast line he is increasingly important in the trade and agent of the white man in an area where many a white man cannot long exist on his own resources. Clothed and fed in the fur of the arctic fox, deer, and bear, and does one of three things in the Summer, he moves, kills fish or drives him farther into the interior.

There is some confidence however, that through education he may be taught to overcome the natural trait of wastefulness add to com-fort likewise to which he is by no means insensible If that can be ach-ieved he has a chance to survive.

Unlike the Indian, he has no lat-ile to wage again the fondness for the white man's food. It is ideal to extent the Government's battle in his behalf is simplified

Capacity To Lead Makes Its Demands Upon Individuals

By S. H. Buchanan

Leadership in education as well as in other fields, comes only to men-tands upon those who would attain it, among the most important of which is willingness to undergo hard work

Those who have had much con-tact with human beings are im-pressed with the personal attitude of "get by"

A careful inquiry will disclose the fact that they are willing to do just enough to pass, the "get by" attit-ude is the first characteristic of the average man, it is never the characteristic of the leader

Leadership requires a peculiar capacity to stand hard work. Those who are born with weakened bodies are handicapped in the beginning Theodore Roosevelt possessed other qualities, but was without this one. He went from college to a western cattle ranch and built himself up. Napoleon had four hours of day sleep Edison in his laboratory 36 hours at a time without food or rest. Ford building his first auto-mobile after a ten hour day of his regular employment, represent examples of the demands which leadership makes on the human frame.

Then there must be a clear cut purpose or aim Although this ne-ed has been stressed by exponents of such military leaders as Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon it nevertheless applies in greater or lesser de-

Botha News

Following up the proposal of Community Card Parties in the homes, for the purpose of raising money for our local Institute, Mrs. W Hobbs, W I President, broke the ice by launching the first one on Friday night, January 17th. Owing to weather and other adverse conditions the crowd was smaller than anticipated, but all had an enjoyable time, and a start for a financial lift was accomplished.

For the benefit of those who have not had the idea explained, this was a mere suggestion at an Institute Board Meeting, and, as it was decided that anyone caring to do so might arrange for one in her home, particulars of arrangements may be had from the President, Mrs. W Hobbs.

The next will be held at the home of Mrs. D R Menzies, the date of which will be in the near future. Friends and neighbors are cordially invited. Men Mr. ladies free.

The sun started back our way a month ago, and the difference in the length of the days is now becoming noticeable. The cold continues but it is much better to have it now than later. We think this is more nearly a normal winter than for several years past.

Mrs. Medley entertained the Junior C.G.I.T. girls at supper on Tuesday evening, January 19th, in honor of Miss Jean Medley's birthday. The girls sat down to a beautifully laden table at 6 o'clock. The girls left for home about 8.30 p.m. after thanking Mrs Medley for a very pleasant evening.

We regret to report the illness of Mr. Mackintosh and hope that a few days will see him around again as usual.

Miss Betty Sloan of Provost visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Sloan last week.

Little George Sannes is in the Municipal Hospital as he was operated on last week. He is doing nicely at present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Harrington have been busy packing up and shipping their furniture. After a few days spent with Mr. and Mrs. Bendry of Condry, they will leave for Edmonton, where Mr. Harrington has secured a position there.

The annual school meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon, January 25th at 2 o'clock. Ratepayers and those interested are also invited to be present at this time. Curling Notes

Fifteen years ago or just a year after he came to Edmonton Frank Vermilion Chas Stanford played lead for the Alberta Rockies at Banff, which were regarded to be the strongest trio of curlers in Alberta. This rink went through everything they met at Edmonton Bonspiel that year (1914), and they reached the finals of Grand Challenge, having as their opposition another strong rink skipped by Joe Muir At the twelfth end of the game, the Johnsons had Joe completely screwed up, and they needed only one point to win Mr Basford had noticed that a beautiful unknown fan of about twenty summers had taken a great deal of interest in the game and stood near the ice when each shot was made She appeared to be particularly well pleased at the way Joe was screwed up, and clapped her hands at each good shot made by the Johnson rink Joe, however, was not put through and he sent back to the back declaring that he was going to make a shot in ver yet made in Edmonton There were seven rocks between the ho tee and the tee when he shot his thirteenth and what proved to be the winning shot. He made clear sweep away there was only one rock left, and that was Joe's on the tee

The 200 or 300 spectators were nonplussed as to how Joe could explain how his rock got there and where the other rocks went Amid the cheers of Joe's supporters as he ran down the ice there was a quick movement from the sidelines and the beautiful unknown ran over to Joe as he walked along with a broad smile and smacked his face two or three times then disappeared into the waiting crowd before the spectators and Joe could recover from their surprise Chas could never get an explanation from anyone in Edmonton regarding the identity of the unknown. It was either someone who had a crush on one of the Johnson rink or had a grudge against Joe, but the matter has remained a mystery to this day

Chas has been wishing ever since that he had followed her in, and found out whether he was the lucky man.

It is another case of what might have been

Muir pulled off a seven end affair against Ward, and Johnson were playing a draw game and Muir got more in and then took out two The referee and the former was given five minutes penalty With ten minutes left to play there was not much chance for Lacombe to catch up, and so it proved, as the score ended 3 to 1 in the Muir favor

This game puts Stettler in second place with 5 wins and 4 losses. Lacombe has a wins and 7 losses

Red Deer plays here next Monday night.

Stettler Wins From Lacombe In Fast Hockey Game

The best hockey game of the season in the Big Four League took place at the Arena on Tuesday night when Stettler defeated Lacombe by the score of 3 to 1. It was the first game that the local team really got down to combination and fast skating, and as a result they showed their superiority in every department, and proved themselves to be a real hockey machine The work of Bill McCrirle in goal, who took charge of the nets for the first time this season, was marked the acme as a result he escaped shots from all angles and allowed only one goal to get past him, after two opposing forwards had broken through. Bill's work in goal was very pleasing to the fans, and a repeat is looked for next Monday night when Red Deer plays here.

The first period ended in favor of Stettler by the score 1 to 0. The second period and the locals were working well and both defence players were making rushes down the ice and feeding the front line Moroney was wasted by fighting for the puck behind the opposing goal and the coaching that had been given the team by Hiram Eaton was evidently bearing fruit.

Barney Buchli secured the lone goal of the period on an assist from Walter Duckworth.

The last period witnessed some fast skating from both teams Lacombe had 30 minutes to even up and they went on the ice with the intention of equalizing if possible Unfortunately for their side of the case they were bottled up at every point and could not get away except in one instance when Dr Wright and the puck when dodging two Lacombe players, who secured the rubber and went down the side before he could get back, and drew the goal tender out of his net and then shot into the open Lacombe to catch up, and so it proved, as the score ended 3 to 1 in the locals' favor

Pleasure "Cruises" Still Please The Public

A cruise to the Caribbean and America would be agreeable to visit rather in the form of pleasure or on the business trip.

These cruises, the morning states, are to all cases non-existent. Despite this fact some 250 to 300 cruises are arranged every year especially about Easter "Seventh Heaven" in October.

The booking is based on the basis of a report sent to the Associated Press Journal in London. Although the annual amount fell.

The Department of State has been informed and has not hesitance or reluctance has been bestowed to be in charge or in the Bank of Hamilton, Canada, and Overseas departments has had the highest paid since 1931 according to a statement recently issued by the Department of Commerce at Washington D.C.

The value of exports of such equipment for the 10 months period ending October 31st 1929 reached $130,388,331 against $99,822,295 for the corresponding period last year. Throughout the year radio

Canada was the largest purchaser of receiving sets with Mexico next to Canada was also the most important purchaser of radio receiving components and the value of such purchases amounted to $613,264.

Exports of refrigerators to Canada during the period amounted to $110,000.

Fascinating Links In Canada's History

Ruth Cameron in addressing visitors at the Museum Building of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, said that one of the most interesting features of the Museum was the collection of Canadian historical relics which is really the nucleus of a Canadian Museum. She said: It is a subtly truth which exhibits the progress of the province of the great province, the Dominion, who was pioneer in the days of the beginning of the Seven Years' War in the days of the beginning of the battle of the Plains of Abraham, and the battle of the Plains of Abraham.

The chief stands about ten feet high, is about five feet wide and about two feet deep. In spite of its great age it is in remarkably good condition. These drawers are ornamented with heavy brass work and open with a three inch brass key. The chief was brought from Europe to unlock the substantial treasure. The chief is supported on four large and ornate claws.

The history of this treasure is a long one beginning at the time when General Montcalm lived in Quebec City. The chief is said to have been taken by Sir Isaac Brock, who purchased the fur trade office which Montcalm had left behind him. Brock presented the chief to Upper Canada where he used it as a receptacle of the brave deeds of the war of 1812.

After his death at Queenston Heights, the chief passed into the hands of Sir Allan MacNab, who used the chest of drawers were afterwards by a family at Hamilton, Ontario, eastern township of Quebec. From the family it was received a request by Sir Lomer Gouin, who offered it to the Archives where he died for the Berthelot collection which was presented to Canada by him in 1923 in memory of his brother Lord Strathcona.

Dairy Farmers At Stettler Like The Creamery Service

Fred Manager Tell Shepherd Will Ship at Least As Many Years

The Crown Produces

Farmers about Dear Stettler A. ports are finding the local cream. ery which was opened by Roy Shepherd a a big help to them. It provides a market for their cream with the cheque payable at once and the Creamery is always ready to buy cream of a graded kind.

The manager of the creamery is very much interested in dairy husbandry and gladly takes ever shipper problems with them. Advice that advice which has proved to be of value to the farmers interested in seeing the shippers getting larger cream cheques. He operates the creamery capably and economically. The efficiency of the management during the last year has made possible for shippers in addition to the high cream cheques which were paid at each when the can was delivered

TOOLS TO SOLVE FARM PROBLEMS

National Radio Broadcasting has been recommended to the Canadian if the Dominion should adopt it. Some of the courses it will likely give freely will be that of agricultural and home economics. Canada is a farming country and it is natural that the farmers and home makers receive a program. It is probable this program would be prepared by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and would be correlated so as to give farmers in each district technical and economical information which is locally adapted to their particular needs.

CROSSING TRAGEDY

The Boston and Maine Railroad is forbidden to permit the sounding during night of grade crossing warning whistles by locomotives within the City of Manchester. The residents are protected by ordinance operated gates. The order was issued by the public service commission.

Complaint was made by the City that the whistling of locomotives disturbed occupants of numerous apartment houses in the vicinity of the railroad tracks. In the section [illegible] there are three grade crossings, each of which is protected twenty-four hours a day. The commission held that whistling is unnecessary and directed the railroad not to sound a warning at such places between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 a.m. except in case of emergency.

CANADA'S PROGRESS

Ottawa The forest area of Canada is estimated at 1,161,694 square miles. Of this area 985,000 square miles are productive and accessible, a little over one-third of this area bears timber of merchantable size and the remainder carries young growth not yet fit to use. It is also noted that Aspen Pine is now used for railway ties in [illegible] of the settlement of the province and the necessity to reducing transportation.

Drivers Blamed For Most Accidents

At the 10th annual convention of the Traffic Protection of Ontario the statement was made by Albert E. Lowry State Senator of Bridgeport, Conn. that approximately 90 per cent. of the accidents are incidents in his state drivers the year 1928 were due to the the motor vehicle operator. He gave as the authority in his statement a recent study of motor vehicle accidents in the state made by Professor Burke of Yale University.

These figures and the Lowry statement the judgement of the Lady Bishop of Connecticut on speeding as not which places the burden where it belongs — on the man who drives the car. The success of the convention has been due to a large extent to the fact that the has the co-operation of the State Police Department which is organized and equipped to turn out the necessary information upon which to base a real campaign against the drivers. Their records include all accidents and convictions in the state on a par!

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

THAT YOU OWE SOMETHING TO THE PAPER

BY Edwin G. Weiler
(Editor Ponoka Herald)

HARVEY W. HINDMARSH, PUBLISHER OF THE ALVORD, (OKLA.) PRESS-NEWS, SAYS:

"Sometimes I see a crowd of women, with baskets standing at a railroad station or boarding a train to some distant town to shop, it seems to me that they are not quite as loyal to their home town as they should be, and remembering the greatest incentive to local merchants to keep up-to-date.

Why some place at a distance have a larger assortment of goods, styles or makes of merchandise is only because the demand at home has not been supported by local calls.

Whenever at home is consistently supporting it the need is manifested more. The home town that has the buying support of its own people can always keep up-to-date for their district. It becomes confident of its progress and its enterprise, and the time and money exacted by buying at home is saved to the buyer, the merchant, both of local and district.

The school at home is where the system of buying most economically and efficiently, or shopping most economical. Outside enterprise is not interested times due to the fact that it is not dependable and the deserted appearance of the stores.

"BUYING AT HOME IS PROVIDING A SHELTERING SHIELD FOR THE PROSPERITY EVERY LOCAL BUSINESS AND EVERY CITIZEN."

E. LAMBERG SAY, PRESIDENT AND PUBLISHER OF THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT SAYS:

"Did you ever stop to think that you can go to stores right in your town, and, by judicious selection, be assured of getting the very same quality as that which a purchaser in New York or St. Louis or San Francisco gets"

"Modern methods of manufacture and distribution have given you this advantage. Your grandparents bought their nets crackers, their candy, their raisins in bulk. Then a grocer who scooped the merchandise out of a bin. In those days the buyer could only hope that he would get full measure or perhaps extra measure. He could only hope that the goods he bought would be pure as high in quality our week as the last.

But until business genius found a way to package merchandise and until business pride and business foresight induced the marking of packages with dependable brands, the consumer could never be sure of uniformity in the weight or the quality of the things he bought.

Today the manufacturer who places his trade-mark on a pair of shoes, a bottled beverage, or a can of peas, proclaims with pride. This is my product, I shall keep it good."

"THEN IF HE IS WISE, THE MANUFACTURER WILL ADVERTISE HIS TRADE-MARK TO THE NATION, AND TELL YOU IN YOUR HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER JUST WHERE YOU CAN SECURE HIS BRAND. AND THE PEOPLE IN THE NEW ENGLAND STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE AND THE PEOPLE IN THE SOUTHERN STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE BECAUSE OF CERTAIN THE SAME VALUE AS THE PEOPLE IN PENNSYLVANIA, IN IDAHO, IN OREGON, OR EVEN IN THE FAMOUS GEM STATE."

THAT your city's prosperity is your business. DOES LAY BOTH ON THE JOB!

You should not expect your business men to spend all the time and money building your city while you ride and loaf on a free pass. DO YOUR SHARE!

You should do everything in your power to stimulate and strengthen the industries of your city TODAY.

WHEN YOU FEEL LIKE FINDING FAULT, BEGIN WITH YOURSELF. YOU MAY HAVE HAVE TO GO ANY FARTHER!

BEER HALL PLEBISCITE, SCHOOL ACT PRINCIPLE, APPROVED BY U. F. A.

Baker Asks Support and Convention Re-affirms Its Stand Discussion of Beer Hall Question Proves Popular—Legal Opinion Wanted—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin

Re-affirmation of its stand on the principle of the proposed new Beer Hall Act pre-dominated the annual convention of the U.F.A. which met in session at the Capitol Theatre, Edmonton, last week. The convention, not necessarily at the instance of the rank and file, went on record for the abolition of the beer hall system and the establishment in its place of the proposed government system. Resolutions to this effect were passed yesterday afternoon and evening, and the question was finally settled by the convention when it went on record by a vote of 107 to 91 against the resolution of Peter Lund of Lethbridge that "in the near future we are opposed to the establishment of government beer halls."

Speaking to an editorial representative of The Herald, Peter Lund of Lethbridge said that "in the near future we are opposed to the establishment of government beer halls." Although there was much discussion there was no reason why particular people of the beer trade should not be in the government control of it, he maintained. He advised strict supervision and enforcement of control, and that what he moved in substitute amendment.

"There is no short cut to reform," said the next speaker in support of the amendment, and rather that we should support Government control which they Government control which they have in the province at the present time."

The next delegate to speak asserted that Government control controlled even less than prohibition prohibited, and that it was not the province of the province to control the disposal of the people, especially young people and then attempt to educate them into the evils of it. "We don't want drink Hell' rich."

No people can drink Hell' rich," he also asserted in answer to the argument of government profits resulting in increased taxation.

I advocate freedom to drink as you wish and be temperate as you wish and sacrifice adding that it was brought to the influence of the people to have it was dried would not be enforced. In reply one speaker inquired how he knew the result of disposal of the people, especially young people and then attempt to educate them into the evils of it. "We don't want drink Hell' rich."

Beer Hall Question

The resolution on the re-affirmation of beer halls, which was presented by the Carnwallon Provincial Council of the Carnwallon Provincial Council, Agricultural Association and which contemplated disposal of beer rooms by means of a similar fashion was worded as follows:

Moves Another Amendment

Mr. L. Bowen: I move that we say that although there was much to be said in favor of abolition there was no reason why particular people of the beer trade should not be in the government control of it, he maintained. He advised strict supervision and enforcement of control, and that what he moved in substitute amendment.

"There is no short cut to reform," said the next speaker in support of the amendment, and rather that we should support Government control which they have in the province at the present time."

In reply one speaker inquired how he knew the result of disposal of the people, especially young people and then attempt to educate them into the evils of it.

Motion is Passed

Immediately afterwards the original resolution was passed by a large majority. The decision of the delegates being made much more really than in the case of the substitute amendment, on which the vote seemed to be tied until a thorough count was made by dividing of the assemblage into sections with a scrutineer over each.

Continued on the subject of the beer hall question, another resolution was proposed by Nanaka District 1 A motion as follows: Resolved that the Government amend the Act making it illegal for any person outside the local option area to be open such beer rooms at present on the said option area to be open such beer rooms at present on the said option area to be open such beer rooms at present on the said

TORONTO YOUTH FIGURES IN SENSATIONAL HOLD-UP

Clinton Dale, a young Canadian who is said to have been tried and convicted on a charge of bank robbery in Toronto in 1925—though we do not at the moment recall the name or the incident—is about to be tried for a sensational hold-up in Buffalo. It appears that this son of Ontario has more than a local or even a national reputation. He has been a distinguished figure in the Buffalo underworld where he is known as the Red Duke. This title may have been conferred on him because of his disinterested assistance, and aristocratic appearance. Or it may have some reference to a kind of ferocity somewhat less admirable which has revealed itself in some of his adventures. The crime for which Duke and three of his accomplices are to be tried was one of the most sensational in Buffalo history. It was the holding up of a dinner party and the collection of about a quarter of a million dollars' worth of jewelry and cash from the guests, including a pearl necklace valued at $100,000. This necklace is still missing and the men under arrest will give no information concerning it. The theory is that Duke took it to New York after the robbery and either sold it to a fence or has it planted where it can be recovered later on, maybe when the defence lawyer needs more money.

The dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Carson at their home in Snyder, a Buffalo suburb to celebrate the approaching marriage of a couple of friends. The dinner numbered nine men and nine women. They were seated at the table when suddenly at front and rear doorways appeared five men with handkerchiefs tied over their faces and revolvers in their hands. The command "Stick 'em up!" was given by the leader. But the astonished guests did not immediately understand that they were about to be robbed. They thought it was a joke. One of the women sought to snatch the handkerchief from the face of one of the robbers, and was knocked down. A male guest sprang to his feet but a bandit hit him on the head with a revolver and he fell unconscious. Mrs. Carson disregarding the threats of the desperadoes, rushed from the room, upstairs to obtain her beloved son was dropped. A robber rushed after her but found her on the floor in a faint and did not see the son. The business of robbing the guests proceeded soothly.

The men were forced to empty their pockets. The rings were also stripped from the fingers of the women and other ornaments from their necks and arms. The fur coats in the hall were gathered up and then as the bandits prepared to depart, the guests were forced to lie down on the floor. Dale and a third gloated over all the wealth and saw that everything was complete. One telephone in the house, which had been hidden by the robbers, was found by the servants. Dale, who arrived only a few minutes after the desperadoes had got away. It was then that they learned to their astonishment that the necklace worn by Mrs. Raymond Allen Van Clief was worth $200,000. The police pounded over this for a long time. The number of people who knew Mrs. Van Clief had such a valuable necklace could be few, and never still would wear it at the small Carson dinner. Later on it was revealed that the robbers were so much surprised at the value of their loot on the police. The only information they had about their victims was contained in a short newspaper notice announcing that the dinner would be held. They took a chance that there would be some jewelry and cash available and had their reward.

It is presumed that the arrest of the robbers was the result of information that welled up out of the underworld from some stool-pigeon. The prisoners, with the exception of Dale were caught on the run given up in Buffalo, but their names—Bridel—Prophyl. Theodore Regnicki and William Reiner—indicate a European derivation. A fifth man, also named Prophyl, has not been found. From his free spending habits he was known as the "millionaire kid." All have established records and have been making their living by thefts, burglaries and hold-ups. The hold-up of the Carson dinner party was undertaken to supply them with money for gambling. Funds having run low at the moment. They are known to be desperadoes who would not hesitate to shoot either with committing a crime or resisting arrest and one of the features of the case is that when the Buffalo police are congratulating themselves in that they were taken without bloodshed.

The was brought about by an event which as we have heard of in making an arrest. Dale and a handsome girl who was his companion, took a room in a high-grade apartment hotel a few days after the crime and before the police had received the information they required. One morning a few days later their telephone began to ring. It was a most exasperating and inconsiderable manner. The bell would ring and when the receiver would be taken down the call would be broken. This happened several times, much to the annoyance of the refined hotelier. One of the guests finally a bell boy came to the room and said that there was a call for him at the desk. Dale left his room, but the refined hotelier, fearful of the effect on his guests, called a police officer to the room. He was in plain clothes and came without a revolver in his pocket. He was a big man and he thought he could overpower Dale. But Dale left his room, had his revolver in his pocket and was prepared to shoot. He was not taken by the police officer and a struggle ensued. Dale got away—Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P. may envy his nimbleness.

A page to know the personality officers of some defects that our newspaper develop. The records established wiper is an instance. When the baby is broken there are many causes who dismiss the officer with the thought that, after all, the wiper may not be needed. They note the point that the interference the leak may have on queen starting is always to be considered. The section that is needed to pull gas into the manifold is considerably diminished.

ANNUAL RATEPAYERS MEETING HELD LAST FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 31

A fair attendance of ratepayers attended the annual meeting of the Town of Stettler on Friday evening, January 31st, when the retiring council gave an account of its work during the past year, and the Mayor, H. A. Blair, summarized the year's proceedings, and gave an interesting forecast of town improvements, which would be required to be undertaken in 1930.

Mr. R. O. Bull was elected as Chairman of the meeting.

As the Chairman of committees gave their reports it became evident that 1929 had been a very successful and prosperous year for Stettler, so far as municipal affairs were concerned. It was noticeable that the committees had kept well within the amounts appropriated for the various departments. A complete statement of the finances of the town appears elsewhere in this issue, and it is pointed out that the large expenditures made under the estimates under which the work was commenced. In this connection the Mayor paid a tribute to the work of George Morgan-Jones, whose efficient supervision and supervision of the work had saved the town several thousands of dollars.

Mayor H. A. Blair in his concluding address drew attention to the fact that despite the considerable extensions made to the water supply system in 1929 and the installation of the sewerage system, the operative indebtedness of the Town was now less than it was in 1927. He drew attention to the fact that the Municipal Rink was not open for general skating on Sundays, and asked for the opinion of the meeting as to the propriety of opening the rink on Sunday afternoons for free skating, for the purpose of off-setting as far as possible the tendency of the boys of the Town to congregate on the streets, corners and in the restaurants. After some discussion the meeting approved a resolution in favor of the Sunday skating in the rink under the proper safeguards and supervision to be arranged by the Town Council.

The Mayor also stated that it would be necessary in the coming year to provide for new wells and for a large new reservoir in order that the increased demands for water due to the increasing number of sewer connections, might be met. He commented on the present high rates of fire insurance in the Town and offered the opinion that municipal ownership would give up-to-date fire-fighting equipment. He suggested that the Town should purchase some sort of truck fire-fighting unit which would carry all the fire-fighting equipment in the one vehicle, and thus do away with the necessity of the firemen dragging heavy hose reels and equipment to a fire, often under adverse conditions. The Mayor further suggested that it would be good business to purchase a hose-cart which would raise the water pressure between the hydrant and the fire, instead of raising a pressure of 100 pounds in the mains as at present, as the present system causes heavy depreciation in under pipes and connections. Mayor Blair drew attention to the advisability of building a new Town Hall at an estimated cost of $50,000 in his opinion works of such a nature should be undertaken in less prosperous times than during the present, as much as when it is most needed. He read a letter from the Hon. G. L. McPherson, relative to the proceedings of the Provincial Library through the Town. He mentioned that the Lacombe-Consolidated Library system would be extended in the next year or two, and the Town of Stettler would be invited to proceed with a governing program in conjunction with the Central Library at that time. The Mayor also commented upon the fact that the Town had been unable to secure the services of a Municipal Nurse, and that the matter of securing municipal assistance for the Elks Band. The committee had decided to lay all the facts before the Council and before the ratepayers at the annual meeting and to ask for the opinion of the meeting. G. G. Graves explained fully the attention of the Band and pointed out that unless some assured source of revenue is found it will be impossible for the Band to retain the services of Mr. Fishwick and of Norman Fishwick. He reported that Mr. Fishwick had received and was considering a very favorable offer from the town of Vulcan. The proposal put forward by Mr. Graves was that the Town should pay the Band the sum of $100.00 per month during the present year, and for each year that the Band would agree to play weekly concerts at the rink during the skating season, to give ten open-air concerts during the summer months, and to furnish music for any special civic occasions which might arise. After considerable discussion the meeting adopted a resolution asking the Town of Stettler to enter into the above arrangement with the Band.

The meeting passed votes of thanks to Wm. McTaggart and to George Murgatroyd for their efforts in subduing the City Cafe fire, to the Mayor and Council for the good work of the past year and to R. O. Bull for the capable manner in which he filled the post of Chairman.

ERSKINE NEWS

"The Deacon Dies" was presented by the Erskine Glee Club in the I.O.G.T. Hall on Friday, January 31st, to a large and appreciative audience. A full dress rehearsal was experienced from the time the curtain was rung until the finished curtain. Several entanglements were eventually unraveled at the conclusion of the third and final act.

The player seeking the part was happily overlooked in the excellent arrangement of the cast, and each member exhibited a clear idea of the role they were supposed to enact so much so, that in some parts an almost professional atmosphere was created.

During the interval Mr Adam Ridge rendered the audience with his rendering of "An Old Fashioned Town" responding with an encore "I Pass by Your Window."

Miss Dorothy Elliott acted as accompanist.

Miss Irene Carroll also entertained with several musical selections.

Judging by the many favorable comments at the conclusion of the performance this was the best amateur theatrical staged here for a considerable time.

I saw the time and rosy maid
Burst she began to blush,
The while with swift and graceful glides,
She cut the figure 8.

I fell in love right there and then,
As Cupid's victim do,
And felt convinced that we were meant
To cut the figure 2.

I wooed and won the lovely girl,
So frequently I sought,
And ever since that glad event
I've cut the figure 4.

"Oh, give him another chance!"

Jas Christian Sends Soldier, Statesman

Canada has recently had the opportunity of welcoming to the Dominion Jan Smuts to Canada. Some who had the pleasure of meeting him on the train were no doubt struck by the enthusiasm that it seems but a short time ago was directed to the Boer General, but in Canada would have been spoken of as a traitor. Time has changed that and to-day Canada welcomes with patriotic fury against the Boers, Smuts is received as a hero. The passing of the Boer leaders and marriage of their children to those of the conquering nations is a testimony to the military reputation won by Britain's soldiers. Botha, Smuts and others had to fight hard and long with Britain before he had found admiration and respect for the British people who under De Wet and Smuts had fought so superbly to try and to wrest absolute independence from Great Britain. There was no disgrace in defeat. Many of the greatest individual heroes the world has known have been in the losing army. The first conference held at Vereeniging between Botha, Smuts and Milner, which was to end the war, broke up in bitterness and deadlock. Then on behalf of South Africa, signed the treaty of peace. Then, too, the man stood out for he united a country which was previously in the minority of his country against the savage opposition exerted by Germany and her allies. In those days he was scourged by the editor He fought with bravery, with skill, with courage, without hate, and as soon as the fighting was over his mind immediately turned to the future cementing thoughts of revenge. Indeed Botha's love for conciliation was misconstrued by the British people. For several such as was possessed by few of the men who were largely responsible for the terms of peace in that treaty was severely criticized like Woodrow Wilson that he was like Clemenceau or Lloyd George. In those days he was considered by some as he resembles the latter

Jan Christian Smuts was born in South Africa where his father was a wealthy land owner. After engineering the educational futility of his native land he went to Cambridge where he developed mind himself by taking a double first in Law. Later on he became a barrister of the Middle Temple He returned to South Africa and following in his father's footsteps adopted politics as a career and became a supporter of Kruger. It was not long before the South African War broke out. Smuts failed very as any civilized man must hate it. In politics he was a Liberal of the Gladstonian school, and he had ties and roots in England But he felt that the principle of self-government, so he did not hesitate but ran mounted his horse and started for the mountains one of the generals in the struggle brought him so far as the Cape Town Parliament as one of the Boer representatives at Vereeniging. Here the peace party was signed. It is recalled that his sole conduct through the British was hopes invaded by the British officer who then wrote to the name as "Dr. Smuts."

Smuts agreed to terms of peace which he felt in his honest and aggressive but he felt confident that they would be revised Here was "simple" Jan Christian Smuts, the greatest British majority ever given a prime minister and he had denounced the South African war as a crime. Smuts thought he knew British Liberalism well enough to be confident that the treaty would be revised, and revised it was some years later giving the Boers as supreme terms as every of-fered a brave-but beaten foe Indeed it was the fairness with which the succeed probe settled that made it possible for Prime Minister Botha when the great day broke out to carry their party and their people into the struggle on the side of the empire At the time the treaty was revised there were those who thought that it was opposing the door for South Africa to walk out of the British family of nations. It is too early to pronounce conclusively on that point but we know at least that if South Africa walks out Smuts will remain. There is no more loyal British subject than this Boer.

Smuts is no longer premier of South Africa, that post being filled at the present time by an old friend and colleague in the Boer War, General Hertzog, but he is still a power in the country and his influence is felt in the world at large. He is a philosopher, a statesman, a soldier, a scholar, and a gentleman. Canada is glad to welcome him, and that more need be said. Smuts is a man who has made history in his own time and will make more in the future. He is a man of great personality. They differ as to what constitutes a great man, but Smuts has taken his place in the world as a great way based out but this is a mostly comic matter in the opinion of General Smuts. He believes that there will not be another war for a hundred years. Perhaps. The two men differ also, in their views on the League of Nations. Smuts believes that the finest man in the country to vote as the while other thinkers differ from him. Time will be the judge of the correctness of the opinions of both men. Smuts is a man of strength. Smuts may well be considered as one of the finest statesmen of the day.

But that is not the reputation he must value most in it the reputation he has established as a man. Smuts speaks which all Canadians will appreciate and admire in him. He is a great statesman because he is also a great individual human being. Up to his present visit it was Smuts who, on behalf of South Africa, signed the treaty of peace with Britain, but the man stood out for he united a country which was previously in the minority of his country against the savage opposition exerted of Germany and her allies. In those days he was scourged by the editor He fought with bravery, with skill, with courage, without hate, and as soon as the fighting was over his mind immediately turned to the future cementing thoughts of revenge Indeed Botha's love for conciliation was misconstrued by the British people. Smuts agreed to terms of peace which he felt in his honest and aggressive but he felt confident that they would be revised Here was "simple" Jan Christian Smuts, the greatest British majority ever given a prime minister and he had denounced the South African war as a crime. Smuts thought he knew British Liberalism well enough to be confident that the treaty would be revised, and revised it was some years later giving the Boers as supreme terms as every of-fered a brave-but beaten foe Indeed it was the fairness with which the succeed probe settled that made it possible for Prime Minister Botha when the great day broke out to carry their party and their people into the struggle on the side of the empire At the time the treaty was revised there were those who thought that it was opposing the door for South Africa to walk out of the British family of nations. It is too early to pronounce conclusively on that point but we know at least that if South Africa walks out Smuts will remain. There is no more loyal British subject than this Boer.

The Prince Of Wales Lives In Simplicity When At Home

Appropriately enough England's greatest playground, the Isle of Wight, is the property of England's most typically English kind of bachelor.

Officially, he is Prince of Wales and Duke of Cornwall, and Baron Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, Duke of Rothesay, and still he constantly declares his most ambition is to be known as "just plain Lord Carisbrooke." Carisbrooke Castle, on the Isle of Wight, is the property of the Duke of Edinburgh, who married the late Princess Marie, daughter of the late Tsar Alexander II of Russia, and who died in 1900.

Carisbrooke Castle stands on the county hearth and nearby is a main equipped containing a rug and a carpet. A bagpet and piping tea. Tea is the Prince's favorite beverage With toast and a little fruit, it constitutes his breakfast. His other meals are more substantial, almost meals on breaking a hunter's Even when touring Africa, he insisted in the heart of the jungle, the Prince still made his tea in the manner in which he had been early accustomed. When working at his desk he likes to have at hand himself "the cup that cheers" when ever he wishes without disturbing his attendants. He is extremely fond of all out-doors, several partially

Old Toronto Murder Recalled by Request

As a rule, articles which we write in response to particular requests, are not satisfactory When writing them we have the feeling of a boy riding on a towed automobile Nevertheless, such notices are not to be ignored and the review of the Westwood-Ford case is presented with this explanation. Mr. Charles Charlesworth in his "Candid Chronicles" recalls the murder of Frank Westwood, and we have very little original matter to add Nobody who remembers the particulars of the case will set it down as a mystery Everybody knows who committed the crime Trevo Was, as a matter of fact, a confession which was later repudiated There was also an extraordinary jury as will be recalled Neither on The night Westwood, was a fine young fellow who left a host of friends behind and had not an enemy unless it might be Chas Ford The Ford woman was a notorious who would have committed in several Parkdale functions, and had been struck by the handsome appearance of Westwood. He, however, ignored her as long as he could, and then as her unwelcome attention began to annoy him, probably spoke some words that sealed his fate

Chas Ford's mental stability, at no time remarkable, had been impaired by her frequenting of liquor ers devoting themselves to cheap melodrama and it was probably from one of these places that she got the idea of dressing male attire for the business she had in mind. One Saturday night thus arrayed, she went to the Westwood home and rang the bell, and when Frank appeared at the door she shot him and fled, returning to the room she occupied over the Dorsey restaurant on York Street. Westwood lingered for some hours but did not recognize his assailant and could only say that he had been shot by a dark young man whose face was concealed by the shadows. For some months after his death the case remained a mystery and then was some idea that the murderer might have come ashore from a schooner anchored in the lake The police were without a clue and the murder might never have been solved if there had not turned up on the scene of operations a man first and to all confused policemen in the form of a stool-pigeon. Chas Ford, unlike the true criminal, who prefers his perfected work to speak for itself, could not resist the temptation to boast. Most unwisely she confided what she had done to a pickpocket, who happened to be wanted by the police, and the pickpocket communicated the information which led to her arrest. The evil of Chas Ford had been the night of the murder was found in her room and under cross-examination by Detective Inspector Robson she made a confession. The man seemed clear, for the police court she also pleaded guilty but her very remarkable appearance and the sympathy of some persons who thought that she was at least entitled to the best defence, led to a plea being made for her, one the late E.F. B. Johnston, who was the first criminal lawyers in Canada, was retained by the Ford family and counsel for the defence consented at a the denial, but about really accepted the plea of guilty. Mr. Johnston was not to be denied and secured having made it, but instead of the woman's life was spared by the plea Robert, it happened that Chas, though a man of strength, was a woman of remarkable appearance. He was of powerful build, and, under cross-examination, a pair of black eyes which at times seemed to blaze.

The supposition was made that in British court of justice the beautiful sex would be treated with more consideration than the ugly one. The very word was taken to set the law aside, and the woman accused of the jury did in the case of Chas Ford not guilty. In the last the dock with out even a technical defence, and the jury, though, while the was in the office, was not long in coming to a decision on the cause of Frank Westwood, that counsel with which he had been associated his remarks to the jury, and the charge of his opponent, Mr. Robson, was followed by a most calm and judicial summing up. The night of her arrest the hatred aroused by her cold-blooded murder of her lover had been a raging storm of indignation. It is too early to pronounce conclusively on that point but we know at least that if South Africa walks out Smuts will remain. There is no more loyal British subject than this Boer.

Spell of Terror Still Binds Deauville!

In a penetrating article on gang an account of the murder of Jean Jacques Lemoine—commonly known as "Jo"—"Jack the Ripper," "Jo" by everybody—in 1929 in the town here mentioned, and compared it with the murder of Jean Jacques Lemoine, "Jo" by everybody, in 1930 in the same town here mentioned.

Both the chief murderers, the article reports, had previously served terms of imprisonment for crimes of violence. Both had already been in the hands of the police for less than 24 hours before the fact. Both were released again and again in large part because of fear of mental persecution by the victims' friends. The victims have been tenants and relations, but at least one man was a stranger. Immediately after the murder the theory is that he was killed by one of the victim's friends, but at least one man was arrested with. For example there was no apparently prominent personality to attribute to the police the murder of which there is believed. At every performance detectives crutched all through the house surrounding the audience, taking telephone and number particulars of attending those who left before the end. Nothing was discovered. Both murderers of victims and friends.

Even in London there are girls who are not perfect, and who will not be perfect, but who are not the English women whom some would have to be. Even the most ardent admirer of English womanhood will admit that there are many women who are not English. The reason may be that they are not English women, but they

BIG GAMBLING GAMES IN EARLIER GENERATION

In the trial of Hitchman for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, details were published concerning a poker game in which one player won $500,000, and it is supposed that Hitchman's failure to pay what he owed after this game cost him his life. This is a tremendous sum to change hands as the result of a few hours' play, but it is probably on record. Larger sums have been won and lost on the turf, to say nothing of the stock exchanges and the exchanges of "Bet you a million." Neal John W Gates was himself described as, probably enough his willingness to take a chance. He would bet a million dollars on nearly on the average man would bet $10 on it. In fact, he was so unlikely and used to handling huge sums that he could get no excitement whatever in a gamble that involved only a few thousand dollars. It is also highly probable that understanding how much more money meant to an earlier generation, stakes would be as large as in the Rothstein game were constantly changing hands. A writer in the New York Times says that ever since the Civil War there has been a notion the game for high stakes has been associated by the American temperament.

Certainly games, both at Saratoga and New York, now seem insignificant gambles. There was a character of it in the days when both towns were more open than now. It cannot be said that there is anything particularly fashionable nowadays in visiting such an gambling houses. But it once was fashionable to visit Crockford's or Almack's or some other notorious gamblers. There the sporting men about town were wont to assemble and there would assemble those who sought their company or desired to be recognized as men who would take a chance. In these circumstances it was natural that the games for high stakes should be frequent. The sons of millionaires, on their way home early in the morning, would drop in and bet a few thousand dollars to conclude the evening's entertainment. In some of them actors were employed to impersonate great captains of industry so that the gaping visitor would be assured that in places where the Goulds, the Astors and the Vanderbilts did their gambling the games could be counted on. Such rumor was not resented to, of course, as such places as Chatfield's.

Any young blood visiting New York for the first time when these conditions were running would be ashamed to go home and admit that he had never reached the stage of who was part of the young rounder's education. Sometimes Chatfield himself described the cards. When he did so the same was always the celebrated Canfield sublimity. The uninitiated bet on a card was $100, but it was universally it was $1,000. One night a Frenchman ran the devil's bank. Canfield three times running $156,000. At the ordinary performance Canfield was content to be the referee for the evening and exposed a rare table. It proved in this the Frenchman never before had played roulette, but merely took a chance at the prerogative of a croupier. Canfield was supposed to have a gentleman's agreement with the proprietors of various establishments that favor the visitors on the understanding that they would not play gambling games.

SEVERAL VISITING RINKS ATTEND LOCAL BONSPIEL

The 31st annual Bonspiel took place on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week, with 26 rinks engaged in what was the most successful event yet held

Visitors were present from Hanna 2 rinks; Coronation 1 rink; Castor 3 rinks; Bocha 1 rinks; Rosebud 3 rinks; Mirror 1 rink; Delburne 1 rink; Camrose 1 rink;

The following were the Skips engaged —

CASTOR—Ford and Hanning
CORONATION—Jack Short.
HANNA—Kirby and Stanley
BOCHA—Friend and Bruning.
ERSKINE Gillespie, Baptie and Lyon.
MIRROR Lorne Gaudin
DELBURNE—Pollard and Farries
STETTLER—Sharpe Hart, Willis, Venner, Kennedy, Allen, Mackie
Wirth, Moir, Magee Rothwell and Blair.

The ice was in good shape considering the weather Unfortunately the weather was not too favorable The thermometer was below freezing point every afternoon of the spiel, and on Wednesday afternoon it got so mild that there was water on the ice and the curling consisted of heaving the rocks It tightened up a little some for the final day and was in good shape by Thursday evening

The curling was of a high order considering the sticky surface and the sheets of ice in the skating rink were the best throughout. And kept their edge when the curling rink ice got bad, due to dripping from the roof. In fact, it was the skating rink that saved the spiel, and brought it to a successful conclusion. The visiting rinks all had a good time, though some of them did not figure in the prize list, this was because the list was not large enough to include everybody

Grand Challenge

This competition was won by the Sharpe rink, consisting of Sharpe, Goddard Cunningham and Thibaudeau. This rink defeated Rothwell in the finals. Venner in the semi-Finals, Magee in the finals and Wills in the eighth. It was a well balanced rink, and for this reason got most of the rocks in the ring, and was also strong on soft ice Rothwell, who was second, also got 4th in the Chicorn, and proved to be one of the strong rinks of the dana. This rink defeated Rothwell in the finals, Venner in the semi-Final

Nearly Three Billion Paid By New York

Insurance Company Invested Over of $340,000,000 Per Business Day in 1928

New York, Jan. 30 —(Special)— An average of $339,000,000 per business day, or a total of approximately $344,000,000 was invested by the New York Life Insurance Company in 1928, it is announced by Darwin P. Kingsley, President.

The investment was made in mortgage loans in the United States and Canada, in government bonds and in selected securities of leading industrial, public utilities, and railroads.

Of the total of $339,000,000 invested in mortgage loans, $200,000,000 was placed on improved farm property, $100,000,000 on improved city property and $39,000,000 on unimproved business property. More than $340,000,000 was invested in bonds of municipalities, public utilities and industrial corporations, and by investing $80,000,000 in preferred and guaranteed stocks the Company took advantage of the sound business prosperity which permits life insurance companies to invest in preferred or guaranteed stocks of corporations which during each of five years preceding have earned at least 4 per cent. on all its capital stock outstanding.

On January 1st, 1929, the total investments of Company in mortgage loans amounted to $2,030,472,776 while the total investment in bonds was $977,366,240.

Since 1860 when the New York Life was organized the Company has paid in settlement of death claims and matured endowments $1,800,000,000. It has paid to or on account of living policyholders in the form of dividends, surrendered values, annuities, etc., more than $1,200,000,000. In addition a total paid to or on account of policyholders not in excess of $1,000,000 in excess of those sums $1,000,000.

The total assets of the Company, its interest reserve and other liabilities, including capital and surplus, amount to $2,500,000,000.

The following 20% bonus is now paid to the Canadian Government and Provincial Treasurers of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Round the Country

The automobile industry of the United States reckoned its biggest yearly production in 1928, when 5,621,000 cars and trucks, having a wholesale value of $3,482,000,000 were placed on the market according to statistics compiled by non-governmental sources. These figures are now available at the automotive division of the Department of Commerce. These figures compare with the total of 4,601,139 units in 1926, having a wholesale value of $2,163,700,000.

During 1928 the motorist paid an average of $312 for his car while the average retail price of trucks amounted to $977. The automotive industry also proved to be one of the largest employers of labor, having in 1928 4,992,000 workers either directly or in allied lines.

Besides a record year in the production of machines the industry manufactured parts and accessories for replacement as well as service equipment, with a wholesale value of $800,000,000 and turned out rubber tires for replacements worth $225,000,000.

World registration of motor vehicles at the close of 1928 reached 34,700,000 of which 26,700,000 or 76 per cent. were registered in the United States.

An unprecedented record was established in export business also as 1,051,000 American made automobiles were sold outside of the United States last year and they, with accessories and tires had a value of $707,000,000.

In 1929 only 750 vehicles were imported into the United States. The increase in foreign sales over 1928 totalled 23 per cent and consisted of 28 per cent. of the domestic production.

Radio is to be retained to extend the bond of interests between South and North America. Canada's interests are made extensive ad through Canada's growing trade relationships with the people of the Northern continent, she have evidenced a marked preference to do business with Canada houses rail or than with the United States.

Through the Pan American Union to which Canada is a party, regular radio contact between the people of the two continents is about to be established and the first habit is that the undertaking will as much in effect a closer cultural and economic tie between the people of the different countries.

Under the arrangements, Dr L. S. Rowe, director of the Pan American Union, says: "The people are more susceptible to neighborly expressions than one Latin American friends and they are to be better qualified for bringing them together in co-operative work, than the public men.

"They seem pre-destined by nature for such contacts, lying as they do in practically the same geographic. The reason that a program broadcast from one and say, 3 o'clock will be by all of the 21 members nations at the same moment. Already the Pan American Union was formed for the purpose of promoting friendly intercourse between the nations and to improve cultural, commercial and financial relations.

"Aside from the cultural advantages that will come from a closer mental understanding of nations' points of view, many benefits will accrue to industry and commerce from the co-operative spirit that joint radio programs will develop.

"The nations of the Western Hemisphere are continuously linked over our phone, telegraph and radio systems. Already the preparation of programs is basic and wholesome effects have already been manifested. Some of the nations have recalled their best eminent musicians and composers from foreign shores, while others are campaigning for talent to appear on the program.

"Another important contribution that may gratuitously be expected from broadcasting is the better understanding that closer intercourse will give to peace. Misunderstandings and prejudices have been over been the nourishment of hostility. Nothing contributes more between the family of nations will be so much appreciated as the removal of the spirit of the times."

The most serious problem affecting the industrial development of Canada, the distribution of authority to collect revenues as between the Dominion, the provinces and the municipalities, promises to be settled as a matter of consultation and negotiation between all parties concerned within the present year.

The last Senate but eliminated a broken plank upon municipalities, which, in many instances, is said to be unenforceable. The Provinces have also had demands upon them distributed to an extent where they are not only unable to come to the rescue of municipalities, but others they find it difficult, and in some cases impossible, to meet their own requirements. In fact the admission is freely made that with revenues now derived from liquor and other sources alone out of huge deficits would come and necessary current expenditures would have to be curtailed.

At the last provincial conference in Ottawa, the subject was discussed in general terms. Demands for public health services, for education and for highways were urged as three of the principal factors in the improvement of provincial treasuries. In each of these cases a situation had arisen which could not have been contemplated by the Fathers of Confederation when the various rights of taxation as between provinces and Dominion were fixed. In any one of the provinces, sweeping Prince Edward Island, the annual expenditure on highways is larger than for all of Canada in 1867. It is the same with health and education and the burdens of which the provinces complain are reflected with increased intensity by rural municipalities.

It has been suggested that the Dominion should divert some of its revenue sources to the relief of the provinces, but the suggestion has not been embraced. With a normal debt of over two billions of dollars there is room to complain of every dollar of revenue usefully in the Federal field and there is also a constant demand for reduction or elimination of, this or that Federal tax.

At the present time Manitoba is compelled to levy $1,000,000 a year from the land on municipalities and it may have to be accomplished by reduction in some of the public services. Other provinces reflect the same conditions. The time of the government in Ottawa briefs with general representations on the subject and it is stated that negotiations are now in progress between some of the provinces to make a common cause of the attitudes in representations for relief to Ottawa.

Editor,
Stettler Independent,

Dear Sir:

The latest effort of our "Ma and Pa in a dandy. Our roads are getting better and cheaper. We got the huge sum of 17 1-2 cents on the dollar of necessity. And as long as we can spend $6,500.00 on Administration, who cares.

Our famous tractor appears to have made money. $2,500.00, but we have $4,542.00 spent on machinery repair, it looks doubtful. As the total value of road machinery is around $12,000.00 these last machinery if it does very near one-third of its value to keep it in repair. Better quote it. I see our mainstays inspector has got a raise so has the H. H. O

Our pets or weeds and inspectors have also done very well We are spending $176 on weeds, which represents the interest on $2,200.00 it looks like we could build a fairly decent office and committee room for that which would be an asset instead of insulting as at present Office expenses, 268.86 If this is electric light it looks high, or do we keep it going all night and day. Not to mention our delegates' expenses, $119.00 more. Well, everybody seems to be getting something Except the taxpayer who seems to be idle ear old Bible friend. Belshazzar was riding the ass, but the ass insisted on going where it liked

HE TOOK HIS CHANCE TO BOOST HIS FARM

Stampeded in the happy home of Colonel Harry Cockshutt manager of the farm implement and former lieutenant-governor of Canada.

There I was born, there I live and there I intend to die declares Colonel Cockshutt but this does not mean that he does not occasionally make excursions far afield He has traveled in Australia, Asia, New Zealand, Africa, and most of Europe, as well as most thoroughly over this country.

"I go wherever plows are used and for he sold, "and Colonel Cockshutt recently. "That's my business, and I find that you can't go anywhere without plows running into Canadian products of some kind. You even find little opposition in the most unexpected places.

"Some time ago I was in British East Africa, in what I certainly considered rather primitive. Our automobile got stuck in a road three hundred miles from the nearest garage or repair shop, and it looked as if we would have to haul it back in the railway station through heavy rain.

"By good luck another automobile came along and managed to get out, and at the most we had a tussle.

"I offered, somewhat diffidently to pay the man for his trouble, but he waved the money aside.

"No, thanks, sahib," he said, with a gentle smile. "If I've done you a good turn you can do one as you go traveling through this country if you tell the farmers you see hooked on to the back of my agent of Massey-Harris Company of Toronto, Canada, that I'm using their plows and farm implements on earth!"

"I could have given him an argument about that," laughed Colonel Cockshutt, "but I didn't feel like it after his kindness. It was the same man on the Canadian Pacific even though he was a business rival. He I told him who I was and we were soon in the midst of reminiscences of the days when I was one of the first to ride on the old C.P.R. and did all he had every reason to be satisfied."
